Dear Eduardo:

It was a wonderful opportunity for me to be a part of the Commencement Day program of the graduating class of 1994. I always enjoy speaking to the "Class of Hope" for tomorrow. In these students, the future is a brighter picture.

Never have I been received so warmly -- the sangria was the "crowning touch!!"

Thank you for the hospitality, the photographs and news clips. Also, thank you for the flowers. They always lift my spirits.

Congratulations on your Presidential appointment. You deserve it.

You have a standing invitation for lunch. Let me know when you are in Washington.

With very best wishes,

Sincerely,

Alexis M. Herman

Dear Esther and George:

Congratulations on your 50th wedding anniversary.

This is a tremendous milestone. You have nurtured each other all these years and your love has continued to grow and blossom.

I am sorry, however, that I cannot be with you on the 27th. I am sure that it will be a wonderful celebration.

A big hug.

Ms. Herman,

Certainly you will remember this moment in time. I feel much like Cleopas and his colleague must have felt when Jesus walked with them on the road to Emmaus and told them of nothing but Himself, and they recognized him not.

I hope you enjoy this picture and know that there is at least one graduate from Xavier University, class of 1994 who will never forget who the key note speaker was and the message she had to convey to the graduating class.

THE BICENTENNIAL INTERNATIONAL FLAG QUILT was made in 1976 by members of Welcome To Washington International Club in celebration of the 200th anniversary of the United States of America. It was the inspiration of Parvané Keith and Maggi Root, designed by Mary Andrews, under the leadership of President Jane Hart. The 100 flags represent the native countries of Welcome To Washington members from 1959 to 1976. The quilt was designed and sewn in ten months by 69 dedicated women and was intended to be a permanent reminder of Welcome To Washington's aspirations of world friendship and peace.

Re.: Recent Africa- Trip

Dear Friends,

thanks for all your prayers. My brother Ernst and I had a great time and felt the Lord's presence in many situations, some of them very difficult. In brief:

In Kenia

- Talks with Stephen Musyoka, Minister Foreign Affairs; Franklin Bett, State House; the Core Group with James Gitau and the others, including dinner in the presence of Jim Kielsmeyer and Deb. - President Moi was busy because of the IGADD (Intergovernmental Authority for Drought and Development) - summit.

- In Nairobi also joint personal and confidential meeting with the Presidents of Sudan and Uganda, which will be continued. We prayed together.

- In Nairobi also meeting with General Aidid and prayer.

In Uganda

- Time with President Museveni, prayer.

- Overnight and time with B.K. and family; great meeting with Mike and Laura and some of their team; visit German Ambassador.

In Rwanda

- Overnight in the residence of US- Ambassador David Rawson, great time with him and his wife.

- Time with President Habyarimana and prayer.

- Time with the closest brothers Enoch Rudigiera (who just lost his brother in law, murdered by terrorists) and Juvenal Renzaho.

- Visit German Ambassador.

In Burundi

Most difficult situation; day and night gunfire and detonations; during the two nights and one day in Bujumbura more than 50 people were killed in town alone; our friends can hardly leave their houses.

- Lunch with the new President Cyprien Ntaryamira, his wife and the President of the Parliament. They asked me to pray, as they are helpless in their situation.

- Dinner in the residence of the German Ambassador with those about seven friends who could dare to go out this evening, including Egide and former Prime- Minister Simbomana.

- Several hours talk with former President Bujoja and his wife. Prayer.

I feel that our friends there need us more than ever. Please let me know if you have deeper interest for more details. We experienced many miracles during those days. God is great!

Re: Information concerning our latest trip to Africa

Dear friends,

Together with Mr. Tappe M.P. and his wife, Mrs. Brudlewsky M.P., Mrs. Teufel, wife of our Prime Minister and her daughter, Mrs. Kauder, the wife of the Secretary General of the Christian Democrats, with my own wife and a few others I have been travelling. During the time in Rwanda and Uganda and for a one-day-visit in Burundi Mike and Laura Timmis were part of our delegation. We are grateful for all prayers. The results are like follows:

Kenya: Fellowship-meeting in the home of James Gitao with Stephen F. Mwangi, the Major of Nairobi, the German Ambassador and a few friends. We also met Bishop Kitonga at Redeemed Gospel Church and were able to contribute to their work there. During Sunday, August 1, 1993 we joined President Moi visiting the Pentecostal Church in Nairobi with a great service. In the afternoon we had a special reception through President Moi at State House. We also saw Stephen Musyoka, our friend, the Foreign Minister of the country.

Subject of the talks with Stephen Musyoka has mainly been a suggestion of President Museveni to go forward with a mutual initiative of East African Presidents concerning Somalia. There appears a possibility that President Moi, President Museveni and President Zenawi from Ethiopia will take a mutual step to contribute an African aspect. I am interested in talking with somebody responsible in the US, as all those Africans are in strong opposition to the way how General Aidid is presently persecuted. This is the opinion: Following the reasons which are mentioned to condemn Aidid one can arrest quite a number of Presidents in Africa and not only from Africa. Subject of my talks has also been the difficult relationship between the Presidents of Kenya and Uganda.

Burundi: Our hosts were mainly former President Buyoya and his wife Sophia. Together with the MP's and Mike and Laura Timmis I also visited the new President Melchior Ndadaye and some of his closest advisers. We started a good relationship with him and had prayer together. Next to our old friends Egide Nkuriyingoma, Nicodemus Nduhirubusa and all the others we met people from the new cabinet such as the Minister of Defense and a few others, the new President of the Parliament and the Leader of the opposition. A visit to the Sisters of Mutumba was also part of our program. It seems that democracy in Burundi is in a fragile situation. The country needs our prayers for inner peace.

Rwanda: President Habyarimana and his wife Agathe hosted us beautifully with a big feast including dancers and drummers and with many highranking friends and public dignitaries. A few days ago only the Arusha agreement to finish the war in Rwanda was signed. The President told us that his final call to the Rwandese people was a call for prayer and for cleansing their hearts and repending towards God. Juvenal Renzaho and Enoch Rudigiera have invited friends and our group to a very inspiring prayer breakfast in our hotel. This was a great experience for all of us and very moving. We also met orphans, refugees in a huge camp and a number of church projects. In Gisenyi, close to Goma/Zaire, we had a weekend retreat. We spent most of Sunday, August 8, 1993 in the home of Victor and Brigitte Ngzayo in Goma and had a wonderful time, but also got a deep impression of the very troubled situation of our friends in Zaire.

Uganda: This was finally the highlight of our trip. The President and Janet Museveni have invited our entire delegation to a big reception in the State House Garden in the presence of the Prime Minister and highest dignitaries of Uganda as well as the entire diplomatic corps of the country. A military band was entertaining us. The German Ambassador and many others are still wondering why in the world a delegation like ours would find such an attention. Janet Museveni took us up-country and showed us projects for orphans and for vocational training. A helicopter brought us back to Kampala. The finish was finally celebrated by a one-day excursion to Queen Elizabeth Park with the helicopter of the Ugandan Army. We saw many elephants. Beyond that I had extended time to personal talks with President Museveni, mainly concerning the initiative for Somalia, his relationship to President Moi and a visit of President Habyarimana to Kampala before the end of this month.

Outlook: President Habyarimana from Rwanda has announced that he is willing to come to Uganda before the end of this month. He is hereby following a suggestion which we made to him. The purpose is: After bloody war with many thousands of victims and one million refugees to open a new page in the history of the two countries. Prayers for this effort are seriously requested. We plan to open this state visit with a joined service in Kampala, with a bishop from Rwanda and a bishop from Uganda preaching.

The participation of Mike and Laura was of a great help. I hope that they can assist me when I come to Kampala for that meeting of the two Presidents.

Love, greetings and best regards,

Yours,

Dear Ms. Herman:

The greatest honor I received while in Washington was meeting you. I now see who is making our President look good. I endorsed (then) Governor Clinton, at a state-wide (Georgia) press conference in the heat of the Clinton - Bush race.

I hope you will forgive my aggression in taking pictures! I have had the enclosed photo blown-up (8x10) and framed. I am honored to have your picture on my office wall. I am also submitting the photo (over)

along with others (of the trip) to several place office magazines and newspapers (for Congressman Bishop). He treasures your long - standing friendship and I am also grateful for your kindness extended to him.

I admire and respect
you tremendously.

Your servant,

Ellis

Dear Ms. Herman:

I am sorry we were not able to meet at the White House on Monday as planned. Fritz Edelstein called your office but I did not know your assistant's name and we were not able to make the arrangements. I trust we will be able to meet on another occasion in the near future.

I was looking forward to meeting you in that my niece, Tiffany Comer, graduated from Xavier University on Saturday, May 14, 1994 and I heard your magnificent graduation speech. It was the most thoughtful, meaningful graduation speech I have ever heard...and I have given a few. It was exactly what our young people need to hear at this most critical and pivotal time. I would also like to share my concern that some of our most needy African American young people are not likely to be greatly helped by some of the reform efforts taking place across the country despite the very important establishment of Goals 2000 and other legislation.

Again, I hope we will be able to meet in the near future.

Dear Alexis,

It was an honor and privilege to meet you and to share with President Clinton as well as pray for him on the eve of America's National Day of Prayer.

As Chairman of America's National Prayer Committee (which provides encouragement and guidance to America's National Day of Prayer Task Force and its chairman, Shirley Dobson) let me thank you for your leadership in the White House and for helping to make possible our time with the President.

These are days of considerable challenge and unfortunate media assaults that no doubt add pressures to an already overwhelming task for President Clinton. We assure you of our prayers, not only for our President, but also for you and the many other staff who carry such heavy responsibilities.

May God bless you and those with whom you work.

Re: Gertrude Rush Dinner

Dear Ms. Herman:

Your office communicated to me that you would be unable to attend the National Bar Association's 14th Annual Gertrude Rush Dinner on April 9, 1994 because of a scheduling conflict. Your staff indicated your availability for the following week. Unfortunately, this dinner is held in conjunction with our Mid-Year Meeting, which is planned at least one year in advance.

We really would have liked for you to be present so that the National Bar Association could recognize you for your hard work, dedication, brilliance and pioneering spirit. Prior to the conclusion of my term as President of the National Bar Association, I would like to find a way to recognize you for your achievement.

Very truly yours,

It was nice to see your beautiful picture in the Birmingham NEWS, but it was sad to read about your run of bad luck. I was just thinking about you only a few minutes before I picked up the evening news! (The Lord moves in strange ways!) I wanted to call you while I was there but didn't have your office number and could not reach Dr. Height to get it from her.

Hoping that you are doing better, considering your accidents and maybe I'll get a chance to see you at one of our future USDA meetings. (I'll bring you some good chicken soup!)

Alabamians thrive in Washington despite administration's rocky road

By Michael Brumas

News Washington correspondent

WASHINGTON — Alabama native Alexis Herman is one of the few top presidential assistants who survived the first year of the Clinton administration.

She wasn't fired, she wasn't reshuffled into some important-sounding but backwater post, and she didn't return to the private sector to cash in on her connections.

But the way her luck's been running lately, one might wonder whether she'll survive a second year.

Over the New Year's weekend, Ms. Herman, who was reared in Mobile, pulled the ligaments in her left knee while learning to ski at a Shenandoah Valley resort near Washington, D.C.

"I started sliding backwards down the hill, and they didn't teach me how to stop. I hadn't gotten that far in my lesson," she explained in a recent interview.

Two weeks later, while stepping into a jacuzzi for some hydrotherapy on her injured knee, Ms. Herman stumbled and broke her wrist.

"The good news was I saved the knee, but I also broke my wrist," she lamented.

Oval Office precaution

Last month, after a late-night meeting at the White House, Ms. Herman was on her way home when a car broad-sided the taxicab she was riding in. She was knocked across the rear seat of the taxi and into the door, breaking her other wrist and fracturing her hand in two places.

A final insult to injury occurred, she said, when they reached her condominium and taxi driver demanded his $5 fare.

On her first day back at work following several days of recuperation at home, Ms. Herman was called to the Oval Office for a meeting with President Clinton. All of the furniture had been moved out temporarily except for the president's desk.

"He joked that he had had everything removed because I was back and they didn't want to take any chances," she said.

Clinton also told her that she brings new meaning to "the comeback kid," a reference to Clinton's nickname during the 1992 campaign.

Building consensus

As assistant to the president and director of the White House Office of Public Liaison, the 46-year-old Ms. Herman is charged with trying to build a consensus for Clinton's programs among a wide range of interest groups.

She spent much of last year bringing business leaders and other key groups from around the nation to the White House for meetings with the president and his Cabinet on the administration's two top priorities — the $500 billion economic package and the North American Free Trade Agreement.

This year, the priorities are health care, welfare reform and anti-crime legislation.

In a speech to the Woman's National Demo-

Alexis Herman had some bad luck

PHOTOCOPY PRESERVATION

Joan Baggett received a promotion

cratic Club last week, Ms. Herman said she was surprised at the "misinformation and misconceptions" over the Clinton health care plan.

"I recognize that because the president's plan is the only plan that has come forward with the critical details, that certainly has left us more subject to criticism," she said. "We're not wedded to the details of the plan per se... but we are wedded to the core principles the president has outlined."

Those principles, she said, include universal coverage and a "shared responsibility" between employees and employers to pay for the plan.

Not only Alabamian

Ms. Herman is not the only top level White House official from Alabama who survived the rocky first year of the administration.

Joan Baggett, a native of Repton in Conecuh County, not only endured, she received a promotion. Originally hired as deputy director of the White House Office of Political Affairs, Ms. Baggett was named director last summer, following a staff shake-up in which then-director Rahm Emanuel was shifted into communications.

Her promotion, which also came with the title of assistant to the president, entitled her to an office in the West Wing of the White House, one floor above the Oval Office. She gave up a spacious, high-ceilinged office in the nearby Old Executive Office Building for a much smaller space in the West Wing.

But at the White House, where power is measured by proximity to the Oval Office, her new digs represent "much better real estate," she explained.

Like Ms. Herman, Ms. Baggett, who is 41, also had a memorable New Year's 1994. Her second child was born shortly before Christmas, and she spent part of December and January on White House version of maternity leave.

Thanks to computers, fax machines and mobile telephones, Ms. Baggett was able to do with her job from home, with occasional trips to the office.

"I got about 30 pages of fax per day, was the slow period," she said with a laugh.

Because 1994 is a non-presidential year, the White House political affairs office move into high gear in the coming month as president stumps for various Democrat dates around the country.

"We were doing a lot of strategy in the West Wing and the staff would work on drafts and I would be back. It was a lot better than having to do a lot," she said.

Asked if Clinton would get involved in Alabama gubernatorial race this year, Ms. Baggett said the White House usually doesn't sides in a contested primary.

Gov. Jim Folsom and teacher-lobbyist Hubbert will face each other in the Democratic primary.

Folsom's success noted

While the White House would "work it" if he won the primary, said Baggett, she added that Folsom is doing a fine job as governor, particularly in light of his success in bringing the Mercedes-Benz plant to Alabama.

"The president was very impressed with being able to get Mercedes to come to Alabama," she said.

Clinton called Folsom at the time of his announcement to personally congratulate him.

"They've talked several times since Clinton has been there," she said.
