MEMORANDUM FOR EXECUTIVE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT STAFF

FROM: KRISTINE GIBBIE Kristine Gibbie
COORDINATOR
NATIONAL AIDS POLICY OFFICE

SUBJECT: Presidential Initiative on HIV/AIDS Education

It is great pleasure that I report on the leadership record of the Executive Office of the President (EOP) in providing HIV/AIDS education to its staff. Shortly after issuance of the President's statement, the Office of Administration (OA) moved forward quickly to implement the education initiative on the staff level.

In addition to my briefings for senior White House officials, the EOP's program was developed and implemented for the remainder of the EOP staff, to meet the President's objectives. The EOP recently completed its initial education program which had an outstanding attendance record. That record of staff participation is cause for recognition, which is why I am issuing this memorandum. In addition, the EOP quarterly report on HIV/AIDS education progress clearly establishes the EOP as a leader in this important effort.

As we focus on ongoing training efforts, I am confident that the EOP will provide other programs for the staff. I look forward to the EOP's continuing support.

I am delighted to include the EOP success story in my message as I meet with groups throughout the country.

OFFICE OF THE VICE PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON

MEMORANDUM TO THE VICE PRESIDENT

FROM: Elaine Kamarck
RE: NPR Accompanying Report - General Services Administration
DATE: June 23, 1994

The NPR General Services Administration (GSA) report contains 6 specific action items, all of which are either completed or currently being implemented. In fact, GSA has moved far beyond the recommendations in this report.

Reviews

The GSA accompanying report has been reviewed by Hermann Habermann of OMB and Julia Stasch, Deputy Administrator of GSA. OMB's primary comment on the report was that GSA should not provide services to other agencies, but rather should limit itself to a policy and oversight role. NPR continues to believe that agencies should be able to choose the best service provider in or out of government, and that GSA should have the opportunity to compete for agency business. A final draft of the report incorporating the changes made in response to GSA and OMB comments was discussed on June 23, 1994.

Known Political Sensitivities

GSA01.4: Suspend Acquisition of Net New Office Space and Reduce the Cost of Courthouse Construction. This recommendation ties into GSA's goal to maintain their inventory of federal building space at current square footage, or less. This includes the space allocated for courthouses.

Initially (late 1993/early 1994) GSA reviewed some previously funded courthouse projects with an eye toward reconsidering their usefulness in light of the current budgetary situation. This approach caused great concern on the hill, particularly with the House and Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on Treasury, Postal Service and General Government Appropriations (and especially Senators Byrd, DeConcini, and Hoyer, and Congressmen Traficant and Mineta). Responding to these concerns, GSA has since retracted those recommendations and instead has focused on cutting costs where possible within existing projects. Their recommendations are found in their "Time Out & Review" report which suggests savings of 1.2 billion dollars over the next five years. Some of the suggested savings have been included in H.R.4539, the Treasury-Postal appropriations bill for FY95 and both GSA and the committees are satisfied.

We would like to send this report to the printer on Thursday, June 30, 1994. Please send comments or questions to me before then. Copies of the report can be obtained within hours by calling John Kamensky or Jean Logan on 632-0150.

MEMORANDUM FOR EXECUTIVE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT STAFF

FROM: LLOYD N. CUTLER
SPECIAL COUNSEL TO THE PRESIDENT

CHERYL MILLS CSM
ASSOCIATE COUNSEL TO THE PRESIDENT

SUBJECT: Reminder on Political Activity

This memorandum highlights guidance given to staff members in response to recent questions this office has received regarding permissible political activity by Federal employees and officers. In light of the upcoming mid-term elections, it is important for all staff to be aware of the rules governing political activity. For a complete discussion of the Hatch Act Reform Amendments and political activity, please review our memorandum, "Political Activity" (April 6, 1994) (copies are available from our office).

Different limitations on political activity may apply to you based on your employing office within the Executive Office of the President (EOP). For example, individuals paid by the National Security Council (NSC) are not permitted to engage in political activity at any time in any place. Staff of the White House Office (WHO), Office of Policy Development (OPD), and Office of the Vice President (OVP) may engage in political activity during duty hours and in a Federal building. However, persons, including detailees, paid from monies for an Executive Agency or Department may not engage in political activity during duty hours or while in a federal building (which generally includes the White House), unless they are Presidential appointees with Senate confirmation. Similarly, many staff members in the Office of Administration (OA), Office of Management and Budget (OMB) and the Office of the United States Trade Representative (USTR), also may not engage in political activity during duty hours or in a Federal building.

Thus, who pays your salary affects the type of political activity, if any, in which you may participate. Do not assume because someone next door to you may engage in political activity, that you may too. When in doubt, please consult your agency counsel or the Counsel's Office as appropriate.

Listed below in question and answer form are examples of frequently raised issues relating to political activity.

JUN 27 1994

Solicitation Questions

1. Q: May I solicit political contributions for a candidate, political committee or political organization?

A: No. Remember, contributions include cash and personal (paid or unpaid) services. The only exception is solicitation of another Federal employee who is your equivalent or above for contributions to a Federal labor or employee organization, provided you are both members.
2. Q: May I ask my friends to volunteer for a candidate's campaign?

A: No. See example above.
3. Q: May I give a contribution to a candidate's campaign committee or a political committee?

A: Yes.

Fundraisers

4. Q: May I attend a political fundraiser?

A: Yes. All staff, including NSC employees, may attend a political fundraiser.
5. Q: May I speak (as the keynote or guest speaker) at a fundraiser?

A: The answer varies according to your position and Federal employer.
 - o Political appointees with Senate confirmation (PAS) may be the featured speaker at a fundraiser at any time during the day or evening.
 - o Individuals below the PAS level at Agencies and Departments (including detailees to the White House) may speak at a fundraiser, but only during non-duty hours (i.e., after or before normal agency work hours).
 - o WHO, OPD, and OVP staff, but not NSC staff, may speak at a fundraiser at any time during the day or evening.
6. Q: If I can be the featured speaker at a fundraiser, may my name be on a fundraising invitation?

A: Yes, provided that the invitation does not suggest or intimate that you are soliciting a donation on behalf of the political candidate, the host of the fundraiser, or a political committee or organization -- in other words, the invitation should say "special guest" or "guest speaker" and not list you as part of the host committee or the individuals giving the fundraiser who are seeking contributions through the invitation.

When in doubt as to whether the use of your name on an invitation may constitute solicitation, have the Counsel's Office review a draft of the invitation before it goes to print.

7. Q: May my name be listed with others as part of the host committee of a fundraising event?

A: No.

8. Q: May my title be used on an invitation?

A: No. However, you may use "The Honorable" if appropriate.

9. Q: May I host a fundraiser at my house?

A: No.

10. Q: May my spouse or significant other host a fundraiser?

A: Yes, provided your spouse or significant other truly is the host and is not merely a foil for you hosting the fundraiser. There are several steps you should take to reduce the appearance of being the de facto host: you should not be a speaker at a fundraiser hosted by your spouse; you should not participate in drafting the invitation list; and, you should not personally invite individuals to attend the fundraiser. You truly should merely function only as a spouse for the fundraiser (i.e., greet guests, help set up and clean up, etc.).

Volunteer Work on a Campaign

11. Q: May I volunteer to work on a campaign?

A: The answer varies according to your Federal employer -- always check with your agency counsel or this office before doing any volunteer work for a campaign.

- o NSC employees are not permitted to engage in any political activity -- even during off-duty hours; therefore, they may not do volunteer work for a political campaign or political organization.

- o EOP staff in OVP, OPD, and the WHO may volunteer for a campaign.
- o EOP staff in OA, OMB, and USTR may volunteer for a campaign; however, depending on your position, you may be able to volunteer for a campaign only during non-duty hours.
- o PAS in the EOP and Agencies and Departments may volunteer for a campaign.

12. Q: May I use vacation time to volunteer for a campaign?

A: Yes, provided you not paid from appropriations for the NSC.

- o Vacation time is considered "off-duty" time; thus, all White House staff, with the exception of NSC employees, may engage in political activity on vacation days.

13. Q: May I take a leave of absence without pay and work on a campaign?

A: Yes, provided you are not employed by the NSC and your absence is approved by your supervisor and your agency counsel or this office, as appropriate.

14. Q: May I miss two days of work in one week without taking leave or using vacation time, assuming my supervisor permits me to be away, to work on a candidate's campaign?

A: No. White House policy provides that staff members may be away from their official duties for the purposes of engaging in political activity only for one day during any one work week. Furthermore, staff members still must complete 40 hours of work during any work week in which they are absent for one day to engage in political activity.

- o Absences to engage in political activity must be approved by your supervisor and your agency counsel prior to missing a work day. Such memoranda should be sent to your agency counsel's office (or the Counsel's Office for WHO and OPD staff) at least one week before a scheduled absence.

Compensation for Campaign Work

15. Q. May I get paid to work on a campaign if I take a leave of absence without pay?

A: The answer varies with your salary level and Federal employer:

- o WHO and OPD staff who are paid above $27,789 are prohibited by Executive Order 12674 from earning any outside income.
- o PAS paid from appropriations for OMB, USTR, and every other Agency or Department are similarly prohibited from earning outside income.
- o Schedule C appointees employed at an Agency or Department or by OMB, USTR or OA who are paid in excess of $92,900 also are prohibited from earning outside income.
- o Staff paid from appropriations for OVP do not appear to be subject to outside earned income limitations.

Remember, you must receive Counsel Office approval before you properly may accept payment from any outside source, including political entities.

Permissible Campaign Work

This section applies only to those persons who are permitted by law to engage in political activity.

16. Q: May I manage a campaign?

A: Yes. But see, Question 23. The campaign should designate a person who is not a federal employee to be the formal "acceptor" of all contributions -- cash and personal services (which includes unpaid volunteer services for the campaign).

17. Q: May I hold a position within a campaign (i.e., general counsel, deputy manager, press spokesperson)?

A: Generally, yes (but see below).

18. Q: May I be the campaign treasurer?

A: To avoid the appearance of soliciting, accepting or receiving political contributions -- which is expressly prohibited by law -- you should not hold this or any related position in a campaign.

19. Q: May I be the Volunteer Outreach Coordinator?

A: No. This position likely would require you to solicit a political contribution -- namely, the services of volunteers.

Interaction between Government and Campaign

20. Q: May I work on the campaign from my Federal office?

A: No.

21. Q: May I use my Federal office phone, on days I am at my Federal job, to place local calls for campaign purposes -- i.e., strategizing, coordinating events, etc.?

A: No. Obviously, for local calls there is a de minimis level -- you may receive or place calls, for example, to schedule a meeting.

22. Q: May I disclose non-public information that I learned in my government job to the campaign, assuming there is no conflict of interest?

A: No, whether or not there is a potential conflict between the campaign's interest and the government's interest is not the issue -- you are prohibited from disclosing non-public information without express authorization.

23. Q: May I ask the President, Vice President or any of my associates at the White House to speak at a fundraiser for the candidate for whom I work.

A: No. As an employee -- assuming you take a leave of absence without pay or vacation time -- you may not represent the interests of another entity, including a campaign, before the Federal government (18 U.S.C. § 205). You also may not use your government position for the private gain of another -- including a political campaign.

24. Q: May I ask the President, Vice President or any of my associates at the White House to speak at a fundraiser for the candidate for whom I work if I am not a federal employee?

A: The answer varies with the level of your former position with the Federal government.

- o Assistants and many Deputy Assistants to the Presidents are prohibited for five years by the Ethics Pledges from making any communication to, or appearance before, an EOP official on behalf of another to seek official action (which includes speaking at a fundraiser).
- o Senior appointees (persons paid more than $108,200) also are prohibited from seeking official action from any EOP employee or officer for one year. The same restriction applies to PAS with regard to their previous agency.

Political Travel

These questions assume that you may engage in political activity consistent with your Federal employment.

25. Q: May a political entity or a candidate campaign committee pay for my travel to come speak at a political event?

A: Yes, provided your travel is approved by the Counsel's Office (or your agency's counsel office). WHO and OPD staff must submit a political travel form and a travel voucher to the Counsel's Office and the Office of Political Affairs for approval at least 3 days before travelling.

25. Q: May a political entity or candidate campaign committee pay for my meals, lodging and ground transportation during the trip?

A: Yes, provided such accommodations are approved.

These questions are designed to highlight the "Political Activity" memorandum, not replace it. Each staff member is responsible for knowing the rules governing their ability to participate in political activity. Accordingly, White House staff members who potentially may engage in political activity should carefully review the "Political Activity" memorandum and direct any questions to our office.

MEMORANDUM TO THE VICE PRESIDENT

FROM: Elaine Kamarck
RE: NPR Accompanying Report - Agency for International Development
DATE: June 22, 1994

The NPR Agency for International Development (AID) report contains 7 recommendations all of which are either completed or are currently being implemented. When Administrator Atwood assumed his post in May of 1993 he designated the entire agency as a reinvention lab -- the first to do so. The new focus is on sustainable development in four critical areas: aiding the environment, addressing population and health, encouraging economic growth, and building democracy. AID is totally into reinvention and is going well beyond the recommendations in this report in its internal reengineering efforts.

Legislation is currently pending to allow for the restructuring of both AID and its mission. It was marked up in the Senate last week and is scheduled for House markup in late July.

Reviews

The AID accompanying report has been reviewed by OMB and Larry Byrne of AID. OMB had no comments; AID's comments were editorial, and all have been accommodated.

Known Political Sensitivities

There are no known political sensitivities associated with this report. The pending legislation contains some controversial items dealing with security assistance. These items, however, are not part of the NPR report.

We would like to send this report to the printer on Friday, June 30, 1994. Please send comments or questions to me before then. Copies of the report can be obtained within hours by calling John Kamensky or Jean Logan on 632-0150.

MEMORANDUM FOR DAVID STRAUSS

From: Steve Hilton
Subject: National Association of Police Organizations (NAPO)

Last week, the attached letter was brought to my attention. You should know that NAPO was the original police organization to support the President during the campaign and has continued to support the administration through some of our toughest fights -- including, the economic package, the Senate and House versions of the crime bill as well as H.R. 4296, the assault weapons ban. It is important to maintain our relations with this group.

We understand if NAPO's request was turned down because of a scheduling conflict. If this is not the case, we would appreciate you reconsidering this request.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

OFFICE OF THE VICE PRESIDENT
WASHINGTON

MEMORANDUM TO THE VICE PRESIDENT

FROM: Elaine Kamarck
RE: NPR Accompanying Report - Environmental Protection Agency
DATE: June 14, 1994

The NPR Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) report contains 11 recommendations - over fifty percent of which are either completed or currently being implemented. The first two recommendations deal with frequent complaints heard about EPA and therefore ought to be politically popular -- they recommend increased flexibility for state and local governments and streamlining of the permit process. EPA is making real progress in these areas. Other politically popular portions of this report will be the recommendation on environmental justice (we issued an Executive Order on it this past February) and on the use of partnerships in the development of innovative technologies.

Reviews

The EPA accompanying report has been reviewed by OMB, EPA and the White House Office of Environmental Policy. Both EPA and OMB had comments which were provided to the White House Designated Reader, Katie McGinty on December 22, 1993. OMB did not identify any significant concerns. Sylvia Lowrance and Daiva Balkus of EPA reviewed the report for EPA and all suggested changes have been incorporated. Designated Reader comments were made by Keith Laughlin of the Office of Environmental Policy and all his suggestions have been incorporated into the current report. There are no unresolved issues.

Known Political Sensitivities

EPA03 - This deals with the promotion and use of economic and market based approaches to the reduction of water pollution. This kind of regulatory flexibility (designed to achieve a net environmental gain) can result in increased pollution in some places as permits are traded. Therefore, this approach is sometimes criticized by environmentalists who are committed to zero discharge of pollution.

We would like to send this report the printer on Wednesday, June 22, 1994. Please send comments or questions to me before then. Copies of the report can be obtained within hours by calling John Kamensky or Jean Logan on 632-0150.

DATE: June 16, 1994 -

Next week 35,000 African American ministers and lay people are meeting in Richmond. The occasion is the annual meeting of the Congress of Christian Education, which is the largest arm of the National Baptist Convention USA. The National Baptist Convention USA is a 8.2 million member church organization and is one of the largest African religious groups in the U.S. The Convention is headed by the Rev. T.J. Jemison, a staunch supporter of the President and a major contributor to our get out the vote effort.

The Congress begins on June 20th and ends on June 24th. After our conversation this morning, I spoke to Rev. Jemison and was advised that if the VP couldn't speak during an evening session, they could accommodate his schedule on June 21st at 11:00 AM during their general assembly.

It should be noted that this is one of our most important constituencies and we need to try hard to make this happen. Thanks and please advise at your earliest.

Date: May 25, 1994

RE: VSO OUTREACH

Steve Hilton asked me to send you a list of the vso groups our office has contacted in the last 2 months regarding their WWII D-Day Celebration plans. We have spoken to those groups who responded to our letter, to ascertain if their members were planning to travel to Italy, England or France for the commemorative activities, and to help coordinate their attendance at and involvement in the various ceremonies.

Additionally, we have invited approximately 40 veterans (and guest) from these groups to the Memorial Day breakfast, reception and bill signing this Monday, and have extended invitations to other DC area veterans to the Arlington Ceremonies.

If you need any more information, I am at x65170.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

FROM: STEVEN M. HILTON
DEPUTY DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC LIAISON

SUBJECT: PUBLIC LIAISON ACTIVITIES IN PREPARATION FOR THE WORLD WAR II EUROPEAN COMMEMORATIVE EVENTS

I. SUMMARY

Alexis asked me, as the Office of Public Liaison's staff person responsible for outreach to the veterans community, to describe our efforts to coordinate and facilitate veterans participation in presidential activities in Europe in commemoration of the 50th Anniversary of World War II.

Put simply, the Office of Public Liaison, working with the Department of Veterans Affairs, has conducted an aggressive and successful outreach program to veterans in support of your trip to Europe.

II. DISCUSSION

VETERANS SERVICE ORGANIZATIONS

Over the last two months, OPL and the Department of Veterans Affairs initiated a series of meetings with the leadership of the major Veterans Service Organizations (VSO), including the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Disabled American Veterans. Our efforts are aimed at insuring that major organizations are informed of yours and the Cabinet's activities during the commemoration, as well as to insure that they have appropriate participation in your activities. These major Veterans groups have also worked closely with the Department of Defense's WW II Committee throughout the planning stages for all of the World War II commemorative activities. Further, the various VSO's have designated official representatives for each commemorative event and my staff and I will insure that they receive appropriate treatment.

DIVERSITY AND WW II ORIENTED VETERANS ORGANIZATIONS

At the same time, we have had in effect an outreach operation targeting the numerous smaller and diverse veterans organizations which are often overlooked. We corresponded with more than 100 organizations in an effort to accumulate a list of D-Day, and other WW II Veterans, who will be in Europe for the commemorative events. Our efforts will allow us to draw from this list to insure that a diverse and comprehensive group is able to participate in the presidential events in Europe. This information will serve as a resource to Communications concerning veterans stories.

MEMORIAL DAY ACTIVITIES

The Office of Public Liaison was the staff contact for Memorial Day events both at the White House and at Arlington National Cemetery. We worked closely with the Department of Veterans Affairs on both events. As you know, at the White House, there were three activities: first, a breakfast; second, the signing of two proclamations, one to commemorate Memorial Day and the other to establish a week of national observance of the 50th anniversary of WW II and an unveiling of a Postal Service stamp collection commemorating WW II; and finally, a meeting in the Oval Office with four WW II veterans. We contacted and invited to the activities, representatives from the Veterans Service Organizations, key Administration military officials, and using the list described above, a wide variety of World War II Veterans, and their spouses. Further, we identified four WW II Veterans who met with the you in the Oval Office. We feel that we provided four representative people that reflect the themes of diversity and unity of effort during WW II. They included: a WW II couple, the man a bombadeer at Normandy and his wife an OSS agent in China; a Japanese-American soldier from the 442nd Infantry who fought in Italy; and an African-American pilot from Arkansas who, as a member of the Tuskegee Airmen, flew 149 missions over Italy and Germany and never lost a bomber during his escort missions.

WW II EVENTS

For many veterans, the commemorative celebrations will be the highlight of their careers in military service and a crowning moment in their lives. In order to guarantee a positive experience, many of these older(age range 70-90) and disabled veterans will be in need of special attention. OPL will have two of our staff members on site at these events assigned to work directly with these veterans. The staff will help allay the concerns of some of the veterans that they may be neglected or overlooked by the White House during your visit to Europe. We are working with the Social Secretary's office on the reception for more than a thousand veterans at the United States Military Cemetery at Nettuno, Italy. In addition, OPL staff will also work at the Portsmouth, England event on June 5, 1994 and the Colleville, France event on June 6, 1994. Also at Colleville, we will arrange a photo-op for you and the leadership of the four major veterans organizations. This was the major request of these organizations and the photos will be included in their magazines which provide a total circulation of 8 million. The VSO's have expressed gratitude that they will have a White House source of information and contact during these events.

CONCLUSION

The Office of Public Liaison has worked to insure the active participation by a diverse group of World War II Veterans and the heads of Veterans Service Organizations during your activities in Europe. The purpose of our effort has been three-fold. First, to insure that veterans participation is as diverse and as comprehensive as possible; second, to insure that major veterans organizations that we worked with daily are fully informed and involved; and third, to guarantee that the 50,000 veterans who return home from the celebrations in Europe will come away with positive feelings about their President and the Administration. They should return home comfortable with the knowledge that you understand and appreciate the historical significance of their contribution and sacrifice in WW II. They should return home with a sense of pride that they are veterans of WW II and that they are Americans. Finally, they should return home with a profound respect for their Commander in Chief, the President of the United States.

President William J. Clinton
Remarks at Martin Luther King Middle School
On 40th Anniversary of Brown Decision
May 17, 1994

Thank you, Bette Lewis (Principal of school), Attorney General Reno and Secretary Riley.

We also have some other important guests here today: Governor Donald Schaefer... Senators Barbara Mikulski and Paul Sarbanes... Representative Steny Hoyer... Thurgood Marshall, Jr., whose father led the way to the anniversary we celebrate today and who now works for Vice President Gore... and my friend, Ernest Green, who was one of the nine students who broke segregation at Little Rock Central High School in my home state of Arkansas.

Secretary Riley, "Goody" Marshall, Ernie Green and I just spent a class session with about 40 students here, and it was an impressive exchange. It's no wonder Martin Luther King Middle School is a Blue-Ribbon winner.

I am here because 40 years ago today, the United States Supreme Court handed down a monumental decision called Brown versus Board of Education. That decision changed all of our lives. I think it is very important that we remember that decision, how far our nation has come since 1954 and how far we still must go. And I believe it is important that you and I together agree to do what we must to achieve the progress we still must make.

Forty years ago, in some parts of America, African Americans couldn't vote, couldn't get served in some restaurants and couldn't get medical attention in some hospitals. Forty years ago, before a brave woman named Rosa Parks refused to budge off a bus in Montgomery, Ala., and a brave minister named Martin Luther King helped her fight back, African Americans were told they had to give up their seats to white people. And they were told many other things that deprived them of the freedom they deserved.

And 40 years ago, a magnificent school like yours -- where African Americans learn with white students and Hispanic students and Asian-American students -- would have been unthinkable.

But the Supreme Court's decision helped to change all that. We have to remember two things about the change: It didn't happen overnight, and the people who helped bring it about didn't wait for anyone to do the hard work for them; they did it themselves.

Brown was a foundation stone, which led to many others: The Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Voting Rights Act of 1965 came later. So too did many struggles for freedom across this country.

We know there are always people who will fight change, and there were those who resisted integration. When I was just a boy in Hot Springs, I read about President Eisenhower sending troops down to Central High School in Little Rock to enforce integration. My friend Ernie Green was one of the first African Americans to enter that school. But in the middle of all the confrontation over the years, an amazing thing happened.

Brown gave moral courage to many people who fought on for civil rights. In many ways they succeeded far beyond their greatest expectations. People of color have risen to the highest ranks of the government. And Americans of all colors have had their eyes opened to racism and have made a better country.

It is important for all of you to remember that none of these changes would have happened if individuals had not had hope and taken bold steps. The Brown decision was the result of years of hard work by determined citizens led by Thurgood Marshall. He was one of my heroes. He later became the first African American on the Supreme Court, and his son helped me teach a class here today.

The example of all those dedicated people teaches us an important lesson: miracles begin with personal choices. I want each of you to consider making important choices that can cause miracles in your own lives and in the life of your country.

Choices like using every opportunity you have to get a good education and to work to the best of your God-given ability.

Choices like taking responsibility for your actions. Like deciding not to mess with alcohol or drugs or guns. Or to become a mother or father before you're old enough to understand the responsibility. Choices like not allowing your frustration to lead you into violence that tears down the communities you need to lift you up.

I believe you want to make the right choices. But I also know that many of you and your families have not seen America working for you. You still face racism. Or you're afraid of crime that crowds out many good things about your life. Or no one has shown you or been able to convince you that your lives can be better than you believe.

I have a daughter who's about your age. I ran for President so that I could work to give her and you an America that is freer, safer and full of even more opportunities that I enjoyed. That's why I am working very hard to give you futures to say yes to: The chance to pursue a higher education or to get special training. The chance to go to safe schools and to live in safe neighborhoods. The chance to pursue your dreams in communities where you can live even better lives than your parents have done.

But as I've said many times, none of us can lead your lives for you. Your choices to respect yourselves and to respect your fellow Americans have to be your own. Only by those choices can you hope to live the futures that I and others want for you.

If you lose hope, remember all those people who helped to make Brown versus Board of Education possible and who kept faith with the future. You can make great strides just as they did. You can make miracles happen.

There's nothing better you can ever do to show everyone that you have learned the lesson that Brown stood for.

Thank you, and God bless you.

DRAFT

President William Jefferson Clinton
Talking Points at Martin Luther King Middle School
40th Anniversary of Brown Decision
May 17, 1994

What follows is a teaching plan for the eighth grade social studies class you will attend. The class has about 30 students. You will be there with Secretary Riley, Ernest Green and Goody Marshall. The principal of the school is Bette Lewis. The teacher is Robin Wilterson. About five students from an English class will join Ms. Wilterson's class, and the English teacher is Carla Willis Morgan.

The idea here is for you to teach a bit about the Brown decision and to provide a chance for you and the other participants to reflect on the changes Brown has meant in your lives.

Background to the case. Forty years ago today, the Supreme Court handed down a monumental decision called Brown v. Board of Education of Topeka, Kan. It was a case based on challenges in four different cities and counties across America. The challenge was to something called the "separate but equal" doctrine. That doctrine, which was adopted in an 1896 case called Plessy v. Ferguson, said that it was acceptable for public authorities to have segregated public services and facilities, like transportation and education. That doctrine was a way to get around following the promise of equality put forward in the 14th Amendment to the Constitution, which was adopted after slavery was abolished and at the end of the Civil War.

The argument of the Brown plaintiffs. The people who brought the Brown case, led by Goody Marshall's father, Thurgood Marshall, argued that segregated public schools could never be equal. In 1954, the Supreme Court finally agreed with them. In a unanimous opinion of all nine justices written by Chief Justice Earl Warren, the Supreme Court said that "in the field of public education, the doctrine of 'separate but equal' has no place. Separate educational facilities are inherently unequal." That meant that as long as students of any race were forced to go to schools segregated from students of other races, that the schools were bound to be unequal, and therefore, against the law.

Interpreting the Constitution. The Justices were writing what they saw as the commands of our Constitution, which is now over 200 years old. The Brown decision underscored how important the Supreme Court is in our country. It shows why I felt it was important to take great care in nominating Judge Stephen Breyer as a new justice of the Supreme Court last week.

The impact of Brown. Brown was one of the most important decisions in the history of the Supreme Court. It helped to force a change in the moral tone of our country on the question of race. Brown was a foundation stone, which helped lead to many other building blocks along the way toward greater civil rights for all Americans. Brown gave moral courage to many people who fought on for civil rights. And Americans of all colors had their eyes opened to racism in our society.

The Brown decision had an impact on my own life. That impact was: (You might want to discuss the way your grandfather taught you about tolerance when you were a child.)

(Then, you can give each of the other three participants a chance to talk about how Brown influenced their live for about 3-5 minutes per participant):

Goody Marshall can discuss his memories of his father.

Ernest Green can discuss how it felt to be a black student integrating Central High School.

Secretary Riley can discuss being a white lawyer standing up for Brown in South Carolina.

Completing the work of Brown. We all have to ask ourselves what we can do to make sure that we keep making progress. We have to work to accept one another despite our differences. But we also have to work to make sure our schools and communities are safe, that we are taking full advantage of our opportunities and that together we are taking responsibility for our own actions. (Then it makes sense to ask questions of the students):

What do you students think can be done to improve the problem of discrimination in our society? (This, we hope, will spur discussion that you can lead until the end of the class.)

Conclusion. Even though we are not finished with the work of the Brown decision, we must never forget one of its most important passages, which was about the value of education to all of our citizens. The decision said: "Education is the very foundation of good citizenship. . . . In these days, it is doubtful that any child may reasonably be expected to succeed in life if he is denied the opportunity of an education. Such an opportunity is a right which must be made available to all on equal terms."

It is education that has brought us all here today. Thank you for sharing your precious learning time with all of us.

Equal Justice For All

The Clinton Administration Commemorates
The 40th Anniversary of Brown v. Board of Education

Forty years ago this week, on May 17, 1954, the U.S. Supreme Court decided the Brown v. Board of Education case, which brought legalized segregation to an end in our society. Some scholars believe the Brown decision was the nation's most important Supreme Court case in the last century, if not in our entire history. This week the Clinton Administration commemorates the Brown decision and the legacy it created.

Among the many laudable goals articulated in the Brown decision, two of the most enduring are Quality Education and The Importance of Equality...

QUALITY EDUCATION FOR ALL

The Brown v. Board of Education decision said, "education is perhaps the most important function of state and local governments. Compulsory school attendance laws and the great expenditures for education both demonstrate our recognition of the importance of education to our democratic society...It is the very foundation of good citizenship...[I]t is a principal instrument in awakening the child to cultural values, in preparing him for later professional training, and in helping him adjust normally to his environment."

Today, as America moves into the 21st century, education remains the key to opening doors of opportunity for all people in our society -- young or old, black or white. This Administration has made education a cornerstone of its plans to rejuvenate the country.

The Brown decision considered education vital to democracy. The Court called education "the foundation of good citizenship" and the preparation for "later professional training." Similarly, President Clinton's own policies have emphasized these important goals.

Democracy's Debt to Education: Access to education is important for everyone. President Clinton's speeches to Galludet University graduates on May 13, 1994 and to the NAACP Legal Defense & Education Fund May 16 underscore that point. The President's direct lending program will enable more young people to afford college education and pay off their debt as a percentage of income over life. The newly established Federal Advisory Commission on Education Excellence for Hispanic Americans will help increase educational opportunities for Hispanics. In addition, this week the President will sign the Headstart Reauthorization Bill, which will dramatically increase funding for programs that prepare children for early schooling.

The Foundation of Good Citizenship: The Administration's National Service Program enables young people to devote a few years of their lives serving the public good in return for financial assistance for college.

Preparation for Professional Training: Two weeks ago, the President signed the School-to-Work Opportunities Act, which creates a national system to develop and strengthen programs that help move young people from school to work by connecting school-based learning with work-based learning. This week, the President kicks off the implementation of the Goals 2000 law, which will dramatically increase adult literacy, and reduce school dropout rates by the year 2000. And the President has already submitted to Congress the Reemployment Act of 1994, which will create a comprehensive system of reemployment, training, and income support services for dislocated workers. These measures recognize that the average American will change jobs several times in his or her lifetime, resulting in a greater need for lifelong learning.

THE IMPORTANCE OF EQUALITY

Forty years after Brown, we reaffirm the belief that our nation's diversity strengthens, rather than divides, us. Then the struggle was to integrate African-Americans into a society that segregated them by law. Today the struggle is to provide equal opportunity to all our citizens while recognizing that integration is still a valuable goal. We are one people, but we still have much to learn from one another.

While the world cheers as the people of South Africa launch a bold new multi-racial democracy, we must remember the values that made our system of government worthy of envy in the first place.

Historian Roger Wilkins has called Brown the "crowbar" that opened up post-World War II America. The Clinton Administration recognizes that Brown's message of equal opportunity extends far beyond education. That's why the President has assembled a highly qualified team that includes the most diverse group of presidential advisers ever to sit in a president's cabinet. Five African-Americans, two Hispanics, and six women are members of the Clinton cabinet.

As President Clinton has said, "the absence of discrimination is not the same thing as the presence of opportunity." To open the doors of opportunity to all Americans, the Administration has already been engaged in a number of efforts. In the area of civil rights alone, the Administration has assembled an aggressive team of leaders to represent the United States in opposing injustice. For example, President Clinton appointed highly-acclaimed civil rights leader Mary Frances Berry to be chair of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission and appointed Deval Patrick as Assistant Attorney General for Civil Rights.

SELECT ACCOMPLISHMENTS BY THE CLINTON ADMINISTRATION

- * A record high 61% of the President's nominees to the federal bench during his first year were women and minorities.
- * The Justice Department Civil Rights Division filed a record 140 cases last year to enforce fair housing laws, a 35% increase from the number of cases filed in 1992.
- * The Department of Housing & Urban Development has aggressively fought to knock down discriminatory barriers, actively intervening to integrate a once segregated public housing complex in Vidor, Texas.
- * For the first time since the Age Discrimination Act was passed in 1975, the Department of Education issued regulations needed to implement the law. Prior administrations had failed to release the necessary guidelines.
- * The President's Health Security Act ensures equal access and civil rights protections in health care reform.

THE ADMINISTRATION COMMEMORATES BROWN

To commemorate the anniversary of the Brown decision, several members of the Administration, including the President, will participate in activities this week.

- * President Clinton will deliver his weekly radio address May 14 from Mt. Helm Missionary Baptist Church in Indianapolis and will then dedicate a statue to Martin Luther King and Robert F. Kennedy at Martin Luther King Memorial Park in Indianapolis. On Monday, May 16, President Clinton will address the NAACP Legal Defense & Education Fund dinner in Washington, and on Wednesday, May 18, he will sign the Headstart Reauthorization Bill.
- * Secretary of Education Richard Riley will speak about Brown at Georgetown University Law Center on May 17, the anniversary of the Brown decision.
- * Secretary of Health & Human Services Donna Shalala will deliver several commencement addresses next week that discuss the importance of Brown.
- * Commerce Secretary Ron Brown will discuss Brown at the Evening Exchange on Tuesday.
- * Attorney General Janet Reno will make welcoming remarks to a panel discussion on Brown for a Justice Department reunion of the Civil Rights Division on Saturday.
- * Assistant Attorney General for Civil Rights Deval Patrick will accompany President Clinton to Indianapolis Saturday when the President will dedicate a memorial to Robert Kennedy and Martin Luther King, Jr.

needs to talk with you

MAY 13 1994

Per your request, this memorandum, with attachments, provides background and other information regarding possible sites for a presidential Brown v. Board of Education event next Tuesday, May 17, 1994. I understand that the scheduling office has requested information on middle schools, primarily in Washington, D.C.. Because the Little Rock desegregation case involved a high school, the first Brown case involved a high school, and because the District of Columbia was a party in the second Brown case and has not, by most accounts, succeeded in desegregation efforts, we have provided information on high schools, as well as middle schools, and on schools in Maryland.

In addition, you might note that in preparation for a visit by Secretary Riley to a local school, we had already begun the process of locating potential sites and had set up a visit to Richard Montgomery High School in Rockville (information attached). In our vetting of this and other schools for the Secretary's visit, we considered the following:

- (1) whether the school has high academic standards (to underscore our commitment to Goals 2000);
- (2) whether the school has a diverse student body that reflects the new demographics of American education, the inclusion of more Hispanics, Asians, and other immigrants into the school age population;
- (3) whether the school reflects the Administration's strong commitment to parental involvement in the education of children as reflected in the President's State of Union address; and

- (4) whether the school has a "symbolic" link. For example, one of the middle schools we looked at is named after Martin Luther King Jr.. Similarly, a high schools in Rockville in named after JFK.

Lastly, you might note a few things about the D.C. middle Schools.

The majority of the District's middle schools have a student body that is almost 100% African-American. Hine Junior High School is a Blue Ribbon School on the Capital Hill was visited by Secretary Riley last November. Francis Junior High is the closest school to the White House at 24th and N Streets, N.W., with a demographic mix that is predominantly African-American and Hispanic. Jefferson Junior High School (8th and H St., S.W.) has a very good reputation and includes a "values education" initiative program. Roper Junior High School has just been totally restructured this year as a math, science and technology middle school but the student body is 100% African-American.

The only middle school in the District which is balanced demographically is Alice Deal Junior High School off Nebraska Avenue. However, a 1991 visit by then President Bush resulted in a congressional hearing (held by Congressman Bill Ford) about the misuse of Department of Education funds for political purposes (see attached newsclips). In addition, Deal is the school that the President's daughter Chelsea would have attended had she gone to a public school in the District.

RECOMMENDATION: The President visit either Richard Montgomery High School or Redland Middle School.

RICHARD MONTGOMERY HIGH SCHOOL
(ROCKVILLE, MARYLAND)

May 3, 1994

Richard Montgomery High School
Rockville, Maryland

RATIONALE: Richard Montgomery High School (RMHS) opened in 1892 as the first high school in Montgomery County, Maryland. In 1987, faced with declining enrollment, the school introduced an International Baccalaureate (IB) program, which allows secondary schools in various countries to prepare students to enter universities throughout the world. Today RMHS' IB program serves 500 students from throughout the county and is the largest such program in the United States or Canada. The school emphasizes high standards for all students by offering at least one Advanced Placement course in every subject, honors courses, and English for Speakers of Other Languages. The RMHS mission is: "To continue to promote a positive school climate for students, staff, and community; to continue to increase student performance and achievement; to continue the use of strategies to increase the percentage of daily student attendance in school and in every class; and to continue to promote the use of a variety of instructional strategies to meet the needs of each student."

RMHS is located in Rockville, the county seat. It has approximately 1,500 students in grades 9-12. Sixty percent of the students are white, 15 percent are Asian, 14 percent are non-white Hispanic, and 11 percent are African American; 76 languages are spoken by students at the school and 70 countries are represented by the student body. Fifteen percent of the students receive free or reduced-price lunches. The school's per-pupil expenditure is $6,462. RMHS has been recognized by the U.S. Department of Education as a school of excellence in the National Blue Ribbon Schools Program.

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION: International Baccalaureate. Richard Montgomery High School is best known for its IB program for students in grades 11 and 12, and pre-IB program for students in grades 9 and 10. It is the only IB program in the county, and draws students from a range of socioeconomic backgrounds. Approximately 125 students in each grade and 50 of the school's 93 teachers currently participate. The IB program uses an interdisciplinary curriculum and applications-based instruction, with courses in six subjects and "the theory of knowledge," to foster creativity, critical thinking, cooperative learning, and independent research in "a community of scholars." Other goals include promoting (1) skills in organization, time management, and oral and written communication; (2) a commitment to community service; and (3) extracurricular activities. Students in the pre-IB program take honors courses in English, foreign language, social studies, science, and mathematics that integrate IB topics and abide by performance criteria established by the IB Examinations Office.

IB courses include art and design, biology, pre-calculus, calculus, chemistry, economics, English, foreign languages, history, mathematics, advanced music, physics, and psychology.

In addition, all students take a course in "theory of knowledge" in grades 11 and 12, in which they examine the principles of knowledge and logic and the role of language, to develop an awareness of the basis for thought and intellectual biases. In order to receive an IB diploma, students also must pass IB exams in six disciplines, write an "extended essay" of 4,000 words in one of the IB subjects, and complete at least 150 hours of community service, arts, or sports.

Community service takes the form of interacting with people in nursing homes, hospitals, and homeless shelters, often through the performing arts. Some students serve as peer tutors, often targeting students in the ESOL program and teenage parents. Some students assist a local historical society on archaeological digs; others help organizations such as Amnesty International with fundraising and lobbying efforts.

The IB program is open to any student in the county who meets the program's rigorous admission standards. A screening committee considers the student's grades, teacher recommendations, test scores, writing samples, and statement of motivation. According to the program coordinator, the committee looks for students who are well-balanced in terms of potential academic achievement, rather than those who are focused entirely on math/science or foreign language/English courses. "Students need to be well-rounded and strong across [all subjects] plus have indicated that they're interested in learning," the coordinator said. The school selects IB teachers who "like kids, like people, [demonstrate] evidence of wanting to continue professional growth, and have a strong content base," she said.

Other programs. RMHS offers an honors program that includes (1) Advanced Placement courses in calculus, biology, chemistry, computer science, economics, English, European history, foreign languages, physics, studio art, and U.S. history; (2) advanced-level courses in computer applications, algebra/trigonometry, analytical geometry, anatomy and physiology, elementary functions, Pascal, and Pascal Plus; and (3) honors courses in English, foreign languages, mathematics, science, social studies, and music. In addition, students who are not IB diploma candidates may take IB classes, which prepare them to take Advanced Placement exams. RMHS also houses one of the county's Intensive English Language centers, which offers courses for non-native English speakers. Approximately 175 students use the center.

Professional development. RMHS offers separate professional development for IB and non-IB teachers, but since more than half the teachers in the school work in the IB program, and since teachers in the IB program also teach non-IB courses, even the professional development restricted to IB teachers benefits all students. For the IB program, RMHS offers new-teacher workshops every fall and subject workshops every spring, with training provided by practitioners and examiners. Workshops on curriculum development and criteria for assessing oral examinations are held during the summer, as are training sessions on the following topics: ways to make interdisciplinary instruction process- as well as content-oriented; developing and sharing successful instructional strategies; applications-based instruction; cooperative learning; portfolio assessments; time management and study skills; writing across the curriculum; developing higher-order thinking and analysis skills; and theory of knowledge. All teachers may participate in 10-12 monthly workshops every year, which range from 45 minutes to half a day and address such topics as accessing the Internet, stress reduction, and successful instructional practices used in magnet and IB programs.

Parent involvement. Administrators describe parent involvement, especially in the IB program, as "heavy." Because the program draws students from across the county, parents must commit to transporting their children to school and to frequent community service activities. According to the program coordinator, parents must also have the patience to tolerate the interactions and commitments that students have as a result of participating in the program, including late-night studying, and allow the students "to be independent in ways that promote academic involvement." Some parents also volunteer at RMHS as proctors for exams or processing applications and other paperwork.

English for speakers of other languages (ESOL). Montgomery High School offers a variety of courses for non-native speakers of English through its Intensive English Language Center (IELC). The program aims to provide students with a foundation in the English language. Another goal includes instruction in concept and base knowledge in core academic areas. The IELC program and ESOL staff help RMHS students with social, personal, and academic adjustment to American culture both in the school and in the larger community.

EVIDENCE OF SUCCESS: Seventy-five percent of RMHS graduates attend college. The class of 1994 contains 17 National Merit semifinalists (all candidates for IB diplomas), one "Outstanding Negro Student" recognized by the National Achievement Scholarship Program, and 17 finalists in the Maryland Distinguished Scholars competition. In 1993, 347 RMHS students took a total of 617 Advanced Placement exams, and 80 percent received a grade of 3 or higher. Average SAT scores at RMHS are 513 for verbal skills (compared to a national average of 424) and 574 for mathematics (compared to 478 nationally).

In 1993, 92 percent of the students in the IB program received IB diplomas, down slightly from 97 percent the previous year (the first year that graduating seniors had spent all four years in the IB program) but above the worldwide IB average of 72 to 75 percent. The IB coordinator describes the rate of acceptance of IB students to selective colleges as "very high." IB students graduating from RMHS have received up to 60 credit hours and/or advanced standing in college courses, and many students receive college scholarships as a result of their participation in IB, according to the program coordinator.

Other indicators of success are the IB program's high retention rate--fewer than five students leave the program each year, usually because their families move--and the fact that the IB program has increased enrollment at the school. In 1992-93, 800 students applied for 125 openings in the program, and 80 siblings of current or former IB students applied for the

ALEXIS HERMAN

FROM: CAREN WILCOX CU
SUBJECT: DEMS ABROAD EVENT IN LONDON
DATE: JUNE 3, 1994

The Vice Chair of Democrats Abroad, Sally McNulty, is a friend of mine from the campaign. She was most anxious to try to arrange a briefing for Dems Abroad while the POTUS was in England, even though most of them would not see the POTUS.

As you know when opponents of the POTUS are unable to get things published in the U.S., they often inundate the British press with their stories. Therefore, our supporters there have to have positive information to counteract their press.

Steve Hilton and I sought help from Cabinet Affairs, and Secretary Reich agreed to do a comprehensive briefing in London on Sunday, and Alison Cutler has been arranging it. Material is being supplied to the Secretary by Dems Abroad executive director Tom Fina, and DNC communications.

Ethical issues have been handled with the DNC and Dems Abroad for appropriate payment given the political nature of the event. McNulty is making arrangements for the site and invitations.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

FROM: MARILYN DIGIACOBBE

THROUGH: ALEXIS HERMAN

SUBJECT: AMERICAN CONSTITUENT PARTICIPATION IN WARSAW, POLAND

The Office of Public Liaison has made arrangements for a group of Americans to participate in your Warsaw, Poland trip. A group of eighteen individuals mainly from two key constituencies, business and ethnics, will participate. The group includes six businessmen and women (representing both big and small business); seven Polish-Americans; four members of the Jewish community; and Lane Kirkland of the AFL-CIO. They are:

J.T. Battenberg, General Motors
Richard Callahan, US West International
Walter Catlow, Ameritech
David Chase, Chase Enterprises
Elizabeth Coleman, Maidenform
Edward Dykla, Polish Roman Catholic Union of America
Joseph Gore, Kosciuszko Foundation
Lane Kirkland, AFL-CIO
Miles Lerman, U.S. Holocaust Memorial Council
Deborah Lipstadt, Professor, Emory University
Benjamin and Vladka Meed, American Gathering/
Federation of Jewish Holocaust Survivors
John Pikarski, Gordon & Pikarski
Edward Piszek, Copernicus Society and Liberty Bell
Foundation
Anne Pron, Polish National Union of America
Mathew Stover, NYNEX Information Resources Company
Donald Versen, Columbia National Bank of Chicago
Helen Wojcik, Polish Women's Alliance and Polish
American Congress

The purpose of the group's participation is to help highlight your Central European policy and to reinforce those policies with key constituencies at home. Your Central European policy; commitment to security (Partnership for Peace/NATO expansion); economic reform and promotion of trade and investment; and support for democracy is of great interest to the participants and the constituencies they represent back home.

During the past several months we have conducted a number of activities aimed at increasing involvement of Polish-Americans in the Administration:

- * In Milwaukee in early January, we conducted a roundtable forum on Central European policy with 25 representatives of the Polish, Hungarian, Czech and Slovak-American communities. Representatives spent significant time with Sandy Berger and then with Vice President Gore discussing the Partnership for Peace.
- * On March 2, you met with Polish, Hungarian, Czech and Slovak-American representatives in the Roosevelt Room to debrief them on your January trip to Europe.
- * Daniel Fried of the NSC, Marilyn DiGiacobbe of OPL, and Jay Footlik of the DNC, have addressed and met with Polish-Americans in Chicago and in Washington, D.C.
- * We have included Polish-American representatives in domestic policy briefings on the anti-crime initiative and health care reform.
- * We are working with Craig Smith of Personnel to increase the presence of Polish-Americans in the Administration. One of the participants, Don Versen, has just been appointed as Member, Polish-American Enterprise Fund. (This has not been officially announced.)
- * We plan to invite members of the Polish-American community to the White House to brief them on the results of your trip.

The business representatives attending were chosen based on their involvement in business activities in Poland and the surrounding Central European countries.

The ethnic participants were chosen primarily based on their leadership in their respective communities. The members of the Polish-American and Jewish-American communities represented here have strong ties to Poland.

The participants are traveling to Poland on their own. Once in Warsaw, they will be escorted through a number of activities. On the evening of July 6, they will attend a welcoming reception at which we will provide a framework and overview of the trip. Available senior staff members will participate, i.e., Mack McLarty, David Gergen, Ambassador Dick Shifter. Later, they will attend the State Dinner as guests of the White House.

On July 7, the group will start their day with a breakfast for American business in Poland sponsored by the American Chamber of Commerce in Poland. They will join your motorcade and witness the Wreath Laying Ceremony at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier and the Candlelighting Ceremony at the Warsaw Ghetto Memorial. They will be briefed by the Polish-American Enterprise Fund and then attend your speech to Polish Parliament. The group will then rejoin your motorcade and witness the Memorial to the Children of the Warsaw Uprising.

Finally, the group will meet with you and Mrs. Clinton briefly at the U.S. Embassy prior to your departure for Naples, Italy.

Attached are brief biographies of the participants. For your information, the following individuals were invited but unable to attend:

Edgar Bronfman, World Jewish Congress
William Ferguson, NYNEX
Robert Haas, Levi-Strauss
Arnold Langbo, Kellogg Company
Larry Leck, Lawrence Leck & Associates
Reuben Mark, Colgate Palmolive
Richard McCormick, US West
Edward Moskal, Polish American Congress
Jan Nowak, Polish American Congress
Frank Shrontz, Boeing
Jack Smith, Jr., General Motors
Larry Wujcikowski, Polish Falcons of America

Please note that while we did not organize a formal group of constituents to travel to Latvia, there are a number of Baltic-Americans who will be in Latvia during your visit. NSC has invited them to attend the meet and greet reception in Riga.

AMERICAN PARTICIPANTS
WARSAW, POLAND
JULY 6-7, 1994

J. T. Battenberg III, Senior Vice President, General Motors Corporation, President, Automotive Components Group Worldwide
Pontiac, Michigan

Mr. Battenberg joined General Motors in 1961 as a student at GM Institute in Flint, Michigan. Upon graduation in 1966, he was assigned as an engineering trainee at Chevrolet's plant in Kansas City, Missouri. After 22 years with GM, he was named a vice president of General Motors in January 1988. In April 1992, Mr. Battenberg was named vice president and group executive in charge of ACG Worldwide. He was promoted to his current position in June 1994. Mr. Battenberg received a bachelor of science degree in industrial engineering from General Motors Institute and an MBA in Operations Research from Columbia University. He also has completed the Advanced Management Program at Harvard University.

ACG Worldwide is the largest producer of automotive components, modules and systems in the world. Headquartered in Pontiac, Michigan, the group consists of six divisions, each with responsibility for a distinct market segment in automotive systems. Worldwide sales for 1993 totalled $25.1 billion.

Richard Callahan, President, US West International Executive Vice President, US West, Inc.
London, England

Mr. Callahan was appointed to head U.S. West's new cellular and paging entity, New Vector Communications, in 1982 after previously serving as CEO for Northwestern Bell. In 1991, Mr. Callahan was named head of U.S. West International and Business Development Group. He oversees the company's global operations including International and Business Development, Spectrum Enterprises International, International Networks and global alliances.

Walter Catlow, Executive Vice President, International Business, Ameritech
Chicago, Illinois

Mr. Catlow is responsible for the development and operation of Ameritech's international business interests. Ameritech has extensive international operations including telephone companies in New Zealand and Hungary, cellular properties in Poland and Norway and an industrial directory business with headquarters in Germany. Prior to his current position, Mr. Catlow was president of Ameritech long distance industry services.

In 1991, Ameritech and France Telecom concluded negotiations with the Polish Minister of Post and Telecommunications to construct and operate a cellular system for Poland. Ameritech is also working with the Polish Chamber of Commerce in promoting economic development and telecommunications technology. Through the Polish Welfare Association, Ameritech has a scholarship program for Polish students at Marquette University.

David Chase, Chairman & President, Chase Enterprises Hartford, Connecticut

Mr. Chase established Chase Enterprises in 1952 and still remains chairman and CEO. Chase Polish Enterprises, Inc., controlled by David Chase, is one of the largest private investors in Poland and has controlling interests in Polska Telewizja Kablowa S.A., the largest cable television concern in Poland and the Solidarnosc-Chase D.T. Bank in Gdansk, Poland. Chase Polish Enterprises, Inc., United Infrastructure Company and Prescon-Bud have formed a joint venture to pursue and perform development, program management operation and ownership contracts for toll roads, bridges, waste water treatment, water supply facilities, tunnels, ports and other general infrastructure projects in the Republic of Poland.

Mr. Chase was born in Poland and placed in a concentration camp at the age of 14. He escaped Auschwitz during a death march and was brought to a military hospital in Austria. Mr. Chase is the chairman of the board of the Rabbinical College of America and Machne Israel Development Fund, as well as a trustee of the Foundation for the Advancement of Catholic Schools, a founder of the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum and a member of the board of the Polish Investment Agency. Member, U.S. Holocaust Memorial Council
Atlanta, Georgia

Dr. Lipstadt is Dorot Associate Professor of Modern Jewish and Holocaust Studies at Emory University in Atlanta. Her latest book, Denying the Holocaust: The Growing Assault on Truth and Memory, is the first full length study of the history of those who attempt to deny the Holocaust. Dr. Lipstadt was a historical consultant to the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Museum where she participated in designing the section of the Museum dedicated to the American Response to the Holocaust. She was appointed by President Clinton to the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Council in June 1994. Professor Lipstadt is frequently called upon by the media to analyze matters of contemporary and Jewish interest and has contributed to and been quoted in a wide variety of newspapers and magazines. Dr. Lipstadt is also an active member of the Jewish community. She attended the Middle East Peace signing in September and wrote an article entitled "The President, Vice President, and Words of Torah" in response to the event for many newspapers around the country. She spoke with both President Clinton and Vice President Gore at the briefing following the signing ceremony.

Benjamin Meed, President, American Gathering/Federation of Jewish Holocaust Survivors
Member, U.S. Holocaust Memorial Council
New York, New York

Mr. Meed was born in Poland during WW II. He worked as a slave laborer for the Germans outside the Ghetto, and he survived a thousand days in the Warsaw Ghetto. He was an active member in the Warsaw Underground. He was one of the principal founders of the American Gathering of Jewish Holocaust Survivors (AGJHS) and has been the president since 1981. Mr. Meed is also president of the Warsaw Ghetto Resistance Organization and a member of the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Council in Washington. He introduced President Clinton at the White House reception honoring the opening of the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Museum. Mr. Meed was the principal organizer of five major Holocaust Survivor gatherings.

Vladka Meed, Chair, Education Committee, American Gathering/Federation of Jewish Holocaust Survivors
New York, New York

Mrs. Meed was born and resided in Warsaw when Hitler's armies conquered Poland. From the first days of the Nazi occupation she was a member of the Jewish underground. Due to Mrs. Meed's Aryan appearance she was summoned to work on the Aryan side of the Warsaw Ghetto wall for the underground movement. She smuggled weapons across the wall to the Jewish Fighting Organization in preparation of the Warsaw Ghetto Uprising. She helped Jews escape from the Ghetto and find shelter in the homes of Christians. As vice president of the Jewish Labor Committee, Mrs. Meed has run the Yiddish Cultural and Welfare Department for many years, covering those activities in the United States as well as Europe and Israel. She was responsible for the publication of the film strip "Warsaw Ghetto: Holocaust and Resistance." Mrs. Meed is a well known lecturer on Jewish life and resistance under the Nazis. She is an active member of the Educational Committee on the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Council in Washington. Her book, On Both Sides of the Wall, has been published in Yiddish, English, Hebrew, Spanish and Japanese. Mrs. Meed is also the initiator and director of the Annual American Teacher Seminars on Holocaust and Jewish Resistance, taking place in Israel, with a stop in Poland.

Edward J. Piszek, President, Copernicus Society of America
President, Liberty Bell Foundation
Fort Washington, Pennsylvania

Mr. Piszek, a first generation Polish-American, was born in 1916. His parents emigrated to the United States in the early 1900's from a small farm near Tarnow, in southern Poland. After initially settling in Chicago, his family moved to a farm in Quakertown, Pennsylvania. While working at the Campbell Soup Company and General Electric, Mr. Piszek attended night classes at the Wharton School at the University of Pennsylvania, graduating with a degree in business administration. In 1946, with $350 and the help of a close friend, he founded Mrs. Paul's Kitchen, Inc., one of America's leading producers of prepared frozen seafood and vegetables. In 1982, with sales in excess of $100 million, Mr. Piszek sold Mrs. Paul's to Campbell Soup.

In 1985, Mr. Piszek founded the Liberty Bell Foundation, a public charity founded to disseminate information and teaching materials related to the United States Constitution. Its mission was expanded in 1990 to include resource development on behalf of the Peace Corps' efforts in Eastern Europe. The project, "Peace Corps Partners in Teaching English," raises money to send English teachers to Poland and other European countries.

Mr. Piszek also founded the Copernicus Society of America, a non-profit private foundation whose mission is to inform those of Polish descent about their ethnic background.

Mr. Piszek is a personal friend of President Lech Walesa. President Walesa has stayed at Piszek's home while visiting the United States.

SUBJECT: POSITIONING OF RETAILERS

DATE: JUNE 17, 1994

I attach a copy of the position of the National Retail Federation indicating that they intend to "continue to deliver a strong no-mandate, no-trigger message in our communications to members of the House and Senate."

Clearly the authors of triggers have not gained favor with their retail constituency by doing so.

The retailer litany of talking points include:

- * triggers would distort the market, businesses would delay capital investment and expansion, reduce employment to fit the triggers;
- * a trigger will kill jobs and stifle wage growth in the retail industry;
- * a trigger in the future would be just as bad as a mandate today;
- * they want big firms which don't offer benefits to get the same benefits as small firms which don't offer them.

It would appear to me from this document that the retailers would certainly not "voluntarily" change their benefits programs if there were a soft or hard trigger, but would undoubtedly try to keep defeating it.

Task Force on Health Care Reform

FROM: Steve Plesner, Vice President, Director of Political Affairs SP

RE: EMPLOYER MANDATE "TRIGGER"

DATE: June 16, 1994

As you are aware, many key Members of Congress have recently offered their tentative support for a health care reform compromise which would implement a "trigger" on employer mandate at a future date in time if certain coverage thresholds were not achieved through market reform and other measures. NEF is strongly opposed to any mandate "trigger" and believes that members are using this tactic as political cover so they may "have it both ways" on the volatile issue of employer mandates.

The attached paper "The Truth About Triggers" will provide background information and talking points on this critical development. Clearly, we must continue to deliver a strong no-mandate, no-trigger message in our communications with Members of the House and Senate.

As always, if you have any questions or comments, please do not hesitate to contact me at 202/725-9571.

THE TRUTH ABOUT TRIGGERS

As Congressional support for the employer mandate wanes, several members of the House and Senate have settled upon the notion of using a so-called "hard trigger" mechanism to ensure that universal health coverage is achieved by a specified date. Each of the various "hard trigger" proposals which have been circulated (the most prominent of which has been offered by Senators Bator and Packwood) would provide for automatic implementation of an employer mandate if market-based reforms do not achieve specified coverage levels within a certain time frame. The "hard trigger" concept has been touted as a bridge to compromise between members who support voluntary, market-based reforms and those who favor a mandatory, top-down restructuring of our nation's health care delivery system.

But a mandate is still a mandate, regardless of when it is implemented. These "trigger" proposals are nothing but a placebo for members trying to straddle the ideological boundary between the market-based and regulatory approaches to health care reform. A vote for a "hard trigger" is a vote for an employer mandate -- it's that simple.

Implementation of an employer mandate via a "hard trigger" mechanism would have catastrophic consequences for the retail industry and our nation's overall economy, for the following reasons:

Imposing a mandatory "trigger" would be like holding a gun to the head of every business owner in America. As soon as a trigger is enacted, the market will become distorted as business owners start to plan for its potential implementation. Faced with such uncertainty, they will, at a minimum, delay capital investment and expansion. In addition, many firms would be motivated to actually reduce employment where the "trigger" is aimed according to firm size. For example, where a "trigger" would be pulled in year 4 for firms with 25 to 99 employees and in year 5 for firms with fewer than 25 employees, a company with 30 employees would have a huge incentive to lay off six workers in year three to postpone the pull of the "trigger" for two additional years. The threat of tomorrow's mandate will clearly shape today's economic reality.

Market forces, which might otherwise succeed in correcting much of the uninsured problem, will be stifled given an opportunity to work as firms operate in the shadow of the impending mandate. Recent studies conducted by Lewin-VHI and CBO both concluded that a voluntary, market-based approach with appropriate subsidies and insurance reforms would provide coverage for 91 percent of Americans.¹ Lewin-VHI also found that approximately 97 percent of all health spending would be covered by insurance because the majority of those who would remain uninsured would be younger, healthier individuals who are low users of care.²

National Retail Federation

Congress should give the newly reformed market a chance to succeed before imposing unduly burdensome requirements on employers.

- > A hard idea isn't like a fine wine -- it doesn't improve with age. Tomorrow's employer mandate will be just as destructive to jobs and the economy as today's. A mandate -- whenever implemented -- will kill jobs and stifle wage growth in the retail industry. Unlike higher-wage industries which can shift forms of compensation to defray greater health care costs, the retail industry cannot shift the increased labor costs imposed by a mandate back onto wages. Nor can retailers pass these cost increases onto customers through price increases. Most retail employers would have no choice but to cut jobs or reduce work hours in order to meet the staggering health insurance bills they would face under an employer mandate -- delayed or otherwise.

A study conducted by Nathan Associates, Inc. for the National Retail Federation conservatively estimated that at least 500,000 retail jobs would be eliminated under an employer mandate.³ The Employment Policies Institute estimates that retail job losses could total 724,000 under an employer mandate.⁴

Opponents of employer mandates must not succumb to "feel good" measures which are aimed more at providing cover for members than coverage for Americans. A vote for a "hard trigger" is a vote for an employer mandate, plain and simple.

- > Congress shouldn't just close its eyes and shoot. Congress does not -- and cannot -- know now what the future holds for our nation's economy. It is therefore sheer folly for members to presume that they can know now what the best way to achieve universal coverage will be in three, five, or seven years. In the face of double digit unemployment, would implementation of a mandate be the wisest course? Surely not. But under the "hard trigger," today's decision irrevocably seals tomorrow's fate.

In addition, the "triggering" of an employer mandate will have serious fiscal consequences for the Federal government. Potential subsidy obligations will place a huge question mark in the Federal budget -- but the "trigger" will fire at date certain, regardless of its impact on the deficit.

After implementing market-based reforms, Congress should adopt a wait and see approach before setting in motion an irreversible force that could destroy the economy.

- > Narrate has successfully fired a trigger yet. In 1982, Massachusetts enacted a delayed employer mandate. The state's economy steadily declined thereafter and implementation of the mandate has been postponed again and again due to fear to further decline. In Oregon, the only other state to enact a "trigger" proposal, the "hard trigger" has been delayed twice, moving implementation from 1994 to 1998 -- nine years from the date of enactment.

National Retail Federation
June 15, 1994

Congress should not hang the success of its health care reform efforts on a concept with such a poor track record.

- > Some proposed "triggers" are based on an unrealistic definition of "universal coverage." Even in Hawaii, which has an employer mandate, only 93 percent of the population has health insurance. Trigger proposals (such as that floated by Senate Finance Committee Chairman Moynihan) which threaten to drop the mandate banner unless 95 to 99 percent of employees have health insurance by a specified date ignore the very real possibility that universal compliance could be unachievable for reasons beyond an employer's willingness or unwillingness to provide health insurance coverage for its workers. For example, employees (especially young and/or part-time workers earning low wages) might be unwilling to bear even 20 percent of the cost of health insurance. Should an employer fire a worker who refuses to pay his/her insurance premiums in order to avoid pulling the mandate trigger?

The various "hard trigger" proposals erroneously assume that a failure to achieve "universal coverage" (however defined) is necessarily the fault of the business community.

- > Most proposed triggers are wrongly aimed at businesses according to size, rather than coverage gaps. The same principles which support the extension of special treatment (via subsidies or delayed implementation dates) to small, low-wage employers apply with equal force to all low-wage employers. A physician group with five employees and an average annual wage of $50,000 is arguably better able to afford to purchase health insurance for its employees than a 100-employee retail business with an average annual wage of $10,000. As is apparent from this example, it is not so much the size of a business, but rather its compensation structure which dictates the impact an employer mandate would have on it.

In addition, by tying the "hard trigger" to firm size, most proposals exert significant downward pressure on job growth in small businesses. A small employer will hesitate seriously before hiring employee number 25 or 100 when doing so will cause the "trigger" to first years earlier.

Penalizing employers and employees based on firm size alone lacks a compelling rationale and is an inefficient and off-point attempt to appear sympathetic to small business concerns.

MEMORANDUM FOR (Distribution List Attached)

FROM: Mike Schmidt, Domestic Policy Council

SUBJECT: Meeting on Amendments to the Indian Gaming Regulatory Act (IGRA)

As you may know, Senator Inouye will be introducing amendments to the Indian Gaming Regulatory Act (IGRA) during the week of June 6. The Act has not been amended since its inception in 1988, and its implementation over the past five years has sparked a great deal of controversy and litigation between the States and a number of Tribes. Up to this point, the Administration has stayed relatively neutral on the subject of amending IGRA while actively supporting the "Inouye Process" of negotiations between the States and the Tribes. Unfortunately, this process has stalled in recent months, having reached no agreement on a number of important issues including the scope of gaming. This breakdown in the process led Senator Inouye to promise to introduce amendments to IGRA in early June. The Administration will be asked to testify sometime this Summer or early this Fall.

I would like to meet on Wednesday, May 25, at 2:00 in room 211 OEOB to discuss the Administration's position on the major issue surrounding Indian Gaming and possible amendments to IGRA. At this meeting, we will take a broad look at the scope of issues that need to be addressed, and decide on a tentative schedule for additional meetings. If your office has any written position papers or other relevant materials, please bring copies to the meeting. Please call me at 456-5567 to let me know who will be attending from your office.

SUBJECT: MEETING WITH COUNCIL OF PRESIDENTS OF MAJOR AMERICAN JEWISH ORGANIZATIONS

I am in receipt of the "draft" of your scheduling request for the above mentioned meeting.

As you know, it is the responsibility of the Office of Public Liaison to do outreach to all constituency groups including this one. There is no recognition in this request that OPL has a strong working relationship with the Jewish community and that OPL has included the major organizations in enumerable meetings and events with The President, The Vice President, the Secretary of State and others. Additionally there is no acknowledgement that OPL has a comprehensive strategy for meetings and appearance by The President and the other principals which includes a meeting with The Council of Presidents. Amy Zisook told Lester Pollack at a meeting of "Peace Builders" in December, that we would schedule a meeting "early next year." Inasmuch as we were limited in our time frame for the meeting with The World Jewish Congress, we decided to hold this meeting for another month. It is disappointing to me that he and others feel it necessary to circumvent our office. Most egregious however is your exclusion of Alexis Herman and Amy Zisook in the meeting. I don't need to tell you that the ramifications of a meeting with major American Jewish organizations goes well beyond foreign policy and is more of a domestic political nature.

I would appreciate it if you would withdraw your current request and we re-submit a joint request of a more comprehensive nature.

I hope that you and I can resume our regular meetings so that we can work together on a variety of issues and avoid further problems such as this in the future.

NBCSL OVERVIEW

It was the perception of a growing number of African American elected officials in the 1970s that much of the focus of government was being shifted from the federal to the state level. Responding to this perception, and recognizing that African American elected officials can secure parity for their constituents through the state legislatures, 90 African American state legislators founded the National Black Caucus of State Legislators (NBCSL) in Nashville, Tennessee in 1977. Today NBCSL represents some 550 members in 42 states and the U.S. Virgin Islands.

Headquartered in the Hall of the States Building in Washington, D.C., the national office of NBCSL serves as a central clearinghouse and distribution center. Its staff monitors national, state and local legislation with emphasis towards the impact, actual or potential, of these laws upon the African American community.

The National Executive Committee sets policy and governs the activities of the organization. national officers are elected by the regular membership and serve a term of two years. Each national officer, together with the chairperson of each Regional Caucus and appointed regular members, serve as the National Executive Committee.

NBCSL currently offers two categories of membership:

1. Legislative - These are African Americans elected to state legislatures (voting membership).
2. Private Sector - This is a special category of corporate representatives and labor organizations who act as an advisory committee.

NBCSL MISSION STATEMENT

The primary mission of the National Black Caucus of State Legislators is to develop, conduct and promote educational, research and training programs designed to enhance the effectiveness of its members, as they consider legislation and issues of public policy which impact, either directly or indirectly upon "general welfare" of African American constituents within their respective jurisdictions.

NBCSL OBJECTIVES

In support of its mission, NBCSL has adopted the following fundamental objectives:

- 1. To serve as a national network and clearinghouse for the discussion, dissemination and exchange of ideas and information among African American state legislators and their staffs;
- 2. To provide research, training and educational services to African American state legislators and their staffs;
- 3. To improve the effectiveness and quality of African American state legislators; and
- 4. To serve as a strong, united and effective advocate for African American state legislators and their constituencies at the Federal level.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

FROM: Leon E. Panetta
Director

SUBJECT: Proposed Executive Order Entitled "Implementation of the National Voter Registration Act of 1993"

SUMMARY: This memorandum forwards for your consideration a proposed Executive order that was prepared by the White House Office of Political Affairs ("Political Affairs"). The proposed order would direct Executive branch departments and agencies ("agencies") to take certain actions to expedite their implementation of the National Voter Registration Act of 1993 ("Act").

BACKGROUND: The passage of the Act last year has been one of the significant accomplishments of this Administration. To energize the agencies to take action to implement the Act, Political Affairs requests that you issue the proposed Executive order.

The proposed order would direct the agencies to: (a) provide guidance to state agencies for the implementation of the Act, including guidance for use and distribution of voter registration forms; (b) assist state agencies with the costs of the implementation of the Act consistent with legal authority and availability of funds; and (c) designate an office to be available to provide technical assistance to state agencies. Further, it would direct the Secretary of Defense to work with appropriate state elections authorities in each state to develop procedures for persons to register to vote at Armed Forces recruitment offices as required by the Act.

None of the affected agencies objects to the proposed Executive order.

RECOMMENDATION: I recommend that you sign the proposed Executive order.

Honorable Janet Reno
United States Attorney General
Washington, D.C. 20530

Dear Madam Attorney General:

Enclosed in accordance with the provisions of Executive Order No. 11030, as amended, is a proposed Executive order entitled "Implementation of the National Voter Registration Act of 1993." The proposed order, which was prepared the White House Office of Political Affairs ("Political Affairs"), would direct Executive branch departments and agencies ("agencies") to take certain actions to expedite their implementation of the National Voter Registration Act of 1993 ("Act").

The passage of the Act last year has been one of the significant accomplishments of this Administration. To energize the agencies to take action to implement the Act, Political Affairs requests that the President issue the proposed Executive order.

The proposed order would direct the agencies to: (a) provide guidance to state agencies for the implementation of the Act, including guidance for use and distribution of voter registration forms; (b) assist state agencies with the costs of the implementation of the Act consistent with legal authority and availability of funds; and (c) designate an office to be available to provide technical assistance to state agencies. Further, it would direct the Secretary of Defense to work with appropriate state elections authorities in each state to develop procedures for persons to register to vote at Armed Forces recruitment offices as required by the Act.

Your staff may direct any questions concerning this proposed Executive order to Mac Reed of this office (202-395-3563).

This proposed Executive order has the approval of the Director of the Office of Management and Budget.

Sincerely,

 Robert G. Damus
General Counsel

EXECUTIVE ORDER

- - - - -

IMPLEMENTATION OF THE NATIONAL VOTER REGISTRATION ACT OF 1993

By the authority vested in me as President by the Constitution and the laws of the United States of America, including section 301 of title 3, United States Code, and in order to ensure, as required by section 7(b) of the National Voter Registration Act of 1993 (42 USC 1973gg) ("the Act"), that departments, agencies and other entities of the Executive branch of the Federal Government cooperate with the states in carrying out the Act's requirements, it is hereby ordered as follows:

Section 1. Assistance to States. To the greatest extent practicable, departments, agencies and other entities of the Executive branch of the Federal Government which provide, in whole or in part, funding, grants or assistance for, or with respect to the administration of, any program of public assistance or services to persons with disabilities within the meaning of section 7(a) of the Act shall:

(a) provide, to state agencies administering any such program, guidance for the implementation of the requirements of section 7 of the Act, including guidance for use and distribution of voter registration forms in connection with applications for service;

(b) assist each such state agency administering any such program with the costs of implementation of the Act, consistent with legal authority and the availability of funds, and promptly indicate to each state agency the extent to which such assistance will be made available; and

(c) designate an office or staff to be available to provide technical assistance to such state agencies.

Sec. 2. Armed Forces Recruitment Offices. The Secretary of Defense is directed to work with the appropriate state elections authorities in each state to develop procedures for persons to apply to register to vote at Armed Forces recruitment offices as required by section 7(c) of the Act.

Sec. 3. Acceptance of Designation. To the greatest extent practicable, departments, agencies or other entities of the Executive branch of the Federal Government, if requested to be designated as a voter registration agency pursuant to section 7(a)(3)(B)(ii) of the Act, shall: (a) agree to such a designation if agreement is consistent with the department's, agency's, or entity's legal authority and availability of funds, and (b) ensure that all of its offices that are located in a particular state will have available to the public at least one of the national voter registration forms which are required under the Act to be available in that state.

President William J. Clinton
Remarks at Signing of "Freedom of Access to Clinic Entrances Act"
May 26, 1994
(Draft)

[Acknowledgments, need confirmation from Advance; should include: Vice President Gore, Senator Kennedy, Representatives Schumer and Brooks. Also, David and Wendy Gunn, children of Dr. David Gunn, who was killed in Pensacola, Florida.]

I want to thank Attorney General Reno for her words here today and for her determination to make this day possible.

Enacting this bill to provide freedom of access to clinics has been a priority of my Administration because protecting the freedoms of our citizens is chief among the responsibilities of the President.

This bill is designed to eliminate violence and coercion wherever it might occur. It is not a strike against First Amendment rights. Far from it -- it insures that all our citizens have the opportunity to exercise their rights under the Constitution.

At the same time, this bill mandates that all our citizens also act in accordance with the Constitution. Reasonable people may disagree about abortion, but when disagreement escalates to the point that the freedoms of law-abiding citizens are infringed upon or shut off -- as happens too often, then the law must be applied.

This law isn't about any belief other than a belief in the document that protects the freedoms belonging to us all: the Constitution.

We are a nation committed to rule of law. It is what keeps us civilized and protects our liberties as individuals and as a nation.

As such, we cannot and we will not allow the brazen attacks, incidents of arson and outright campaigns of intimidation that have cast a shadow over our liberties.

We cannot allow vigilantes to restrict the rights of American women. No person seeking medical care, no physician providing that care should have to endure harassment, threats, obstruction, intimidation -- or worse.

What happened to the father of Wendy and David Gunn, Dr. David Gunn, should never have happened.

The shooting attack that wounded Dr. George Tiller in Wichita, Kansas, should not have happened.

A young doctor in Rhode Island should not have to worry that his wife and children will suffer further because people who disagree with his work think they can commit vandalism on his property with impunity.

Thousands of other providers of reproductive services and the people who go to these providers should not have to cope with an environment of fear.

Now, with this legislation, we will have a law with teeth to deal with those who take part in these unlawful activities.

Because of the violence it will curb, the lives and property it will protect, and the Constitutional right of women that it will uphold, the "Freedom of Access to Clinic Entrances Act" becomes law today.

If Senator Kennedy and Representative Schumer will join me, I will enact it now, with my signature.

FROM: Carol H. Rasco CH
SUBJECT: Immunization Program

Wendy is going for Doris

I apologize for the late notice for this meeting. I have scheduled a briefing for this Friday, April 1 in the Roosevelt Room at 10 a.m. by HHS to include representatives from Public Health Services, HCFA, and CDC in Atlanta on the immunization program passed last year and due to take effect in October. I scheduled this meeting due to serious concerns brought to my attention by various states and other advocacy groups about the perceived inadequacy of the planning to date by the various divisions of HHS for this program. A failure of this program in October and publicity about not being prepared prior to that time could be devastating for health care reform, the future of this program---not to mention the need for immunization of children.

I have already included in the meeting DPC staff and OMB along with Sara Rosenbaum who is working with me on this program. Attached to this memo is the original memo that went to HHS regarding my request. I don't have other background materials to give you as HHS has not provided anything. While the meeting is scheduled for one hour I am prepared for it to last up to one and a half hours if necessary.

You or a designee are invited to attend if you wish. For planning purposes please indicate ASAP to Rosalyn Miller (by EMail or x62216) in my office if you plan to be present or have someone present. Also, you are certainly free to simply take this as an FYI; it is not a plea on my part for attendance but I did want you to know about it.

Thank you.

MEMORANDUM FOR KEVIN THURM

FROM: Carol H. Rasco

SUBJECT: Immunization Meeting

With the Vaccines for Children Program scheduled to go into effect in about 6 months, I would like to schedule a meeting at the White House to review the status of the following issues:

- the vaccine purchase contracts with the manufacturers
- the provider delivery system the Secretary will be using
- instructions to state Medicaid agencies regarding provider outreach and enrollment, state obligations with respect to ordering vaccines for participating providers, and conditions under which FFP is available for these activities as part of states' overall EPSDT program
- eligibility standards for children
- instructions to state health agencies and other agencies regarding supplemental vaccine purchasing
- special outreach efforts aimed at uninsured, underinsured and Indian children
- special outreach efforts aimed at enrolling providers
- any other matters related to the implementation of the program

As I understand it, CDC now has lead responsibility for this program; if at all possible, I would like to have personnel from Atlanta at the meeting along with other appropriate senior PHS staff. I also think that because HCFA in many ways will continue to play a pivotal role, senior staff from that agency also should be present.

I particularly want to know if any problems in implementation have come up, what they are, and how they are being resolved.

I have asked Rosalyn Miller in my office to expect a call from you so that mutually agreeable dates can be explored. If HHS wishes to prepare background briefing materials, I would welcome them.

MDMORANDUM TO ALEXIS

FROM: DORIS

RE: SR. WOMEN APPOINTEE RECEPTION
MARCH 24, 1994
4:30 PM, East Room

Invitations need to go out this week for this event. It will be difficult to limit the guest list unless we stick with PAS and certain PA in the White House. Working with Presidential Personnel, the attached lists are our current working lists. Judging by the individuals on the lists and their current assignments (in town or out of town), we will probably have about 180 to 200 individuals present.

Ann Stock wants to know how to phrase the invitation. I agree with her that "honoring Senior Women Appointees " may not be the appropriate phrase. Maybe we should just say " in honor of Women's History Month". That will probably also provide us some political cover.

We should also think about whether other women leaders ought to be included. That is a very private conversation that you and I should have. It could also open up a can of worms.

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH & HUMAN SERVICES

Office of the Secretary
Administration on Aging

Washington, D.C. 20201

April 11, 1994

MEMORANDUM

TO: Ricki Seidman
Counselor to the Chief of Staff

cc: Alexis Herman
Mike Lux

FROM: Fernando M. Torres-Gil, Assistant Secretary for Aging, and Bob Blancato, Executive Director, White House
Conference on Aging

SUBJECT: OLDER AMERICANS MONTH 1994

As you may be aware, May has traditionally been proclaimed Older Americans Month. This is a month set aside to formally acknowledge the vast contributions of our Nation's millions of older Americans. Last year, President Clinton held a memorable ceremony at the White House in honor of this special month, which was attended by representatives of the National Leadership Council of Aging Organizations, key Congressional Members, senior citizens, aging trade press and others.

Both the Administration on Aging and the White House Conference on Aging are planning or are involved in various events during the month of May to highlight this special month. The Administration on Aging has selected the theme of "Celebrating Long Life and Good Health" for this year, and has as its slogan, "Aging: An Experience of a Lifetime." In addition, the Administration on Aging has prepared its annual proclamation for the President's approval and signature which is currently being reviewed in the White House Proclamation Office.

We are writing to you, at the suggestion of Alexis Herman, to call your attention to the status of Older Americans Month, and to request that you consider planning a similar event this May to honor older Americans. It would serve a variety of symbolic and strategic purposes. Not only would it continue to demonstrate the President's commitment to America's older citizens, it would fall during the time when debate will be occurring on the Health Security Act, and there will be much focus paid to the issues of concern to seniors. In addition, it would provide the President with a natural and visible platform at which to announce the appointments of the 1995 White House Conference on Aging Policy Committee, names which are currently being considered.

We respectfully recommend your consideration and attention to this issue, and hope that you will feel free to contact either of us should you have any questions.

MEMORANDUM FOR WHITE HOUSE STAFF MESS MEMBERS

FROM: ALPHONSO MALDON, JR. A Maldon
DEPUTY ASSISTANT TO THE PRESIDENT AND DIRECTOR, WHITE HOUSE MILITARY OFFICE

SUBJECT: Notice of Limited Service and Closure in the White House Staff Mess

Due to the overseas travel schedule of the President in June, the mess will not be open for evening carry-out service from Wednesday, June 1st, through Wednesday, June 8th, 1994, and will be closed on Saturday, June 4, 1994.

Thank you for your understanding.

MAY 24, 1994

MEMORANDUM TO: ANN STOCK

FROM: STEVE HILTON

SUBJECT: VETERANS SERVICE ORGANIZATIONS

It seems that we have a recurring problem when the Social Secretary's Office invites the heads of the Veterans Service Organizations to White House events. Evidently, when your office calls to invite the National Commander of a Veterans Service Organization, you do not permit them to substitute some other senior official. This has posed problems in the past and also posed a problem yesterday for the Medal of Honor Ceremony.

The National Commander of Veterans Service Organizations is not based in Washington. Therefore, unless it is a very significant activity at the White House, or we give the Commanders ample advance notice, it is unlikely that a Commander will attend. Therefore, when dealing with Veterans Service Organizations we must allow the organization to designate some other individual, normally the Executive Director of that organization.

Yesterday, the two largest and most significant Veterans Service Organizations, the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, did not attend the Medal of Honor Ceremony. Although your office invited the National Commanders, these organizations are vocally unhappy because their Executive Directors were not invited. The solution is simple: in the future we should invite the National Commander or his designated representative and we will avoid political embarrassment. Please feel free to call me if you have any questions.

Thanks.

MEMORANDUM

TO: OPL STAFF
FROM: DANNY
SUBJECT: INVITEE LIST FOR SWEARING IN OF THE PRESIDENT'S COUNCIL ON PHYSICAL FITNESS
DATE: MAY 25, 1994

Next Tuesday, May 31, is the swearing in of the President's Council of Physical Fitness and Sports. The event will be at 11:00 am in the Rose Garden (rain site, 450 OEOB).

If you have suggestions for invitees, please give them to be by the close of business today. The invites will be handled through the social office. The staff contact is Ann Bartley in the Office of the First Lady.

Also if you would like to see a list of names suggested by PCPFS, let me know.

23 MAY 1994
TO: ALEXIS HERMAN
FROM: ERNEST WILSON EW
SUBJECT: PROPOSED MEETING ON PUBLIC ENGAGEMENT

I met today with Tara Sonenshine, the NSC staff charged with long range press strategies, to discuss an interagency working group on public diplomacy and engagement.

She stressed the urgency of getting such a group launched, and suggested we hold a first meeting next Wednesday. We have booked the Roosevelt Room for 1:30 on Wednesday June 1. We have invited the 'long range' press people from State, DoD, USAID, USIA and Commerce, and Tara and myself from NSC.

I believe that you or someone from your office should participate. We intend to hold these meetings once a month. Let me know who you will send from your office. Also, are there others in the White House we should invite??
