Dear Ms. Nemetz:

We have completed our initial review of Bernoulli disks that contain electronic data from the hard drives and network directories of present and former employees of the Office of Personnel Security. We also have finished our initial review of copies of diskettes obtained from Room 84. We are thus returning the disks and diskettes (all of which are copies of original data) for storage in the vault in Room 84 of the Old Executive Office Building. We understand that the disks and diskettes will be maintained in the vault in accordance with the terms of Jane Sherburne's letter of August 2, 1996, to John Bates.

As we discussed yesterday, we also are providing seven computer diskettes, which contain copies of those files from the Bernoulli disks and diskettes found in Room 84 that we wish at this time to retain permanently. We have retained at our office identical copies of those diskettes. You will review the seven diskettes and notify us whether you will assert any claim of Executive privilege against production of the materials to the grand jury.

Sincerely,

KENNETH W. STARR

Dear Chairman Clinger:

I am enclosing documents responsive to your requests of June 12, 1996, and June 21, 1996, and the subpoena dated August 2, 1996. A production log is attached.

As you know, we were unable to respond fully to your requests because we did not have access to certain documents in the Office of Personnel Security (OPS). We recently obtained limited access to these documents, and have started reviewing them for responsiveness to your letter requests and to the subpoena. Many of the documents enclosed are the product of these efforts. We are continuing to review the OPS documents and other files that may contain material responsive to the Committee subpoena and will produce additional documents as quickly as we can.

Please give me a call if you have any questions.

Miriam Nemetz, Esq.
Associate Counsel to the President
The White House
Washington, DC 20530

Dear Ms. Nemetz:

As we have discussed, we request your assistance in determining whether or not each of the persons named in the attached lists was employed in, or otherwise required regular access to, the White House after January 20, 1993.

For those persons who were first hired by or granted access to the White House on or after January 20, 1993 -- i.e., who worked in or had access to the White House during the Clinton Administration but were not "holdover" employees from the Bush Administration -- we need to know the starting date of their employment or period of access.

For those persons who were employed in or required access to the White House during the Clinton Administration but who have since departed, we need to know the ending date of their employment or period of access.

Where available, we have included an "access code" that may be of assistance to you in determining the office with which the person may have been associated.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Rod J. Rosenstein", is written over a large, stylized "X" mark.

Miriam Nemetz, Esq.
Associate Counsel to the President
The White House
Washington, DC 20530

Dear Ms. Nemetz:

During our review of information on computer diskettes found in the Personnel Security Office, we came across a document that asserts, on its face, that it is protected by attorney-client privilege. The document, titled "CLLAW.YER" is on a diskette labeled "CRAIG MEMOS" that was found in a diskette storage case on a desk in Room 84. The computer indicates that the document was last revised on July 5, 1994, at 4:12 pm. The diskette contains numerous documents relating to the operations of the Personnel Security Office.

The document appears to be a memorandum addressed from D. Craig Livingstone to Randy Turk, Esq., dated May 19, 1994, concerning a meeting between Mr. Livingstone and Special Agent Ray McElhaney. We did not read the substance of the memorandum.

We believe that it is appropriate for us to bring this document to the attention of Mr. Livingstone's counsel before reviewing it. Accordingly, we will not review the document until Mr. Livingstone's counsel has had a reasonable opportunity to express his views on whether there is a legitimate claim of privilege that would preclude us from reviewing it. Until the matter is resolved, we request that you retain the original diskette along with all of the other materials from Room 84.

Thank you for your cooperation.

Sincerely,

Rod J. Rosenstein
Associate Independent Counsel
