Agreed Statement
Between The United States of America and
The Democratic Peoples' Republic of Korea

Geneva, August 12, 1994

The delegations of the United States of America (U.S.) and the Democratic People's Republic of Korea (DPRK) met in Geneva from August 5-12, 1994, to resume the third round of talks.

Both sides reaffirmed the principles of the June 11, 1993, U.S.-DPRK joint statement and reached agreement that the following elements should be part of a final resolution of the nuclear issue:

(1) The DPRK is prepared to replace its graphite-moderated reactors and related facilities with light water reactor (LWR) power plants, and the U.S. is prepared to make arrangements for the provision of LWRs of approximately 2,000 MW(e) to the DPRK as early as possible and to make arrangements for interim energy alternatives to the DPRK's graphite-moderated reactors. Upon receipt of U.S. assurances for the provision of LWRs and for arrangements for interim energy alternatives, the DPRK will freeze construction of the 50 MW(e) and 200 MW(e) reactors, forego reprocessing, and seal the Radiochemical Laboratory, to be monitored by the IAEA.

(2) The U.S. and the DPRK are prepared to establish diplomatic representation in each other's capitals and to reduce barriers to trade and investment, as a move toward full normalization of political and economic relations.

(3) To help achieve peace and security on a nuclear-free Korean Peninsula, the U.S. is prepared to provide the DPRK with assurances against the threat or use of nuclear weapons by the U.S., and the DPRK remains prepared to implement the North-South Joint Declaration on the Denuclearization of the Korean Peninsula.

(4) The DPRK is prepared to remain a party to the Treaty on the Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons and to allow implementation of its safeguards agreement under the Treaty.

Important issues raised during the talks remain to be resolved. Both sides agree that expert-level discussions are necessary to advance the replacement of the DPRK's graphite-moderated program with LWR technology, the safe storage and disposition of the spent fuel, provision of alternative energy, and the establishment of liaison offices. Accordingly, expert-level talks will be held in the U.S. and

DPRK or elsewhere as agreed. The DPRK and U.S. agreed to recess their talks and resume in Geneva on September 23, 1994.

In the meantime, the U.S. will pursue arrangements necessary to provide assurances for the LWR project to the DPRK as part of a final resolution of the nuclear issue, and the DPRK will observe the freeze on nuclear activities and maintain the continuity of safeguards, as agreed in the June 20-22, 1994, exchange of messages between Assistant Secretary of State Robert L. Gallucci and First Vice Minister of Foreign Affairs Kang Sok Ju.

FROM: PM - Robert L. Gallucci RB
SUBJECT: U.S.-DPRK Agreed Conclusions

After discussions with the DPRK in New York we think the attached statement would be agreeable to them. We would like to offer this to the North this evening.

Our redraft takes into account the two main DPRK concerns: the late date for the third round of talks and our original language laying out the conditionality for holding the third round. As you will note, the proposed date for the third round has now been moved up to the week of March 21. On conditionality, our position is captured in the language described in the first "two steps" which will begin on March 1, 1994.

In addition, we are now including a date by which the exchange of special envoys should take place. This toughens up the conditionality and, interestingly enough, is something the North will probably agree to given its distrust of the South.

Finally, these "agreed conclusions" would be made public on March 1. We anticipate, as in statements made in June and July after meetings with the North, accompanying these "agreed conclusions" with our own statements further laying out the conditional nature of Team Spirit suspension and the holding of the third round.

Agreed Conclusions

The United States of America (USA) and the Democratic People's Republic of Korea (DPRK) have held a series of informal meetings in New York for the purpose of continuing joint efforts to resolve the nuclear issue through dialogue, according to the principles of the joint U.S./DPRK statement of June 11, 1993.

Pursuant to these discussions, the USA and the DPRK have agreed that the following two steps will begin on March 1, 1994:

The IAEA inspections agreed between the IAEA and the DPRK on February 15, 1994 will be fully implemented.

North-South working level talks will resume in Panmunjom to arrange for the exchange of Special Envoys by March 15, 1994.

Also, on March 1, the following steps will take place:

The USA will announce its agreement to the Republic of Korea decision to suspend Team Spirit '94.

The USA and the DPRK will announce that the third round of U.S./DPRK talks will begin in Geneva the week of March 21, 1994.

Each of these simultaneous steps is required for implementation of this agreement.
