Discussion

H.R. 1668 authorizes the Adams Memorial Foundation to establish a memorial on federal land in the District of Columbia or its environs to honor President John Adams, along with his wife Abigail Adams, their son President John Quincy Adams, and the family's legacy of public service. The enrolled bill stipulates that the memorial will be established in accordance with the Commemorative Works Act and the Foundation will be solely responsible for raising the necessary funds for the memorial. Funds remaining after payment of all expenses or upon expiration of this authority will be deposited in the Treasury for the maintenance of the memorial.

Conclusion and Recommendations

The Department of the Interior recommends approval of H.R. 1668. Interior states that, except for a Library of Congress building, "there is no major public work in the District of Columbia that recognizes or memorializes John Adams or John Quincy Adams." The Department believes that "[t]he father and son presidents and their family's legacy of public service deserve a memorial in our Nation's Capital."

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY
Washington, D.C. 20240

OCT 26 2001

Honorable Mitchell Daniels
Director, Office of Management and Budget
Attention: Assistant Director for Legislative Reference
Washington, DC 20503

Dear Mr. Daniels:

This letter responds to your request for the views of the Department of the Interior with respect to H.R. 1668, a bill to authorize the Adams Memorial Foundation to establish a memorial in the District of Columbia and its environs to honor former President John Adams, along with his wife Abigail Adams and his son, former President John Quincy Adams, and the family's legacy of public service.

We recommend that the President approve the enrolled bill.

H.R. 1668 would authorize the establishment of the Adams memorial in accordance with the Commemorative Works Act of 1986 (the Act). After Congress authorizes the subject matter of a memorial, the Act outlines a selection process for the site and design. Under this Act, the Secretary of the Interior would submit a plan for site and design for approval by the National Capital Planning Commission and the Commission of Fine Arts. While no specific site has been proposed for the Adams memorial at this time, the site would not be located in the "reserve," the area that represents the Mall, east to west, and from the White House to the Jefferson Memorial, north to south. The National Capital Memorial Commission, the Commission of Fine Arts, and the National Capital Planning Commission have established policies against siting any additional memorials in the "reserve," and thus, the recommended site of the Adams memorial would likely be one of the 100 sites identified as appropriate for new memorials in the master plan for memorials and museums in the District of Columbia and its environs.

Under H.R. 1668, the Adams Memorial Foundation would be responsible not only for the cost of construction of the memorial, but also for establishing a fund in the Treasury equal to ten percent of the cost of construction for catastrophic maintenance and preservation, as provided for in Section 8(b) of the Act. The bill specifically would prohibit the use of Federal funds to pay for the establishment of the memorial.

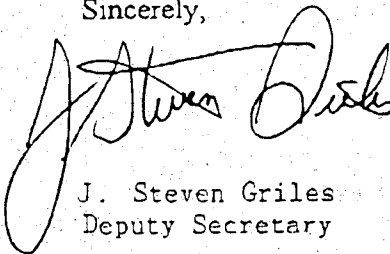

As one of the findings in H.R. 1668 states, "Few families have contributed as profoundly to the United States as the family that gave the Nation its second president, John Adams; its sixth president, John Quincy Adams; first ladies Abigail Smith Adams and Louisa Catherine Johnson Adams; and succeeding generations of statesmen, diplomats, advocates, and authors." One of the three Library of Congress buildings is named after John Quincy Adams but, otherwise, there is no major public work in the District of Columbia that recognizes or memorializes John Adams or John Quincy Adams. The father and son presidents and their family's legacy of public service deserve a memorial in our Nation's Capital.

The Department testified in support of H.R. 1668 at a hearing before the House Resources Subcommittee on National Parks, Recreation, and Public Lands, on June 12, 2001. While the findings of H.R. 1668 recognized the many accomplishments of a number of members of the Adams family, the bill was amended to ensure that the authorized memorial would focus on three of their most prominent members, former President John Adams, First Lady Abigail Adams, and former President John Quincy Adams. On July 17, 2001, the Department testified in support of H.R. 1668, as amended, at a hearing before the Senate Energy Subcommittee on National Parks, Historic Preservation and Recreation. The Department's position is consistent with National Capital Memorial Commission, which endorsed the proposed bill by a unanimous vote on April 26, 2001.

In recognition of the contributions of the Adams family, H.R. 1668 would ensure that future generations will learn about how former President John Adams, his wife Abigail Adams, and former President John Quincy Adams changed the landscape of our American history. Accordingly, we are pleased to recommend its approval to the President.

Sincerely,

One Hundred Seventh Congress of the United States of America

AT THE FIRST SESSION

*Begun and held at the City of Washington on Wednesday,
the third day of January, two thousand and one*

An Act

To authorize the Adams Memorial Foundation to establish a commemorative work on Federal land in the District of Columbia and its environs to honor former President John Adams and his legacy.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. COMMEMORATIVE WORK TO HONOR JOHN ADAMS AND HIS LEGACY.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Congress finds the following:

(1) Few families have contributed as profoundly to the United States as the family that gave the Nation its second president, John Adams; its sixth president, John Quincy Adams; first ladies Abigail Smith Adams and Louisa Catherine Johnson Adams; and succeeding generations of statesmen, diplomats, advocates, and authors.

(2) John Adams (1735–1826), a lawyer, a statesman, and a patriot, was the author of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts (the oldest written constitution still in force), the leader of the Second Continental Congress, a driving force for independence, a negotiator of the Treaty of Paris (which brought the Revolutionary War to an end), the first Vice President, the second President, and an unwavering exponent of freedom of conscience and the rule of law.

(3) Abigail Smith Adams (1744–1818) was one of the most remarkable women of her time. Wife of former President John Adams and mother of former President John Quincy Adams, she was an early advocate for the rights of women and served the cause of liberty as a prolific writer, fierce patriot, and staunch abolitionist.

(4) John Quincy Adams (1767–1848), the son of John and Abigail Adams, was a distinguished lawyer, legislator, and diplomat and a master of 7 languages, who served as Senator, Minister to the Netherlands under President George Washington, Minister to Prussia under the first President Adams, Minister to Great Britain under President James Madison, chief negotiator of the Treaty of Ghent (which ended the War of 1812), Secretary of State under President James Monroe, author of the Monroe Doctrine (which declared the Western Hemisphere off limits to European imperial expansion), sixth President, and the only former President to be elected to the House of Representatives, where he was known as “Old Man Eloquent” and served with great distinction as a leader in the fight against slavery and a champion of unpopular causes.

(5) Louisa Catherine Johnson Adams (1775–1852), the wife of former President John Quincy Adams, was an educated, accomplished woman and the only first lady born outside the United States. Like Abigail Adams, she wrote eloquently on behalf of the rights of women and in opposition to slavery.

(6) Charles Francis Adams (1807–1886), the son of John Quincy and Louisa Adams, served 6 years in the Massachusetts legislature, was a steadfast abolitionist who received the Free Soil Party's vice-presidential nomination in 1848, was elected to his father's seat in the House of Representatives in 1856, and served as ambassador to Great Britain during the Civil War, where his efforts were decisive in preventing the British Government from recognizing the independence of the Confederacy.

(7) Henry Adams (1838–1918), the son of Charles Francis Adams, was an eminent writer, scholar, historian, and public intellectual, and was the author of many celebrated works, including "Democracy", "The Education of Henry Adams", and his 9-volume "History of the United States during the Administrations of Jefferson and Madison".

(8) Both individually and collectively, the members of this illustrious family have enriched the Nation through their profound civic consciousness, abiding belief in the perfectibility of the Nation's democracy, and commitment to service and sacrifice for the common good.

(9) Although the Congress has authorized the establishment of commemorative works on Federal lands in the District of Columbia honoring such celebrated former Presidents as George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, and Abraham Lincoln, the National Capital has no comparable memorial to former President John Adams.

(10) In recognition of the 200th anniversary of the end of the presidency of John Adams, the time has come to correct this oversight so that future generations of Americans will know and understand the preeminent historical and lasting significance to the Nation of his contributions and those of his family.

(b) AUTHORITY TO ESTABLISH COMMEMORATIVE WORK.—The Adams Memorial Foundation may establish a commemorative work on Federal land in the District of Columbia and its environs to honor former President John Adams, along with his wife Abigail Adams and former President John Quincy Adams, and the family's legacy of public service.

(c) COMPLIANCE WITH STANDARDS FOR COMMEMORATIVE WORKS.—The establishment of the commemorative work shall be in accordance with the Commemorative Works Act (40 U.S.C. 1001, et seq.).

(d) USE OF FEDERAL FUNDS PROHIBITED.—Federal funds may not be used to pay any expense of the establishment of the commemorative work. The Adams Memorial Foundation shall be solely responsible for acceptance of contributions for, and payment of the expenses of, the establishment of the commemorative work.

(e) DEPOSIT OF EXCESS FUNDS.—If, upon payment of all expenses of the establishment of the commemorative work (including the maintenance and preservation amount provided for in section 8(b) of the Commemorative Works Act (40 U.S.C. 1001, et seq.)), or upon expiration of the authority for the commemorative work under section 10(b) of such Act, there remains a balance of funds received for the establishment of the commemorative work, the Adams Memorial Foundation shall transmit the amount of the balance to the Secretary of the Treasury for deposit in the account provided for in section 8(b)(1) of such Act.

SEC. 2. DEFINITIONS.

For purposes of this Act, the terms "commemorative work" and "the District of Columbia and its environs" have the meanings given to such terms in section 2 of the Commemorative Works Act (40 U.S.C. 1002).

Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Last Day for Action

Purpose

Authorizes the Adams Memorial Foundation to establish a memorial on federal land in the District of Columbia or its environs to honor former President John Adams and his family.

Agency Recommendations

Office of Management and Budget	Approval
Department of the Interior	Approval
Commission of Fine Arts (CFA)	Approval
General Services Administration	No objection (Informally)
National Capital Planning Commission	No objection (Informally)
Council on Environmental Quality	No comment (Informally)

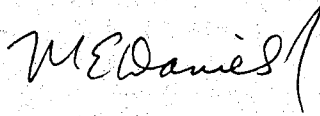

Discussion

H.R. 1668 authorizes the Adams Memorial Foundation to establish a memorial on federal land in the District of Columbia or its environs to honor President John Adams, along with his wife Abigail Adams, their son President John Quincy Adams, and the family's legacy of public service. The enrolled bill stipulates that the memorial will be established in accordance with the Commemorative Works Act and the Foundation will be solely responsible for raising the necessary funds for the memorial. Funds remaining after payment of all expenses or upon expiration of this authority will be deposited in the Treasury for the maintenance of the memorial.

Conclusion and Recommendations

The Department of the Interior recommends approval of H.R. 1668. Interior states that, except for a Library of Congress building, "there is no major public work in the District of Columbia that recognizes or memorializes John Adams or John Quincy Adams." The Department believes that "[t]he father and son presidents and their family's legacy of public service deserve a memorial in our Nation's Capital."

We join Interior and CFA in recommending the approval of H.R. 1668, which passed the House by voice vote and the Senate by unanimous consent.

Purpose

Authorizes the Adams Memorial Foundation to establish a memorial on federal land in the District of Columbia or its environs to honor former President John Adams and his family.

Agency Recommendations

Office of Management and Budget	Approval
Department of the Interior	Approval
Commission of Fine Arts (CFA)	Approval
General Services Administration	No objection (Informally)
National Capital Planning Commission	No objection (Informally)
Council on Environmental Quality	No comment (Informally)

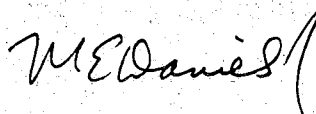

Discussion

H.R. 1668 authorizes the Adams Memorial Foundation to establish a memorial on federal land in the District of Columbia or its environs to honor President John Adams, along with his wife Abigail Adams, their son President John Quincy Adams, and the family's legacy of public service. The enrolled bill stipulates that the memorial will be established in accordance with the Commemorative Works Act and the Foundation will be solely responsible for raising the necessary funds for the memorial. Funds remaining after payment of all expenses or upon expiration of this authority will be deposited in the Treasury for the maintenance of the memorial.

Conclusion and Recommendations

The Department of the Interior recommends approval of H.R. 1668. Interior states that, except for a Library of Congress building, "there is no major public work in the District of Columbia that recognizes or memorializes John Adams or John Quincy Adams." The Department believes that "[t]he father and son presidents and their family's legacy of public service deserve a memorial in our Nation's Capital."

We join Interior and CFA in recommending the approval of H.R. 1668, which passed the House by voice vote and the Senate by unanimous consent.

One Hundred Seventh Congress of the United States of America

AT THE FIRST SESSION

*Begun and held at the City of Washington on Wednesday,
the third day of January, two thousand and one*

An Act

To authorize the Adams Memorial Foundation to establish a commemorative work on Federal land in the District of Columbia and its environs to honor former President John Adams and his legacy.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. COMMEMORATIVE WORK TO HONOR JOHN ADAMS AND HIS LEGACY.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Congress finds the following:

(1) Few families have contributed as profoundly to the United States as the family that gave the Nation its second president, John Adams; its sixth president, John Quincy Adams; first ladies Abigail Smith Adams and Louisa Catherine Johnson Adams; and succeeding generations of statesmen, diplomats, advocates, and authors.

(2) John Adams (1735–1826), a lawyer, a statesman, and a patriot, was the author of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts (the oldest written constitution still in force), the leader of the Second Continental Congress, a driving force for independence, a negotiator of the Treaty of Paris (which brought the Revolutionary War to an end), the first Vice President, the second President, and an unwavering exponent of freedom of conscience and the rule of law.

(3) Abigail Smith Adams (1744–1818) was one of the most remarkable women of her time. Wife of former President John Adams and mother of former President John Quincy Adams, she was an early advocate for the rights of women and served the cause of liberty as a prolific writer, fierce patriot, and staunch abolitionist.

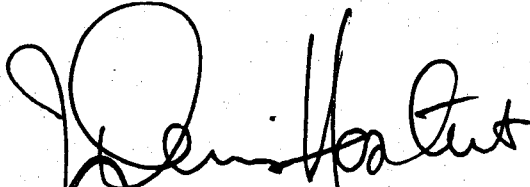

(4) John Quincy Adams (1767–1848), the son of John and Abigail Adams, was a distinguished lawyer, legislator, and diplomat and a master of 7 languages, who served as Senator, Minister to the Netherlands under President George Washington, Minister to Prussia under the first President Adams, Minister to Great Britain under President James Madison, chief negotiator of the Treaty of Ghent (which ended the War of 1812), Secretary of State under President James Monroe, author of the Monroe Doctrine (which declared the Western Hemisphere off limits to European imperial expansion), sixth President, and the only former President to be elected to the House of Representatives, where he was known as “Old Man Eloquent” and served with great distinction as a leader in the fight against slavery and a champion of unpopular causes.

THE WHITE HOUSE

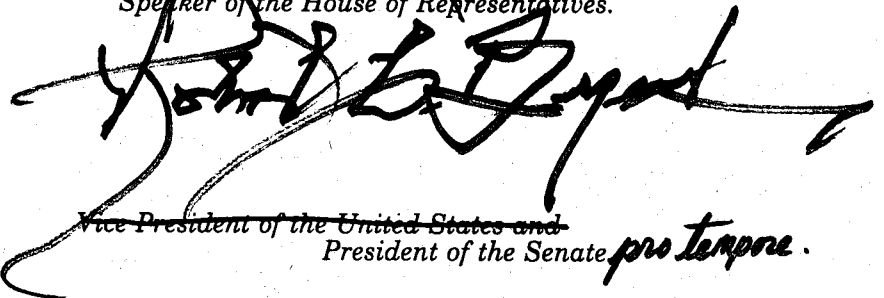

work under section 10(b) of such Act, there remains a balance of funds received for the establishment of the commemorative work, the Adams Memorial Foundation shall transmit the amount of the balance to the Secretary of the Treasury for deposit in the account provided for in section 8(b)(1) of such Act.
