Dear Ms. Friedman:

I am responding to your May 21 letter to President Bush regarding U.S. policy in the Middle East.

We welcome your interest in this area of foreign policy. The Administration is prepared to assist all parties in the Middle East toward attainment of a just and durable peace. The U.S. commitment to Israeli security and well-being has been a cornerstone of American policy in the Middle East since Israel's creation in 1948. We remain strongly committed to the security of Israel and to the search for peace.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. President:

I am enclosing herewith an article by Jeane Kirkpatrick, which appeared in our local paper this past Sunday.

As Ms. Kirkpatrick is a very respected member of the Republican Party and as former United States Representative to the United Nations and an acknowledged specialist in the area of international relationships, it is my feeling that her viewpoint, which I share, will perhaps merit greater attention and consideration than anything I could say.

I bring this to your attention, as I know that many citizens of the United States feel that this knowledge and understanding is exactly what is lacking in your Mideast policy.

It is the feeling of many of us that it would be very worthwhile for Mr. Baker to visit Israel in order to deepen his understanding of the real problems there.

Very respectfully yours,

Dvora Friedman, President
