ANALYSIS of EPASS and WAVES

re: List of 476 Names

07/15/96

The following is an analysis of the EPASS and WAVES systems regarding the production of Active and Inactive printouts for a list of 476 names for whom the White House Office of Personnel Security is said to have requested FBI background investigative files.

On June 14, 1996, I received two lists of names to analyze regarding the accuracy of the corresponding records in the EPASS and WAVES systems. The first list begins with "ABDOO", ends with "GOLDBERG", and contains 339 names. The second list begins with "AARHUS", ends with "GLEN", and contains 138 names. One name, "Gary Fendler", appeared on both lists for a total of 476 individual names hereafter, collectively referred to as the list of 476.

SCOPE OF ANALYSIS

This analysis covers the period between July 1, 1984 and July 8, 1993 as it pertains to this list of 476 individuals. An audit was conducted to ascertain if the 476 aforementioned names could have been listed as active passholders to the White House Complex during the year 1993. 1984 was chosen as a starting point because that is the earliest WAVES inactive date for any of those included on the list of 476.

PASS ACTIVATION and DEACTIVATION PROCESS

The process by which a White House Pass is issued is initiated by the White House Office of Personnel Security. The White House Office of Personnel Security advises the Secret Service of all new hires and separations and requests that building passes be issued to new hires. Once a pass request has been approved, the individual reports to the White House Division, Room 23, Old Executive Office Building for processing. A computer record containing that individual's biographical information is created in the EPASS system and a building pass is issued. The new individual's computer record is electronically transmitted to the ACCESS control system, allowing ingress and egress to the White House. The new individual's computer record is also electronically transmitted to the WAVES system and stored in a database residing on the WAVES computer. The passholder database in WAVES is for Secret Service administrative purposes and is used as an aid when processing appointments into the White House.

The deactivation of a White House pass is initiated by either the passholder turning in their pass or the White House Office of Personnel Security informing the Secret Service that an individual has left the employ of the White House and no longer is to be granted access to the White House Complex.

In either instance, the individual's record is called up in the EPASS system and deactivated. Once this happens, this deactivation is electronically transmitted to the ACCESS control system and the person is no longer permitted free access to the White House. This information is also electronically transmitted to the WAVES system where the individual's status is changed from active to inactive in the WAVES passholder database.

DIFFERENCES IN WAVES AND EPASS DATES

In comparing the "STATUS DATE" as listed by the WAVES system to the "STATUS DATE" listed by the EPASS system for the same individual, there are times when these dates differ.

The differences in "STATUS DATES" in some records between the EPASS and WAVES systems occurred for several reasons. These reasons are enumerated below:

1. Action by System. This is the main reason the data field "STATUS DATE" in the WAVES System is changed. This change occurs any time an individual's record is modified in either the EPASS or WAVES System.
2. System Synchronization. On August 22, 23, and 24, 1994 Dr. John Toll and Mr. Stewart Rabinowitz performed maintenance (program updates and database updates) on both the EPASS and WAVES systems. During this maintenance the databases in the two systems were synchronized to insure that all records in both systems were current. Consequently, some records in WAVES show these dates as "STATUS DATES".
3. Implementation of EPASS. In 1989 the EPASS system was brought on line during the administration change in January of that year. The passholder information was electronically transferred to the EPASS system from the Secret Service mainframe computer. Many of the WAVES "STATUS DATES" reflect the date of electronic transfer.
4. End of month. A few days before the end of each month, the EPASS system begins to close its current log files and open new files, and store the intermediate information in temporary files. To facilitate the processing of time sensitive data, the WAVES updates are held in a data queue by the EPASS system. Once a new month begins, updates are transmitted by the EPASS system to the WAVES system and the WAVES "STATUS DATE" reflects the date of this change. When a pass is either activated or de-activated near the end of a month in the EPASS system, it takes approximately four days for the change to be reflected in the WAVES system.
5. Component overload. Beginning in early 1993 the White House Access Control System (EPASS, WAVES, and ACCESS) experienced up to a 100% increase in the number of people being processed per month. Consequently, a hub (a small computer) connecting the EPASS system to the WAVES system began to experience a communications failure.

When changes in passholder status were made in EPASS, the EPASS System would transmit these changes and updates to the WAVES system via this hub. If the system was experiencing a communications failure these changes would be stopped at the Hub until communications were restored. Once communications were restored update data was then transferred to the WAVES system. There were occasions during these communications failures when there was too much information for the data buffer in the hub to store and some of this information would overflow the data buffer and be lost before communications were restored.

The White House Office of Personnel Security is routinely provided with WAVES printouts. Through their review of these printouts we learned that some individuals were listed as active in the WAVES system when they believed them to be inactive. A subsequent check of the EPASS system showed these individuals to be inactive in the EPASS system and active in the WAVES system and their status was corrected.

A systems analysis revealed the problem and it was alleviated in early 1994 by fixing a software bug and making the data buffer more robust in the hub which connects the EPASS system to the WAVES system.

Of the aforementioned explanations, only #5 would have resulted in an individual being listed as an active passholder in the WAVES system when, in fact, they were not. When this did occur, even though the person was listed as active in WAVES, this did not authorize admittance to the White House Complex because the EPASS system had accurately recorded the individual's status as inactive and transmitted this change to the ACCESS Control System at each of the entry/exit posts.

COMPARISON OF EPASS AND WAVES RECORDS TO THE LIST of 476

The basis of my exam was to compare WAVES generated printouts to EPASS records as they pertain to the list of 476. There were three types of WAVES printouts: those listing inactive passholders; those listing active passholders; and those listing passholders whose status changed from active to inactive in a given month.

The following historic WAVES records were available for comparison and are included with this report as attachments 1 through 8:

Attachment #1 - WAVES printout showing all inactive passholders as of 08/07/91.

The list of 476 names was compared against this WAVES printout of inactive passholders to determine if any of those on the list of 476 also appeared on this WAVES printout. There were 182 individuals on the list of 476 who also appear on the Waves printout of INACTIVE passholders. It is important to note that Leslee Blair Cullen has an inactive date of 08/07/91 in EPASS is also included on this printout.

Conversely, none of these 182 names would have appeared on a WAVES printout(s) of active passholders after 08/07/91.

Attachment #2 - WAVES printout for ACTIVE to INACTIVE during January, 1993.

According to EPASS records, there were 72 individuals whose status changed from active to inactive during the month of January, 1993. This WAVES printout only reflects 20 of these individuals.

This report was generated on 1/28/93, three days before the end of the month. Additional WAVES records (attachment #8) show that 10 more individuals changed from active to inactive during these three days. Of the remaining 42 individuals the data of 34 of them was not transmitted to WAVES until the beginning of February, due to the end of month delay previously discussed in this report. Finally, information on 8 was lost between EPASS and WAVES due to a communications failure, also discussed earlier in this report.

Attachment #3 - WAVES printout for ACTIVE to INACTIVE during February, 1993.

According to EPASS records there were 14 individuals whose status changed from active to inactive during the month of February, 1993. This WAVES printout reflects all of these 14 individuals plus the additional 34 individuals who became inactive in January, 1993.

Attachment #4 - WAVES printout for ACTIVE passholders employed by White House Operations Personnel as of May 2, 1993

The list of 476 was compared for exclusion from this printout. If any of the 476 individuals are excluded from this printout this means they are listed as inactive in the WAVES system and would have been so designated on any Active/Inactive printout generated by the WAVES system.

A comparison of the List of 476 names to this WAVES printout yields the following results:

94 - of the 476 are correctly listed as ACTIVE

8 - errors , who were incorrectly listed as active (see below)

3 - Residence employees (Blake, Bowens, and Brooks) who are active passholders but not included on this WAVES printout

3 - individuals who have yet to be hired by WHOP, (Belfer, Carpenter, and Carr).

368 - of the 476 would have been listed as INACTIVE on any report generated by WAVES at this time.

476 Total

The names of those eight incorrectly listed as active follow:

Blumenthal, Gary	Brown, Ronald
Butterfield, William	Bizic, Danica
Bateman, Paul	Campbell, Victoria
Carpendale, Andrew	Cutshall, Jennifer

Attachment #5 - WAVES printout for ACTIVE to INACTIVE during May, 1993.

According to EPASS records there were 6 individuals whose status changed from active to inactive during the month of May, 1993. This WAVES printout reflects five of those six. The other individual was carried over to the month of June, 1993.

Attachment #6 - WAVES printout for ACTIVE to INACTIVE during June, 1993.

According to EPASS records there were 5 individuals whose status changed from active to inactive in June, 1993. This WAVES printout reflects these 5 individuals plus the one individual who became inactive in May, 1993.

Attachment #7 - WAVES printout for ACTIVE passholders employed by White House Operations Personnel as of July, 8 1993

The List of 476 was compared for exclusion from this printout. If any of the 476 individuals are excluded from this printout this means they are listed as inactive in the WAVES system and would be so designated on any Active/Inactive printout generated by the WAVES system.

A comparison of the List of 476 names to this WAVES printout yields the following results:

85 - of the 476 are correctly listed as ACTIVE

8 - errors (as previously listed)

3 - Residence employees, (Blake, Bowens, and Brooks), who are active passholders but not included on this WAVES printout

1 - individual yet to be hired by WHOP (Belfer)

379 - of the 476 would have been listed as INACTIVE on any report generated by WAVES at this time.

476 Total

Attachment #8 - WAVES printout showing all inactive passholders as of 08/19/94.

A comparison of those individuals included on the list of 476 names to this WAVES printout dated 8/19/94 confirms that as of July 8, 1993, 379 of these individuals had an inactive status in the WAVES system. Furthermore, of the 476 individuals on the list, 429 are listed as inactive on this WAVES printout as 8/19/94.

OTHER ISSUES

Although the time period covered by this analysis was limited to July 1, 1984 through July 8, 1993, there were two additional errors pertaining to the list of 476 individuals, specifically, James Baker and Francine Burns. Francine Burns changed from active to inactive in EPASS on 11/01/93 and this change was not reflected in WAVES until 3/16/94. James Baker changed from active to inactive on 08/26/93 in EPASS and this change did not occur in WAVES until 7/7/94. These errors occurred due to a communications failure as previously stated.

One other individual, Lunalisa Abiera, left employment at the White House on 10/25/93 and returned to employment at the White House on 9/8/94. The EPASS and WAVES records accurately reflect this.

CONCLUSIONS

As it pertains to these 476 individuals there were eight errors on the active reports generated by the WAVES system between 1984 and July 8, 1993. These eight were made inactive in EPASS in January, 1993, however the corresponding records in the WAVES system were not updated due to a communications failure between a computer hub and the WAVES system.

There were no widespread flaws or system breakdowns which resulted in the WAVES system producing grossly inaccurate or outdated access lists.

Furthermore, any Active/Inactive report generated by WAVES on or after the following dates would have shown the following numbers of individuals who were on the list of 476 as inactive:

August 7, 1991 - 182 Inactive

January 20, 1993 - 286 Inactive

May 2, 1993 - 368 Inactive

July 8, 1993 - 379 Inactive

Respectfully Submitted,

Jeffrey L. Undercoffer

TALKING POINTS

Release of Executive Privilege Documents

- ▶ Attorney General Reno has affirmed that each of these documents is constitutionally protected under the doctrine of executive privilege. The White House is nonetheless making this information available in the interests of full and complete disclosure.
- ▶ The White House is making public these documents because we want to put an end once and for all to Representative Clinger's repeated attempts to manufacture phony document disputes in order to garner attention for his endless, faltering inquiry.
- ▶ By making the documents publicly available, the White House will expose Mr. Clinger's pattern of mischaracterizing documents and releasing only part of the facts. Reporters can review these documents and make up their own minds based on all of the facts.
 - ▶ Chairman Clinger's extremist tactics compel the extraordinary step of releasing the work of presidential lawyers; this work is quite properly protected by the constitutional doctrine of executive privilege.
 - ▶ The President is entitled to advisors who can prepare for congressional hearings without sharing their work with those conducting the inquiries.
- ▶ Representative Clinger and his staff have had access to these documents since late June. They have had the opportunity to review each and every one of these documents. If the documents contained anything of interest, you would have already heard about it from Mr. Clinger's staff.
 - ▶ The review by Mr. Clinger and his staff began on June 27, 1996. Thus, Mr. Clinger and his staff have had full knowledge of the contents of these documents for more than 45 days.
 - ▶ Mr. Clinger and his staff were afforded complete access to the documents; no time limits whatsoever were imposed on their review of these documents.
 - ▶ Mr. Clinger and his staff were permitted to make notes characterizing the material they were reviewing.

- ▶ The bulk of the documents being released today was created by White House lawyers in preparation for congressional hearings orchestrated by Senator D'Amato, Speaker Gingrich, Majority Leader Arme, Representative Clinger and others.
- ▶ Like any one party who is subject to congressional hearings, the White House has every right to prepare for hearings run by the President's partisan opponents and designed to inflict political damage.
- ▶ The kind of work product in these pages is typical of any party-in-interest preparing for a congressional hearing: talking points, issue briefs, questions and answers, etc.
- ▶ The White House took appropriate steps to determine what areas the President's opponents would focus on and to provide factual information refuting partisan charges and one-sided presentations of events in question.
 - ▶ Prior to the D'Amato Whitewater hearings, for example, the White House provided reporters with access to key Vincent Foster documents and provided other factual information to rebut D'Amato's charges. The work entailed in providing that information is reflected in these documents.
- ▶ It was entirely appropriate for White House representatives to speak with lawyers for witnesses who were involved in the matters being examined by congressional committees. Such conversations are imperative for assessing the nature of the problem being examined, finding the most appropriate way to explain it to the American people, identifying any action that may be necessary, and determining the reasonableness of the inquiry and the contours of the response.
- ▶ Many of the documents are "drafts." In other words, the documents were "works in progress." As such, the documents sometimes contain information that is incomplete or inaccurate. On many occasions additional discussions yielded information that superseded or corrected earlier drafts. Nonetheless, the documents made public today contain these drafts that sometimes contain incomplete or inaccurate information.
- ▶ Some of the documents contain statements of arguments and theories that the White House expected its partisan opponents to use during hearings. Of course, the repetition of the theories of our political opponents in some of these documents should not be read as an endorsement of their validity.
