Dear Ms. Herman:

In December 1992, a group of Black business owners and leaders met in Atlanta, Georgia to discuss the needs of the Black business community in the United States. Two days of discussion and subsequent meetings led us to create two non-profit organizations dedicated to advancing the creation, growth, and expansion of Black business throughout the United States.

On Thursday, June 2, the National Black Business Council, Inc. (Council) and its affiliate, the Institute for the National Black Business Council, Inc. (Institute) will announce our formation to the nation, at the National Press Club, here in Washington, DC. The announcement at 11:00 a.m., will be followed by a luncheon at 12 noon, during which we will convene a panel discussion, "An Action Agenda for Black Business". We expect 150-plus business leaders, organization executives and government officials from across the country.

We would be honored if you would join us to make brief remarks, about the ways in which the Black business community can work with the Administration to enhance the participation and growth of Black firms in a global economy. We are aware that your busy schedule may not allow you to spend much of your time with us. If your schedule permits, however, we would be honored to have you join us for lunch.

By augmenting the work of existing black business organizations, we will educate the Black business community across the country on the current policy and legislative issues and aggressively lobby Congress. We are accomplishing these goals through an alliance of our member organizations and businesses, creating a well informed and influential network of Black business people who are concerned about business development and opportunities in our nation and throughout the world.

The Institute conducts timely research on relevant issues that impact Black business, educational programs that enhance our ability to compete, and will establish an electronic clearinghouse to share information for and about Black business development.

The time is now for Black businesses and organizations to work together with the Administration to aggressively pursue opportunities that will increase our position in the domestic and global economies. We hope that you will join us June 2nd and look forward to working with you and your staff on innovative approaches to enhance the contributions of Black and other minority firms to the economy of our nation.

We will contact your office next week to receive your reply.

NATIONAL BLACK BUSINESS COUNCIL, INC. 1994 - 1995 HIGHLIGHTS OF PLANNED PROGRAMS AND ACTIVITIES

MISSION

The National Black Business Council, Inc. (NBBC) is a 501(C)(6) non-profit organization that was created to develop a national alliance of Black business and economic development organizations and Black business owners. This alliance will be a catalyst for the participation of the Black business community in the Federal policy and legislative process and work in partnership with the public and private sectors to conduct programs and activities that support the advancement, creation, growth and expansion of Black owned enterprises. The NBBC will also serve as an advocate for Black business development in the public and private sectors. As Black enterprises grow, jobs will be created for urban communities across the country and lead to more economically viable families and safer neighborhoods. The NBBC created an affiliated organization, the Institute for the National Black Business Council, Inc., a 501(C)(3) organization to conduct research, education programs and maintain a clearinghouse for information.

PLANNED PROGRAMS, ACTIVITIES AND BENEFITS

The NBBC will conduct a variety of programs and activities that will support our mission. Specifically, the NBBC will monitor Federal policy and legislative activities that will have an impact on Black businesses, advocate for the interests of Black businesses in the private and public sectors, keep our members apprised of important developments in the world of business, solicit their input on issues of concern and draft position papers for dissemination to appropriate policy makers and legislative officials. The NBBC will conduct educational programs designed to enhance the management capabilities of Black business owners and managers, inform them of industry trends and opportunities and expose them to successful entrepreneur role models. The NBBC will also disseminate valuable information through its newsletter, electronic bulletin board and legislative alerts.

The NBBC is identifying corporate partners and businesses that share our commitment and concern for the condition of our nation's urban communities and who share our view that Black business development will make a significant contribution to our nation's economy. To carry on its vital work, the NBBC needs financial and in-kind support for operations and programs. Listed below are the planned programs and activities for which the NBBC is soliciting support.

OFFICIAL PUBLIC ANNOUNCEMENT, LUNCHEON BRIEFING AND VIDEO TELECONFERENCE - THURSDAY, JUNE 2, 1994

The NBBC will host its official public announcement on Thursday, June 2, 1994 in Washington, D.C. at the National Press Club. A morning program and ceremony will be conducted to brief the press on the mission of the NBBC and its upcoming planned activities, with participation by key business leaders and corporate strategic partners. Following the briefing, Black business owners, organization leaders, corporate and foundation supporters and congressional leaders, will be invited to a luncheon and panel discussion with prominent Black business leaders to discuss "An Action Agenda for Black Business".

NATIONAL BLACK BUSINESS LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE

The NBBC will host a two day meeting of the leadership of Black business organizations from across the country in November of 1994 in New York City. The purpose of the conference will be to provide a forum for organizational and business leaders to share information on priorities, issues of concern that impact the development, growth and expansion of Black owned enterprises, legislative priorities, innovative and successful initiatives and document the national agenda for Black business development. Day two will focus on organizational development workshops on such topics as resource and fund development, strategic organizational planning, team building/joint ventures and board development. A summary report will be developed for distribution to all participants.

QUARTERLY LEGISLATIVE BRIEFINGS AND WORKING GROUPS

The NBBC will host quarterly legislative briefings on Capitol Hill and across the country to provide a forum for Black business owners and organizational leaders to be kept abreast of policy and legislative initiatives that will have impact on the business environment in which these firms operate. The briefings serve as a catalyst for Black business involvement in the Federal policy and legislative process and will prepare Black business owners and leaders to effectively participate in the NBBC Annual Legislative Conference to be held in Washington, D.C. in the Spring of 1995.

Our first Legislative Briefing was held March 11, 1994 in Washington, D.C. in conjunction with the Minority Business Summit sponsored by the U. S. House of Representatives, Subcommittee on Minority Business, Finance and Urban Development. A dynamic presentation on the National Information Infrastructure (also known as the Information Superhighway) was made by Mr. John Winston, Executive Director of the Office of Small Business Assistance of the Federal Communications Commission and Bruce Gamble, Staff Director and Counsel for the Subcommittee on Minority Business made a presentation on the status of Federal Procurement Reform. More than fifty representatives of national black business organizations and corporate minority business programs participated and legislative working groups are being formed to develop position papers on these issues.

Our schedule for our legislative briefings for the remainder of 1994 follows:

June, 1994	Los Angeles, California
September, 1994	Washington, D.C. in cooperation with the Congressional Black Caucus Weekend
November, 1994	New York City - in conjunction with our National Black Business Leadership Conference

The Institute for the National Black Business Council, Inc. hosts Legislative Working Groups that operate as mini Think Tanks, bringing business owners, organizational leaders and corporate executives with expertise in a particular industry or sector together to analyze policy and legislative initiatives and develop strategies for Black business development.

Policy and legislative priorities include but are not limited to:

- ◆ Health Care Reform
- ◆ Information Superhighway
- ◆ Federal Procurement Reform
- ◆ Enterprise/Empowerment Zones
- ◆ Community Reinvestment
- ◆ 8(a) Reform

QUARTERLY NEWSLETTER AND LEGISLATIVE ALERTS

The quarterly newsletter will contain articles on the latest policy and legislative issues that will impact small and minority businesses, information on business opportunities, business technology and innovation, "how to" information on business management strategies and business conferences and events. The legislative alerts will inform constituents of timely policy and legislative activities.

BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT ASSISTANCE

The NBBC offers its members assistance in identifying resources and business opportunities that will help them to grow their businesses. Referrals to local public and private sector technical assistance programs, sources of capital, identification of prospects for joint venture, teaming, merger, domestic and international business opportunities, publications, government agencies, trade, professional associations, business professionals and consultants are provided to members. This program also offers assistance to its members and corporate supporters in identifying suppliers with special capabilities and potential joint venture, teaming and mentor/protégé relationships. The NBBC will periodically publish Business Opportunity Alerts and distribute to members.

ANNUAL LEGISLATIVE CONFERENCE AND DINNER

The NBBC will host a legislative conference to provide a forum for Black business leaders and owners to convene to discuss issues of concern and current legislative and policy initiatives. Participants will attend workshops to be updated on vital legislative initiatives and their impact on the Black business community. Prepared to articulate the positions of Black business on current legislative issues, business leaders and owners will schedule meetings with Congressional representatives to articulate our views and specific proposals. The conference will be a catalyst for the voice of Black business to be heard on Capitol Hill. The conference will culminate with a Legislative Awards Dinner where awards will be presented to Congressional leaders, organizations and individuals that have been ardent supporters of legislation that fosters Black business development.

DISCOUNT PROGRAM FOR BUSINESS AND CONSUMER PRODUCTS AND SERVICES

The NBBC will offer discounts on business and consumer products and services through its members and corporate supporters. To date, we have negotiated discounts on telecommunications services and equipment, computer equipment and business publications.

MEMBERS AND CORPORATE SUPPORTERS TO DATE

To date, the NBBC has a membership of approximately 2,000 individual members through its five affiliate organizations: the Alliance of Business Leaders and Entrepreneurs of Chicago, Black Business Association of Memphis, the Greater Harlem Chamber of Commerce, the M.E.N.T.O.R. Network of Los Angeles and the Washington Convention and Visitors Association. Many organizations have expressed a commitment to join our alliance and include national organizations that represent bankers, investment companies, corporate professionals, communications, high tech and contracting firms and local business leagues, chambers, trade and professional organizations. April and May are our membership recruitment months and we expect to substantially expand our membership.

AT&T is a founding corporate strategic partner and has donated $100,000 and office space for operations. Philip Morris Companies sponsored our first Legislative Briefing. Crestar Bank has also made cash donation and Amtrak has provided in-kind support. A Black owned computer firm is donating personal computers for operations.

STUDENT INTERNSHIP PROGRAM

The NBBC sponsors a student internship program for high school, undergraduate and graduate students to work for the NBBC as research assistants, editorial assistants, information specialists and business assistant specialists. Students learn first hand about business and legislative issues and gain exposure to successful role models.

SPECIAL FORUMS AND GROUP MEETINGS

The NBBC will host special forums and meetings on specific topics for our CEO Circles made up of business owners and professionals at various stages of development in their enterprises or corporations. Topics will be developed by the circle participants and will meet the needs of our diverse constituency including, but not limited to BE 100 firms, emerging firms, young entrepreneurs and youth.

Dear Ms. Herman:

The Maryland/District of Columbia Minority Supplier Development Council (MSDC) is pleased to announce that it will be holding its 1994 Spring Business Conference & Expo on Thursday, June 2, 1994 at the Omni Shoreham Hotel, 2500 Calvert Street, NW, Washington, DC 20008.

Our day will begin at 7:30 a.m. with the ribbon cutting ceremony marking the beginning of our Expo. At 12:00 noon, we will break for lunch.

On behalf of the Board of Directors and Staff of the MD/DC MSDC, I would like to take this opportunity to invite you to be our Guest Luncheon Speaker. Our theme is "BUILDING RELATIONSHIPS THROUGH ECONOMIC PARTNERSHIP". Your address, should you accept, will begin at 1:30 p.m.

Our 1993 Conference was highly successful. There were over 500 luncheon attendees, and our Expo had a combination of 90 Corporate and Minority Business Enterprise (MBE) boothholders. We look forward to a bigger and better Conference this year.

In addition to our Expo and Luncheon, we will be holding a Professional Services Forum and Hard Hat Hours to address non-traditional procurement opportunities for our MBE constituents.

As you can see, our 1994 Spring Business Conference & Expo will feature many new and exciting events. It is our hope that you will be able to join us.

We look forward to your participation, please call the MSDC office and advise us of your availability.

Sincerely,

Dear Ms. Herman:

The Washington Post will sponsor "Super Sale '94", a one day shopping extravaganza featuring new and used donated items. Super Sale benefits the Nina Hyde Breast Cancer Research Center at Georgetown University Medical Center which designer Ralph Lauren and Katharine Graham, Chairman of the Executive Committee of The Washington Post Company co-founded.

An invitation-only preview cocktail buffet will be held on Friday, June 3, at 7:30 p.m., at the Renaissance Hotel at 999 9th Street, NW. Super Sale, also held at the Renaissance, will be Saturday, June 4, and is open to the public in two sessions, from 10 a.m. to noon and from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m. You will receive an invitation in May.

We are all very excited that Ralph Lauren, Donna Karan and many other international designers and clothing manufacturers have agreed to help us again.

Last year we raised over $375,000 for research and we hope to top the million dollar mark in total funds raised in only four years, but we need your help.

Please look around your house; in your closets, basements, attics, anywhere you may have things that are perfectly useable and saleable, but for one reason or another are not being put to good use. We'd also like you to consider donating your favorite suit, dress, blouse, tie, shirt, belt, costume jewelry, table linens, housewares, art, children's clothes, toys, and anything you're proud to own.

Obviously, your treasured possessions will sell faster and at a higher price, so keep them in mind as you spruce up for spring. You should also keep in mind that nothing is too large or too small, too new or too old, too little or too much, and that THIS SALE IS NOT LIMITED TO CLOTHES, WE WILL TAKE ANY SALEABLE ITEM(S) YOU HAVE TO CONTRIBUTE. It need only be clean and in good condition.

To make it convenient for you, The Washington Post will pick up any donations beginning immediately, but we'd like to have donations no later than April 30 as it is a tremendously tedious and time-consuming job to price and sort merchandise. Please call Damien Brouillard at (202) 334-7969 to arrange the most convenient date and time for you. You may also call Linda Erdos at (202) 334-7970 for assistance or information. Receipts for these tax-deductible items will be available at the time of pick-up.

All monies raised go to breast cancer research at the Center. Dr. Marc Lippman is executive director of the Lombardi Cancer Research Center (of which the Hyde Center is part) at Georgetown. He is an internationally recognized expert in breast cancer research and formerly directed breast cancer research at the National Institutes of Health.

Nina Hyde was The Post's fashion editor for 17 years. She died of breast cancer five years ago in May. We are committed to continuing her valiant fight to educate women about early detection and to continue the research that will one day find a way to prevent breast cancer. With your help, we know we can do it. We look forward to hearing from you, and thank you for your generosity.

Sincerely,

FACT SHEET

For the fourth year in a row, The Washington Post will sponsor SUPER SALE, a one day shopping extravaganza featuring new and used quality donated goods. The sale will be held this year on Saturday, June 4, at the Renaissance Hotel in Washington, D.C.

There will also be an invitation only Preview and Supper Buffet held on Friday evening, June 3, before the sale for the general public on the following day.

Designers who have supported the sale by donating merchandise include Ralph Lauren, Oscar de la Renta, Donna Karan, James Galanos, Emanuel Ungaro, Todd Oldham and Angela Cummings. Organizations include Anne Klein and Anne Klein II, Ellen Tracy, Gucci, Gitano, A/X Armani Exchange, The Gap and the Carlisle Collection.

Since its inception in 1990, SUPER SALE has raised over three quarters of a million dollars for breast cancer research, and The Washington Post is hopeful that the amount raised will greatly surpass the million dollar mark this year.

SUPER SALE honors the memory of the late Nina Hyde who for 17 years was The Washington Post's fashion editor. She died of breast cancer four years ago. The sale raises money to continue breast cancer research at the center which was co-founded by Ralph Lauren and The Post in her honor in 1989.

No donation can be too large or too small. Donations can include new merchandise, samples, accessories, licensed products and whatever else you have to donate.

Please call Linda Erdos at (202) 334-7969 to discuss your donation, or to receive more information or assistance. Receipts will be provided for all tax-deductible donations. Donations should be sent to:

Dear Alexis:

On behalf of Dave Mathis, Kemper Corporation's Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, I want to extend to you and a guest a personal invitation to join him at the annual Kemper Corporation Dinner on Friday evening, June 3, held in conjunction with the Kemper Open Golf Tournament. This year, we are pleased that the event will take place in the newly restored Great Hall of the Library of Congress. It's a good opportunity for our senior management to have the opportunity to meet you both and for you to enjoy with us an evening of entertainment and lively conversation.

Please let me know if you will be able to attend. We all hope to see you on June 3rd.

Sincerely,

Thomas M. Boyd

MAY 24 1994

Dear Ms. Herman:

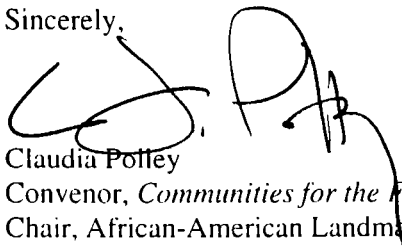

With this letter I would like to bring to your attention a symposium that will be held in Washington June 3-4 1994. This gathering of individuals concerned with the past, present and future of African Americans will be the first time that many of us will have joined together to coordinate our efforts in accomplishing what proves to be a formidable task -- that of preserving the best of African American heritage in and of the United States.

This symposium, which will be the first of three held around the country, grew from the Neighborhood Revitalization roundtable held in Little Rock in January 1993. In attendance at that meeting and a subsequent gathering in Washington in May 93 it seemed to me that, rather than waiting on the government to offer solutions to problems many of us outside of Washington see as most pressing in our fields of endeavour, we should seize the opportunity to come together and work together with our respective financial, social, and physical resources to maximize our efforts so nobly offered. As you see from the list of co-presenters, a number of people and organizations think this is a good idea and one we have committed time and money to bring to fruition.

This is late for getting on your schedule but I hope you will be able to find time to visit with us as we pursue our objective. Having seen the President last weekend in Indianapolis (an old friend from the McGovern campaign and elsewhere) it seems the best thing I can do as his friend who believes as he does that each American must assume personal responsibility for America's future, is make this forum work. As this circle of responsible friends grows, so will our chance for a better America. Please join us.

If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to contact me in Indianapolis at 317-266-0074 or in Washington from the 31st on at the National Trust for Historic Preservation, 202-673-4000. I'll be pleased to speak with you at your earliest convenience.

Sincerely,

Claudia Polley

No longer just the saving of pretty buildings, historic preservation has taken on a far broader mandate as we rapidly approach the 21st century. This expanded mission includes "people renewal" in the revitalization efforts of urban and rural communities across this country. History teaches us no matter how new or nice or prominent we make a building, if people do not think themselves important, they have even less respect for where they live and work. This focus on the preservation of African American heritage must be an essential part of all efforts in public and private sectors, crossing the increasingly-blurred lines between housing, healthcare, economics, education, criminal justice, arts and culture, tourism and many other fields where people and their positive perception of themselves is mandatory for success. The symposium table will be seated with invited representatives of these varied fields all looking to accomplish the same goal, a better life in a better world.

Important to the past, present and future of America is the contribution made by its African American population. This first of what will be three symposiums will highlight the rich heritage that in spite of many obstacles, continues to give life to black America. They will focus on how the African American community looks back to its past to look forward to its future. Over the next year, these symposiums will present the obstacles to that shared goal, formulate solutions that work, and then see how the various groups represented at the table will begin to implement those solutions in their fields. Preservation is renewal. We hope you can join us.

COMMUNITIES FOR THE FUTURE:

Preservation of African American Heritage in the United States

- Who: 40 to 50 invited participants representing various organizations, public and private, active in the revitalization of America's African American communities. These participants will come from all over the United States and will be drawn from the fields of housing, education, healthcare, tourism, arts and culture, economics, criminal justice, as well as historic preservation.
- What: A working symposium where participants can bring to the table their stories of success and failure, and the solutions they believe can work. This coming-together should forge new partnerships between activists of various fields who many times duplicate efforts, unaware a similar program is already in existence. The two days to be spent allow participants time to think, and more importantly, time to act. Goals will be set for future meetings, scheduled now to take place in Boston in late October and in Indianapolis in spring 1995.
- Where: This symposium will take place in Washington, D.C. at the Charles Sumner School, 17th & M Sts., NW. A reception for all symposium participants and other invited guests will be held on Friday evening, June 3rd in the Board Room of the National Trust for Historic Preservation, 1785 Massachusetts Av., NW. Another evening event will be planned for Saturday evening.
- When: The symposium will take place on Friday June 3, 1994 and Saturday June 4, 1994. Hotel accommodations at the Doubletree Hotel Park Terrace, 1515 Rhode Island Av., NW will be provided for the nights of June 3rd and 4th.
- Why: Because we can little afford not to. The future is all of our concern.

TERMS AND CONDITIONS

DEFINITIONS

On this Airbill, we, air and we refer to Federal Express Corporation, its employees and agents, you and your refer to the sender, its employees and agents.

AGREEMENT TO SHIP

By giving us your package to deliver, you agree to all the terms on this Airbill and in our current Service Guide, which is available on request. If there is a conflict between the current Service Guide and this Airbill, the Service Guide will control. No one is authorized to alter or modify the terms of our Agreement.

RESPONSIBILITY FOR PACKAGING AND COMPLETING AIRBILL

You are responsible for adequately packaging your goods and for properly filling out the Airbill. Omission of the number of packages and weight per package from this Airbill will result in a billing based on our best estimate of the number of packages received from you and an estimated "default" weight per package, as determined and periodically adjusted by us.

THE TRANSPORTATION TAX INCLUDES

Our basic rate includes a Federal tax required by Internal Revenue Code Section 4271 on the air transportation portion of this service.

LIMITATIONS ON OUR LIABILITY

AND DAMAGES NOT ALLOWED

Our liability for loss or damage to your package is limited to your actual damages or $100, whichever is less, unless you pay for and declare a higher authorized value. We do not provide cargo liability insurance, but you may pay an additional charge for each additional $100 of declared value. If you declare a higher value and pay the additional charge, our liability will be the lesser of your declared value or the actual value of your package.

In any event we will not be liable for any damages, whether direct, incidental, special or consequential in excess of the declared value of a shipment, whether or not Federal Express had knowledge that such damages might be incurred including, but not limited to, loss of income or profits.

We won't be liable for your acts or omissions, including but not limited to improper or insufficient packing, securing, marking or addressing, or for the acts or omissions of the recipient or anyone else with an interest in the package. Also, we won't be liable, if you or the recipient violates any of the terms of our agreement. We won't be liable for loss of or damage to shipments of prohibited items.

We won't be liable for loss, damage or delay caused by events we cannot control, including but not limited to acts of God, perils of the air, weather conditions, acts of public enemies, war, strikes, civil commotions, or acts or omissions of public authorities (including customs and quarantine officials) with actual or apparent authority.

DECLARED VALUE LIMITS

The highest declared value we allow for FedEx Letter and FedEx Pak shipments is $500. For other shipments, the highest declared value we allow is $25,000 unless your package contains items of "extraordinary value," in which case the highest declared value we allow is $500. Items of "extraordinary value" include artwork, jewelry, furs, precious metals, negotiable instruments, and other items listed in our current Service Guide.

If you send more than one package on this Airbill, you may fill in the total declared value for all packages, not to exceed the $100, $500 or $25,000 per package limit described above. (Example: 5 packages can have a total declared value of up to $125,000.)

If more than one package is shipped on this Airbill, our liability for loss or damage will be limited to the actual value of the package(s) lost or damaged (not to exceed the lesser of the total declared value or the per package limit described above). You have the responsibility of proving the actual loss or damage.

FILE A CLAIM

ALL CLAIMS MUST BE MADE BY YOU IN WRITING. You must notify us of your claim within strict time limits. See current Service Guide.

We'll consider your claim filed if you call and notify our Customer Service Department at 800-258-5355 and notify us in writing as soon as possible.

Within 90 days after you notify us of your claim, you must send us all relevant information about it. We are not obligated to act on any claim until you have paid all transportation charges, and you may not deduct the amount of your claim from those charges.

If the recipient accepts your package without noting any damage on the delivery record, we will assume that the package was delivered in good condition. In order for us to process your claim, you must, to the extent possible, make the original shipping cartons and packing available for inspection.

RIGHT TO INSPECT

We may, at our option, open and inspect your packages prior to or after you give them to us to deliver.

NO C.O.D. SERVICES

NO C.O.D. SERVICES ON THIS AIRBILL. If C.O.D. Service is required, please use a Federal Express C.O.D. Airbill for this purpose.

RESPONSIBILITY FOR PAYMENT

Even if you give us different payment instructions, you will always be primarily responsible for all delivery costs, as well as any cost we may incur in either returning your package to you or warehousing it pending disposition.

RIGHT OF REJECTION

We reserve the right to reject a shipment at any time, when such shipment would be likely to cause damage or delay to other shipments, equipment or personnel, or if the transportation of which is prohibited by law or is in violation of any rules contained in this Airbill or our current Service Guide.

MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE

In the event of untimely delivery, Federal Express will, at your request and with some limitations, refund or credit all transportation charges. See current Service Guide for further information.

Since its founding in 1976, the Levine School of Music has become a major cultural force in our nation's capital and one of the country's leading non-profit community schools of music. Levine has gained a national reputation based on a dual commitment to Excellence and Accessibility in all of the many quality arts education programs that it offers. These principles have become the standard to which all of its 3,500 students, 98 teachers, 15 administrators and hundreds of volunteers strive for everyday.

The principles of Excellence and Accessibility permeate Levine's educational programs which include ongoing music instruction, dynamic masterclasses and residencies with such artists as the Canadian Brass, Sweet Honey in the Rock, Wynton Marsalis and China's foremost living composer, Jin Xiang. The Levine School of Music is accredited by the National Association of Schools of Music and is a member of the Cultural Alliance of Greater Washington, and the National Guild of Community Schools of the Arts.

Every year the Levine School invests more than 10% of its annual operating budget in community programs aimed at providing access to music programs for children in economic need. Through a Major Access Initiative, supported by the Lila Wallace Reader's Digest Fund, the Levine School will dramatically increase its commitment to these programs by investing $2 million in scholarships over the next six years.

The School honors the memory of Selma M. Levine, a prominent Washington attorney and passionate amateur musician, whose belief in music's capacity to nourish the human spirit forms the cornerstone on which the School is built, and on which it thrives.

Dear Ms. Herman:

Tina Flournoy of Philip Morris suggested you may be interested in participating in the Stennis Center's fourth annual Southern Women in Public Service: Coming Together to Make a Difference conference June 5-7 in Tampa, Florida. This bipartisan conference has become one of the most significant gatherings of women from 13 Southern states who are committed to increasing the impact and involvement of women in public service leadership.

We would like very much to have you on the program for this important event. Confirmed keynote speakers include National Women's Political Caucus President Harriett Woods, former U.S. Secretary of Labor Lynn Martin, U.S. Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals Judge Martha Craig Daughtrey, Florida Supreme Court Chief Justice Rosemary Barkett, and University of South Florida President Betty Castor.

Equally impressive are the concurrent session speakers we are assembling for workshops on topics of interest to women in public service. These workshops are tailored to women in power and women who want to help others achieve high leadership positions in government. Some of the speakers at this year's workshops include Meg Armstrong, founder of Women Executives in State Government; Lois DeBerry, Tennessee House of Representatives President Pro Tem; Mary Landrieu, Louisiana State Treasurer; Carole Leland, Senior Fellow at the Center for Creative Leadership; Liz Patterson, former U.S. Representative from South Carolina; and Alex Sink, president of NationsBank of Florida.

The Third Annual

SOUTHERN

WOMEN IN PUBLIC SERVICE

Coming Together to Make a Difference

May 2-4, 1993  Atlanta, Georgia

Welcome to the most significant gathering yet of Southern women who are committed to improving the participation of women in public service leadership at the local, state, and federal levels.

Southern Women in Public Service: Coming Together to Make a Difference is the third annual conference for women leaders who want to impact the political system.

The John C. Stennis Center for Public Service and Mississippi University for Women are committed to increasing the numbers of women in government leadership as a means of improving the quality and character of government in America. While women comprise more than 50 percent of the U.S. population, they hold less than 10 percent of the 535 seats in the U.S. Congress. In the federal government, 11 percent of senior executives are women. Only 22.2 percent of statewide elective executive offices across the country are held by women. Seven of the 10 states which rank lowest in percentages of women state legislatures are in the South; none of the Southern states are in the top 10.

Our interest in improving opportunities for women in government leadership goes beyond numbers. We believe our country needs the talent, energy, integrity, intelligence, commitment, perseverance and courage that women bring to government leadership. We fail to nurture leadership in half our citizens at great peril to our nation.

The most recent election brought unprecedented gains for women at all levels of government. Women are more involved in politics than ever before. The challenge before us is to continue this momentum to ensure a brighter future for all Americans. Thank you for being a part of this historic effort in Atlanta as we seek together to strengthen public service in America by promoting women in leadership positions.

Ann Bedsole was the first Republican woman elected to the Alabama legislature, where she is currently serving her third term as state senator. She chairs the Agriculture, Conservation, and Forestry Committee and is a member of the Education, Judiciary/Criminal, and Interim Budget Committees. Senator Bedsole is also chair of the board of Alabama Forest Resources Center. Her leadership was instrumental in the passage of legislation in 1990 to establish a state high school of mathematics and science in Mobile. Senator Bedsole's many honors include the Montgomery Advertiser and the Alabama Journal's 1991 Meritorious Public Service Award, the Alexander Calder Conservation Award, the Outstanding Achievement in Forestry Legislation Award, and honorary doctorates of law from Huntingdon College and Mobile College.

Leslie Byrne was elected to the 11th Congressional District seat in the northern Virginia counties of Fairfax and Prince William on November 3, 1992. Representative Byrne burst onto the political scene in 1985 with her upset victory over an entrenched incumbent member of the Virginia House of Delegates. Voters of the 38th district have since returned Byrne three times to the legislature, each time by a commanding margin. In her third term, the Richmond Times Dispatch called her one of the 10 new leaders of the General Assembly. Last year, while gaining recognition as a force behind Northern Virginia's interests, her colleagues elected her Sergeant at Arms, a caucus leadership post. Byrne was ranked 28th most effective of the 100 delegates in a 1991 statewide poll, up 27 places from 55th over a single term. This year she became the first non-lawyer in history to be appointed to the prestigious Courts of Justice Committee. She is a ranking member of the Finance Committee and holds seats on the Cities, Counties and Towns Committee and the Chesapeake and Its Tributaries Committee. As president of the Fairfax Area League of Women Voters, Byrne was instrumental in averting development in the ecologically sensitive Occoquan watershed. She is co-founder and president of Quintech Associates Inc., a project-based consulting firm serving the high-tech community around Washington, D.C.

Lois DeBerry, Speaker Pro Tempore of the Tennessee House of Representatives, has served in the Tennessee General Assembly since graduating from Lemoyne-Owen College in 1972. Speaker DeBerry's tenure in office has been characterized by her devotion to children's and youth issues-- including day care, adolescent development, education, criminal justice reform and economic development. She is affiliated with many local and national organizations, including the executive committees of the National Conference of State Legislatures and the National Black Caucus of State Legislators. Speaker DeBerry is a founder and chairperson of the Tennessee Black Caucus of State Legislators' annual retreat and has received many awards for leadership, scholarship and public service.

JimmieLou Fisher is serving her fifth term as Arkansas State Treasurer. She is a former president of the National Association of State Treasurers, vice president for the Southern Region of the National Association of State Treasurers, and treasurer of the National Association of State Auditors, Comptrollers, and Treasurers, as well as a former vice chairman of the Arkansas Democratic State Committee and former member of the Democratic National Committee. Treasurer Fisher is secretary of the State Board of Finance and a member of the boards of directors of the Arkansas State Highway Employees Retirement System and the State Election Commissioners. The National Federation of Democratic Women honored her with the Outstanding Democratic Woman Elected Official Award.

Glenda E. Hood recently was elected Mayor of Orlando, Fla. She was the former City Commissioner. She also currently serves as president of the National League of Cities. She is a White House appointee to the U.S. Trade Representative's Intergovernmental Policy Advisory Committee and was appointed by the Governor to the Florida Advisory Council on Intergovernmental Relations. Hood served as chair of the Florida Chamber of Commerce, the first woman chairperson in the organization's 75-year history. Her community service activities include serving as founder and former chair of the Foundation for Orange County Public Schools. She is the recipient of numerous awards, including "Women of the Year" by the American Business and Professional Women's Organization. Hood received her B.A. degree from Rollins College and completed study at Harvard University's Executive Program for Senior Executives in State and Local Governments.

Barbara Jordan was a member of the U.S. House of Representatives from 1972 until 1978, after serving six years in the Texas Senate. Since 1982, she has held the Lyndon B. Johnson Centennial Chair in National Policy at the Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs at the University of Texas. Ms.

Jordan serves on the boards of directors of the Mead Corporation, Texas Commerce Bancshares, Inc., the Federal Home Mortgage Loan Corporation, Burlington Northern Inc., and the Henry J. Kaiser Family Foundation and was a founder of People for the American Way. In addition to 29 honorary doctorates, her numerous awards include induction into the National Women's Hall of Fame, the Texas Women's Hall of Fame, the Harry S. Truman Public Service Award, the Charles Evans Hughes Gold Medal of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, and the Eleanor Roosevelt Humanities Award.

Mary Landrieu was elected Louisiana State Treasurer in 1987 -- the youngest woman, at that time, to hold statewide elective office in the United States. In the treasury, she has designed a new operational guide, helped revitalize the Louisiana Pension Commission, computerized treasury operations and appointed the first woman and the first minority to key executive staff positions in the department's history. During her tenure as state legislator, Treasurer Landrieu was an effective champion of the rights of women and children and the interests of minorities and the elderly. Her political leadership has been recognized by Esquire and U.S. News and World Report, in which she was lauded as one of America's "rising political stars."

Evelyn W. McPhail was recently appointed director of political education for the Republican National Committee. She had previously served as chairman of the Mississippi Republican Party. She was Mississippi delegation chairman to the 1988 Republican National Convention and in 1989 was chosen by her fellow chairmen to serve as chairman of the Southern Republican State Chairmen. In January 1991, Republican National Committee Chairman Clayton Yeutter appointed McPhail chairman of all state chairmen. A former secretary of the Hancock County (Mississippi) Republican Party and a member of the state executive committee, McPhail currently serves as the first vice president of the Mississippi Federation of Republican Women. She was appointed to the Commission on Presidential Scholars by President Reagan in 1982 and by President Bush in 1991.

Frances Jones Mills, Treasurer of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, began her political career in 1962 when she was elected to the Kentucky House of Representatives. She was the first woman and the first Democrat elected to that office from Knox County. In 1972, she won the post of clerk of the Kentucky Court of Appeals and served as president of the National Conference of Appellate Court Clerks. In 1976, she won her first term as State Treasurer. In 1980, Treasurer Mills became Secretary of State and in 1984 was elected to her second term as State Treasurer. She is the only elected official who has served in all three branches of Kentucky state government. Mills has twice been named outstanding alumna of her alma mater Cumberland College and is a member of the Business and Professional Women's Club and the Order of the Eastern Star, among others. She has also served as a delegate to four national conventions of the Democratic Party.

Sue Myrick recently completed serving two terms as Mayor of Charlotte, North Carolina, in 1989. A former Charlotte city councilwoman, Mayor Myrick serves on the board of directors of the North Carolina Highway Safety Foundation, the President's Affordable Housing Commission and the Advisory Board of the U.S. Conference of Mayors. She is co-chair of the U.S. Conference of Mayors' Task Force on Hunger and Homelessness and vice-chair of the National League of Cities'

Transportation Committee. A member of the boards of directors of Sisters Cities International and of the International Women's Forum, Myrick has chaired U.S. Conference of Mayors' delegations to Israel, Taiwan and the International Conference on the Environment. Among her awards are Who's Who of Women in World Politics, Who's Who in America, Who's Who of Women Executives, Who's Who of Advertising, and Who's Who of Emerging Leaders in America.

Elizabeth J. (Liz) Patterson

has established herself as a career public servant who has dedicated many years to improving life for her community, state and nation. She recently completed six years of service in the U. S. Congress, where she distinguished herself as one of the strongest voices calling for deficit reduction and federal budget reform. She served as chair of the Conservative Democratic Forum's Budget Reform Task Force and as a member of the Speaker's Task Force on Budget Reform. Prior to her service in Congress, Patterson served as a member of the Spartanburg County Council and the South Carolina State Senate. During her seven years in the Senate, she received acclaim for the political arena. Patterson worked in the Public Affairs Division of the Peace Corps during its first few years of existence. She also has worked for VISTA and as Head Start coordinator for the South Carolina Office of Economic Opportunity. She holds a degree from Columbia College and has done graduate work at the University of South Carolina.

Georganna T. Sinkfield was elected to the Georgia House of Representatives in 1982 and serves on the Education, MARTOC, and Appropriations Committees and chairs the Children and Youth Committee and has been recognized for the major role she played in retaining funding for children with special needs, a program now in 142 school systems. She was elected as the first female chair of the Georgia Legislature Black Caucus for 1993-1995. Sinkfield was appointed by Gov. Joe Frank Harris to serve on the State Chapter II Advisory Committee. She also serves on the state task force Turning Points, Georgia Partnership for Excellence in Education, recently became a member of the Southern Regional Education Board's Health and Human Services Advisory Commission and also chairs the Georgia Democratic Party Delegate Selection Affirmative Action Committee. Her honors include Delta Sigma Theta Fraternity Award, Council of Children "Friend of Children Award," SCLC Drum Major for Justice Award in Government, NAACP Distinguished Service Award and numerous other community and civic awards. Representative Sinkfield received a B.S. degree in biology from Tennessee State University and attended Emory University School of Law.

KEYNOTE SPEAKERS

Jeanie R. Austin was first elected co-chairman of the Republican National Committee in 1989. As co-chairman, Austin actively works to build the party from the grassroots level. Traveling to nearly every state and numerous foreign countries, she has addressed candidates, state and local party organizations, the Republican auxiliaries, foreign dignitaries and business groups on such varied topics as grassroots politics, minority outreach, fund raising and fundamental Republican principles. As an advocate for increasing the role of women in the Republican Party, she regularly addresses Republican women's organizations and developed "Women Who Win," a seminar designed to recruit women candidates aggressively. Prior to her election as co-chairman, Austin was elected state chairman for the Republican Party of Florida—the first woman to hold that position since the party's inception. She is listed in Who's Who in American Politics and Who's Who of American Women. In addition, she was twice named "Woman of the Year" by the American Business Women's Association and has been recognized by Orlando College with an honorary doctoral degree.

ous other honors are the first AMVETS Auxiliary National Humanitarian Award, the Eleanor Roosevelt Centennial Award, the National Housing Conference's Housing Person of the Year Award, the National Advertising Research and Education Institute's American Woman Award, the Distinguished Service Award to the Republic and numerous honorary degrees from colleges and universities throughout the United States. Mrs. Boggs retired from Congress in 1991 and is currently vice chair of the Stennis Center for Public Service Training and Development.

Corrine Brown was elected to the U. S. Congress from Florida, November 3, 1992 and is a member of the Committees on Public Works and Transportation, Veterans' Affairs and Government Operations. First elected to the Florida House of Representatives in 1982, she was re-elected four times, serving ten years. Previously, she was a member of the faculties of Florida Community College of Jacksonville, the University of Florida and Edward Waters College. A leading proponent for Florida's growing elderly population, Representative Brown, while in the Florida Legislature, was named Legislator of the Year by the Florida Association on Housing for the Aging and by the Jacksonville Association on Fire Fighters. She served as a consultant to the Union Correction Institute, to the Jacksonville Drug Abuse programs and to the Governor's Committee on Aging. Governor Bob Graham appointed her to serve on the Manpower Training Council representing Florida women, and former Jacksonville Mayor Thomas Hazouri appointed her to serve on the Mayor's Committee on Housing and Urban Development. She also served as a board member for the HELP Center and as a member of the Just Say No to Drugs Committee.

Corinne (Lindy) Claiborne Boggs was the first woman elected to the U.S. House of Representatives from Louisiana and, in 1976, the first woman to chair a national political convention. Mrs. Boggs also has the distinction of being the first woman to serve as a regent of the Smithsonian Institution and to receive Tulane University's Distinguished and Outstanding Alumni Award and the Congressional Award of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Among her numer-

Representative Brown received B. S. and M. S. degrees from Florida Agriculture & Mechanical University and an education specialist degree from the University of Florida and an honorary doctor of laws degree from Edward Waters College.

Rosalynn Carter, former First Lady, has been a driving force in the field of mental health throughout her public service career. As active honorary chair of the President's Commission on Mental Health during President Carter's administration, she helped bring about passage of the Mental Health Systems Act of 1980. Today, she continues her leadership through The Carter Center in Atlanta, which is dedicated to improving quality of life for people at home and in the developing world through programs in health, agriculture, and conflict resolution. Mrs. Carter is a member of The Carter Center Board of Trustees. In 1985, she initiated the Rosalynn Carter Symposium on Mental Health Policy, which brings together representatives of mental health organizations nationwide to focus and coordinate their efforts on key issues. The Task Force on Mental Health Policy, based at The Carter Center of Emory University and chaired by Mrs. Carter, works year-round to sustain the momentum of the symposia and to unify professionals in various mental health disciplines. Mrs. Carter has received many honors and awards for her support of mental health causes, including Volunteer of the Decade Award from the National Mental Health Association, the Dorothea Dix Award from the Mental Illness Foundation, and the Outstanding National Leadership Public Service Award "Making the Most of the Rest of Your Life."

Johnnetta B. Cole assumed the presidency of Spelman College in 1987. The first African American woman to head this historically black college for women, Dr. Cole has helped to lead Spelman into the ranks of America's outstanding colleges. Dr. Cole entered Fisk University in an early admissions program at the age of 15, completed her undergraduate degree at Oberlin College and earned an M.A. and Ph.D. in anthropology from Northwestern University. During her 30-year career as an anthropologist, professor, administrator, author, researcher and lecturer, Dr. Cole has been an advocate for people of color and women everywhere. Early in 1993, she completed an extensive nationwide booksigning tour for her latest best-selling book, Conversations, which speaks directly to African American women. Widely known as a leader, Dr. Cole, in December 1992, was appointed as a member of President Bill Clinton's Transition Team as Cluster Coordinator for Education, Labor and the Arts and Humanities. She is a member of the Business Higher Education Forum and was appointed by President Bush to serve as a founding director of the Points of Light Foundation. She is active in numerous professional and civic organizations and was recently the first woman elected to the Coca-Cola Enterprises board of directors. Dr. Cole has been included in the acclaimed photography exhibit and book I Dream A World: Portraits of Black Women who Have Changed America, honored as a Woman of Distinction by the National Association for Black Women Deans, Administrators and Counselors and named one of the 100 most influential people in Georgia. She was named one of America's most outstanding African Americans in the 20th anniversary issues of both Essence and Black Enterprise magazines. Dr. Cole has received numerous honors and awards, including honorary doctorate degrees from 21 major colleges and universities. Some of her media appearances include "Nightline," "Good Morning America," the premiere of "Saturday Night With Connie Chung," "All Things Considered," and "Eyes on the Prize II."

Ruth B. Mandel is a professor at the Eagleton Institute of Politics at Rutgers University and director of Eagleton's Center for the American Woman and Politics (CAWP). She writes and speaks widely about women and leadership, with particular emphasis on women as political candidates, women in office, women's political networks and the "gender gap." Her book In the Running: The New Woman Candidate describes women's experiences campaigning for political office. In 1984 she was executive producer of Not One of the Boys, a 60-minute film created by CAWP to document the progress women are making and the obstacles they encounter as they enter political life. Mandel oversees the Eagleton Center's work with women public officials, has co-directed a national research program to study the impact of women in public office, and is developing summer institutes and programs to interest young women in political leadership. As a political analyst and observer of emerging trends in leadership, Mandel appears frequently on radio and television and has been interviewed on national network programs such as "The Today Show," "Good Morning America" and "Nightline."

Lynn Martin became Secretary of the U.S. Department of Labor in 1991, following a 10-year career as a U.S. Representative Congress from Illinois. She was the first woman elected to a leadership post in Congress, having served as vice chair of the House Republican Conference. She served on the House Rules, Armed Services, Public Works and Transportation Committees and as Ranking Member of the House Budget Committee. Over the past several years, she has been one of the leaders of the Republican Party. Her speech nominating George Bush for President at the 1992 convention was called "brilliant" by ABC's Peter Jennings. "Nightline's" Ted Koppel called Martin one of the most skilled politicians in the Republican Party. Martin's recognition of America's changing demographics led her to champion the Glass Ceiling Initiative. She argues that America cannot afford not to take advantage of the full talents and resources of all Americans. Many in corporate America have followed her lead by committing their organizations to ensuring increased opportunity for minorities and women. Lynn Martin is one of the most visible commentators on the economy and politics, via television, radio and newspapers. She is a frequent guest on "Nightline," "Good Morning America," "This Week with David Brinkley," CNN's "Crossfire," and "The Larry King Show." She is a regular commentator on American Public Radio's "Marketplace." She is currently a fellow at Harvard University's Institute of Politics and is on the board of directors of several major American corporations.

Cynthia Ann McKinney, U.S.

Representative from the 11th District of Georgia, became Georgia's first African American congresswoman, after being elected in November 1992 with 75 percent of the vote. She is currently the only woman serving in Georgia's congressional delegation. From 1988 to 1992, McKinney served in the Georgia House of Representatives, where she worked on civil rights issues and gained notoriety as an untiring champion for fair reapportionment in Georgia. In 1984 she worked as a Diplomatic Fellow at Spelman College. She also taught political science at Clark Atlanta University and, most recently, at Agnes Scott College. McKinney served on the board of the HIV Health Services Planning Council in Metro Atlanta, and she is a member of the National Council of Negro Women, the NAACP and the Sierra Club. She received her undergraduate degree in international relations from the University of Southern California and is a Ph.D. candidate in international relations at Tufts University's Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy.

Zell Miller was elected the 79th Governor of Georgia in 1990. As Governor, he has initiated a progressive agenda that is bringing efficiency to the state's bureaucracy, creating new jobs, improving education and securing Georgia's position as a leader of the New South. during his first year in office he cut the state's budget by $618 million, eliminated 5,000 unneeded positions and was able to balance the budget without a tax increase. A

Marine Corps veteran, Miller holds a master's degree in history from the University of Georgia and has taught political science and history at several colleges and universities. Governor Miller began his political career in 1958 when he was elected to the Georgia State Senate where he served with Jimmy Carter who, in 1972, named him executive director of the Democratic Party of Georgia. In 1974, Miller was elected Lieutenant Governor, a post he held for 16 years.

Harriett Woods was the first woman elected to statewide office in Missouri, where she was Lieutenant Governor from 1985 to 1989. Most recently, she was elected president of the National Women's Political Caucus at the group's 20th anniversary convention. Woods was Distinguished Practitioner and president of the Institute for Policy Leadership at the University of Missouri-St. Louis from 1989 to 1991. She attended the University of Chicago and graduated from the University of Michigan. She is a former Fellow of the Institute of Politics at Harvard University's John F. Kennedy School of Government.

John C. Stennis Center for Public Service Training and Development

STENNIS
Center for Public Service

Created by Congress in 1988 with the mission of promoting and strengthening service to the nation, the John C. Stennis Center for Public Service is committed to building a firm foundation for America's future. In the spirit of its namesake, the Stennis Center for Public Service seeks to build a better America by equipping a more responsive and more capable force of elected and appointed government workers.

Attracting the best and brightest students to careers in public service is foremost in the Stennis Center's mandate. Creative and courageous leadership will be required to maintain America's strength and vigor. Capable and committed men and women will be needed to lead the way as America encounters an increasingly complicated and competitive world.

The Stennis Center is also charged with the task of providing training and development opportunities for people in the prime of their public service careers. Recognizing that many fail to reach their full potential, Congress has called on the Stennis Center to enhance the performance and capabilities of local, state and federal government leaders.

Finally, members of Congress recognized a growing need to provide their own staffs with better development opportunities. Therefore, the Stennis Center is directed to equip Congressional staff to perform their duties more effectively and efficiently.

As an independent agency within the legislative branch of the federal government, the Stennis Center is governed by a board of trustees appointed by the Democratic and Republican leaders in the United States Senate and the United States House of Representatives. The distinguished board members include William E. Cresswell, chairman; Lindy Boggs, former U.S. Representative from Louisiana; Mike Espy, U.S. Secretary of Agriculture; Mark Hatfield, Senator from Oregon; Sheila Smith, community leader; William Winter, former Governor of Mississippi; and Rex G. Buffington II, Executive Director.

Mississippi University for Women...and smart men, too!

Established in 1884, Mississippi University for Women is the first public college for women in America. Since a 1982 U.S. Supreme Court decision, the university likes to call itself "Mississippi University for Women...and smart men, too!" Although now coeducational, the university has as a special part of its mission the preparation of young women for success in every aspect of life.

Affectionately known as "The W," the university has a track record among America's best. From Pulitzer Prize-winning author Eudora Welty to nationally recognized research scientist Elizabeth Lee Hazen, "W" alumnae are the best documentation of the university's success at giving women a special edge.

Along with Duke, Emory, Vanderbilt and Florida State universities, MUW ranks in the top 30 Southeastern colleges and universities in the number of women graduates who go on to earn doctorates. At a 1991 national Wingspread conference in Racine, Wisconsin, "The W" was selected as one of 20 "model colleges," providing "exemplary undergraduate education." In recent years, enrollment has increased over a fourth, four times the Mississippi higher education system average and 15 times the national estimates.

With 24 buildings on the National Register of Historic Places, "The W" campus is one of the region's most architecturally distinguished and has been nominated as a National Historic Landmark.

CONFERENCE HISTORY

1991 Conference: April 21-23 in Jackson, Mississippi

The first Southern Women in Public Service: Coming Together to Make a Difference conference in Jackson, Mississippi brought together women in elected and appointed government positions from five Southern states: Alabama, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, and Tennessee. Women from all levels of government, including state legislators, mayors, judges, local officials, and agency directors, were among the more than 200 attendees focusing on ways to improve opportunities for women in public service. Some of the featured speakers were Judy Mann, columnist for The Washington Post and author of Mann for All Seasons: Wit and Wisdom; Harriett Woods, president of the National Women's Political Caucus; and Sally Helgesen, author of The Female Advantage.

1992 Conference: May 21-23 in Nashville, Tennessee

Building on the success of the first conference, the Stennis Center expanded the conference in 1992 to include 11 states. Over 450 outstanding women leaders from Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Texas attended the second annual conference in Nashville, Tennessee. It was highlighted by Nancy Kassebaum, U.S. Senator from Kansas; Ellen Goodman, Pulitzer Prize-winning columnist of the Boston Globe; Kathryn Whitmire, former Mayor of Houston, Texas; and Lindy Boggs, former U.S. Representative from Louisiana.

1993 Conference: May 2-4 in Atlanta, Georgia

The 1993 Southern Women in Public Service: Coming Together to Make a Difference conference in Atlanta featured former First Lady Rosalynn Carter and Lindy Boggs as honorary co-chairs. Nearly 500 top women leaders from across the South participated in workshops ranging from political fundraising and campaign strategies to communicating effectively with the media and understanding leadership styles. Keynote speakers included Johnnetta Cole, President of Spelman College; Lynn Martin, former U.S. Secretary of Labor; Zell Miller, Governor of Georgia; and Jeanie Austin, Co-Chairman of the Republican National Committee.

*Southern Women in Public Service:
Coming Together to Make a Difference*

1993 Conference Highlights

Women are coming forward in increasing numbers to assume positions of leadership at the local, state and federal levels of government. The Stennis Center for Public Service recognizes the role women are playing in improving the quality and character of government in America and is serving as a catalyst for bringing more women into government leadership at all levels.

Former First Lady Rosalynn Carter and former U.S. Secretary of Labor Lynn Martin headlined the third annual Southern Women in Public Service: Coming Together to Make a Difference conference, held May 2-4, 1993 in Atlanta. The meeting attracted nearly 500 women leaders across the South from state and local government, the private sector, academia, the media, and the federal government who discussed ways to increase the impact and participation of women in public service.

Lindy Boggs, former U.S. Representative from Louisiana and the first woman to chair a national political convention, served with Mrs. Carter as the co-chair of the conference. Mrs. Boggs is a symbol of the achievements of Southern women in politics and was hailed as an inspirational role model.

BREAKING THE GLASS CEILING

Despite recent gains, Secretary Martin made it clear to the participants that women still face obstacles to advancement in elective politics and in civil service. "The glass ceiling is an invisible barrier, but you can see it. If we are going to say in America that opportunity is attainable and merit matters, then the glass ceiling must be broken," she said.

Women hold less than 10 percent of the 535 seats in the U.S. Congress. They account for about 1 in 10 senior federal executives. While the number of women in government at all levels has grown dramatically, women remain clustered in lower-paying jobs that offer little chance for advancement. Seven of the 10 states which rank lowest in the percentage of women in state legislatures are in the South; none of the Southern states are in the top 10.

IMPROVING THE QUALITY AND CHARACTER OF GOVERNMENT

The goal of the conference is to improve the quality and character of government at the local, state and federal levels by bringing more women into leadership positions. Rex Buffington, executive director of the Stennis Center, said, "Our interest in improving opportunities for women in government leadership goes beyond numbers. Our country needs the talent, energy, intelligence, commitment, perseverance and courage that women bring to government leadership."

Harriett Woods, president of the National Women's Political Caucus, encouraged women to be actively involved in politics to bring about change. "We need women to throw their hats in the ring, at every level and for every power position," she said. "They must see that they don't need anyone's permission but their own and they must really understand why taking the time for political involvement can determine whether they sit in the back of the room or at the head of the table."

The group also heard from Johnnetta Cole, president of Spelman College in Atlanta, who linked leadership to empowerment. She told them, "To know ourselves is to empower ourselves. If we are to empower women for service, then we must provide education that will fuel women for true leadership. Leadership is at the core of service to others." Recognizing the economic and social value of diversity, she declared, "As a nation, we will never reach our full potential until we draw on the talents, the sensitivities, the just plain smarts of all of our people."

Other keynote speakers were Jeanie Austin, co-chairman of the Republican National Committee, Corrine Brown, U.S. Representative from Florida; Ruth Mandel, director of the Center for the American Woman and Politics at Rutgers University; Cynthia McKinney, U.S. Representative from Georgia; and Zell Miller, Governor of Georgia.

SKILL-BUILDING WORKSHOPS

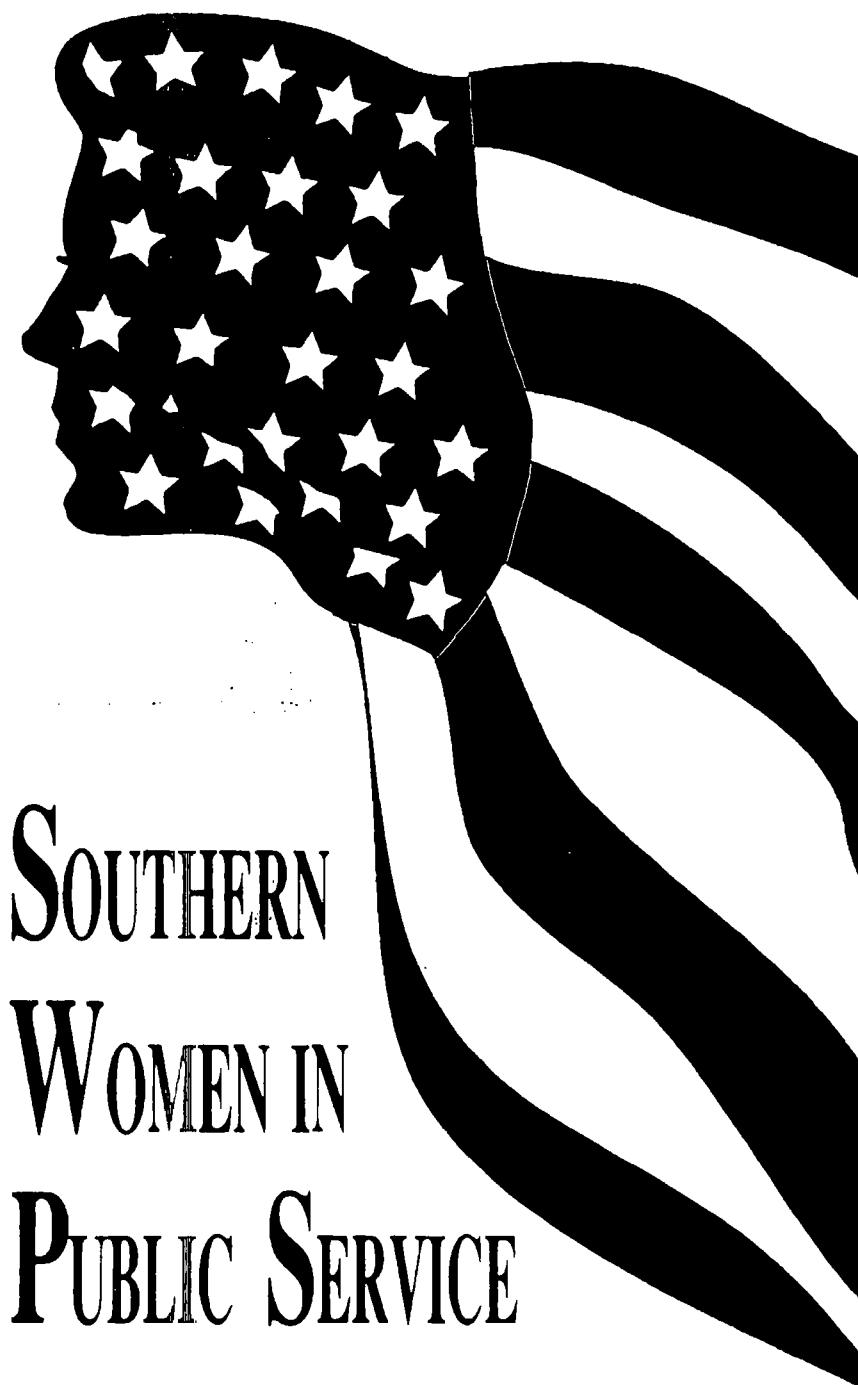

The conference gave participants an opportunity to learn new skills and ideas in a workshop setting. The workshops focused on topics such as running a winning campaign, discovering your leadership style, positioning for political appointments, improving public speaking skills, communicating effectively with the media, and others.

Some of the nation's most experienced and respected women leaders facilitated these workshops, including Meg Armstrong, the founder of Women Executives in State Government; Kathy Ashe, Georgia State Representative; Camille Barnett, city manager for Austin, Texas; Barbara Blackmon, Mississippi State Senator; Lois DeBerry, Speaker Pro Tempore of the Tennessee House of Representatives; Dee Ertukel, director of development for EMILY's List; Jimmie Lou Fisher, Arkansas State Treasurer; Mary Landrieu, Louisiana State Treasurer; Anne Mackenzie, majority leader of the Florida House of Representatives; Frances Jones Mills, Kentucky State Treasurer; Sandra Mortham, minority leader of the Florida House of Representatives; Anne Northup, Kentucky State Senator; and Liz Patterson, former U.S. Representative from South Carolina.

The conference was an overwhelming success in drawing attention to the contributions women are making to government and in providing the impetus and the means for moving more women up the ladder of government leadership. Women of all political stripes with diverse backgrounds and varied experiences unified around the idea that together we can strengthen public service in America by promoting women in leadership positions.

Perhaps Jeanie Austin, who has spent much of her life working at the grassroots level encouraging and preparing women for active public service, best expressed the spirit of the conference when she told the participants, "We have come a long way and we are not there yet, but we are on our way."

MAY 23 1994

Dear Ms. Herman:

Enclosed is a very special invitation. A beloved leader in the American Jewish community, Miles Lerman, will be presented with the first State of Israel Bonds Freedom Award at a national event on Sunday, June 5 at 6:30 p.m. at the Sheraton Washington.

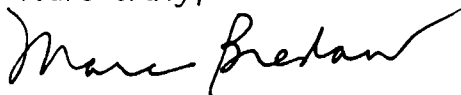

Miles' 40 years of devotion to the Bonds organization and his outstanding leadership of the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum (USHMM) will be recognized with the inauguration of the latest scholarly initiative on the American-Jewish scene.

As the Museum's director of development, I encourage you to be a part of this historic launch of a special endowment to create the Miles Lerman Center for the Study of Jewish Resistance at the research institute of the Museum.

Scholars of the Holocaust recognize that without the story of Jewish resistance, the history of the Holocaust is incomplete. In response, a spirit of cooperation between Israel Bonds and the USHMM has brought these two landmark organizations together in this endeavor.

It is to the benefit of future generations that the role of Jewish resistance take its rightful and honorable place in Holocaust studies that are now becoming a part of the curricula in schools throughout the country. Your presence at this event will be a fine example of the commitment of this nation's leadership to telling the story in its entirety.

Yours truly,

Marc Breslaw
Director of Development

P.S. Please note that the location and time of the event have changed. I hope to see you on June 5 at 6:30 p.m. at the Sheraton Washington.

Miles Lerman Center for the Study of Jewish Resistance

There is a pervasive myth surrounding the events of the Holocaust. There are some who charge that Jews went to their death like sheep to the slaughter. At times, it even leads to the victims being blamed for their own victimization.

This view is widely held not only in the non-Jewish community but within the American Jewish community as well. It persists among adults and students of all grades and ages. The question of Jewish responses to the Holocaust is one of the most frequently asked questions by visitors to the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum.

The fact is that Jews were the first to rise against the Nazi oppressors. Jews fought in the ghettos -- not only in Warsaw -- Jews revolted in the death camps, Jews fought as partisans in every country occupied by Nazi Germany. The myth that Jews went like sheep to the slaughter must be debunked.

The need for sustained and serious research and for the production of serious educational material -- books, teaching aids and films -- on the subject of Jewish resistance during the Holocaust has never been greater. The generation that fought the Nazis, partisan fighters and resistance participants, is aging rapidly. New material is available in newly opened archives in Eastern Europe and the liberation of Soviet Jews and their resettlement in Israel and elsewhere now permits historians to gather testimony from more participants in and eyewitnesses to resistance than ever before.

Therefore it is proposed that the United States Holocaust Research Institute, the academic wing of the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum, establish a Research Center for the Study of Jewish Resistance During the Holocaust to be named in honor of Miles Lerman, former partisan fighter in southern Poland. This would be a most fitting and meaningful tribute to Miles for his lifelong commitment to the cause of remembrance.

The Center would have three main functions: collection of testimony, documentary evidence and other raw material for research, support for research using these materials and others already in the collections of the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Museum, and the dissemination of knowledge through publications and public programs. Specifically, the activities of the Center will include:

Collection of Raw Materials:

- Oral Testimonies
- Archival Documents, memoirs and other written evidence
- Other material (photographs, artifacts) as may be available

Support for Research:

- Scholar-in-Residence
- Post-Doctoral Fellow
- Dissertation Fellow

Dissemination of knowledge

- Publications: Books, monographs
- Film Production
- Educational Material and Curricula Components
- An Annual Lecture at the Museum

An endowment of $5 million is necessary to provide approximately $250,000 annually to support the above described programs.

General Dwight David Eisenhower, Supreme Allied Commander of the Allied Forces in Europe, was a principle architect of the invasion of Normandy — D-Day — June 6, 1944. This day symbolizes the historic moment when the people of Europe found new hope for their eventual release from the tyranny of Nazi Germany.

As the Allied Forces under General Eisenhower's command moved through the European Theater, the innocent victims of Nazism were liberated — among them the tens of thousands of prisoners in concentration camps.

General Eisenhower visited several of the camps soon after liberation. In numerous public venues he described his personal revulsion and shock at the enormity of the crime — now known as the Holocaust. So that others would understand this unspeakable atrocity, he ordered countless people — including thousands of American soldiers and their commanders — to visit the camp sites and bear witness.

The United States Holocaust Memorial Museum dedicates the Dwight David Eisenhower Plaza in tribute to his leadership and the extraordinary courage of the members of the Allied Forces. Fifty years later we fittingly remember those who lost their lives under Nazi tyranny as well as those who sacrificed their lives in the defense of freedom Duke's Players ($500 per ticket) will attend the Wonder for Ellington Concert.

Duke's Chairs & Duke's Players are invited to rendezvous after the Wonder for Ellington Concert at a Cabaret with Karen Akers, dancing, and cocktails at B. Smith's Restaurant in Union Station.

Duke's Chairs & Duke's Players will receive a T-shirt and a Twentieth Anniversary Program.

Valet Parking will be provided at the Ellington School. Shuttle bus service will be available for transportation from the Ellington School to B. Smiths Restaurant..

A NATIONAL CENTER FOR THE ARTS IN EDUCATION

This benefit may seem expensive to you but this is a special and uncommon time for the Duke Ellington School of the Arts. DESA is one of the great success stories in American education and is poised to become a national center so that it can be replicated throughout the country. But first we must make Ellington all that it can be. DESA has a student body of 500 students, sixty percent of whom come from very needy families. Thirty percent of the students matriculate with reading abilities ranging between the third and seventh grade levels. Despite these obstacles, ninety-two percent of the graduates are accepted into colleges. We must be able to help them actually attend.

DESA has a leaky roof, not enough teachers, not enough instruments, broken toilets, and kids without art supplies or ballet shoes. Yet the graduates keep getting better. On this Twentieth Anniversary of the Duke Ellington School, please dig deeper and try harder to help as much as you can. Our kids have overcome so much they deserve to receive our full embrace.

DICK GRIFFEY
CHAIRMAN OF SOLAR RECORDS / HINES COMPANY

For almost three decades, Dick Griffey, Chairman of Solar Records / Hines Company has accomplished great things in the entertainment world. He is not only the founder and principal owner of Solar Records, the largest African American owned record company but, he has most recently succeeded in developing the Hines Company, which is the first African American owned distribution company.

Dick Griffey began on his road to success as owner of a successful nightclub in Los Angeles. This venture would eventually lead him into concert promotions under the company Dick Griffey Productions, which would earn him the much deserved title as one of the most prominent African American promoters in town. His list of clients included such celebrities as The Jackson 5, Stevie Wonder and Aretha Franklin.

Not content with these achievements, Dick Griffey became talent coordinator for the nationally syndicated television dance program, "Soul Train". This venture became so successful that in 1975 Dick Griffey and the show's producer, Don Cornelius, went on to form Soul Train Records. Dick Griffey branched off to form the Solar Records label in 1977.

Dick Griffey is responsible for helping to create such megatalents as songwriters/producers Jimmy Jam and Terry Lewis, Reggie and Vincent Calloway, L.A. Reid and Babyface and Leon Sylvers, as well as platinum artists like The Whispers, Shalamar and Midnight Star, to name a few.

His most current venture, the Hines Company, promises to surpass any accomplishments that Dick Griffey has had in the past. Already boasting a roster of several dozen independant labels, he is determined to have the Hines Company become one of the world's major distributors. With his past track record, there is no doubt that he will reach this goal.

While most people can only dream of major accomplishments, for Dick Griffey they are already a reality. He is still a young man and with his drive and ability, a lifetime of accomplishments must lie ahead.

MAY 17 1994

The Honorable Alexis Herman
Assistant to President and Director of
Office of Public Liaison
Old Executive Office Building
The White House
Washington, DC 20500

Dear Alexis:

Over the past several years, the Joint Center for Political and Economic Studies has been conducting a study of "Community-Based Responses to the Problems of Young Black Males." During the time of our study, the issues surrounding these young men have increasingly received attention from the media and from policymakers. However, most of the discussion has focused on the problems and not enough time has been devoted to identifying effective solutions.

On Monday, June 6, 1994, the Joint Center will hold a conference that examines community programs serving young black males in six major metropolitan areas of the United States--Atlanta, Boston, Cleveland, New Orleans, Oakland, and St. Louis. The meeting will be held at the Grand Hyatt Hotel, 1000 H Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. from 8:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. At that time, we will release a summary of findings from our survey of over 250 program directors in these cities. Other panels will focus on the challenges and opportunities that the directors face in carrying out their responsibilities and methods that can be used to expand support for these initiatives. A draft agenda is enclosed.

I hope that you will be able to join us at the conference on June 6. A response form is enclosed and you can return it by mail or by fax. If neither method is convenient, please call Glynda Featherstone at (202) 789-3531 to RSVP.

Sincerely,

Eddie

THE NATIONAL COUNCIL OF FARMER COOPERATIVES BOARD RECEPTION

The National Council of Farmer Cooperatives board reception will be held on June 7, 1994, 5:30-7:00 p.m., at the Walsh-Reckord Hall of States in the National Guard Memorial.

The Memorial, home of the National Guard Association of the United States, was designed by an award-winning architect and maintains the true Federalist architecture of its neighboring buildings. In the rotunda, a bronze Minuteman Statue, which symbolizes the National Guard's roots in colonial America, welcomes you to the Memorial.

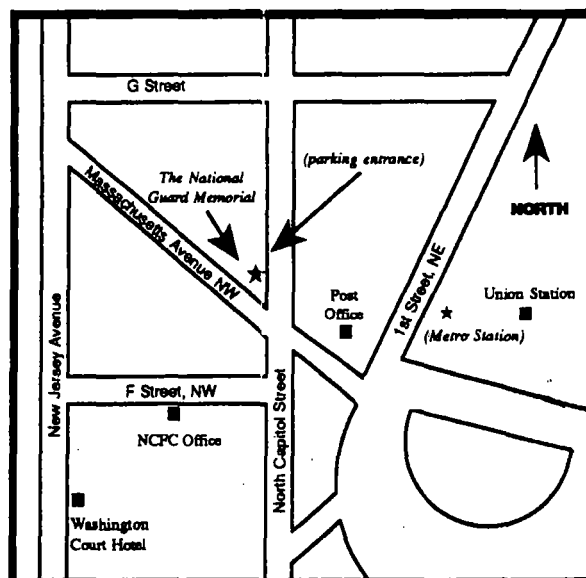

At the entrance to the Walsh-Reckord Hall of States is the Medal of Honor Gallery — an impressive round room that honors the heroism of National Guard members who have been awarded the Medal of Honor. The gallery includes a state-by-state Honor Role of National Guard Recipients, dioramas depicting events for which the Medal of Honor was awarded, and a display case of Medals of Honor.

The Walsh-Reckord Hall of States — symbolic of the National Guard's state-federal partnership — provides a dramatic backdrop for this reception. It was dedicated in September 1991 to the memory of two 20th century heroes of the National Guard — Major General Ellard Walsh from Minnesota and Lieutenant General Milton Reckord from Maryland.

Dear Elected Officials and Government Representatives:

As you know last year Operation HOPE Los Angeles (OHLA) held a successful Bankers Bus Tour drawing more than 175 senior bankers, bank regulators, elected officials and members of the media. Last year we focused on the business accomplishments of the preceding 12 months. This year we want to focus on residential lending as a key component of community economic development.

We are writing to invite you to join event Honorary Chairs U.S. Senators Dianne Feinstein and Barbara Boxer, and Dr. Cecil "Chip" Murray, Senior Pastor, First A.M.E. Church, at our 2nd Annual Bankers Bus Tour, scheduled for June 8th, from 10:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m.

This year's tour will focus on the attractive, pride of ownership, inner city Los Angeles residential communities, and how these viable and opportunity rich markets for lending can be a significant catalyst for urban renewal and community building. Confirmed attendees for this year's tour already include Dean Schultz, President, Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco; John Robinson, Regional Director, Office of Thrift Supervision; Steven K. Scholzen, Deputy Regional Director, FDIC; Robert Carmona, Key Review Examiner, FDIC; Linda Ortega, Community Affairs Officer, FDIC; Stasia Woods, Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco; and Julia Brown, Esq., Community Affairs Officer, Office of the Comptroller of the Currency.

You are also invited to attend a 9:00 a.m. press conference, prior to departure of the tour, during which OHLA will cut the ribbon for the Operation HOPE Vision Center (OHVC), our inner-city residential lending and educational empowerment center. The OHVC is a private/public partnership with Fidelity Federal Bank, First Federal Bank of California and First Republic Thrift & Loan.

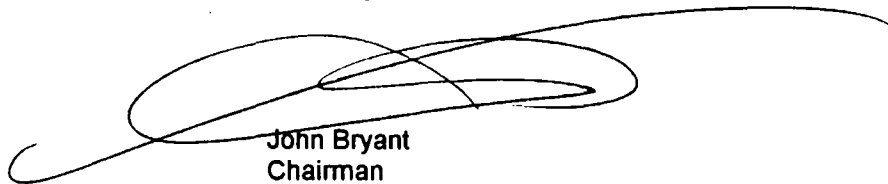

Lunch will immediately follow the tour, at the Marla Gibbs Vision Center complex, and our luncheon keynote speaker will be Hon. Mary Leslie, Deputy Mayor for Economic Development, City of Los Angeles. Your participation in the bus tour is complimentary and OHLA will cover the cost of one representative per organization at lunch. Additional guests for lunch are asked to pay $25 to cover the cost of their lunch. Checks should be made payable to Operation HOPE Los Angeles.

Information tables covering more than five separate areas of potential involvement for financial institutions will be set up immediately following the tour for those wishing to move from observation and education to action (service, investment and lending).

We are already receiving RSVP's from word of mouth. Demand for involvement in this year's tour will be high and we encourage you to RSVP as soon as possible, to (213)228-0516.

Come and join OHLA, the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco and other sponsors, regulatory agencies, senior bankers, elected officials, community leaders, and members of the media, for this historic and important "rolling needs assessment" of our local inner city communities.

Sincerely,

Dear Ms. Herman:

I hope 1994 is turning out to be a successful year at the White House. Ms. Avis Lovell at the United States Department of Health and Human Services in Washington D. C. gave me your address and fax number.

I write to you on behalf of Mrs. Helen Clay, President of the Indianapolis Chapter of the National Council of Negro Women. She has met you on numerous occasions at the National Council and has indicated that you served on their national board for quite some time.

Mrs. Clay would like to know if your schedule could accommodate a weekend in Indianapolis to speak at the Annual Mary McLeod Buthune Recognition Brunch for about 20-25 minutes on June 11 at 11:00 a.m. This year's theme for the brunch is "57 Years of Service to Indianapolis". (Sat)

Allow me to acquaint you with Mrs. Clay and myself. Mrs. Clay is in her 70s and her work in increasing the membership of the Indianapolis chapter has been phenomenal during her long tenure as President. She is well known and loved, both in the African American and white communities and has received many honors and recognitions. Mrs. Clay's son, Samuel Odle is Senior Vice President of Methodist Hospital, Indiana's largest health care facility. He was the first African American ever, to be appointed by Governor Bayh to the Indiana Judicial Commission in 1990, and is currently a member of the Indiana Ethics Commission. I have been his Administrative Assistant for well over a decade.

We would be immensely pleased if your schedule would permit you to be with us on that special day. The NCNA would provide the following:

- Round trip air fare to Indianapolis
- Accommodation
- A $1,000 honorarium
- A Reception in your honor on June 10 at one of our historical sites - The Madam Walker Urban Life Center.

Since June 11 is just around the corner in terms of your busy schedule and we would love to have you present in Indianapolis on that day, I am faxing this letter to your attention. Would you please fax us your response? We look forward to having you with us.

Sincerely,

Lidia Ragan

Dear Dr. Herman:

On behalf of the faculty, staff, and students of Savannah State College, I invite you to be our 1994 Commencement speaker on Sunday, 12 June 1994 at 2:00 P.M. The College will provide an honorarium of $2,500.00, and for your transportation, lodging, and meal expenses.

Founded in 1890, Savannah State College is a historically Black senior college of the University System of Georgia. The College serves a diverse student population of more than 3,000 through 130 faculty. Savannah State offers baccalaureate degrees in 24 majors through the Schools of Business, Humanities and Social Sciences, and Science and Technology. The College offers graduate programs in several disciplines in affiliation with Georgia Southern University. The 165 acre campus is located in the beautiful coastal empire of Georgia, the site of the 1996 Olympic Yachting and Beach Volleyball Events.

Commencement is held in the Savannah Civic Center and usually draws over 4,000 people. The program runs about one hour and forty-five minutes. We have scheduled thirty minutes for your presentation. The topic is open, but should be directed to the graduates of 1994.

We would be honored to have you as our 1994 Commencement speaker.

With warmest regards,

John T. Wolfe, Jr.
President
