Comments:

• This memo was supposed to be reviewed by me before finalization. The language and start date (should be after March 1) is still unacceptable. The language needs to reflect what we discussed.

* It is critical to get on paper written confirmation of the 2nd detail to Education. Last year, a 2nd detail was derived and we don't want to go through this process again!! (They said the regulations didn't permit it)

• There is no mention of White House Council activities. There is no regulation to this effect

• I appreciate your help with this.

SUBJECT: Assignment to the Department of Agriculture

This memo clarifies aspects of your temporary duty assignment to the US Department of Agriculture (USDA).

Assignment

As a result of a request from the Secretary, USDA, and your expressed desire for this assignment, I am providing you a temporary duty (TDY) assignment to the Office of the Secretary, USDA. This assignment will be for a six-month period and will begin on February 22, 2000. I will determine the nature and location of potential future TDY assignments in consultation with you at a future date. This assignment is consistent with Commissioned Corps policies.

Supervision and Points of Contact

During this TDY assignment, your point of contact in the Office of Public Health and Science, DHHS, will be the Principal Deputy Assistant Secretary for Health (PDASH). Your day-to-day supervisor will be the Secretary, USDA, or an individual whom he designates. Upon commencement of the USDA assignment, it is your responsibility to provide the PDASH with the name, phone number, and other contact information of the individual so designated, as well as your USDA phone number and other contact information. In addition, any major changes in your responsibilities or venues for your work should be discussed with the PDASH.

Purpose of the Assignment

The purpose of the TDY assignment is to identify opportunities to improve the health of the public on issues mutually agreed upon by the Secretary, USDA, or his designees, and the DHHS PDASH.

You are expected to use your knowledge and expertise as a senior PHS officer and psychiatrist in achieving these goals.

Unless specifically noted, this assignment does not authorize you to speak for the Assistant Secretary for Health and Surgeon General, the DHHS, or the Commissioned Corps of the Public Health Service, or to make any commitments on their behalf.

Public Appearances

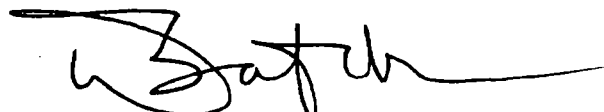

Regarding the issue of public appearances, provided you have the approval of USDA, you may continue speaking on a broad array of public health issues as you have been doing. However, please recall that any public appearances must be consistent with USDA and DHHS policies, as well as the Standards of Conduct applicable to Commissioned Officers. I have attached a copy of the latter document for your reference. Furthermore:

- Any public appearance limited solely to USDA-related issues or activities will require clearance through USDA, in conformance with appropriate USDA guidelines and policies.
- We expect USDA will contact us in advance regarding public appearances on health and public health related issues and those jointly involving USDA and DHHS, and to work out potential problems with us. Questions regarding these matters can be directed to the Deputy Surgeon General or the PDASH.

The Executive Officer, OPHS, is the point of contact for DHHS ethics clearance. In order to assure timely review, you should submit any requests for clearance in writing at least 14 days in advance of the proposed activity, wherever feasible.

For further guidance, I refer you to the Commissioned Corps Standards of Conduct, particularly pages 4-6, as well as appropriate Commissioned Corps Personnel Manual issuances.

I am eager to make your assignment at USDA one that is both professionally satisfying and that contributes significantly to the health of the public. I look forward to hearing about your progress and accomplishments.

Dear Secretary Glickman:

Per your request, I am pleased to assign RADM Susan Blumenthal to the US Department of Agriculture (USDA) for a period of 6 months, beginning on February 22, 2000.

The purpose of this assignment is to identify opportunities to improve the health of the public on issues mutually agreed upon by our offices.

I understand that you have offered to be responsible for working out the details of RADM Blumenthal's public appearances. My understanding is that any public appearance limited solely to USDA-related issues will be dealt with in USDA. We expect USDA will contact us in advance regarding public appearances on health and public health related issues and those jointly involving USDA and DHHS, and to work out potential problems with us. Please feel free to contact my principal deputy, Dr. Nicole Lurie, or the Deputy Surgeon General, RADM Kenneth Moritsugu in this regard.

I am eager to make RADM Blumenthal's assignment to USDA one that is both professionally satisfying and that contributes significantly to the health of the public.

U.S. Assistant Surgeon General and Rear Admiral
Senior Science Advisor to the Surgeon General
Former Deputy Assistant Secretary for Health (Women's Health)
U.S. Department of Health and Human Services

Clinical Professor of Psychiatry
Georgetown and Tufts University Schools of Medicine

A champion for improving the health of Americans, Susan J. Blumenthal, M.D., M.P.A. is a national expert in women's health and mental illness. Her leadership has been a major force in bringing these important public health issues to scientific and public attention, helping to place them at the forefront of our country's health care agenda. Dr. Blumenthal serves as U.S. Assistant Surgeon General, Rear Admiral, and Senior Science Advisor in the Department of Health and Human Services, where her work focuses on a broad range of public health and science issues facing the Nation. She is also a Clinical Professor of Psychiatry at Georgetown School of Medicine and Tufts University Medical Center and this year serves as the Visiting Professor of Women's Studies at Brandeis University.

In April 1994, Dr. Blumenthal was appointed as the country's first Deputy Assistant Secretary for Women's Health within the Department of Health and Human Services. In this position, she developed innovative national initiatives and coordinated research, services and education programs and activities across the agencies of the Department of Health and Human Services including NIH, CDC and the FDA, ensuring that our national health programs targeted the unique needs of women. She also worked with other governmental organizations, consumer and health care professional groups to advance women's health in the United States and internationally. Her many accomplishments include developing a coordinated national approach to women's health that dramatically increased attention to these issues, establishing National Centers of Excellence on Women's Health at academic centers across the country to serve as models for women's health care nationwide, developing a National Women's Health Information Center that links thousands of women's health resources through a toll free telephone number and on the internet, establishing a focus on women's mental health issues and violence against women, fostering international partnerships, and initiating a unique collaboration with the CIA, NASA and DOD called "From Missiles to Mammograms" that has transferred imaging technology used for military and space purposes to improve the early detection of breast cancer. Dr. Blumenthal also served as Co-chair and was responsible for the coordination and implementation of the National Action Plan for Breast Cancer. For the 12 years prior to this appointment, she directed major national research programs at the National Institutes of Health.

Dr. Blumenthal is a member of numerous governmental and professional organization committees including having served as a member of the President's Interagency Council on Women. She has served as the United States representative to the World Health Organization's Global Commission on Women's Health and as Chair of the Federal Coordinating Committees on Breast Cancer and on Women's Health and the Environment, and as Co-Chair of the Department of Health and Human Service's Steering Committee on Domestic Violence. Dr. Blumenthal has authored numerous scientific articles and books. She writes a monthly health column for Elle magazine and served as Host and Medical Director for an award winning 13 part television series on women's health including a program on eating disorders. Dr. Blumenthal has received numerous awards from health care professional and consumer organizations including honorary doctorates and several of the highest honors of the United States Public Health Service for her outstanding scientific contributions and distinguished national leadership in improving the health of our Nation. She has been named by the New York Times as one of the top twelve doctors in the women's health field, by the Ladies' Home Journal as one of the ten most important women doctors in the country and by the Medical Herald as one of the twenty most influential women in medicine. 2/3/00

SUBJECT: Assignment to US Department of Agriculture

This memo clarifies aspects of your temporary duty assignment to the US Department of Agriculture (USDA), and reviews standing policies of the Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) and the Commissioned Corps of the Public Health Service that are applicable to this assignment.

Assignment

As a result of a request from the Secretary, USDA, and your expressed desire for this assignment, I am providing you a temporary duty (TDY) assignment to the Office of the Secretary, USDA. This assignment will be for a six-month period, and will begin on or about 01 January 2000. I will determine the nature and location of potential future TDY assignments in consultation with you at a future date. This assignment is consistent with Commissioned Corps policies.

Supervision and Points of Contact

During this TDY assignment, your point of contact in the Office of Public Health and Science, DHHS, will be the Principal Deputy Assistant Secretary for Health (PDASH). Your day-to-day supervisor will be the Secretary, USDA, or an individual whom he designates. Upon commencement of the USDA assignment, it is your responsibility to provide the PDASH with the name, phone number and other contact information of the individual so designated, as well as your USDA phone number and other contact information.

Purpose of the Assignment

The purpose of the TDY assignment is to identify opportunities to improve the health of the public on issues mutually agreed upon by the Secretary, USDA, or his designee, and the PDASH.

You are expected to use your knowledge and expertise as a senior PHS officer and psychiatrist in achieving these goals.

Public Appearances

Because you had requested clarification regarding the issue of public appearances, I am outlining a set of guidelines consistent with DHHS, USDA, and Commissioned Corps policies in this area. Developed in conjunction with USDA, these guidelines articulate the clearance process for such appearances. Public appearances include, but are not limited to, speaking engagements, interviews, and media events, on a regular or intermittent basis, sponsored by governmental as well as non-governmental entities. ~~Provided you have the approval of USDA, you may continue speaking on a broad array of public health issues as you have been doing. Please recall that any public appearance must be consistent with USDA and DHHS policies, as well as the Standards of Conduct applicable to Commissioned Officers. I have attached a copy of the latter document for your reference, but in summary,~~

o Any public appearance limited solely to USDA-related issues or activities, will require clearance through USDA, in conformance with appropriate USDA guidelines and policies.

Any public appearance involving issues shared by USDA and DHHS, such as food safety, bioterrorism, will require clearance by both USDA and DHHS.

Any public appearance on issues specific to DHHS, as well as all other activities on official time unrelated to USDA-only, shared USDA/DHHS, or DHHS-only issues, require concept and ethics clearance through DHHS, as is currently the case.

~~The USDA will approve and clear public appearances and travels before they may be made.~~
The Executive Officer, OPHS, is the point of contact for DHHS ethics clearance, the Director of Communications, OPHS, is the point of contact for DHHS concept clearance. In order to assure timely review, you should submit any requests for ~~clearance~~ ^{concept} in writing at least 14 days in advance of the proposed activity, wherever feasible.

For further guidance, I refer you to the Commissioned Corps Standards of Conduct, particularly pages 4-6, as well as appropriate Commissioned Corps Personnel Manual issuances.

I am eager to make your assignment at USDA one that is both professionally satisfying and that contributes significantly to the health of the public. I look forward to hearing about your progress and accomplishments.

RE: Assignment to US Department of Agriculture

This memo concerns TDY assignments from your current billet as Senior Advisor to the Assistant Secretary for Health/Surgeon General and Assistant Surgeon General.

I have approved TDY assignments to the Department of Agriculture to begin on or around ~~15 February~~ ^{March 1}, 2000 and to the Department of Education that will commence on or around ~~August 15~~ ^{Sept 1}, 2000. Each temporary assignment will be for a six month period.

Supervision and Point of Contact

Your point of contact in the Office of Public Health and Science during these TDY assignments will be the Principal Deputy Assistant Secretary of Health. Your day-to-day supervisor while at the USDA will be Secretary Dan Glickman or an individual whom he designates. Your daily supervisor at the Department of Education will be Secretary Richard Reilly or an individual whom he designates. Upon commencement of the USDA and Department of Education assignments, it is your responsibility to provide the PDASH with the name, phone number and other contact information of the individual so designated, as well as your USDA and Department of Education phone numbers and other contact information. In accordance with Commissioned Corps policy for temporary details, your COER while on TDY will be completed by your supervisor at the temporary duty station; the reviewing official will be the P-DASH.

Purpose of the Assignments

The purpose of these assignments are to identify opportunities to improve the health of the public on issues mutually agreed upon by the Secretary, USDA, the Secretary of Education and you, ~~immediately after the P-DASH~~. On these assignments to USDA and the Department of Education, you will serve as Senior Advisor to the Secretary for Public Health and Science. During this time period, you will also be working with the White House on violence prevention.

You may continue speaking on a broad array of public health issues as you have been doing and serve as a Visiting Professor of Women Studies at Brandeis University. ~~However~~ ^{million} The USDA and Department of Education will provide clearance and ethics approval for public appearances and prepare travel orders (if they should be required). If the USDA or Department of Education should have questions concerning conflict of interest issues (particularly when it may involve sponsored travel), the Executive Officer, OPHS, will be the point of contact for providing DHHS ethics review and clearance.

Since you are on TDY, your phone number, voice mail and e-mail will be retained in the Office of the Surgeon General (OSG). Your office space in the OSG may be used by others while you are on TDY but will be available to you again when you return from temporary duty assignments.

I am eager that your assignments while on TDY will be both professionally satisfying and will contribute to improving the health of the Nation. I look forward to hearing about your progress and accomplishments.

Dear Selection Committee:

I am very pleased to nominate RADM Susan J. Blumenthal, M.D., M.P.A., Assistant Surgeon General in the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services for the Good Housekeeping Award for Women in Government in recognition of her national leadership, innovation in government, and the far reaching impact her work has had on advancing women's health in the United States. As the Assistant Secretary for Health in the Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) from 1993-1997, I recruited Dr. Blumenthal to serve as the Director of the U.S. Public Health Service's Office on Women's Health (the focal point for women's health in the DHHS) and was her supervisor for three years.

As the country's first appointed Deputy Assistant Secretary for Health (Women's Health), a new position created by the Clinton Administration in 1994, Dr. Blumenthal's work has made an indelible mark on women's health in the United States. She has been a major force in placing women's health at the forefront of our national health care agenda and has been a leader in both exposing and redressing the inequities in women's health. During this period, Dr. Blumenthal led the Department's development and implementation of a comprehensive national strategy in research, health care service delivery, public education, and health professional training to advance women's health in the United States and internationally. During her tenure, funding for women's health programs in the Department of Health and Human Services increased to $4.2 billion, an increase of over $1 billion in just four years. And for the first time, Dr. Blumenthal developed a Federal infrastructure to advance women's health weaving a focus on these issues into the fabric of all Departmental health agencies and appointing DHHS regional coordinators to increase the focus on women's health at the state and local levels. She also mobilized all government agencies to work on women's health issues.

She believed that by bringing together the skills, expertise and resources of different disciplines and federal departments, new programs could be catalyzed to improve women's health. For these reasons she established and chaired new Federal Coordinating Committees on many women's health issues including environmental health concerns and breast cancer. The innovative Federal initiatives she championed resulted in the development of many new public-private partnerships that leveraged additional resources, have brought interest in the field to new heights, and has had a critical impact on advancing women's health policy, research and programs in ways not previously accomplished in the Federal government.

Given this context, highlighted below are three examples of her accomplishments in women's health that I believe best exemplify the kind of innovation, impact and creativity she has brought to government service that is being sought for this Good Housekeeping Award:

- The "Missiles to Mammograms" initiative that has transferred defense imaging technology to improve breast cancer detection.

A hallmark in Dr. Blumenthal's activities in women's health has been her national leadership role and passionate advocacy in the fight against breast cancer. She was responsible for the coordination of breast cancer programs in the Department of Health and Human Services and in this capacity fostered increased public and scientific attention to a broad spectrum of scientific and policy issues on this public health problem. Dr. Blumenthal envisioned and brought to reality new methods of breast cancer detection, adapting imaging technologies for missile detection and target recognition from the Central Intelligence Agency, Department of Defense and NASA to more accurately detect tumors in women's breasts (See attached NY Daily News article).

Her motivation was the knowledge that until a cure or a method to prevent breast cancer is discovered, early detection is a woman's best defense against this disease. Mammography, a life saving technology that finds pinpoint tumors 1-2 years before they can be felt as a lump, decreases death rates from breast cancer by as much as 30%. Mammography is a 40 year old technology in which 3 out of 4 lesions are found are benign, resulting in many unnecessary biopsies while 20% of breast cancer remains undetected. Dr. Blumenthal believed that if we could see missiles 20,000 miles away in outer space and with the Hubble telescope visualizing the surface of Mars then surely we should be able to more accurately detect small lesions in women's breasts right here on earth.

In 1994, she called the Director of the CIA and NASA, enlisted their support and convened a working group of CIA scientists and the nation's top radiologists to explore technology transfer opportunities. As a result of her leadership, creative thinking and scientific direction and support, intelligence technologies (computer programs and software) used by spy satellites to find tanks camouflaged behind trees have been tested in major academic medical centers across the country to find small cancerous lesions camouflaged behind dense breast tissue. Findings from this research suggest that intelligence technologies are increasing the accuracy of breast cancer detection 2-3 fold. One of the defense imaging computer programs adapted for medical purposes has now been FDA approved and is being used in clinics and hospital across the country serving as a "second opinion" in breast cancer diagnosis.

Another project uses 3-dimensional missile launch computer software to integrate the 120 views of the breast obtained by MRI, creating a 3 dimensional representation. This 3-D picture permits the radiologist to actually see the size, shape and extent of the breast tumor greatly facilitating diagnosis and staging.

Her work has not only mobilized the CIA, DOD and NASA to join in the fight against breast cancer but resulted in their commitment of substantial funds to the effort as well. Dr. Blumenthal's leadership has resulted in our country obtaining a peace dividend from our national investment in defense to save the lives of American women!

Additionally, she convened and chaired the first Federal Multi-agency Consortium on Imaging to Improve Women's Health to foster collaborations on technology transfer across the government. The group developed an inventory, now available on the internet, of imaging programs across federal agencies (used for the environmental, energy, space, and defense purposes) that have the potential to improve the diagnosis and treatment of breast cancer and other diseases in women. She also fostered greater attention to the evaluation of novel imaging technologies (MRI, PETT, digital mammography, computer assisted diagnosis, virtual reality technologies) to improve the diagnosis of this disease. Her national leadership in government on this issue has had a major impact on bringing the diagnosis of breast cancer into the 21st century to the benefit of millions of women worldwide.

- Created a new national "one stop shopping" information resource for women's health.

Dr. Blumenthal envisioned and developed the National Women's Health Information Center (NWHIC), a state-of-the-art comprehensive information clearinghouse accessible by both a toll free telephone number (800 994-WOMAN) and on the internet (www.4woman.gov). She developed the idea for the Center because she knew that knowledge is power when it comes to women's health and that many women in the United States did not know where to obtain current health information.

Dr. Blumenthal also knew that the government spends millions of dollars producing thousands of free federal health brochures and supporting hundreds of federal toll-free telephone health lines on topics ranging from cancer, to AIDS, to aging-- but most people don't know about them. So Dr. Blumenthal developed the concept and implementation strategy for a "women's health central," to provide a gateway to all free federal information and links to thousands of private sector resources for women, women in the military, their families, health care providers and researchers--serving as a user-friendly, single point of access to a vast array of health information.

Callers to the toll free telephone service can speak with information specialists in both English and Spanish and are referred to appropriate resources and can also order free federal brochures and reports. Her vision inspired the creative graphics and content of the Center's website which includes links to a broad range of health topics, hundreds of frequently asked questions about women's health, a news clipping service and hotlinks to textbooks and important references on women's health issues. Website users can download a wide variety of women's health related materials developed by federal agencies and hundreds of women's health organizations.

Consumer and health care groups are encouraged to link to the NWHIC to provide their constituents with current women's health information. This new national information resource for women reflects Dr. Blumenthal's extraordinary ability to identify a major resource gap and problem in the operation of the Federal government (e.g. lack of centralization for health information), to envision an innovative solution and to develop an implementation strategy that has already had a widespread impact on benefiting the health of millions of American women.

- Established innovative National Centers of Excellence in Women's Health-- models for "one stop shopping" in women's health care.

Women's health has been long neglected in the halls of public policy, at the research bench and in clinical settings. There has also been a dearth of senior women scientists and leaders in the medical profession. Women's health care is often fragmented, difficult to access, and prevention and treatment strategies have been based on a male "model" of health and disease. To address these inequities and to create a seamless system of health care for women, Dr. Blumenthal developed the concept for and established innovative "National Centers of Excellence" on Women's Health at twelve major academic health centers across the country. Today, the program has expanded to 18 sites. These Centers serve as national models for "one stop shopping" in women's health care, integrating multidisciplinary research, service delivery and public and health care professional education on women's health, and fostering the career development of women in academic medicine. The lessons learned by these national centers and the models they develop for women's health care will be replicated by other health institutions across the nation in the development of their own Centers of Excellence on Women's Health. This initiative represents a major leap forward in advancing research, service delivery, and education on women's health.

Dr. Blumenthal's pioneering work as U.S. Assistant Surgeon General and the country's first Deputy Assistant Secretary for Women's Health in the Department of Health and Human Services, has been a major force in placing women's health at the forefront of our nation's health agenda. As a result, significant new attention is being paid to understudied, misunderstood and misdiagnosed women's health concerns. Dr. Blumenthal has received the highest honors of the U.S. Public Health Service and numerous awards from health care professionals and consumer organizations including honorary doctorates for her outstanding contributions to women's health. Her work is a superb example of the kind of dynamic and innovative federal leadership that has made a real difference to the health of our nation. I believe these efforts make her an ideal recipient of the Good Housekeeping Women in Government Award.

Sincerely,

Dear Captain Davidson:

It is with great pleasure that I endorse the promotion of RADM Susan J. Blumenthal, M.D., M.P.A., to permanent grade 0-6. As the Assistant Secretary for Health in the Department of Health and Human Services from 1993-1997, I recruited Dr. Blumenthal to serve as the Director of the PHS Office of Women's Health and I was Dr. Blumenthal's supervisor for three years. I know her to be an outstanding public health physician and career officer in the U.S. Public Health Service whose national leadership and contributions have been a major force in placing women's health at the forefront of our national health policy agenda.

As the country's first Deputy Assistant Secretary for Women's Health in the Department of Health and Human Services, a new position created by the Clinton Administration in 1994, Dr. Blumenthal played a critical role in exposing and redressing the inequities in women's health research, health care delivery, public education, and health professional training that had put the health of American women at risk. Her job in the government was to develop new policies and programs to deal with these inequalities in working with other government and private sector agencies. She did just that.

Dr. Blumenthal provided national and international leadership in women's health through coordination and stimulation of research, service delivery and public and health care professional education initiatives of the DHHS' agencies, offices and regions involving over a $4 billion budget. She developed a Federal infrastructure to advance women's health directing the programs of the PHS Office on Women's Health, the focal point for the coordination of women's health across the agencies, offices, and regions of the DHHS. Dr. Blumenthal collaborated with the DHHS agencies and other public and private organizations in the development and implementation of a comprehensive national strategy for the advancement of women's health. She also served as my principal advisor on women's health policy and programs, setting direction for the DHHS women's health programs and as the departmental lead on DHHS national and International activities on women's health. Some highlights to her accomplishments include:

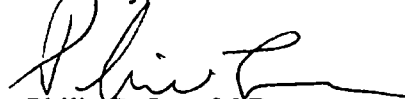

- Funding for women's health programs in the Department of Health and Human Services increased to $4.2 billion, an increase of over $1 billion over the past four years and a women's health focus was woven into the fabric of all Departmental health agencies.

- For the first time, all government agencies and departments were mobilized to work on women's health issues. She established and chaired Federal Coordinating Committees on women's health and the environment, on breast cancer, on New Imaging Technologies to improve women's health and the DHHS Task Force on Women and AIDS. She Co-chaired the PHS Coordinating Committee on Women's Health and the DHHS Steering Committee on Domestic Violence. Dr. Blumenthal developed inventories available on the internet of federal programs and activities on these issues. She ensured that research, service delivery and education programs supported by the Department of Health and Human Services addressed the unique needs of women.
- She developed a regional infrastructure for women's health through the appointment and increased support of 10 regional women's health coordinators and programs to translate the national women's health agenda into programs at the state and local level. She also convened a State Women's Health Summit to foster collaboration between the PHS Regional Women's Health Coordinators and state women's health representatives.
- Dr. Blumenthal conceived and developed the National Women's Health Information Center, a state-of-the-art comprehensive information clearinghouse that links all free federal and private sector information on women's health through a toll free telephone number (800-994-WOMAN) number and the internet.
- She developed the concept for and supported the establishment of twelve "National Centers of Excellence" on women's health to serve as national models across the country for integrating research, service delivery and public and health care professional education and fostering the career development of women in academic medicine.
- She initiated the "Missiles to Mammograms" program to transfer defense, space and intelligence imaging technologies to improve the early detection of breast cancer and other diseases in women. Under her direction, the effectiveness of these new technologies are being tested at major medical centers across the country and new projects are underway to evaluate novel imaging technologies (MRI, PETT, digital mammography, computer assisted diagnosis, virtual reality technologies) to improve the detection of breast cancer in women.
- She initiated a minorities women's health agenda convening an important national conference and established a Council to follow up on the recommendations and to stimulate new initiatives in the Department's health agencies and the private sector.
- Dr. Blumenthal developed and implemented the "Health Women 2000" public education initiative, convening 30 conferences and hosting an award winning 13-part television series. This educational program focused on critical health issues for women that have been long neglected and are often misdiagnosed including heart disease, cancer, autoimmune disorders, and mental and addictive disorders. She also ensured a focus in our national prevention programs including Healthy People 2000 on the unique needs of women. She initiated a smoking prevention merit badge program with the Girl Scouts for all age groups of scouts and ensured that the Administration's adolescent tobacco control initiative focused on strategies to prevent smoking in girls. Dr. Blumenthal also convened a national conference on this public health issue and on physical activity and women's health.
- She and her staff developed model medical student education curricula on women's health in collaboration with NIH and HRSA disseminated to all U.S. medical schools, a national directory of residency and fellowship programs in women's health, and a national mentoring initiative to foster the career advancement of women in academic medicine.
- She organized and convened a national conference to focus attention on issues of managed care and women's health.

- She worked with the White House and HCFA to develop the "Mama-gram campaign" that encourages Medicare eligible older women to use the lifesaving mammography benefit in Medicare
- She Co-chaired and directed implementation activities of the National Action Plan on Breast Cancer, a public/private sector partnership that catalyzes new actions in research, outreach and policy on breast cancer. Important accomplishments of the Plan include development of recommendations to prevent discrimination based on genetic information in health and life insurance, a video kit distributed to health care providers on counseling about genetic testing for breast cancer, a web-site linking federal and private sector resources on breast cancer launched at the White House, a national tissue bank system, a core questionnaire for research on risk factors, and conferences to stimulate new research directions on the etiology of breast cancer particularly environmental factors. Additionally, Dr. Blumenthal developed a Federal grant supplement program and review process that awarded 20 supplements to foster innovative research and outreach programs on breast cancer.
- Dr. Blumenthal established a Department of Health and Human Services Women and AIDS Task Force involving over 80 federal and private sector organizations working on this public health problem to develop a national strategy to fight this disease and developed a report of DHHS programs and activities on women and AIDS.
- She served as Co-chair of the Department of Health and Human Service's Steering Committee on Domestic Violence and convened a National Nursing Summit on this public health problem.
- Dr. Blumenthal represented the United States in international women's health activities including serving as the U.S. delegate to the World Health Organization's Global Commission on Women's Health, as Chair of the Working Group on Women's Health of the U.S./Mexico Binational Commission and as Program Co-Chair of the Canada/USA Forum on Women's Health
- Dr. Blumenthal has written numerous scientific articles, edited books on women's health issues and mental illness, and writes health columns for national magazines. She has received the highest honors of the U.S. Public Health Service and numerous awards from health care professional and consumer organizations including honorary doctorates for her outstanding contributions to women's health.

As a result of Dr. Blumenthal's pioneering work as Deputy Assistant Secretary for Women's Health in the Department of Health and Human Services, women's health issues are today at the forefront of our nation's health agenda and significant attention is now being paid to understudied, misunderstood and misdiagnosed women's health concerns. Dr. Blumenthal is a passionate advocate for increased research on women's health issues and also for the importance of early detection and prevention of disease. She has worked tirelessly for increased public and health care provider education about women's health issues, and she catalyzed new collaborations between the public and private sectors. Her work is a superb example of the kind of dynamic and innovative federal leadership that has made a real difference to the health of our nation. I enthusiastically endorse her promotion to permanent grade 0-6.

Sincerely,

Philip R. Lee, M.D.

Section A. Purpose and Scope

1. This INSTRUCTION describes the requirements and procedures for the detail of PHS commissioned officers to Federal agencies outside the organizational structure of PHS and the immediate office of the Secretary of Health and Human Services (HHS).

- c. Insurance, Social Security, and Retirement. The officer's share of costs for SGLI, FEGLI, and Social Security coverage will be withheld from his/her salary. The Federal agency can be required to pay the PHS share of costs for such coverage(s).
- d. Survivor Benefits. PHS can require reimbursement from the Federal agency for the death gratuity, payment for unused PHS annual leave, burial expenses (including transportation of remains to place of interment), and costs of transportation of dependents and shipment of household goods and personal effects to a place selected by the officer's survivors.
- e. Death of a Dependent. PHS can require reimbursement from the Federal agency for the cost of transporting the dependent's remains to a place of interment.
- f. Retirement or Separation. In the event of an officer's retirement or separation while on detail, PHS will pay lump-sum annual leave payment, cost of transporting the officer and his/her dependents, and shipment of household goods and personal effects to the officer's home. PHS can require reimbursement from the Federal agency for these costs.
- g. COEPRs. COEPRs on the officer will be submitted annually to Commissioned Personnel Operations Division (CPOD), Office of Personnel Management (OPM), Office of Management (OM), PHS, by the PHS supervisor (rating officer), in consultation with the agency supervisor, on Form PHS-838. The rating officer's supervisor will serve as the reviewing officer and forward Form PHS-838 to the address shown in Section D:2.0., above.

4. Details For 20 Weeks or Less. This subsection applies to details made to Federal agencies for 20 weeks or less.

- a. General. Details can be made on a reimbursable or nonreimbursable basis. Personnel agreements, as such, are not required. However, for reimbursable details, a memorandum of agreement between the PHS component and the Federal agency specifying the financial arrangements may be necessary. ⇒ doesn't apply
- b. Content of Memorandum. In all cases, the officer should be informed by memorandum that the detail has no effect on his/her entitlements, benefits, rights, or obligations as a PHS commissioned officer and of such matters as the following:

- (1) Hours of duty (to be determined by the Federal agency);

this is all that is required since it's from the officer's current billet

- (2) Method for obtaining approval and reporting annual and sick leave (see Section D.3.c., above.); and
- (3) Name and title of the officer's agency supervisor.

Section E. Request or Proposal for a Detail

1. Submission of Request or Proposal. A request or proposal for the detail of PHS commissioned officers may be submitted by a Federal agency official in the form of a letter addressed to the head of the PHS organization having program responsibility for the work area involved, or to the Assistant Secretary for Health (ASH) at the following address:

Assistant Secretary for Health
Public Health Service, DHHS
Room 716G, Hubert H. Humphrey Bldg.
200 Independence Avenue, S.W.
Washington, D.C. 20201

For details which will involve the regional office, the letter should be sent through the regional health administrator (RHA). The following information should be included by the Federal agency in its request for detail of PHS commissioned officers, or should be obtained from the Federal agency prior to the development of the personnel agreement:

- a. Purpose(s) of the detail;
- b. Reason(s) for requesting PHS assistance;
- c. Number and disciplines of officers requested;
- d. Grade level or experience and training of officers requested;
- e. The officer's position title(s) and brief description of duties to be performed;
- f. Proposed financial arrangements, i.e., fully reimbursable, partially reimbursable (specify costs to be reimbursed), or nonreimbursable;
- g. Name and position title of the agency supervisor;
- h. Rate of compensation and allowances to be paid by the Federal agency, if any; and

NOTE TO BRUCE REED:

As a follow-up to our discussion, the Commissioned Corps regulations do not require a detailed memo for a TDY (temporary duty) assignment of 6 months or less since it is from the officer's current billet to a temporary duty station. When I was on TDY to George Washington University in 1998, the memo entailed a paragraph statement assigning me for temporary duty to GW to serve as Associate Vice President and a Visiting Professor to work on women's health and issues related to the future of academic health centers.

The detailed language in the DHHS's draft memo to me was unnecessary. Attached are copies of their draft memo with my revisions and a copy of the draft memo I prepared for your information --but this too includes more information than is required for such assignments. For the temporary duty assignments to USDA and the Department of Education, the memo only is required to state something like, "You are on temporary duty assignment from your current billet to the USDA for the period from March 1-September 1, 2000 and to the Department of Education from Sept 2, 2000 to March 1, 2000. While at USDA and the Department of Education, you will serve as Senior Advisor to the Secretary for Public Health and Science. In this capacity you will provide medical and public health expertise and advice to Departmental staff on programs related to health and science issues. Your supervisor will be Secretary Dan Glickman at USDA and Secretary Richard Reilly at the Department of Education. The Chief of Staff, USDA and the Department of Education will be the point of contact for annual and sick leave approval. During this time period you will also work with the White House as Senior Public Health Advisor on youth violence. The Department of Health and Human Services will pay your salary while on these TDY assignments." If needed, separate memos can be written to each agency.

The USDA and Dept of Education would prepare travel orders for public appearances. If ethics clearance is required for sponsored travel and USDA or the Department of Education is not familiar with the source to make a determination, then consultation and clearance would be obtained from Hal Thompson, the Executive Officer of the Office of Public Health and Science, DHHS.

Dr. David Satcher's phone number is 202:690-7694. His Deputy is Dr. Nicole Lurie at the same number. Please slow them down. They are saying a move must be made by Monday or they will assign me to other duties in the Department that are not acceptable to me. If the memo language can be worked out, then I am requesting a start date of February 15-March 1. I would also appreciate if you would confirm that a second TDY assignment will be granted to the Dept of Education or another agency. I deeply value your assistance and support on this matter and look forward to working with you.

Best Regards,

THE WHITE HOUSE

Dear Pauline:

Congratulations on your new position at the Pew Charitable Trust and thank you for your dedicated service over the last four years at the White House and Department of Education. I am particularly grateful for the time you spent on my staff and the wise counsel you gave me on domestic policy issues.

Thanks, too, for your efforts on the Children's Health Insurance Program, GEAR UP, the D.C. College Access Act, HOPE Scholarships and Lifetime Learning Tax Credits, and low-cost Direct Student Loans. With these programs and initiatives you have played an important part in creating a brighter future for our nation.

Dear Bruce:

I am writing in support of Sonia Gotsch Chesson, who has applied for the position of Director, White House Council on Youth Violence. Sonia currently serves the Clinton Administration as a Senior Policy Analyst in the Department of Health and Human Services.

Sonia holds a B.A. in Political Science from Wellesley College (1984) and an A.M. in Social Service Administration from the University of Chicago (1990). She is intelligent, articulate, highly motivated and well-regarded by her peers.

Throughout the past ten years, Sonia has counseled clients, conducted therapy groups, developed research proposals and, in the Cabrini Green Housing Development in Chicago, managed multiple social service programs for a youth service agency. She has conducted evaluations of child welfare programs, managed the national office of the National Funding Collaborative on Violence Prevention, and currently monitors and analyzes research in the area of youth development and the prevention of youth risk behaviors at HHS.

Sonia is very strategic and she knows how to develop a plan, implement it, and engage the national media in her efforts to bring programs to bear on youth at risk. In her current position she coordinated the HHS Workgroup on Teen Pregnancy, which resulted in the implementation of the National Strategy to Prevent Teen Pregnancy. In addition, she participated in the Department's response to school violence, including the development and implementation of the Safe Schools/Healthy Students Initiative.

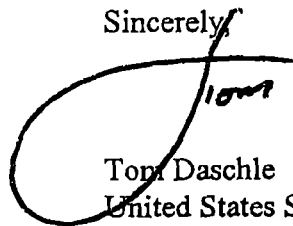

Sonia Chesson has worked with and for children and families in a variety of settings. She understands what programs work and how to effectively design them for maximum efficiency and caring for the families facing the problems of a violent society. She particularly understands the importance of prevention.

I believe Sonia Gotsch Chessen would be an asset to the Council, and I join Senator Wellstone in enthusiastically recommending her for your consideration. She is committed to the Administration's agenda for families and youth, and I hope you will seriously consider her credentials as you make your final decision on a Director of the White House Council on Youth Violence. A resume is enclosed for your review. If you have any questions, please feel free to contact me directly or have your staff contact Pete Rouse at 224-5556.

With best wishes, I am

Summary of Experience

Fourteen years experience in policy, program and management analysis, project management, and Website development working with Federal, State, local and national public and private entities in fields of youth development, child, youth and family services, juvenile justice, education and technology.

Experience

Management Analyst, Administration for Children and Families (ACF), US Department of Health and Human Services, Washington, DC, August 1999 - Present

Worked on ACF's Year 2000 preparedness efforts. Managed project designed to collect, analyze, and provide technical assistance and feedback to all 50 States, D.C. and the Territories on Year 2000 business continuity plans. Provided leadership to contractor and ACF offices in the development of business continuity plan training materials. Project required coordinating efforts across 10 regional offices and contractor staff. Efforts resulted in completion of over 250 plans focusing on five high impact program areas: child care, child support enforcement, child welfare, Low Income Home Energy Assistance and Temporary Assistance to Needy Families (TANF). As part of a small team, identified critical business processes throughout the agency, provided guidance to components on development of business continuity plans, reviewed and approved office plans. Project resulted in completion of 17 agency business continuity plans.

Child Care Program Specialist, Child Care Bureau, ACF, US Department of Health and Human Services, Washington, DC, April 1998 - August 1999

Provided expertise and leadership on issues relating to youth development and school-age care including initiatives to make the public more aware of Federal programs as they relate to school-age children. Provided technical guidance and oversight to $6 million National Child Care Information Center contract including publication development, conference planning, redesign of Center's Website, and development of new Websites for Child Care Partnership Project and Tribal Technical Assistance Center. Represented ACF and DHHHS on national initiatives including Federal Support to Communities After-School Initiative, National Governor's Association Advisory Committee on Extra Learning Opportunities, and US Departments of Education and Justice's "Safe and Smart: Making the After-School Hours Work for Kids." Developed design methodology for Afterschool.gov as member of Website design committee. Managed development and maintenance of Bureau's World Wide Web and Intranet sites, which disseminated information about Federal child care programs and policies. Represented Associate Commissioner on ACF's Information Technology Review Board, making recommendations for agency-wide technology investments and policies.

Family and Youth Services Program Specialist, Family and Youth Services Bureau, ACF, US Department of Health and Human Services, Washington, DC, Sept. 1993-April 1998

Provided technical guidance and oversight on Federal grants, cooperative agreements, and contracts under the Youth Gang Drug Prevention, Runaway and Homeless Youth, and Drug Abuse Prevention programs. Grants ranged from $50,000 to $500,000 and served youth ages 5-21. Responsible for identifying critical issues in youth and family services and recommending appropriate Bureau, Agency, Departmental, or government-wide responses. Represented the Bureau on numerous groups including US Department of Justice's Youth Gang Consortium and Gang Research Work Group, DHHS Healthy People 2010 Violence and Injury Prevention Work Group, and the DHHS Technical Assistance Work Group. Led interdepartmental team which designed training and technical assistance for two new programs, Community Schools and Family and Community Endeavor Schools (FACES), authorized under the Violent Crime Control and Law Enforcement Act of 1994. Evaluated hundreds of grant proposals and made recommendations for award of funds. Represented the Agency in meetings with representatives from national, local, and international organizations and agencies. Designed and maintained Bureau's first Website. As member of team, wrote ACF's first World Wide Web policy and completed major redesign of agency's Website. Initiated and managed $2 million contract for major renovation of Runaway and Homeless Youth Management Information System.

Presidential Management Intern, Administration for Children and Families, US Department of Health and Human Services, Washington, DC, July 1991 - August 1993

As a member of National Performance Review, analyzed programs and management processes of the US Department of Education. Developed issue papers and made recommendations to the Vice President for improved processes and elimination of programs. As member of ACF team, implemented Federal Managers' Financial Integrity Act program in newly reorganized agency.

Research Fellow, Connecticut General Assembly, Office of Legislative Research, Hartford, Conn., January-June 1991

Researched, wrote memoranda, and responded to requests of state legislators. Sources included statutes, legislative histories, telephone interviews, journals, books and other publications. Interacted with state legislators and other governmental officials to define and research topics.

Office Coordinator, Center for Creative Youth, Middletown, Conn., June 1986 - Oct. 1989

Organized operations and staff for five-week residential summer arts program serving youth ages 13-18 from across the nation. Initiated and implemented changes in program operations including streamlining, reorganizing, and documenting program operations. Served as liaison with public and private school districts and parents to assist them with determining the appropriateness of the program for individual youth. Billed and collected tuition and fees exceeding $400,000. Assisted the Director with publicity, fund raising activities, and the selection of students.
