How are you? We really enjoyed having you around for the international seminar and will shortly send round a report of the event.

I'm emailing now for another reason. One of the most talented members of my staff - Chris Wormald who is responsible for our programme called Excellence in Cities which is designed to transform secondary education in large urban areas - will be in DC from tomorrow. I wondered whether you, or one of your team, would be interested in catching up with him? I know he'd be delighted to meet you.

At such short notice it will no doubt be difficult but its worth a try.

Chris flies out tomorrow (Tuesday 11th - leaving the office in the afternoon. His diary is free after 4.30 on Wednesday 12th or Friday 14th morning is also free. He returns to London on Friday afternoon.

He will be staying at the Jurys Washington Hotel, 1500 New Hampshire Avenue
Tel: 001 202 483 6000
Fax: 001 202 745 3071

If this is possible you can reach him by email at this address but only until tomorrow mid-day. Alternatively I have given the phone number of his hotel above.

Best wishes.

Dear John:

You and I had the opportunity to briefly speak on June 15, when I was lobbying off the Senate floor on the FY 2001 Department of Transportation appropriations bill. At the time, I was working with Millie Webb, President of Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD), in support of retaining Senator Lautenberg's provision establishing a national .08% Blood Alcohol Concentration (BAC) level. We were successful in retaining it in the Senate bill despite strong opposition from the Senate Republican leadership. Fortunately, Senator Richard Shelby had agreed to include the drunk driving provision in the bill and steadfastly opposed strong overtures from Senators Lott and Nickles to strike it on the Senate floor.

This is the exact same provision that was adopted by the Senate in 1998 by a vote of 62 to 32 and was supported by Secretary Slater and President Clinton. In fact, at the time, there were two or three events at the White House in support of including the provision in the TEA-21 bill (surface transportation bill). Unfortunately, because of alcohol industry opposition and money and behind the scenes work by Representative Delay and Speaker Gingrich, the provision was dropped in conference despite the best efforts of Senators Chafee and Lautenberg.

We have a very good chance to enact this drunk driving bill this year as part of the DOT Appropriations bill. I am writing to ask that the White House do a public event with MADD and the other health and safety groups that are fighting to retain this provision. Drunk driving is one of the top safety concerns of the American public, public opinion polls show strong support for this .08 provision (77%), the provision is supported by Republicans and Democrats, and 18 states already have this law. Research shows that there is a drop in drunk driving fatalities in states that have enacted a .08% BAC law and that if every state had .08 it would save 500 to 600 lives annually.

MADD and others have been working with Bruce Reed's office on possibly organizing an event. I am concerned that time is running out. Our intelligence indicates that the House Republican Leadership is putting pressure on Conference Chair Frank Wolf, who strongly supports the .08 provision, to have this bill finished by the Republican Convention and keep this provision out. Members we have visited have expressed interest in seeing the White House and President be more visible in their support if we are to succeed. The White House events in 1998 were instrumental in our efforts to have a strong Senate vote as well as alert the news media and public about the congressional debate on this issue. The Republican leadership clearly does not want to publicly vote on a drunk driving law in an election year and alcohol interests are working behind the scenes with the leadership in the Senate to drop this provision. We have already garnered editorial support from the Washington Post and in 1998 the New York Times and numerous other major newspapers endorsed adoption of a .08 national drunk driving law. We are working to have these newspapers restate their support.

I know the President's schedule is very tight and there has been some discussion of doing an event next week. If you would lend your support to arrange a public White House event we would all greatly appreciate it. Coincidentally, this year is MADD's 20th anniversary and enactment of this law would be a terrific victory for drunk driving and a legacy for the Clinton Administration's commitment to highway safety.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Congress of the United States

The Honorable Richard W. Riley
Department of Education
Secretary of Education
400 Maryland Avenue, SW
Washington, DC 20202

~~cc: Bruce Reed~~
Bruce
Did we ever do anything about this?
John

Dear Secretary Riley:

I would like to take this opportunity to express my extreme disappointment with your department.

The College of Our Lady of the Elms applied for funding under the Title III-Part A, Strengthening Institutions Program for the past two years. In 1999, their proposal received scores of 100, 99, and 81. The average score was a 93, but the grant was rejected. As a result of the unfunded status of the Elms, I arranged a meeting in my office involving myself, Sister Kathleen Keating of the College of Our Lady of the Elms and Mr. Carl S. Person of the Department of Education, under the assumption that working with the Department of Education would be helpful. Mr. Person is the Director of the Institutional Development and Undergraduate Education Service. It was my impression at the time that he would be the person most qualified to assist the Elms in the grant application process. It appears now that this belief was incorrect, and that receiving assistance from the Department of Education hurts, rather than helps, grant applicants.

This year the grant proposal of the Elms, after the assistance your Department provided, was given an average score of 85. This means that receiving the help of the Department of Education actually lowered the Elms' score 8 points! I find it very difficult to understand how a grant proposal would be 8 points worse with the Department's input. Do those in Mr. Person's office actually know what the grant evaluators are looking for? Did they give any real assistance at all, or was the help mentioned in my meeting with Mr. Person mere lip service meant to placate a usually supportive Member of Congress? At a time when the majority party is attempting to radically alter the education system of the United States, it would seem counterproductive, if not down right stupid, to alienate a Representative who has repeatedly supported the efforts, the capabilities and the influence of your department.

It is necessary in my capacity as a Representative to be able to help those in my district who would enlist my assistance. In order to be trusted by my constituents, it is necessary for federal agencies to be forthright in their dealings with me and my congressional colleagues. Unfortunately, in this instance, I feel as though your department did not play straight with me.

It is my unfortunate duty to contact Sister Kathleen and inform her that the Elms will not be receiving any funding this year, despite the fact that her grant writers were assisted by the very division of the Department of Education to whom they had applied for a grant. Under normal circumstances, relaying bad news to a constituent is difficult. However, it has been made more difficult due to the fact that enlisting the assistance of your department was my idea, and that idea turned out to be harmful rather than helpful. I understand that those in Mr. Person's office could not guarantee funding for the Elms as a result of their help. However, I never expected the assistance of the Department of Education to be detrimental. If you or your Department could be of assistance in explaining this seemingly incongruous situation to my constituents, I would be most appreciative of the help.

Sincerely,
