The Honorable William Jefferson Clinton
President of the United States of America
The White House
Washington DC 20500

Dear Mr. President:

You have received a letter from J. Harold Chandler, Chairman, President & CEO of Provident Insurance Companies. I am proud to serve with Harold as a member of the Board of Directors of the National Organization on Disability (N.O.D.) Harold chairs NOD's CEO Council, a group of leaders of businesses, large and small, that stand behind the proposition: It's ability not disability that counts.

In Harold's letter to you (copy enclosed), he asks if you would be willing to meet at the White House with the members of the CEO Council to give momentum to the cause of expanding the employment of people with disabilities. In addition to you, NOD would hope that key members of the Administration would also speak at the meeting. I think the meeting would bring visibility and strengthen the impact of public-private effort that is so important in combating the 79% unemployment rate among people with disabilities.

In addition to Harold's letter, you also will find enclosed a copy of the CEO Council roster listed in this week's Business Week magazine in a donated public service ad. It features our NOD Vice Chairman Christopher Reeve. A copy of NOD's 1998 Annual Report is also enclosed.

Thank you, Mr. President, for your leadership and continuing concern for expanding the participation of people with disabilities in American life.

Very truly yours,

Tony Coelho

President William J. Clinton

Dear Mr. President:

Recently I accepted the position of Chairman of the CEO Council of the National Organization on Disability, on whose Board I am also proud to serve. The Council's purpose is to increase the employment of Americans with disabilities, a goal I know you share. Our membership consists of 100 CEOs of companies, large and small, all dedicated to the proposition that it's ability not disability that counts. The members are listed in the enclosed donated public service ad that has appeared in Business Week featuring N.O.D. Vice Chairman Christopher Reeve.

I write to ask if you would be willing to meet with our members at the White House. The purpose of the meeting would be to highlight and give momentum to a public-private strategy for attacking the 71 percent unemployment rate of Americans with disabilities. Your meeting with us would inspire the corporate world to further our common objective of increasing the participation of America's disabled in the workforce and thus to enhance their contribution to society.

Please be assured, Mr. President, that the National Organization on Disability and the CEO Council are prepared to work with your staff to ensure a successful and productive meeting.

With all good wishes,

Sincerely,

J. Harold Chandler

So, how exactly are they disabled?

There is a pool of talent that is grossly underutilized. An untapped source of natural problem solvers with a burning desire to use their abilities. That's why the National Organization on Disability founded its CEO Council. To give America's leading CEOs a platform to encourage fellow business leaders to harness the potential of these remarkable individuals.

The CEO Council helps fund the programs of N.O.D. Whether we are developing local voluntary disability projects or providing first-time work internships for teenagers with disabilities, our goal since 1982 has been the full and equal participation of people with disabilities in all aspects of life.

Dear Mr. President:

You have received a letter from J. Harold Chandler, Chairman, President & CEO of Provident Insurance Companies. I am proud to serve with Harold as a member of the Board of Directors of the National Organization on Disability (N.O.D.) Harold chairs NOD's CEO Council, a group of leaders of businesses, large and small, that stand behind the proposition: It's ability not disability that counts.

In Harold's letter to you (copy enclosed), he asks if you would be willing to meet at the White House with the members of the CEO Council to give momentum to the cause of expanding the employment of people with disabilities. In addition to you, NOD would hope that key members of the Administration would also speak at the meeting. I think the meeting would bring visibility and strengthen the impact of public-private effort that is so important in combating the 79% unemployment rate among people with disabilities.

In addition to Harold's letter, you also will find enclosed a copy of the CEO Council roster listed in this week's Business Week magazine in a donated public service ad. It features our NOD Vice Chairman Christopher Reeve. A copy of NOD's 1998 Annual Report is also enclosed.

Thank you, Mr. President, for your leadership and continuing concern for expanding the participation of people with disabilities in American life.

Very truly yours,
