Discussion

Initiated by the Navy in 1999, the Navy-Marine Corps Intranet (NMCI) is a long-term initiative between the Navy and the private sector to deliver a single integrated and coherent department-wide network for Navy and Marine Corps shore commands. The goal is to provide comprehensive information services for data, video, and voice communications for Navy military and civilian personnel, and deliver global connectivity.

After a competitive bidding process, a base contract for the NMCI project was awarded to Electronic Data Systems Corp (EDS) in October 2000. The EDS contract is currently scheduled to end in October 2005. This contract is funded through annual DoD appropriations.

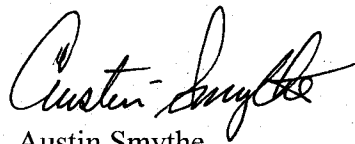

In the Floyd D. Spence National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2001 (P.L. 106-398), there were a number of specified phase-in authorities and requirements associated with the NMCI. Additional provisions were added in the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2002. H.R. 5647 would further amend P.L. 106-398 to:

- (1) exempt the NMCI contract from a statutory requirement which limits the duration of a contract to no more than five years; and (2) allow the duration of the NMCI base contract to be more than five years but not more than seven years. DoD informally advises that this extension is necessary because since the award of the contract, the Navy and EDS were not able to meet statutory and DoD requirements as quickly as anticipated.

Conclusion and Recommendations

We join DoD in recommending approval of H.R. 5647, which passed both Houses of Congress by unanimous consent.

Discussion

Initiated by the Navy in 1999, the Navy-Marine Corps Intranet (NMCI) is a long-term initiative between the Navy and the private sector to deliver a single integrated and coherent department-wide network for Navy and Marine Corps shore commands. The goal is to provide comprehensive information services for data, video, and voice communications for Navy military and civilian personnel, and deliver global connectivity.

After a competitive bidding process, a base contract for the NMCI project was awarded to Electronic Data Systems Corp (EDS) in October 2000. The EDS contract is currently scheduled to end in October 2005. This contract is funded through annual DoD appropriations.

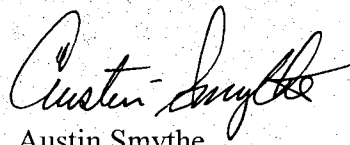

In the Floyd D. Spence National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2001 (P.L. 106-398), there were a number of specified phase-in authorities and requirements associated with the NMCI. Additional provisions were added in the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2002. H.R. 5647 would further amend P.L. 106-398 to:
(1) exempt the NMCI contract from a statutory requirement which limits the duration of a contract to no more than five years; and (2) allow the duration of the NMCI base contract to be more than five years but not more than seven years. DoD informally advises that this extension is necessary because since the award of the contract, the Navy and EDS were not able to meet statutory and DoD requirements as quickly as anticipated.

Conclusion and Recommendations

We join DoD in recommending approval of H.R. 5647, which passed both Houses of Congress by unanimous consent.

After a competitive bidding process, a base contract for the NMCI project was awarded to Electronic Data Systems Corp (EDS) in October 2000. The EDS contract is currently scheduled to end in October 2005. This contract is funded through annual DoD appropriations.

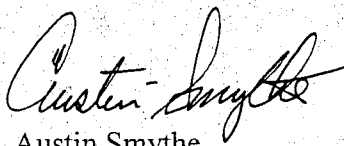

In the Floyd D. Spence National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2001 (P.L. 106-398), there were a number of specified phase-in authorities and requirements associated with the NMCI. Additional provisions were added in the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2002. H.R. 5647 would further amend P.L. 106-398 to:

- (1) exempt the NMCI contract from a statutory requirement which limits the duration of a contract to no more than five years; and (2) allow the duration of the NMCI base contract to be more than five years but not more than seven years. DoD informally advises that this extension is necessary because since the award of the contract, the Navy and EDS were not able to meet statutory and DoD requirements as quickly as anticipated.

Conclusion and Recommendations

We join DoD in recommending approval of H.R. 5647, which passed both Houses of Congress by unanimous consent.

Discussion

Initiated by the Navy in 1999, the Navy-Marine Corps Intranet (NMCI) is a long-term initiative between the Navy and the private sector to deliver a single integrated and coherent department-wide network for Navy and Marine Corps shore commands. The goal is to provide comprehensive information services for data, video, and voice communications for Navy military and civilian personnel, and deliver global connectivity.

After a competitive bidding process, a base contract for the NMCI project was awarded to Electronic Data Systems Corp (EDS) in October 2000. The EDS contract is currently scheduled to end in October 2005. This contract is funded through annual DoD appropriations.

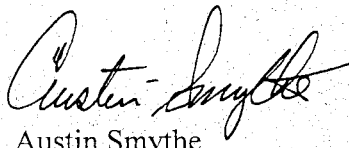

In the Floyd D. Spence National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2001 (P.L. 106-398), there were a number of specified phase-in authorities and requirements associated with the NMCI. Additional provisions were added in the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2002. H.R. 5647 would further amend P.L. 106-398 to:

- (1) exempt the NMCI contract from a statutory requirement which limits the duration of a contract to no more than five years; and (2) allow the duration of the NMCI base contract to be more than five years but not more than seven years. DoD informally advises that this extension is necessary because since the award of the contract, the Navy and EDS were not able to meet statutory and DoD requirements as quickly as anticipated.
