STATEMENT BY THE PRESIDENT

I am today signing into law S. 1372, the Export-Import Bank Reauthorization Act of 2002. The legislation will ensure the continued effective operation of the Export-Import Bank, which helps advance U.S. trade policy, facilitate the sale of U.S. goods and services abroad, and create jobs here at home.

The Executive branch shall carry out Section 7(b) of the bill, which relates to certain small businesses, in a manner consistent with the requirements of equal protection under the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution.

Subsections 10(a) and 10 (b)(2) of the bill purport to require the Secretary of the Treasury to negotiate with foreign countries and international organizations to achieve particular purposes and to require the Secretary to submit a report to congressional committees on the contents of negotiations and certain related Executive deliberations. These provisions interfere with the President's constitutional authority to conduct the Nation's foreign affairs, supervise the unitary Executive branch, and withhold information the disclosure of which could impair foreign relations, the national security, the deliberative processes of the Executive, or the performance of the Executive's constitutional duties. Accordingly, the Executive branch shall construe these provisions as precatory rather than mandatory.

The Executive branch shall construe the reference to the "Universal Declaration of Human Rights adopted by the United Nations General Assembly on December 10, 1948," added to Section 2(b)(1)(B) of the Export-Import Bank Act by Section 15 of the bill, as providing examples of types of human rights that the President may wish to consider in making a determination under Section 2(b)(1)(B), and does not have the effect of adopting the Universal Declaration as U.S. law.

STATEMENT BY THE PRESIDENT

I am today signing into law S. 1372, the Export-Import Bank Reauthorization Act of 2002. The legislation will ensure the continued effective operation of the Export-Import Bank, which helps advance U.S. trade policy, facilitate the sale of U.S. goods and services abroad, and create jobs here at home.

The Executive branch shall carry out Section 7(b) of the bill, which relates to certain small businesses, in a manner consistent with the requirements of equal protection under the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution.

Subsections 10(a) and 10 (b)(2) of the bill purport to require the Secretary of the Treasury to negotiate with foreign countries and international organizations to achieve particular purposes and to require the Secretary to submit a report to congressional committees on the contents of negotiations and certain related Executive deliberations. These provisions interfere with the President's constitutional authority to conduct the Nation's foreign affairs, supervise the unitary Executive branch, and withhold information the disclosure of which could impair foreign relations, the national security, the deliberative processes of the Executive, or the performance of the Executive's constitutional duties. Accordingly, the Executive branch shall construe these provisions as precatory rather than mandatory.

The Executive branch shall construe the reference to the "Universal Declaration of Human Rights adopted by the United Nations General Assembly on December 10, 1948," added to Section 2(b)(1)(B) of the Export-Import Bank Act by Section 15 of the bill, as providing examples of types of human rights that the President may wish to consider in making a determination under Section 2(b)(1)(B), and does not have the effect of adopting the Universal Declaration as U.S. law.

“(1) to match financing terms and conditions that are being offered by market windows on terms that are inconsistent with those permitted under the OECD Export Credit Arrangement, if—

“(ii) such matching is needed to provide the United States with leverage in efforts at the OECD to reduce the overall level of export subsidies;

“(iii) only through matching foreign export credit offers can the Bank buttress United States negotiators in their efforts to bring these loopholes within the disciplines of the Arrangement; and

“(iv) in order to bring untied aid within the discipline of the Arrangement, the Bank should consider initiating highly competitive financial support when the Bank learns that foreign untied aid offers will be made; and

STATEMENT BY THE PRESIDENT

I am today signing into law S. 1372, the Export-Import Bank Reauthorization Act of 2002. The legislation will ensure the continued effective operation of the Export-Import Bank, which helps advance U.S. trade policy, facilitate the sale of U.S. goods and services abroad, and create jobs here at home.

The Executive branch shall carry out Section 7(b) of the bill, which relates to certain small businesses, in a manner consistent with the requirements of equal protection under the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution.

Subsections 10(a) and 10 (b)(2) of the bill purport to require the Secretary of the Treasury to negotiate with foreign countries and international organizations to achieve particular purposes and to require the Secretary to submit a report to congressional committees on the contents of negotiations and certain related Executive deliberations. These provisions interfere with the President's constitutional authority to conduct the Nation's foreign affairs, supervise the unitary Executive branch, and withhold information the disclosure of which could impair foreign relations, the national security, the deliberative processes of the Executive, or the performance of the Executive's constitutional duties. Accordingly, the Executive branch shall construe these provisions as precatory rather than mandatory.

The Executive branch shall construe the reference to the "Universal Declaration of Human Rights adopted by the United Nations General Assembly on December 10, 1948," added to Section 2(b)(1)(B) of the Export-Import Bank Act by Section 15 of the bill, as providing examples of types of human rights that the President may wish to consider in making a determination under Section 2(b)(1)(B), and does not have the effect of adopting the Universal Declaration as U.S. law.

- Extends the sub-Saharan Africa Advisory Committee, which was established to facilitate U.S. exports to this region, from September 30, 2001, to September 30, 2006, and requires the Bank to consult with the Department of Commerce and the Trade Promotion Coordinating Committee on Africa activities.
- Requires the Bank to take into account the extent to which a nation has been helpful or unhelpful in efforts to eradicate terrorism before extending a guarantee, insurance, or credit.
- Requires loan recipients to disclose whether they have been convicted of violating the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act, the Arms Export Control Act, the International Emergency Economic Powers Act, or the Export Administration Act.
- Authorizes the Bank to deny an application for assistance if the Bank has substantial, credible evidence that any party to the transaction has committed an act of fraud or corruption.
- Requires the General Accounting Office to report to Congress comparing the Bank's reserve ratio practices to those of private banks and foreign export credit agencies.
- Requires the Bank (1) to implement technology improvements designed to improve small business outreach, including allowing customers to use the Internet to apply for Bank programs, and (2) to establish an electronic system designed to track all pending Bank transactions. The Bank is to submit periodic reports to Congress on its technological progress and on how this is assisting small businesses.
- Requires that the President's Budget include new budget subcategories for the Bank, displaying program budget and administrative expenses, with technology expenses identified.
- Requires the Bank to promote the export of U.S. goods and services related to renewable energy sources and to report to Congress annually on such efforts.
- States that the Bank's objective, in providing loans, guarantees, insurance, and credits, is to contribute to maintaining or increasing employment of U.S. workers.

STATEMENT BY THE PRESIDENT

I am today signing into law S. 1372, the Export-Import Bank Reauthorization Act of 2002. The legislation will ensure the continued effective operation of the Export-Import Bank, which helps advance U.S. trade policy, facilitate the sale of U.S. goods and services abroad, and create jobs here at home.

The Executive branch shall carry out Section 7(b) of the bill, which relates to certain small businesses, in a manner consistent with the requirements of equal protection under the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution.

Subsections 10(a) and 10 (b)(2) of the bill purport to require the Secretary of the Treasury to negotiate with foreign countries and international organizations to achieve particular purposes and to require the Secretary to submit a report to congressional committees on the contents of negotiations and certain related Executive deliberations. These provisions interfere with the President's constitutional authority to conduct the Nation's foreign affairs, supervise the unitary Executive branch, and withhold information the disclosure of which could impair foreign relations, the national security, the deliberative processes of the Executive, or the performance of the Executive's constitutional duties. Accordingly, the Executive branch shall construe these provisions as precatory rather than mandatory.

The Executive branch shall construe the reference to the "Universal Declaration of Human Rights adopted by the United Nations General Assembly on December 10, 1948," added to Section 2(b)(1)(B) of the Export-Import Bank Act by Section 15 of the bill, as providing examples of types of human rights that the President may wish to consider in making a determination under Section 2(b)(1)(B), and does not have the effect of adopting the Universal Declaration as U.S. law.
