Dear Ms. Thurman,

Thank you for accepting our April 18th invitation to speak to the Barbary Coast chapter of the Young Presidents Organization. Your panel is entitled "The HIV Pandemic: The End of a Crisis or the Beginning?". We look forward to having you join the other esteemed presenters for this discussion.

Other panel members will be Dr. Eric Goosby, Director, Office of HIV/AIDS Services, Department of Health and Human Services, and Dr. Don Francis, President and co-founder of VaxGen, Inc.

If your schedule permits, I would also welcome your involvement in an AIDS Foundation board committee conversation on Saturday, April 15th. A subcommittee of our board is grappling with the role of the Foundation in international HIV vaccine efforts. Your insights would prove invaluable to them, I'm certain.

Thank you again for your time and your incredible commitment to ending the pandemic and the human suffering caused by HIV.

Sincerely,

Pat Christen

17 March 2000

Dear Barbary Coast Members and Partners/Spouses:

John and I look forward to being your hosts on Tuesday, April 18th at The Golden Gate Club/The Presidio in San Francisco. You will find enclosed a response form with schedule for both members' and partners'/spouses' programs. Selected readings, directions and a map will follow.

Our topic is the HIV Pandemic: The End of a Crisis or the Beginning? In the developed world, the public perception of the epidemic appears to be shifting away from a crisis toward a more manageable, though still deadly, disease. In the developing world, however, a very different scenario is unfolding. There, the disease ravages millions, the virus continues its unrelenting spread, and the therapies and treatments developed in the west are frequently too costly or too complex for nations with little or no health care infrastructure to support treatment provision and treatment adherence.

After a continental breakfast, while members are in forums, partners/spouses will screen the docudrama film, "And the Band Played On," chronicling the first five years of the HIV/AIDS epidemic in the U.S., starring Matthew Modine as Dr. Don Francis. Dr. Francis will attend the screening and answer questions afterward. (Don is a delightful, engaging, and blunt speaker, so be prepared!)

Following separate partners'/spouses' lunch and members' lunch/business meeting, there will be a joint educational session. A panel of experts will address the scientific and political developments in the U.S. that led to an effective domestic response to the epidemic and their applicability to meaningful vaccine development for the U.S. and other nations. The global economic implications of an unchecked pandemic will also be considered. Panelists include Sandra Thurman (Director, Office of National AIDS Policy), Dr. Eric Goosby (Director, Office of HIV/AIDS Services, Department of Health and Human Services), and Dr. Don Francis (President and co-founder of VaxGen, Inc.). Cocktails and dinner will follow.

As always, business casual attire is appropriate. Feel free to call me with any questions at (415) 487-3050, or my executive associate, Kevin Cox, at (415) 487-3067. John and I look forward to your joining us in April.

Sincerely,

Pat Christen

RE: A Map, Selected Readings & Biographies for Tuesday, April 18th

Hi, Folks!

Enclosed are some materials we thought might be of interest to you.

In preparation for our day together on April 18th please find attached:

- Final Agenda
- Directions and Map to The Golden Gate Club in the Presidio
- Selected readings from And the Band Played On, by Randy Shilts. (Partners/spouses will view a film dramatization of this book in the morning. Dr. Don Francis, who features prominently in the book and movie, will join us for both the morning and afternoon sessions.)
- Speakers' biographies on Dr. Don Francis, Dr. Eric Goosby and Sandra Thurman. These individuals will address us during the afternoon education meeting.
- Speakers' biographies on Anna Heath, Lonnie Payne and Paul Wisotzky. Following lunch, these speakers will talk with the partners/spouses about their personal experiences living with HIV disease.
- A January 17, 2000 Newsweek cover story on AIDS in Africa

Subject: YPO Meeting Preparation

301-

I wanted to recap our meeting on the YPO presentation you will be doing. I had a chance to see Eric Goosby in DC this week and review his presentation as well. I think it should be a very exciting day. Don Francis will also be joining us.

Sandy, you were going to pull together the following slides/handouts:

- scope of the international epidemic and growth in the pandemic :
(map of the world showing AIDS/HIV case distribution for 1980, 1985, 1990, 1995 and 2000)
- demographic differences between developing vs. developed world re: who is infected with HIV.
- Data on AIDS orphans
- HIV in the military in the developing world
- Population growth grids: the impact of HIV mortality on population growth worldwide
- Any economic forecasts that indicate the impact of HIV morbidity and mortality on global economy
- Any photos from your trips abroad that help paint a picture of what you have seen.

Let me know what kind of audio/visual equipment you will need.

Thanks!

March 20, 2000

Ms. Sandra Thurman
Director of the White House
Office of National AIDS Policy
736 Jackson Pl. NW

Dear Sandra,

Greetings from Atlanta! It is with great pleasure that I have this opportunity to extend to you heartfelt thanks for all the wonderful work you are doing to promote improved health care. As we are all aware, the challenges of dealing with the crises in health care delivery have meant doing more with less.

We thank you for considering our invitation to participate in the International African Health Ministers Conference on HIV/AIDS and Malaria on April 13-16, 2000 in Atlanta. The purpose of the conference is to convene African Health Ministers and American Health Care Professionals and other concerned individuals to learn more about the issues and concerns facing African countries. We have written confirmations from 28 African health ministers and oral confirmation from another 20. After listening to the Health Ministers concerns in Namibia and Zambia last year, we at the American Medical Team for Africa (AMTA) decided to organize this conference to give African Health Ministers a platform in the United States. More specifically, to articulate their various national plans of action on the major issues of HIV/AIDS and Malaria and how private and public institutions in the United States can assist in this effort.

This conference will lay the groundwork for future on-going collaborative efforts by focusing on African led initiatives to combat epidemics in their own countries and how to build more effective collaborations with American health care providers, pharmaceutical companies, research and academic institutions, and the non-governmental community.

As per our conversation, Deman Rageh informed me that she has been in touch with you. She is however still waiting for the contact information for the CEOs of the pharmaceutical companies. I wish to personally invite them to the conference. Their input during this conference will be invaluable. If you have any questions or comments you can contact me by phone, fax or e-mail. Also feel free to browse the conference information at <http://www.amta2000.org>. I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Sincerely,

Andrew Young,

Chairman of the Board

AMTA is an Atlanta-based 501 © (3) organization that is dedicated to reducing poverty and improving the quality of life in Africa by assisting the healthcare sector with medical related supplies, medical training and facilitating partnerships with American healthcare institutions. AMTA has worked in 22 African countries since 1991 donating more than $12 million dollars worth of medical equipment, sponsoring seven medical teams to Africa and facilitating partnership agreements with American medical institutions.

WHAT IS THE INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON HIV/AIDS & MALARIA?

It is a collaborative grass-roots effort of local Atlanta-based health-related and non-profit organizations in partnership with Africa's Ministries of Health and the co-sponsorships of World Health Organization (WHO), Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and local businesses.

It is designed to offer a platform for the Ministers of Health to present an "African Response" to pandemic diseases of HIV/AIDS and malaria. The primary objectives are:

- To discuss the provision of funds to train people in Africa
- To discuss the provision of funds to buy testing reagents and various pharmaceuticals for opportunistic infections and AIDS.
- To make a "united voice of appeal" to the American public, policy-makers, scientific, private and religious sectors and other friends of Africa for concrete support to African initiatives aimed at addressing these two major problems.
- To create alliances between African health ministries and the American public, private sector and other friends of Africa to fight against these diseases.
- To identify necessary objectives which will ensure significant progress in dealing with the associated health problems of these diseases during the first decade of the new millennium.
- To mobilize financial, technical and in-kind resources that will be used to support community-based interventions for HIV/AIDS and malaria prevention and control; and to support the strengthening of selected health/medical research institutions in Africa.
- To develop an action-oriented "Atlanta Declaration" for confronting the problems of millions of orphans, proper training, affordable drugs, prevention and care.

It is a partnership of ordinary people, grass-roots organizations, local and international businesses, health agencies, governments and faith/religious communities that have concluded that the impacts of these diseases have exceeded the boundaries of health concerns; that the absence of a known cure for AIDS is no excuse for its widespread devastation; and that malaria is a curable disease which has been controlled in most parts of the world: Why not in Africa?

With millions of lives lost yearly, a growing number of orphans, a generation slowly disappearing, economic loss due to a lack of productive hours, a decrease in life expectancy of adults and many other related damages, an unprecedented, multi-level and multi-national plan is immediately required. It is an "opportunity to make a difference!"

It is a collaborative grass-roots effort of local Atlanta-based health-related and non-profit organizations in partnership with Africa's Ministries of Health and the co-sponsorships of World Health Organization (WHO), Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and local businesses.

It is designed to offer a platform for the Ministers of Health to present an "African Response" to pandemic diseases of HIV/AIDS and malaria. Their primary objectives are:

- To present the gravity of this situation as accurately as possible and to illustrate the demise of conditions due to the ravages of these diseases.
- To take stock of past resolutions, declarations, programmes and special initiatives aimed at preventing and controlling HIV/AIDS and malaria and engage in frank discussions as to why they have not met the desired effects in Africa.
- To make a "united voice of appeal" to the American public, policy-makers, scientific, private and religious sectors and other friends of Africa for concrete support to African initiatives aimed at addressing these two major health problems.
- To strengthen the alliance between African health ministers and the American public, the private sector and other friends of Africa in a fight against HIV/AIDS and malaria.
- To identify necessary objectives which will ensure significant in-road progress in dealing with the associated health problems of these diseases during the first decade of the new millennium.

- To develop an action-oriented "Atlanta Declaration" for confronting these leading health problems in Africa.

It is a partnership of ordinary people, grass-roots organizations, local and international businesses, health agencies, governments and faith/religious communities that have concluded that the impacts of these diseases have exceeded the boundaries of health concerns; that the absence of a known cure for AIDS is no excuse for its widespread devastation; and that malaria is a curable disease which has been controlled in most parts of the world: Why not in Africa?

It is an "opportunity to make a difference!"

WHY AN INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON HIV/AIDS?

AIDS! "The warnings were as clear as the terror in those three-year-old's eyes." A UNICEF-sponsored study in the early nineties predicted that in ten hard-hit countries of sub-Saharan Africa, up to 5.5 million children under 15 years of age would lose their mothers to AIDS. Millions would perish in a plague of medieval proportions. Now that the decade is over, it seems the warnings were somewhat mistaken. A full-blown crisis is upon us, and it is worse than expected. Although AIDS is often viewed as a tragedy that people bring on themselves, many victims of the pandemic have done nothing more harmful than enter the world.

The global impact from AIDS:

- 13.7 million AIDS-related deaths in sub-Saharan Africa through 1999 (out of a world cumulative of 16.3 million).
- 2.6 million people died in 1998 as a result of AIDS or AIDS-related illness. (Roughly 85% of those deaths occurred in Africa.)
- 5.6 million more people — mostly African — became HIV-infected in 1999.
- 10.4 million African children under the age of 15 will have lost their mother or both parents to AIDS (totaling 90% of the global population of AIDS orphans).
- There were 13.2 million orphans in the US and Europe after World Wars I & II; there are 10 million orphans in Africa alone due to AIDS. This number is expected to double or triple in 10 years.)
- Life expectancy in Africa will drop from 58 years of age in the early nineties to just 45 years by 2010.
- AIDS is wiping out much of an entire generation.
- The plague is at its most devastating in 49 of the sub-Saharan countries.
- More people have died of AIDS in Africa than in World War I, World War II, the Korean War, the Gulf War and Kosovo, combined.

In the absence of a known cure for HIV/AIDS but armed with evidence that lives can be saved; that individuals affected with HIV/AIDS can lead normal lives within the general population; that changes in behavior do prevent the spread of AIDS; that a few African countries have "broken the silence" and reduced the number of AIDS-related deaths; and that support for local stakeholders may provide alternative/complementary solutions, we present this opportunity to the world, and to the American public, in particular, to make a difference.

Source: Newsweek, January 2000

"Each case of AIDS passes along, on average, two to ten additional cases of AIDS. A case of malaria can result in as many as hundred more cases of malaria. So the multiplier effect is quite substantial."

WHY AN INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON MALARIA?

Malaria may be foreign to most people, but it is well known to all Africans. It is by far the world's most important tropical parasitic disease, and kills more people than any other communicable disease with the exception of tuberculosis. In many developing countries and in most African countries, malaria exacts an enormous toll in lives, in medical costs and in days of labour lost.

- In absolute numbers, malaria kills 3,000 children under the age of five, per day. (It is a death toll that far exceeds the mortality rate from AIDS.)
 - Pregnant mothers who have malaria and are HIV-positive are more likely to pass their HIV status to their unborn child than those without the disease.
 - Malaria is a public health problem today in more than 90 countries, inhabited by roughly 2.4 billion people — 40% of the world's population.
 - Worldwide prevalence of the disease is estimated to be in the order of 300-500 million clinical cases each year.
 - More than 90% of all malaria cases are in sub-Saharan Africa.
 - The mortality rate due to malaria is estimated to be over one million deaths each year. The vast majority of deaths occur among young children (under five years of age) in Africa, especially in remote rural areas with poor access to health services.
 - Other high-risk groups are pregnant women, non-immune travelers, refugees, displaced persons, military personnel and labourers entering endemic areas.
 - Malaria epidemics related to political upheavals, economic difficulties and environmental problems also contribute, in the most dramatic way, to death tolls and human suffering.
 - The direct and indirect costs of malaria in sub-Saharan Africa exceed $2 billion.
 - In today's global community, the phenomenon of "airport malaria," or the importing of malaria by international travelers, is becoming commonplace.
 - Malaria is endemic to 101 countries and territories: 45 countries in WHO's African Region; 21 in WHO's Americas Region; 14 in WHO's Eastern Mediterranean Region; 9 in WHO's Western Pacific Region; 8 in WHO's Southeast Asia Region; and 4 in WHO's European Region.

These statistics represent millions of lost lives and enormous suffering; they stem from a disease that is curable if promptly diagnosed and adequately treated, and they form the rationale for this conference on malaria. It is an "opportunity to make a difference."

Source: "The Resurgence of a Deadly Disease" The Atlantic Monthly, August 1997
WHO Information: Fact Sheet No. 94/Revised, October 1998.

"Every year approximately seven million American tourists and business people spend time in regions where malaria is endemic, as do military personnel and foreign visitors to the United States, and it is likely that thousands arrive here with malaria parasites in their bodies."

"Most Americans seem to think the disease has been eradicated or, at worst, is confined to the tropics. In fact, there are few places on earth that cannot sustain a malaria epidemic."

WHAT IS THE INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON HIV/AIDS & MALARIA?

It is a collaborative grass-roots effort of local Atlanta-based health-related and non-profit organizations in partnership with Africa's Ministries of Health and the co-sponsorships of World Health Organization (WHO), Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and local businesses.

It is designed to offer a platform for the Ministers of Health to present an "African Response" to pandemic diseases of HIV/AIDS and malaria. Their primary objectives are:

- To present the gravity of this situation as accurately as possible and to illustrate the demise of conditions due to the ravages of these diseases.
- To take stock of past resolutions, declarations, programmes and special initiatives aimed at preventing and controlling HIV/AIDS and malaria and engage in frank discussions as to why they have not met the desired effects in Africa.
- To make a "united voice of appeal" to the American public, policy-makers, scientific, private and religious sectors and other friends of Africa for concrete support to African initiatives aimed at addressing these two major health problems.
- To strengthen the alliance between African health ministers and the American public, the private sector and other friends of Africa in a fight against HIV/AIDS and malaria.
- To identify necessary objectives which will ensure significant in-road progress in dealing with the associated health problems of these diseases during the first decade of the new millennium.
- To mobilize financial, technical and in-kind resources that will be used to support community-based interventions for HIV/AIDS and malaria prevention and control; and to support the strengthening of selected health/medical research institutions in Africa.
- To develop an action-oriented "Atlanta Declaration" for confronting these leading health problems in Africa.

It is a partnership of ordinary people, grass-roots organizations, local and international businesses, health agencies, governments and faith/religious communities that have concluded that the impacts of these diseases have exceeded the boundaries of health concerns; that the absence of a known cure for AIDS is no excuse for its widespread devastation; and that malaria is a curable disease which has been controlled in most parts of the world: Why not in Africa?

With millions of lives lost yearly, a growing number of orphans, a generation slowly disappearing, economic loss due to a lack of productive hours, a decrease in life expectancy of adults and many other related damages, an unprecedented, multi-level and multi-national plan is immediately required. It is an "opportunity to make a difference!"

WHY AN INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON HIV/AIDS?

AIDS! "The warnings were as clear as the terror in those three-year-old's eyes." A UNICEF-sponsored study in the early nineties predicted that in ten hard-hit countries of sub-Saharan Africa, up to 5.5 million children under 15 years of age would lose their mothers to AIDS. Millions would perish in a plague of medieval proportions. Now that the decade is over, it seems the warnings were somewhat mistaken. A full-blown crisis is upon us, and it is worse than expected. Although AIDS is often viewed as a tragedy that people bring on themselves, many victims of the pandemic have done nothing more harmful than enter the world.

The global impact from AIDS:

- 13.7 million AIDS-related deaths in sub-Saharan Africa through 1999 (out of a world cumulative of 16.3 million).
- 2.6 million people died in 1998 as a result of AIDS or AIDS-related illness. (Roughly 85% of those deaths occurred in Africa.)
- 5.6 million more people — mostly African — became HIV-infected in 1999.
- 10.4 million African children under the age of 15 will have lost their mother or both parents to AIDS (totaling 90% of the global population of AIDS orphans).
- There were 13.2 million orphans in the US and Europe after World Wars I & II; there are 10 million orphans in Africa alone due to AIDS. (This number is expected to double or triple in 10 years.)
- Life expectancy in Africa will drop from 59 years of age in the early nineties to just 45 years by 2010.
- AIDS is wiping out much of an entire generation.
- The plague is at its most devastating in 29 of the sub-Saharan countries.
- More people have died of AIDS in Africa than in World War I, World War II, the Korean War, the Gulf War and Kosovo, combined.

In the absence of a known cure for HIV/AIDS, but armed with evidence that lives can be saved; that individuals affected with HIV/AIDS can lead normal lives within the general population; that changes in behavior do prevent the spread of AIDS; that a few African countries have "broken the silence" and reduced the number of AIDS-related deaths; and that support for local stakeholders may provide alternative/complementary solutions, we present this opportunity to the world and to the American public, in particular, to make a difference.

Source: Newsweek, January 2000

"Each case of AIDS passes along, on average, two to ten additional cases of AIDS. A case of malaria can result in as many as hundred more cases of malaria. So the multiplier effect is quite substantial."

— Dyan Wylie
Professor of Tropical Medicine
Harvard School of Public Health

WHY AN INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON MALARIA?

Malaria may be foreign to most people, but it is well known to all Africans. It is by far the world's most important tropical parasitic disease, and kills more people than any other communicable disease with the exception of tuberculosis. In many developing countries and in most African countries, malaria exacts an enormous toll in lives, in medical costs and in days of labour lost.

The current global picture:

- In absolute numbers, malaria kills 3,000 children under the age of five, per day. (It is a death toll that far exceeds the mortality rate from AIDS.)
- Pregnant mothers who have malaria and are HIV-positive are more likely to pass their HIV status to their unborn child than those without the disease.
- Malaria is a public health problem today in more than 90 countries, inhabited by roughly 2.4 billion people — 40% of the world's population.
- Worldwide prevalence of the disease is estimated to be in the order of 300-500 million clinical cases each year.
- More than 90% of all malaria cases are in sub-Saharan Africa.
- The mortality rate due to malaria is estimated to be over one million deaths each year. The vast majority of deaths occur among young children (under five years of age) in Africa, especially in remote rural areas with poor access to health services.
- Other high-risk groups are pregnant women, non-immune travelers, refugees, displaced persons, military personnel and labourers entering endemic areas.
- Malaria epidemics related to political upheavals, economic difficulties and environmental problems also contribute, in the most dramatic way, to death tolls and human suffering.
- The direct and indirect costs of malaria in sub-Saharan Africa exceed $2 billion.
- In today's global community, the phenomenon of "airport malaria," or the importing of malaria by international travelers, is becoming commonplace.
- Malaria is endemic to 101 countries and territories: 45 countries in WHO's African Region; 21 in WHO's Americas Region; 14 in WHO's Eastern Mediterranean Region; 9 in WHO's Western Pacific Region; 8 in WHO's Southeast Asia Region; and 4 in WHO's European Region.

These statistics represent millions of lost lives and enormous suffering; they stem from a disease that is curable if promptly diagnosed and adequately treated, and they form the rationale for this conference on malaria. It is an "opportunity to make a difference!"

Source: "The Resurgence of a Deadly Disease" The Atlantic Monthly, August 1997
WHO Information: Fact Sheet No. 94/Revised, October 1998.

"Every year approximately seven million American tourists and business people spend time in regions where malaria is endemic, as do military personnel and foreign visitors to the United States, and it is likely that thousands arrive here with malaria parasites in their bodies."

"Most Americans seem to think the disease has been eradicated or, at worst, is confined to the tropics. In fact, there are few places on earth that cannot sustain a malaria epidemic."

AIDS/ Malaria African Health Ministers Conference

The Objectives as Outlined by The Coalition of African Health Ministers and the AMTA

1. To present, as graphically and vividly as possible, to the American public, policy-makers, private sector, pharmaceutical companies, the worsening situation of HIV/AIDS and malaria in Africa.
2. To take stock of past resolutions, declarations, programmes and special initiatives aimed at preventing and controlling malaria and HIV/AIDS and undertake a frank discussion of why they have not had the desired effect in Africa.
3. To obtain a united voice of appeal of African Health Ministers to the American public, policy-makers, private sector, and other friends of Africa for concrete support to African and other initiatives aimed at addressing these two health problems.
4. To strengthen the alliance between the African health ministers and the American public, policy-makers, private sector and other friends of Africa in the fight against malaria and HIV/AIDS.
5. To identify concrete steps that can be taken by African leaders and people as well as their international friends and development partners to ensure that significant in-roads are made in dealing with these two health problems during the first two decades of the 21st Century.
6. To mobilize financial resources to support community-based interventions and control of malaria and HIV/AIDS, and strengthen the support of selected health/medical research initiatives in Africa.
7. To develop an action-oriented Atlanta Declaration for dealing with these two leading health problems in Africa.
