Ms. Jennifer E. Mabry, Ph.D.
Suite 625
4431 Lehigh Road
College Park, Maryland 20740

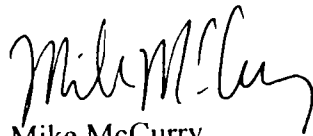

Dear Ms. Mabry:

Thank you very much for your letter, and for passing along a copy of your abstract and dissertation. I found your premise fascinating, and look forward to taking a closer look in the coming weeks.

Thanks also for sending me your resumé. Although I do not have any specific ideas in mind, I am glad to know of your interest and will certainly keep your name in mind in the future.

You have my best wishes.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Mackler -

Thanks for your letter and for your apology.

We only aim to create situations in which serious journalists can find great opportunities to cover the work of this President and we look forward to continuing the good working relationships
we have with AFP.

I look forward to discussing this,
although lunch is tough for me because of my briefing schedule. But we'll find an opportunity.

Ms. Victoria Mills

Dear Ms. Mills:

Thank you very much for your letter. I appreciate your interest and would be glad to tell you more about my role here at the White House.

On the most fundamental level, the Press Office works to communicate the message of the President, his staff and Administration. In that sense, our goal is to provide accurate, truthful, and timely information in a way that advances the President's objectives, but is also consistent with the needs of the press corps that is ever-vigilant in protecting the American people's "right to know."

As press secretary it is my responsibility to cultivate the relationship between the press corps and the President. On the whole, the press secretary serves as a liason between two equally vital institutions -- the first, a press corps that needs information to accurately and effectively convey the President's daily work, and second, a President who is eager to have his work conveyed favorably.

I hope this information useful. Should you need any more information, I would like to suggest that you visit the White House homepage at <http://www.whitehouse.gov>

You have my best wishes.

Ms. Erika Ortiz

Franklin Magnet
820 North Avenue 54
Los Angeles, California 90042

Dear Ms. Ortiz:

Thank you very much for your letter. I appreciate your interest and I am glad to lend you a hand with your research.

On the most fundamental level, the Press Office works to communicate the message of the President, his staff and Administration. In that sense, our goal is to provide accurate, truthful, and timely information in a way that advances the President's objectives, but is also consistent with the needs of the Press corps that is ever-vigilant in protecting the American people's "right to know."

As Press Secretary it is my responsibility to cultivate the relationship between press corps and the President. On the whole, the press secretary serves as a liaison between two equally vital institutions -- the first, a press corps that needs information to accurately and effectively convey the President's daily work, and the second, a president who is eager to have his work relayed favorably. My biggest challenge is getting answers as quickly as possible in the age of CNN, MSNBC, and the non-stop news cycle of the Information Age.

As you have requested, I have also included a signed photograph. I hope this information proves useful and I send you my best wishes.

Sincerely,

Mike McCurry
Press Secretary
