Dear Lieutenant Gooden:

I am writing to recommend that you give Ivy Kupec every consideration to be a public affairs officer in the U.S. Naval Reserves. Ivy assisted my press office with regional media outreach when the Clinton Administration first proposed an FDA rule to curb tobacco use among young people. Her knowledge of FDA policy and familiarity with media issues proved to be a great asset to my staff as we undertook this large initiative. In the years since the Administration first announced its efforts, Ivy has remained a point of contact in our ongoing effort to convey the most timely and accurate information about tobacco policy and the problems associated with teen smoking to reporters.

In her interactions with my staff, Ivy has proven to be a knowledgeable and dedicated public affairs professional. She is reliable, responsible and a quick study, demonstrating her ability to adapt to new environments as the situation presents itself. I believe that her experiences, and the professionalism which she demonstrated in dealing with my staff, would enable her to bring a wide range of experience to the Naval Reserves public affairs team.
