THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

August 31, 1994

Dear Mr. President:

Thank you very much for the birthday greeting from you and your wife. It was kind of you to remember me.

You and I have worked well and successfully at maintaining close cooperation between our two governments on a variety of issues, especially the difficult North Korean nuclear question. I appreciate your commitment -- which of course I share -- to maintaining that close consultation.

Thank you again for your greetings.

Sincerely,

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

FROM:

ANTHONY LAKE

SUBJECT:

Birthday Greeting from South Korea's President Kim

Purpose

To reply to a birthday greeting from The Republic of Korea's President Kim Young Sam

Background

President Kim's birthday greeting to you adds a hope for continued consultation between the U.S. and ROK on the North Korean nuclear situation. As you know, South Korea is increasingly nervous that the United States will strike an accord with the North that will not be in the ROK's interest. They seem to need almost daily reassurance that we will not do so. Your reply takes note of the issue.

Dear Mr. President,

I have just returned from an 11-day trip to North Korea where I was invited to participate in the funeral for the late President Kim Il Sung. While there I found myself to be the only South Korean present at that event.

On July 20, after the memorial service for the late president, I had the opportunity to meet privately, one-on-one with Secretary Kim Jong Il, the incoming leader of the DPRK. He asked me to convey to you his sincere gratitude and goodwill for your expressions of condolence on the death of his father.

Sincerely,

FROM: ANTHONY LAKE

SUBJECT: Birthday Greeting from South Korea's President Kim

Purpose

To reply to a birthday greeting from The Republic of Korea's President Kim Young Sam

Background

President Kim's birthday greeting to you adds a hope for continued consultation between the U.S. and ROK on the North Korean nuclear situation. As you know, South Korea is increasingly nervous that the United States will strike an accord with the North that will not be in the ROK's interest. They seem to need almost daily reassurance that we will not do so. Your reply takes note of the issue.

Agreed Statement
Between The United States of America and
The Democratic Peoples' Republic of Korea

Geneva, August 12, 1994

The delegations of the United States of America (U.S.) and the Democratic People's Republic of Korea (DPRK) met in Geneva from August 5-12, 1994, to resume the third round of talks.

Both sides reaffirmed the principles of the June 11, 1993, U.S.-DPRK joint statement and reached agreement that the following elements should be part of a final resolution of the nuclear issue:

(1) The DPRK is prepared to replace its graphite-moderated reactors and related facilities with light water reactor (LWR) power plants, and the U.S. is prepared to make arrangements for the provision of LWRs of approximately 2,000 MW(e) to the DPRK as early as possible and to make arrangements for interim energy alternatives to the DPRK's graphite-moderated reactors. Upon receipt of U.S. assurances for the provision of LWRs and for arrangements for interim energy alternatives, the DPRK will freeze construction of the 50 MW(e) and 200 MW(e) reactors, forego reprocessing, and seal the Radiochemical Laboratory, to be monitored by the IAEA.

(2) The U.S. and the DPRK are prepared to establish diplomatic representation in each other's capitals and to reduce barriers to trade and investment, as a move toward full normalization of political and economic relations.

(3) To help achieve peace and security on a nuclear-free Korean Peninsula, the U.S. is prepared to provide the DPRK with assurances against the threat or use of nuclear weapons by the U.S., and the DPRK remains prepared to implement the North-South Joint Declaration on the Denuclearization of the Korean Peninsula.

(4) The DPRK is prepared to remain a party to the Treaty on the Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons and to allow implementation of its safeguards agreement under the Treaty.

Important issues raised during the talks remain to be resolved. Both sides agree that expert-level discussions are necessary to advance the replacement of the DPRK's graphite-moderated program with LWR technology, the safe storage and disposition of the spent fuel, provision of alternative energy, and the establishment of liaison offices. Accordingly, expert-level talks will be held in the U.S. and

DPRK or elsewhere as agreed. The DPRK and U.S. agreed to recess their talks and resume in Geneva on September 23, 1994.

In the meantime, the U.S. will pursue arrangements necessary to provide assurances for the LWR project to the DPRK as part of a final resolution of the nuclear issue, and the DPRK will observe the freeze on nuclear activities and maintain the continuity of safeguards, as agreed in the June 20-22, 1994, exchange of messages between Assistant Secretary of State Robert L. Gallucci and First Vice Minister of Foreign Affairs Kang Sok Ju.

Agreed Statement
Between The United States of America and
The Democratic Peoples' Republic of Korea

Geneva, August 12, 1994

The delegations of the United States of America (U.S.) and the Democratic People's Republic of Korea (DPRK) met in Geneva from August 5-12, 1994, to resume the third round of talks.

Both sides reaffirmed the principles of the June 11, 1993, U.S.-DPRK joint statement and reached agreement that the following elements should be part of a final resolution of the nuclear issue:

(1) The DPRK is prepared to replace its graphite-moderated reactors and related facilities with light water reactor (LWR) power plants, and the U.S. is prepared to make arrangements for the provision of LWRs of approximately 2,000 MW(e) to the DPRK as early as possible and to make arrangements for interim energy alternatives to the DPRK's graphite-moderated reactors. Upon receipt of U.S. assurances for the provision of LWRs and for arrangements for interim energy alternatives, the DPRK will freeze construction of the 50 MW(e) and 200 MW(e) reactors, forego reprocessing, and seal the Radiochemical Laboratory, to be monitored by the IAEA.

(2) The U.S. and the DPRK are prepared to establish diplomatic representation in each other's capitals and to reduce barriers to trade and investment, as a move toward full normalization of political and economic relations.

(3) To help achieve peace and security on a nuclear-free Korean Peninsula, the U.S. is prepared to provide the DPRK with assurances against the threat or use of nuclear weapons by the U.S., and the DPRK remains prepared to implement the North-South Joint Declaration on the Denuclearization of the Korean Peninsula.

(4) The DPRK is prepared to remain a party to the Treaty on the Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons and to allow implementation of its safeguards agreement under the Treaty.

Important issues raised during the talks remain to be resolved. Both sides agree that expert-level discussions are necessary to advance the replacement of the DPRK's graphite-moderated program with LWR technology, the safe storage and disposition of the spent fuel, provision of alternative energy, and the establishment of liaison offices. Accordingly, expert-level talks will be held in the U.S. and

DPRK or elsewhere as agreed. The DPRK and U.S. agreed to recess their talks and resume in Geneva on September 23, 1994.

In the meantime, the U.S. will pursue arrangements necessary to provide assurances for the LWR project to the DPRK as part of a final resolution of the nuclear issue, and the DPRK will observe the freeze on nuclear activities and maintain the continuity of safeguards, as agreed in the June 20-22, 1994, exchange of messages between Assistant Secretary of State Robert L. Gallucci and First Vice Minister of Foreign Affairs Kang Sok Ju.

Agreed Statement
(August 12, 1994)

The delegations of the United States of America (USA) and the Democratic People's Republic of Korea (DPRK) met in Geneva from August 5-12, 1994, to resume the third round of talks on a comprehensive resolution of the nuclear issue. They reaffirmed the principles of the June 11, 1993, U.S.-DPRK joint statement.

Furthermore, both sides reached agreement on the following objectives, which will be part of a comprehensive solution of the nuclear issue:

(1) The DPRK is prepared to replace its graphite-moderated reactors and related systems with light water reactor (LWR) technology, and the U.S. is prepared to arrange the provision of an LWR project of approximately 2,000 MW(e) to the DPRK and to arrange for interim energy alternatives to the DPRK's graphite-moderated reactors. Upon receipt of U.S. assurances, the DPRK will freeze construction of the 50 MW(e) and 200 MW(e) reactors, forgo reprocessing, and seal and safeguard the Radio-Chemical Laboratory.

(2) To build trust between the U.S. and the DPRK, both sides are prepared to begin a process to establish diplomatic representation in each other's capitals and to reduce barriers to trade and investment.

(3) The DPRK is prepared to remain a party to the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty (NPT) and to implement its fullscope IAEA safeguards obligations.

(4) To help achieve peace and security on a nuclear-free Korean peninsula, the DPRK is prepared to resume talks with the Republic of Korea and to implement fully the North-South Declaration on Denuclearization.

Other important issues remain to be resolved. Both sides agree that expert-level meetings are necessary to discuss the replacement of the DPRK's graphite-moderated program with LWR technology and the disposition of spent fuel. Accordingly, both sides have agreed to recess the talks so that expert-level meetings can be held in the U.S. and the DPRK. The DPRK and U.S. will resume their talks in Geneva in September 1994 at a mutually agreed time.

During this period, the DPRK will continue to observe the freeze on nuclear activities and maintain the continuity of safeguards, as agreed in the June 20-22, 1994, exchange of letters between Vice Minister Kang Sok Ju and Assistant Secretary Robert Gallucci. The United States will continue to pursue international arrangements necessary to provide an LWR project to the DPRK as part of a comprehensive solution of the nuclear issue.

Agreed Statement Between USA and DPRK
Geneva, August 12, 1994

The delegations of the United States of America (USA) and the Democratic People's Republic of Korea (DPRK) met in Geneva from August 5-12, 1994, to resume the third round of talks.

Both sides reaffirmed the principles of the June 11, 1993, U.S.-DPRK joint statement and reached agreement on the following objectives, which will be part of a final resolution of the nuclear issue:

(1) The DPRK is prepared to replace its graphite-moderated reactors and related facilities with light water reactor (LWR) power plants, and the U.S. is prepared to make arrangements for the provision of LWRs of approximately 2,000 MW(e) to the DPRK as early as possible and to make arrangements for interim energy alternatives to the DPRK's graphite-moderated reactors. Upon receipt of U.S. assurances for the provision of LWRs, the DPRK will freeze construction of the 50 MW(e) and 200 MW(e) reactors, forego reprocessing, and seal the Radio-Chemical Laboratory, to be monitored by the IAEA.

(2) The U.S. and the DPRK are prepared to establish diplomatic representation in each other's capitals and to reduce barriers to trade and investment, as a move toward full normalization of political and economic relations.

(3) The DPRK is prepared to remain a party to the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty (NPT) and to allow implementation of fullscope safeguards.

(4) To help achieve peace and security on a nuclear-free Korean peninsula, the U.S. is prepared to provide an assurance to the DPRK against the threat or use of nuclear weapons, and the DPRK remains prepared to implement fully the North-South Declaration on Denuclearization.

Other important issues raised during the talks remain to be resolved. Both sides agree that expert-level discussions are necessary to advance the replacement of the DPRK's graphite-moderated program with LWR technology and the safe storage and disposition of spent fuel, provision of alternative energy, and the establishment of liaison offices. Accordingly, expert-level talks will be held in the U.S. and DPRK or elsewhere as agreed. The DPRK and U.S. agreed to recess their talks and resume in Geneva on September [23], 1994.
