BACKGROUND ON THE EVENT: World Series Teams
Yankees and Diamondbacks have never played in regular season, postseason or even spring training, so there is no history to measure team past success against each other. Teams are scheduled to play next June 10-12 at Yankee Stadium in an interleague series. Now, the Diamondbacks get to see the Yankees sooner than expected.

New York Yankees

♦ New York was written off after losing first two games to Oakland, but won seven of eight against teams that combined for 218 wins in regular season.

♦ Became first team to win five-game series after losing Games 1 and 2 at home to Oakland, and ended Seattle's 116-win season 4-1 in the ALCS.

♦ Looking to become just third team to win four straight World Series titles, joining Yankees from 1949-53 and 1936-39.

♦ Weren't the best team during the regular season, but always play best in biggest situations. Lost 15 of 18 to end last season, but recovered to win third straight World Series.

Arizona Diamondbacks

♦ Reached World Series in fourth season, faster than any expansion team ever.

♦ Beat mark of 1997 Marlins, who made it in five years. The common link? Counsell, the only player on the team with a championship ring. He starred in Game 7 for Florida, then was MVP of NLCS for Arizona.

♦ Schilling tied for the major league lead in wins, then was even better in the postseason -- 3-0 with an 0.67 ERA and three complete games. Schilling beat St. Louis in deciding Game 5 of opening round, Johnson went 2-0 against Atlanta in NLCS and won clinching Game 5.

♦ Johnson could win his fourth Cy Young award. Led the majors in ERA and strikeouts.

♦ Schilling beat St. Louis in deciding Game 5 of opening round, Johnson went 2-0 against Atlanta in NLCS and won clinching Game 5.
