Sandy,

First to refresh your memory, I met you at the end of June at a dinner at Tony Podesta's.

(I was the librarian sitting on the other side of Tony, opposite you.)

Frankly, I thought you were wonderful and I wanted to ask you then if you would consider coming to school and speak about AIDS. My thought was to have you focus not so much on prevention but the world situation - Africa and third world countries in particular. One of my responsibilities here is staff sponsor to the women's leadership group and your own story how you got to the White House would also be fascinating to our students. If you think you have some time this fall, please let me know and send some dates that might work for you and I will check with the school assembly schedule to coordinate.

Thanks so much.

Susan Adland
