^GOP candidate blames Hollywood for Colorado massacre<

NEWARK, Calif. (AP) GOP presidential hopeful Pat Buchanan said
the entertainment industry is partly to blame for filling the heads of
the young gunmen in the Littleton, Colo. massacre with violence.

``For what is happening in our public schools that didn't used to happen 30 years, I think Hollywood bears a measure of responsibility," Buchanan said late Friday after a speech to conservative activists here.

The Republican said that Eric Harris, 18, and Dylan Klebold, 17,
the apparent shooters, were devoid of moral values because the American Civil Liberties Union had worked to get prayer out of public schools.

``They were empty vessels," Buchanan said during the speech.

``And what was poured into those vessels? All the dreck of modernity," he said. ``All that Hollywood can produce in terms of raw violence

and sex and filth and all the rest of it.
``What happened in Littleton, Colorado was a product of that culture of death that we've got to resist," he said.
Asked after the speech what he would do as president to halt that, Buchanan offered no specifics, saying instead that he would use the power of the presidency to urge filmmakers to restrain themselves.
``As president, I think what you use is the bully pulpit to castigate those in Hollywood who are responsible for putting out this garbage and this ultra-violence and who have no restraint on what they do.
``Frankly, I think you should praise those folks in Hollywood who are doing good films, but those who are doing this sort of thing I think should be condemned from the bully pulpit, and I don't think the president of the United States has done that."
Buchanan didn't mention any films by name that he thought merited such praise or condemnation.
His fellow GOP candidate Steve Forbes echoed Buchanan's comments Saturday.

``I think (the massacre) just underscores how important it is that we revive our culture, take back our culture," Forbes said at a reception here. ``There's a lot of relativism out there today, a lot of anything-goes attitude, and that eventually hurts us all."

Like Buchanan, he said that ``a lot can be done from the pulpit
of
the White House of imparting a sense of integrity, honesty, dignity
and character." He didn't offer any specific proposals.

Buchanan and Forbes addressed the California Republican Assembly, a conservative arm of the state GOP. Three other conservative presidential candidates are scheduled to attend this weekend, including Alan Keyes, Gary Bauer and U.S. Sen. Bob Smith of New Hampshire. Bauer said Hollywood and other entertainment media played a contributing role in the massacre. "I think we've got a culture of death in the country," Bauer said later Saturday. "There's part of our culture music videos, video games, etcetera that large numbers of impressionable children are being exposed to." Bauer also said he would use the power of the presidency to "shame" media executives into curbing violence in their products.

CRIER: We talk about values, though, Pat, and certainly I understand. But it is so broad-based, people want answers now. What can be done to turn society around on a dime and start fixing these problems?

BUCHANAN: You
can't turn society around on a dime, and you can't turn a country
around on a dime.

CRIER: Then will people focus...

BUCHANAN: It's like an ocean liner...

CRIER: ... long enough to do it?

BUCHANAN: It's like an ocean liner. You can start turning the wheel, and it probably takes a huge arc of miles and miles and miles before you turn it around. Our society's been 30 years making up what happened out there at Columbine High School.

You start, I believe, Catherine, by taking God and the Ten Commandments and prayer and saying, Get all that out of the public schools, it's superstition, kids can do their own thing.

You got the attitude of the '60s generation coming in, saying, you know, drugs aren't bad, it's -- who are parents, who are teachers to tell us what to do? You develop that whole attitude, antiauthority, you celebrate natural-born killers, the antihero. You add it all into the mix, and then you get one or two people, and it's like a -- you know, it's a critical mass. It's like an atomic explosion. You run that rod in there, and suddenly it reaches critical mass and goes off. But this has been too long in the making. Let's not deceive ourselves that there's a get -- you know, a quick solution. You know, pass four more gun laws at the federal level, or say this to the teacher.

This is society's problem, it's very deep in us, and we all got to deal with it and look at the whole thing.

CRIER: Well, you say -- liberals say get guns out, right says put the Bible in. Is there any point of compromise, where we can actually look at some rational decisions from both sides?

BUCHANAN: Well, sure. Let me say this. The kids don't belong there with guns in schools. They don't belong there with knives in school. They don't belong there with brass knuckles in school.

Those kids violated 19 gun laws. So I don't think passing the 21st and 22nd law is going to do it. And putting a Bible -- just having a prayer in the morning, will that do it? Of course not.

It's -- you know, you got to take children, I believe, when they're taught from 2 and 3, 4, 5, 6 years old, with parents,
teachers, priests, pastors, rabbis, all working to create the human being and inculcate in him values, ideas, a moral code, teaching --
even that doesn't always work.

Allison --

Brian

Cullin (whom PJ replaced in our office) has requested a WH Group

Tour for Monday, July 19 for approximately 60 Columbine High School students (male/female lacrosse players), parent escorts and psychologists coming to Wash DC for a "break."

RADM Thomas J. Jurkowsky, Navy
Chief of Information (and Brian's boss), is sponsoring the group.

The
group will be staying in Annapolis and are getting special tours of the Capitol and the Smithsonian.

Possibility that Bruce Reed and/or the First Lady will meet with the group after the tour but Brian said they have been very non-committal as yet saying July 19 may as well be next year from a planning standpoint.

I know there are not usually ANY tours on Sundays or Mondays. Are there any exceptions?
Shall I call Brian for other possible dates that week?

You're welcome, just to let you know the Visitors Office felt awful that they couldn't accommodate them, they really wanted to but felt there was just too much on their plate, they were thrilled to offer the tour since the scheduled changed.

NATALIE: If you have any questions please email or call Jared Powell in the Visitors Office he can help you out.

TEXT_BODY

Written by a Columbine High School student:

The paradox of our time in history is that We have taller buildings but shorter tempers; wider freeways, but narrower viewpoints;

We spend more, but have less;
We buy more, but enjoy less.

We have bigger houses and smaller families;
more conveniences, but less time;
We have more
degrees, but less sense;
more knowledge, but less judgment;
more
experts, but more problems;
more medicine, but less wellness.

We
have multiplied our possessions, but reduced our values.
We talk
too much, love too seldom, and hate too often.
We've learned how to make a living, but not a life; we've added years to life, not life to years.

We've been all the way to the moon and back, but have trouble crossing the street to meet the new neighbor.

We've
conquered outer space, but not inner space;

We've cleaned up the air, but polluted the soul;
We've split the atom, but not our prejudice.

We
have higher incomes, but lower morals; We've become long on quantity but short on quality.

These are the times of tall men and short character;
steep profits and shallow relationships.
These are the times of world peace but domestic warfare; more leisure but less fun;
more kinds of food but less nutrition.

These are days
of two incomes but more divorce;
of fancier houses but broken homes.

It is a time when there is much in the show window and nothing
in the stockroom;
a time when technology can bring this letter
to you,
and a time when you can choose either to make a difference...

...or
to just hit delete.
