Airport Arrival Ceremony

Divider Title: _____

SCENESETTER: AIRPORT ARRIVAL CEREMONY

You and the First Lady arrive at Santiago airport on Thursday morning. You will be met upon your arrival by Foreign Minister and Mrs. Insulza, U.S. Ambassador and Mrs. Guerra, Protocol Director Juan Pablo Lira, Commander of the Santiago Air Garrison Concha, and Chilean Ambassador to the United States Biehl and his wife. Ambassador Guerra and Chief of Protocol Lira will greet you at the top of the platform after you exit the aircraft.

There will be military honors, and the military band will play the national anthems of both countries. You will greet the press but are not expected to make remarks. You then depart by helicopter for the Escuela Militar. The entire arrival ceremony should take around fifteen minutes.

FORMAL ARRIVAL CEREMONY

Divider Title: _____

SCENESETTER: FORMAL ARRIVAL CEREMONY

On Thursday morning, there will be a second arrival ceremony at the Presidential Palace, known as La Moneda. Originally constructed in the late 1700's to house a mint (hence its name, which means "coin" in Spanish), it was the largest building in the Spanish colonies at the time. During the 1973 coup, La Moneda was strafed by Chilean aircraft and besieged by Pinochet's troops. It was here that then-President Salvador Allende committed suicide. Today, La Moneda houses key offices of the presidency. (There is no official residence for Chilean presidents; they live in their private homes.)

You will be met at the gate by President and Mrs. Frei, who will escort you inside (with the First Ladies following). At the portico you will turn and wait for the First Ladies, then receive and acknowledge a salute from the Cordon Commander on the left side of the entranceway. Then you and President Frei will turn around and proceed along a red carpet to the foot of the steps at the far side of the interior courtyard. There you will turn back around again, walking past the three-platoon honor guard and the press. The First Ladies will follow and wait with you as the band plays the Chilean and American national anthems. You will walk back across the courtyard a final time before separating from the First Ladies and proceeding up the stairs to President Frei's office.

DISCUSSION WITH COMMUNITY LEADERS

Divider Title: _____

SCENESETTER: SOUTH SANTIAGO COMMUNITY EVENT

Early Thursday afternoon, you will tour the working-class neighborhood of South Santiago and then lead a roundtable discussion with Chilean community leaders at the local University of San Andrés. The University is operated by the St. Paul Foundation, a not-for-profit organization specializing in education. Similar to our community colleges or vocation schools, the University focuses on developing the skills needed to start and run small businesses.

You will be greeted by the Mayor of San Miguel and the leadership of the college. They will lead you to a glassed-in conference room, where 8-10 community leaders will discuss how micro-enterprises have contributed to their community's development. The discussion will last under an hour, with simultaneous translation.

ADDRESS TO U.S. & CHILEAN BUSINESS

Divider Title: _____

SCENESETTER: SPEECH TO U.S. AND CHILEAN BUSINESS LEADERS

On Friday, you will address American and Chilean business leaders at the Santiago Municipal Theater. The Theater is the heart of Santiago's cultural life, hosting performances of opera, ballet and major concerts. The building was originally designed by Brunet des Baines, the same French architect who designed the old Congress building, in 1853. It seats about 1,200 people.

Inside the Theater, the President of the American Chamber of Commerce, a representative of Chile's leading business association, and President Frei will all make introductory remarks. You will then address the audience, with simultaneous translation. After your speech there will be a group photograph with the twelve members of the board of the American Chamber of Commerce.

STATE DINNER

Divider Title: _____

SCENESETTER: BILATERAL STATE DINNER

On Friday evening you will attend a State Dinner at the Presidential Palace, known as La Moneda.

You and the First Lady will be met upon your arrival by Director of Protocol Juan Pablo Lira [LEE-rah]. He will escort you to the second-floor receiving room where President and Mrs. Frei will be waiting. President and Mrs. Frei will then lead you and the First Lady down an open-air stairway into the inside courtyard where the dinner will be held.

You and the First Lady will sit with the Freis at the table of honor, which includes the president of the Supreme Court and the presidents of each house of Congress. There will be approximately 400 other guests, including most of Chile's political and economic elite.

After national anthems are played, you and President Frei will exchange toasts. There will be pool press coverage through the toasts, but only official photographers afterward. The dinner is expected to last approximately two hours, with whisper interpretation.

After dinner, President and Mrs. Frei escort you and the First Lady back to the entrance.

TOAST

TO BE PROVIDED

CONTINGENCY PULL-ASIDE WITH CHILEAN SUPREME COURT CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTO DAVILA

Key Objectives

- Applaud Chile's commitment to rule of law and judicial reform.
- Reaffirm importance of Summit's effort to establish a Hemispheric Justice Studies Center.

Context of Meeting

This pull-aside at the State Dinner will satisfy a Chilean tradition that State Visits include a meeting between the visiting Head of State and the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.

A firm advocate of judicial reform and independence, Roberto Davila Diaz was chosen by his fellow justices this past January to become Chief Justice in part because of his reformist credentials. Major reforms currently underway include establishing a system of prosecutors separate from the judiciary and converting to an oral-based, adversarial criminal justice system.

The meeting is useful from a hemispheric standpoint. A major Summit initiative will be the promotion of a Hemispheric Justice Studies Center which will focus on sharing best practices for the training of justice personnel including judges.

Davila has traveled to the United States and has met with Justices Kennedy, Scalia and White.

Talking Points

- Pleased to see Chile's commitment to the rule of law and independence of judiciary.
- Justice systems throughout the hemisphere require serious attention and reform to make them more accessible and open to the public.
- Understand there are major reforms underway in Chile. Their success will make Chile a model of a modern judiciary in Latin America.
- Hope hemispheric Justice Studies Center will help with sharing best practices, improve administration of justice.

ADDRESS TO CHILEAN CONGRESS - VALPARAISO

Divider Title: _____

SCENESETTER: ADDRESS TO CHILEAN CONGRESS IN VALPARAISO

On Friday afternoon you will address the Chilean Congress in Valparaiso, on the coast to the west of Santiago. The building housing the Congress was constructed by the military government when Chile's legislative branch was re-established as part of the return to civilian rule in 1990. The military government chose Valparaiso as the site for the legislature, rather than Santiago, so as to decentralize the Chilean government and, many believe, to distance Congress from the country's centers of executive, judicial, and economic power in the capital.

You will be met upon arrival by the Foreign Ministry's Chief of Protocol, Juan Pablo Lira. You proceed to the steps of the Formal Plenary Entrance, receiving military honors en route from naval cadets. At the steps you will be joined by diplomatic coordinator for Congress Ambassador Fontecilla (fon-teh-SEE-yuh) who will introduce you to two welcoming committees, one at the foot of the steps and the other at the top. Each committee is comprised of 12-15 Senators and Deputies (lower house members), selected by the legislative leadership. Former General Pinochet, now an unelected Senator, is not expected to be there.

After you have met the committees, you will enter the building and be met by the President of the Senate, Andrés Zaldívar, and the President of the Chamber of Deputies, Gutenberg Martínez. Together you will proceed into the Senate's reception room for official photographs. Zaldívar and Martínez then escort you into the Congress' "Hall of Honor." Unlike our own tradition during the State of the Union address, you are not supposed to shake hands with the dignitaries in the hall. Zaldívar and Martínez will each deliver 2-5 minutes of welcoming remarks.

You will then address the Congress. Sitting before you on your left will be the Senators, Deputies, and other invited VIPs. To the right will be members of President Eduardo Frei's Cabinet, the members of your Cabinet traveling with you, members of the Diplomatic Corps, and ranking Chilean military officers.

Following your speech, you take your leave of the Presidents and Secretaries of the two chambers and exit as you arrived.

SCENESETTER: INFORMAL LUNCH WITH FREIS

After your speech to parliament on Friday, you and the First Lady . will have lunch with the Freis at the presidential retreat in Valparaiso. Known as Cerro Castillo (Castle Hill), the Tudor-style house was built in the 1930's. It offers an excellent view of the Pacific ocean below.

You will be joined by Secretary of State Albright, National Security Advisor Berger, Mr. and Mrs. McLarty, and Ambassador and Mrs. Guerra. The Freis will be joined by Foreign Minister Insulza, Chilean Ambassador to the United States Biehl, their wives, and the Freis' three daughters and two sons-in-law.

VISIT TOWN OF CASABLANCA

Divider Title: _____

SCENESETTER: VISIT TO CASABLANCA

On Friday afternoon you will visit the Chilean farming town of Casablanca, a quiet community of 11,500. Though a tobacco factory is located just outside town, the primary industry in Casablanca is wine. Two U.S. companies, Kendall Jackson and Mondavi, purchase grapes from the area.

Founded in 1753, Casablanca is the birthplace of three 19th Century Chilean presidents - Pedro Montt, Manuel Montt, and Jorge Montt. Julio Montt, the hero of the Battle of Concepcion during Chile's struggle for independence, was also born here, as a statue to him testifies.

Aside from your meeting with South Santiago community leaders on Thursday, this visit will be your principal opportunity to interact with ordinary Chileans. In addition to touring the town, you and the First Lady may also have coffee with a few citizens chosen by the Mayor. (As farmers, they may express their fears about U.S. protectionism.) Other than that, you have no speaking obligations. The event will last approximately two hours.
