Discussion

H.R. 2362 would establish the Benjamin Franklin Tercentenary Commission to commemorate the 300th anniversary of Benjamin Franklin's birth on January 17, 2006. The commission would study potential activities to honor this anniversary including: (1) the minting of a Benjamin Franklin tercentenary coin; (2) the acquisition and preservation of artifacts associated with Benjamin Franklin; and (3) the sponsorship of publications, conferences, exhibitions, and high school and collegiate essay contests. The Commission would be required to submit one or more reports to the Congress recommending the most fitting honorary activities and the entity or entities in the Federal Government that the Commission considers most appropriate to carry out these activities.

The Commission would be required to form an advisory committee composed of institutions founded by or dedicated to Benjamin Franklin, including the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia. The Commission also would be required to seek to enter into an arrangement with the Franklin Institute under which the Institute would serve as the secretariat of the Commission and house the Commission's administrative offices.

The Commission would be comprised of 15 members, including the Librarian of Congress and 14 qualified citizens, six appointed by the President and eight by leaders of the House and Senate. At least four commissioners would be Members of Congress. The President would serve as an honorary member and could invite the President of France and the Prime Minister of the United Kingdom to serve as honorary members. Members of the Commission would serve without pay, but could be reimbursed for travel expenses associated with Commission activities. In addition, the Commission would be authorized to appoint a Director and additional staff.

The Commission would be authorized to enter into contracts for supplies, services, and facilities, and could accept donations of money, personal services, and certain property. H.R. 2362 authorizes appropriations of $500,000 for the period of FYs 2002-2007 to carry out this Act.

Conclusion and Recommendations

We recommend approval of H.R. 2362, which passed the House by voice vote and the Senate by unanimous consent.

Discussion

H.R. 2362 would establish the Benjamin Franklin Tercentenary Commission to commemorate the 300th anniversary of Benjamin Franklin's birth on January 17, 2006. The commission would study potential activities to honor this anniversary including: (1) the minting of a Benjamin Franklin tercentenary coin; (2) the acquisition and preservation of artifacts associated with Benjamin Franklin; and (3) the sponsorship of publications, conferences, exhibitions, and high school and collegiate essay contests. The Commission would be required to submit one or more reports to the Congress recommending the most fitting honorary activities and the entity or entities in the Federal Government that the Commission considers most appropriate to carry out these activities.

The Commission would be required to form an advisory committee composed of institutions founded by or dedicated to Benjamin Franklin, including the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia. The Commission also would be required to seek to enter into an arrangement with the Franklin Institute under which the Institute would serve as the secretariat of the Commission and house the Commission's administrative offices.

The Commission would be comprised of 15 members, including the Librarian of Congress and 14 qualified citizens, six appointed by the President and eight by leaders of the House and Senate. At least four commissioners would be Members of Congress. The President would serve as an honorary member and could invite the President of France and the Prime Minister of the United Kingdom to serve as honorary members. Members of the Commission would serve without pay, but could be reimbursed for travel expenses associated with Commission activities. In addition, the Commission would be authorized to appoint a Director and additional staff.

The Commission would be authorized to enter into contracts for supplies, services, and facilities, and could accept donations of money, personal services, and certain property. H.R. 2362 authorizes appropriations of $500,000 for the period of FYs 2002-2007 to carry out this Act.

Conclusion and Recommendations

We recommend approval of H.R. 2362, which passed the House by voice vote and the Senate by unanimous consent.
