FIRST LADY HILLARY CLINTON AND VICE PRESIDENT GORE UNVEIL NEW INVESTMENT IN SAFE, EFFECTIVE FAMILY PLANNING SERVICES FOR AMERICAN WOMEN

January 22, 1999

Today, in honor of the 26th anniversary of Roe vs Wade, First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton and Vice President Gore met with representatives from the reproductive health community to unveil a series of new steps to prevent unintended pregnancy, including a new multi million dollar initiative to ensure access to safe, high quality family planning services for American women.

MILLIONS OF AMERICAN WOMEN NEED FAMILY PLANNING SERVICES

More than 3 million unintended pregnancies occur every year in the United States. Women who use no contraceptives account for almost half of these pregnancies (47%), while the 39 million method users account for 53%. Unintended pregnancies among women who do not use contraception are almost as likely to end in abortion as they are in a birth.

NEW STEPS TOWARDS PROVIDING SAFE, EFFECTIVE FAMILY PLANNING SERVICES FOR AMERICAN WOMEN.

This initiative reaffirms the Clinton-Gore Administration's commitment to expanding and enhancing the quality of reproductive health services for all American women. Today, the First Lady and Vice President announced that the Administration is:

- Unveiling the Largest Increase in Family Planning Services in 15 Years. The Clinton/Gore Administration's FY 2000 budget includes $240 million for family planning, a $25 million increase, and the largest increase in 15 years. These grants fund family planning clinics providing reproductive health services and clinical care to over 5 million low income women. These new funds will be used to prevent over a million unintended pregnancies year by improving the delivery of comprehensive reproductive health services, including STD and cancer screening and prevention, and HIV prevention, education and counseling; providing educational programs that encourage adolescents to postpone of sexual activity; increase the accessibility of contraceptive counseling and services; increasing efforts to provide effective contraceptives to those in need; and developing partnerships with other community based providers to conduct outreach to adolescents at risk.
- Preventing violence at women's health clinics. In the wake of escalating violence against women's health clinics that provide abortions, the First Lady and the Vice President will announce the the FY 2000 budget includes $4.5 million for support additional security enhancements, such as including closed circuit camera systems, improved lighting, motion detectors, alarm systems and bullet-resistant windows for these clinics in order to protect their doctors and nurses. Under this proposal, the Department of Justice would make security assessments and enhancements available to clinics deemed to be at high risk of violence. This Administration is committed to fighting this form of domestic terrorism that has threatened so many clinics and providers. While emphasizing the importance of family planning services to prevent unintended pregnancies, the First Lady and Vice President also emphasized that those women who choose to have an abortion do not have to fear violence.

- Contributing $25 million to the UNFPA. Today, the First Lady and Vice President will announce that the President's FY 2000 budget proposes a $25 million voluntary contribution to the UNFPA, $5 million more than the President's FY 1999 budget proposal. The U.S. Contributions to the UN Population Fund is the largest multilateral donor organization in the population sector and concentrates its assistance to countries in the areas of reproductive health and voluntary family planning, population policy and advocacy.
- Ensuring that Federal employees have access to comprehensive family planning services. The FY 2000 budget also continues to ensure that the Federal government leads the way as a model health plan by assuring that Federal employees and their families participating in the 300 Federal Employees Health Benefit Program (FEHBP) have access to contraceptive coverage. This policy provides coverage to approximately 1.2 million women of childbearing age and reduces unwanted pregnancies and the need for abortions by requiring most FEHB plans to offer the full range of contraceptive services. Before this requirement, only 19% of federal health plans covered prescription contraceptives and 10% of the plans offered no contraceptive coverage at all.

Attached are our changes to the Family Planning - Title X section of the draft Congressional Justification. The changes to this section have been affirmed by Dan Mendelson and must be made to the document.

These changes are consistent with the guidance provided to ASMB last week. The FY 2000 Budget for family planning services (contraceptive and clinical) will increase at a rate at least commensurate with the increase to the program as a whole. In short, the program received a 11.6% budget increase for FY 2000, hence, the budget for family planning services must also rise by 10.4%. 11.6%

So we can all have the same back-up material for this important issue area, we need to get a detailed budget breakdown for Family Planning for FY 1998 to FY 2000, containing the amounts spent on services, research, training, evaluation, management, etc. Since PHS staff must be using a table something like this as their own back-up for the CJ text, we request a copy of the table by 10:00 a.m. on Wednesday, January 27. Thanks.

If you have any questions or you are unable to read the faxed version, please call Jennifer Forshey at 202-395-4926.

FY 2000 Authorization.....Expired

Purpose and Method of Operation

The Family Planning Program, Title X of the PHS Act, is administered through the Office of Population Affairs/Office of Public Health and Science. This program provides grants to public and private non-profit agencies to provide voluntary family planning services. In FY 1998 approximately 4.5 million clients received family planning services through a network of 4,600 clinics nationwide. Approximately two percent of the clients served were males.

Family planning programs provide basic reproductive health services as well as screening for ancillary health problems, counseling, and information and education. In addition, Title X supports training for all levels of family planning personnel, including nurse practitioners. Title X also supports research which focuses on family planning service delivery improvements.

Although Medicaid is the largest source of funding for family planning services, Title X serves a population largely unserved by Medicaid which includes teens, nulliparous women, and the working poor. Title X is required to give priority to clients who are low-income, and approximately 85 percent of the clients served by the program are from low-income families. Approximately one-third of Title X clients are adolescents. For many clients, Title X has been the primary, or sole, point of contact with the health care system.

In FY 1998 there were 95 grantees, of which 33 were States or territorial health departments. Types of grantees funded include not-for-profit organizations and State and/or territorial health departments.

Funding for the family planning program during the last five years has been as follows:

	$	FTEs
1995	193,349,000	43
1996	192,592,000	39
1997	198,452,000	38
1998	202,903,000	40
1999	215,000,000	48

Rationale for the Budget Request

The FY 2000 request of $239,952,000 is an increase of $24,952,000 and four FTEs over the FY 1999 appropriation. This budget request will enhance the ability of the Title X Program to address Departmental initiatives of assuring a healthy start for every child by increasing the proportion of pregnancies that are intended, promoting personal responsibility for healthy lifestyles, and eliminating racial and ethnic disparities as identified by the President's Initiative on Race, as well as addressing the health promotion and disease prevention objectives identified in Healthy People 2000 and 2010.

Funds targeted toward family planning services will be at least commensurate with the increase to the program as a whole.

In FY 2000, the Title X Program will address the following Title X Program Priorities:

- Expansion and enhancement of the quality of clinical reproductive health services through partnerships with other entities that have related interests and that work with similar priority populations;
- Increased emphasis on services to adolescents, including emphasis on postponement of sexual activity and more accessible provision of contraceptive counseling and services;
- Increased services to hard-to-reach populations by partnering with community-based organizations and others that have a stake in the prevention of unintended pregnancy;
- Expansion of comprehensiveness of reproductive health services, including STD and cancer screening and prevention, HIV prevention, education and counseling, and substance abuse screening and referral;
- Increased services to males, emphasizing shared responsibility for preventing unintended pregnancy.

move bullet
4 to be bullet # 1

Continued attention to these priorities is the best strategy we can adopt to ensure widespread recognition of the role which Title X plays in providing a vital service to a high need and often otherwise unserved population. The investment in family planning is essential in averting unintended pregnancies which are costly, in both human and dollar terms. Both the Administration and the Department have clearly targeted adolescent pregnancy prevention and male responsibility in preventing unintended pregnancy as major policy issues. Effective pregnancy prevention efforts must include men and adolescent boys, as well as women and adolescent girls. Although the program is already working in these areas, this budget request will substantially expand programmatic efforts on these priorities.

→ Substantial progress have been made in reducing the number of unintended teenage pregnancies, which are currently at a 23 year low

In addition to the priorities listed above, there are other key issues the Title X program will address which impacts the current and future delivery of family planning services and require significant programmatic efforts and resources. These issues include: (1) Medicaid waivers and managed care; (2) implications of welfare reform and other issues that are affecting family planning services, such as Temporary Assistance to Needy Families (TANF) and Children's Health Insurance Program (CHIP) as well as other Federal and State initiatives; (3) electronic technology; (4) research findings, and (5) legislative mandates.

THE CLINTON ADMINISTRATION: STANDING UP FOR A WOMAN'S RIGHT TO CHOOSE

Today, the First Lady will keynote NARAL's 1999 celebration of the 26th anniversary of Roe v. Wade honoring those who have fought hard to preserve reproductive freedom. Mrs. Clinton's remarks will highlight the accomplishments of NARAL and the reproductive rights movement to protect the right to choose, while pressing for policies that prevent unintended pregnancies and ensure healthy childbirth. She will also call on everyone to double their efforts to educate the public about the need for expanded family planning services, an end to clinic violence, and comprehensive contraceptive coverage.

Her remarks, together with the new steps the Clinton Administration took today, build on the Administration's longstanding commitment to provide American women with safe, high quality family planning services and assure access to choice. This Administration has worked hard to protect a woman's right to choose and to promote safe reproductive health services for women.

- Creating of the National Task Force on Violence Against Health Care Providers. Last November, the Justice Department's launched a National Task Force on Violence Against Health Care Providers to coordinate the investigation of violence against women's health care clinics nationwide. The Task Force works closely with local authorities and U.S. Attorneys investigating acts of violence against clinics by: coordinating national investigative efforts; creating an investigative clearinghouse for information related to clinic violence; and providing training to federal, state and local law enforcement personnel.
- Provided Contraceptive Coverage to More than a Million Women. The FY99 Omnibus Appropriations Act contains an important policy breakthrough on reproductive choice. The final bill requires the 300 Federal Employees Health Benefits Plans (FEHBP) to cover contraceptive drugs and devices, providing coverage to approximately 1.2 million women of childbearing age. Until now, only 19% of federal health plans covered prescription contraceptives and 10% of the plans offered no contraceptive coverage at all. The Republican Leadership tried to remove this measure, but President Clinton and pro-choice members remained firm.
- Providing family planning services to low income women. The Administration has granted Medicaid waivers to expand access to family planning services in 11 states in order to reduce the number of women with mistimed or unwanted pregnancies. These waivers extend family planning services to low-income women of childbearing age who would not otherwise be eligible for Medicaid family planning services, including low-income women who are eligible for Medicaid while pregnant but who lose their eligibility at the end of pregnancy, and low-income women who would become eligible for Medicaid if pregnant, even if they've never been pregnant or Medicaid eligible.

- Stopped the Coburn Amendment Prohibiting the FDA from Approving RU-486. On January 22, 1993, President Clinton reversed the ban on the importation of Mifepristone or RU-486; RU-486 is currently under review by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA). Unfortunately, the FDA's scientific drug approval process became under assault in the 105th Congress. President Clinton threatened to veto a provision that would have prevented the FDA from using government funds to test, develop or approve drugs that may induce medical abortion, including RU-486. Because of the President's veto threat, Republicans backed down and decided not to attach this provision to any funding bill.
- Defeated Parental Consent Restrictions on Contraceptives for Minors. The House voted to require minors to obtain parental consent prior to receiving any Title X family planning services (this has also been referred to as the Istook amendment). The President's veto threat helped to keep it out of the final bill.
- Stopped the So-Called "Child Custody Protection" Act. Senior Clinton Administration Advisers recommended a veto of this bill which would have made it illegal to transport a minor across State lines for the purpose of avoiding parental consent or notification laws. The Clinton Administration, as detailed in the Statement of Administration Policy, was very concerned that the bill did not protect close family members --including grandmothers, aunts and siblings --from criminal and civil liability. Family members could face criminal charges for aiding a relative in distress. The bill also did not protect persons that only provide information, counseling, referral or medical services to the minor from liability. Under a veto threat, the Senate failed to invoke cloture (or end debate) on the Child Custody Protection Act.
- Upheld the Late Term Abortion Veto. This year, the House of Representatives voted to override President Clinton's veto of a bill banning certain late-term abortions, known by proponents of the ban as "partial birth abortions." While the House voted to override the President's action, the Senate sustained the veto by a vote of 36-64 --just three votes short of the required two-thirds majority needed to override the veto. President Clinton vetoed the measure in October 1997 because it did not contain an exception that protected the health or life of the woman.
- Continued to Fight Restrictions on International Family Planning. The FY99 Omnibus Appropriations Act does not contain the so-called "Mexico City" policy, a provision that denies U.S. funds to international family planning organizations that use their own resources to perform abortions or lobby on abortion policy. The Mexico City restrictions were also included in the Foreign Affairs Reform and Restructuring Act. President Clinton vetoed this legislation because it contained these unacceptable restrictions.

I spoke with Judy, and she is happy with our solution on male responsibility. It won't be mentioned in the budget, and we will discuss the issue in the context of CJs with an eye towards ensuring that contraceptive services receive a proportional increase in funds and that male involvement programs can be coordinated and run through the Title X clinics. We will meet with them to discuss the CJs before they go up. Let me know if you want more information, but you can feel free to announce.

TITLE X LANGUAGE TO ACCOMPANY THE PASSBACK

The funding increase for the Title X family planning program should, first and foremost, be spent on contraceptive services to reduce unintended pregnancy. With any remaining funds, priority will be given to education, counseling, and medical services to males within the clinical service delivery system, or through community-based programs directly linked to Title X service providers.

Ms. Sylvia Mathews
Deputy Director, Office of Management and Budget
Room 252
Old Executive Office Building
Washington, DC 20503

Dear Sylvia:

Thank you again for meeting with the undersigned representatives of national women's organizations on November 25th. We are writing to express our continued concern that the Administration's budget request for Title X remains low. Further, we would like to call your attention to an additional problem involving family planning funding that we have learned of since our meeting.

As you recall, we discussed the proposed funding level for the Title X family planning program and learned that the Office of Management and Budget had included an increase of $14.9 million for the program for FY 2000, for a total proposed funding level of just under $230 million. This falls far short of the HHS requested increase of $38 million, which itself did not meet the needs of the program. We request that you find additional funds to support these basic clinical reproductive health services for women funded by the Title X program before the President's Budget is finalized.

Since our meeting, we have learned that the OMB passback also included language drafted by HHS which directs that the entire proposed increase be spent on programs other than clinical reproductive health services. Specifically, language contained in the passback calls for every penny of that increase to be spent on programs to involve males or to promote abstinence among non-sexually active teens. Even given low inflation, this proposal to level fund women's health services effectively constitutes a cut.

Moreover, the impact of this proposed cut would be compounded by increasing service costs, further hampering clinics' abilities to effectively serve women. Right now, rates of chlamydia are skyrocketing among teens and excellent but expensive urine-based tests to screen for certain sexually transmitted diseases have come onto the market. In addition, new technologies such as the ThinPrep Pap test, and long-acting methods of contraception, such as Depo-Provera and Norplant have the potential to expand the health care options of women served at Title X clinics, but still remain out of the reach of many Title X providers. We believe that this proposal will therefore weaken the clinic infrastructure and reduce access to basic health care services for the growing ranks of low-income Americans who are uninsured or underinsured.

Although supporters of Title X recognize the value of additional programs dedicated to involving males, as well as the value of postponing sexual involvement, we question the wisdom of funding these programs at the expense of Title X—an already cash-strapped program that is one of the vital safety nets for health care in this country. In the case of male involvement, many Title X providers already operate such programs. However, the separate programs funded in recent years through the Office of Family Planning have not even required linkage to the existing clinic system to provide reproductive health services to those who need them. In addition, it is our understanding that a proposal is being developed with HHS that calls for a vastly expanded new male involvement program that would establish an entirely separate health care system within community-based organizations that have not historically provided health services.

Title X is, first and foremost, a family planning program. While Title X providers discuss abstinence with patients when appropriate, abstinence-specific dollars are made available through the Adolescent Family Life program. In addition to the $17 million allocated for FY 1999 for the Adolescent Family Life program, the federal government will spend close to $50 million per year to implement the abstinence-only programs required by the 1996 welfare reform legislation.

We would like to schedule a meeting as soon as possible to continue our discussion on how best to advance a women's health agenda for the coming year.

Dear Dr. Shervington:

Thank you for meeting with representatives from the National Family Planning and Reproductive Health Association on November 18, 1998. As a first step in our mutual commitment to ongoing communication, we are requesting information regarding implementation of legislative language included in the introductory paragraphs to section 101(f) of the omnibus spending bill (P.L. 105-277) passed by Congress on October 19. This language incorporates by reference a provision included in Senate Report 105-300 that mandates the following:

In order to assure that all low-income women have access to comprehensive family planning services, the Committee expects that no less than 90 percent of the total Title X appropriation must be allocated to the regional offices to be awarded to grantees who provide clinical family planning services as defined by law.

The language further provides that all funds available for family planning services be made available no later than 60 days (December 18, 1998) after passage of the bill. This timely release is especially vital to grantees whose funding cycles begin on January 1.

For FY 1999, total funding for the Title X family planning program is $215 million, with 90% totaling $193.5 million. We would appreciate receiving, prior to the Congressional deadline of December 18, 1998, a funding breakdown reflecting the dollars actually allocated to each of the ten regions. If that total is less than $193.5 million, we would like to know the release date for the remaining funds.

Thank you very much for your assistance with this matter which is of critical importance to the provision of family planning to low-income clients.

Background on Title X Funding FY98 and FY99 increases

Our national rate of unintended pregnancy is on the decline, in part due to the availability of clinical reproductive health services to low-income Americans through the title X family planning clinic network and in part because of the introduction of long-acting methods of contraception. At the same time however, our national rate of sexually transmitted disease remains extraordinarily high. The Title X system is facing severe financial pressures and continues to serve as a critical provider of primary care services to uninsured and underinsured Americans. Title X clinics are increasingly unable to make long-acting methods of contraception available to all women who need them, to use new pap technologies critical for services to at-risk populations nor new urine-based screening tests for sexually transmitted infections for men and women. For example, chlamydia, remains the most commonly reported infectious disease in the U.S. and it is assumed that half of new cases occur among men. In addition, it is critical to retain the nurse practitioners who serve as the backbone of the system.

For the past two fiscal years, overall increases to the Title X program have not translated into the same percentage increase in funding for clinical services. While the providers of family planning and reproductive health services did not expect to receive the entire program increase, there was widespread expectation both among the Title X providers, the advocates of women's health and Congressional supporters that this key infrastructure would see some relief from the escalating costs of providing clinical services. In addition, as Title XX of the SSBG was drastically cut, it was hoped that for those states which relied heavily on Title XX funds to provide family planning services, that the increase would help offset those devastating cuts. (This was particularly true in Pennsylvania as articulated by Senator Specter.)

In FY98, Title X funding was $203 million - a $5 million increase over FY97. the clinical service delivery program did not receive the same increase as the program increase. At that time, a nearly $2 million new male involvement program was introduced that with few exceptions ignored the male-oriented programs that were sponsored by the Title X provider network with or without the use of Title X funds. No requirement was made that these new male involvement grants be linked with Title X clinical service programs.

Thus far in FY99, the federal health regions have only a 3% increase, despite the program overall increase of 5%, with no provision that even the 3% increase be passed along to the clinical service program.

Therefore, while the program has received increases over the past two appropriation cycles, the clinical provider network has been effectively level-funded and when the increased costs of contraceptives, better screening devices for cervical cancer and sexually transmitted infections are taken into account, they have actually lost ground.

SECTION 101(a): DEPARTMENTS OF LABOR, HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES, AND EDUCATION, AND RELATED AGENCIES APPROPRIATIONS ACT, 1999

The conferees on H.R. 4328 agree with the matter inserted in this subsection of this conference agreement and the following description of this matter. This matter was developed through negotiations on the differences in the House and Senate versions (H.R. 4274 and S. 2400) of the Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, by members of the appropriations subcommittee of both the House and Senate with jurisdiction over H.R. 4274 and S. 2440.

In implementing this agreement, the Departments and agencies should comply with the language and instructions set forth in House Report 105-635 and Senate Report 105-300. In the case where the language and instructions specifically address the allocation of funds, the Departments and agencies are to follow the funding levels specified in the Congressional budget justifications accompanying the fiscal year 1999 budget or the underlying authorizing statute and should give full consideration to all items, including items allocating specific funding included in the House and Senate reports. With respect to the provisions in the House and Senate reports that specifically allocate funds, each has been reviewed and those which are jointly concurred in have been included in this joint statement.

The Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services and Education, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, FY 1999, put in place by this bill, incorporates the following agreements of the managers:

TITLE I—DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING ADMINISTRATION

The conference agreement appropriates $5,272,324,000, instead of $4,000,873,000 as proposed by the House and $5,409,375,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The agreement includes language inserting a legal citation to the Workforce Investment Act of 1998 as proposed by the Senate to fund a specific project authorized by the new law. It also includes language proposed by the Senate modified to identify funds for youth job training activities, making the funds available for the period April 1, 1999 through June 30, 2000, and specifying an amount and a legal citation for youth opportunity grants. It includes language proposed by the Senate providing that job training funds may be used for transition to, and implementation of, the provisions of the Workforce Investment Act of 1998. The House had no similar provisions.

The agreement also includes demonstration funds under the Act (dislocated workers) for entrants in the workforce the Senate. It also includes service delivery areas for training and summer youth employment. The House had no similar provision.

The conference agreement appropriates $250,000,000 for the youth opportunity grant for fiscal year 1999. The Senate proposed by the Senate and the House for fiscal year 2000 appropriations bill.

The Labor Department and provide technical assistance for the Army Demonstration Program.

Family planning

The Committee recommends $215,000,000 for the title X family planning program. This is $3,077,000 below the administration request and $12,097,000 above the 1998 level. Title X grants support primary health care services at more than 4,000 clinics nationwide. About 85 percent of family planning clients are women at or below 150 percent of poverty level.

Title X of the Public Health Service Act, which established the family planning program, authorizes the use of a broad range of acceptable and effective family planning methods and services. The Committee believes this includes oral, injectable, and other preventive modalities.

The Committee remains concerned that programs receiving title X funds ought to have access to these resources as quickly as possible. The Committee, therefore, again instructs the Department to distribute to the regional offices all of the funds available for family planning services no later than 60 days following enactment of this bill.

The Committee is pleased with recent data indicating a reduction in the rate of teenage pregnancy in the United States. In order to assure that all low-income women have access to comprehensive family planning services, the Committee expects that no less than 90 percent of the total title X appropriation must be allocated to the regional offices to be awarded to grantees who provide clinical family planning services as defined by law.

Rural health research

The Committee recommends $11,713,000 for the Office of Rural Health Policy. This is $57,000 more than the fiscal year 1998 level and $22,000 above the administration request. The funds provide support for the Office as the focal point for the Department's efforts to improve the delivery of health services to rural communities and populations. Funds are used for rural health research centers, grants to telemedicine projects, the National Advisory Committee on Rural Health, and a reference and information service.

Health care facilities

The Committee provides $30,000,000 for health care facilities, which is $2,043,000 above the 1998 level and $30,000,000 above the administration request. Funds are made available to public and private entities for construction and renovation of health care and other facilities.

Sufficient funds are available to contribute to the construction of a pediatric dental facility serving medically underserved inner city neighborhoods. The Committee is aware that the University of Pennsylvania School of Dental Medicine has many meritorious characteristics that make it well-suited for this important task, and urges the full and fair consideration of its proposal.

Funds are also available to contribute to the upgrade of existing facilities dedicated to women's health that emphasize support of homeless and medically underserved women. The Committee is aware that Magee-Womens Hospital of Pittsburgh, PA, is one of a few specialty hospitals in the country providing services exclusively for women and infants, and urges that its proposal receive full and fair consideration.

Funds are available to contribute to the upgrading of an osteopathic facility dedicated to medically underserved areas in an inner city area. The Committee is supportive of the efforts of the Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine and urges its proposal receive high priority in funding.

Funds are available to contribute to the modernization and upgrade of a medium-sized medical facility that coordinates health services within a county. The Committee is supportive of the proposal by the Fulton

RATIONALE FOR BUDGET REQUEST

The FY 2000 request of $253,113,000 is an increase of $35,036,000 over the FY 1999 President's budget and $50,210,000 over the FY 1999 House level. This proposed increment will further strengthen the Title X health infrastructure for families, women and adolescents, as well enable the program to continue providing a comprehensive range of family planning services and to better meet the increasing demand for these services. The proposed increment will enhance partnerships with other health and social service organizations. It will allow an expansion of services to hard to reach populations, including males and adolescents, as well as research on the mix of services most appropriate and effective for these populations. The program will continue its quest for newly developed technologies aimed at improving its ability to function efficiently and effectively.

Investment in family planning services is essential in averting unintended pregnancies which are costly, in both human and dollar terms, to society. Both the Administration and the Department have clearly targeted adolescent pregnancy prevention and male responsibility in preventing unintended pregnancy as major policy issues. Effective pregnancy prevention efforts must include men and adolescent boys, as well as women and adolescent girls. Moreover, particularly in the case of adolescents, these efforts should not only provide education and services but also expand opportunities for their futures. Although the program is already working in these areas, this proposed increment will substantially expand existing initiatives.

- Increasing the program's ability to reach adolescents before they become sexually active and providing interventions to encourage continued postponement greatly enhance the potential for reducing adolescent pregnancy.
- Further expanding male involvement initiatives which provide family planning/reproductive health education and services to young men:

Supporting additional demonstration projects designed to employ young men from the surrounding community while providing them with job training, career counseling and family planning education, counseling and services.

Supporting community-based organizations in developing, implementing and testing family planning education and service components for inclusion in programs that provide other health, education and social services to young males.

- Current and ongoing advances in electronic communication technologies (distance learning) will be used to increase the efficiency and effectiveness of the Title X health infrastructure.

The Title X Family Planning Program will continue its focus on providing family planning and reproductive health services through existing program priorities:

- increasing outreach to persons not likely to seek services, including males and adolescents;
- emphasis on comprehensiveness of reproductive health services, including STD and cancer screening and prevention, HIV prevention, education and counseling, increased involvement of male partners, substance abuse screening and referral;
- emphasis on services to adolescents, including community education, emphasis on postponement of sexual activity, and more accessible provision of contraceptive counseling and services for those adolescents who are sexually active;
- elimination of disincentives to provide high cost but effective contraceptives to serve high risk (and high unit cost) clients, and to provide non-revenue generating services such as community education and prevention services; and
- emphasis on activities involving women's health nurse practitioners particularly minority nurse practitioners and nurse practitioners serving disadvantaged and medically underserved communities.

OMB PASSBACK NOTES – FAMILY PLANNING

Family Planning. OMB staff stated that the FY 2000 passback level for HRSA includes $229.952 million for Family Planning activities at HRSA, an increase of $14.952 million (+7%) over the FY 1999 enacted level. OMB concurred with HHS' proposal to expand and augment the following two existing initiatives: 1) reaching adolescents before they become sexually active; and 2) expanding "male involvement" grants that provide family planning services to young men.

MEMORANDUM

TO: Elena
FROM: Nicole
SUBJECT: Title X Update

Following my e-mail to you yesterday about funding for Title X in the FY 2000 budget, I spoke with Judy Appelbaum at the National Women's Law Center, who raised a recent concern shared by a variety of women's advocates and outlined in an attached letter to Sylvia Matthews. In the letter, the advocates state that it is their understanding that the Administration intends to devote the entirety of our FY 2000 Title X increase of $15 million to programs other than clinical reproductive health services, planning instead to expand efforts that involve males or promote abstinence among non-sexually active teens. The advocates naturally object strongly to this strategy, but it is not in fact our position.

In its budget justification document, HHS did single out these programs as warranting added dollars, but also recommended that the increase be used to augment the delivery of clinical reproductive health services. In its passback notes, OMB concurred with HHS' recommendation, writing:

OMB staff stated that the FY 2000 passback level for HRSA includes $229.952 million for Family Planning activities at HRSA, an increase of $14.952 million (+7%) over the FY 1999 enacted level. OMB concurred with HHS' proposal to expand and augment the following two existing initiatives: 1) reaching adolescents before they become sexually active; and 2) expanding "male involvement" grants that provide family planning services to young men.

It is clear that the women's groups obtained this passback language and read it as targeting the totality of our recommended increase to these two programs. I spoke with the Title X budget examiner at OMB, who stressed that this was not OMB's intention. OMB then spoke with the HHS budget staff, who said that they also did not read the passback language in that way.

The women's groups, however, may oppose targeting any new dollars to these purposes, given the great need for the basic services that Title X provides and given that these other efforts are supported through a number of other funding streams. Further, the women's groups will likely urge a greater budget commitment to Title X. OMB points out, however, that HRSA, which administers Title X, was cut as a whole, and Title X was one of only two programs that received any increase in HRSA's budget.

I called Marsha Greenberger to discuss this, but have not yet reached her. My view is that we should touch base soon with one of the signatories to the letter, explain that the advocates misunderstood the passback language, and gauge their level of opposition to targeting any of the new funding to the programs suggested by HHS. Please let me know if you would like to handle this; otherwise, I will try to reach Marsha next week.

OMB Title X passback

12/9/98 e-mail

Deputy Director, Office of Management and Budget
Room 252

Dear Sylvia:

Thank you again for meeting with the undersigned representatives of national women's organizations on November 25th. We are writing to express our continued concern that the Administration's budget request for Title X remains low. Further, we would like to call your attention to an additional problem involving family planning funding that we have learned of since our meeting.

As you recall, we discussed the proposed funding level for the Title X family planning program and learned that the Office of Management and Budget had included an increase of $14.9 million for the program for FY 2000, for a total proposed funding level of just under $230 million. This falls far short of the HHS requested increase of $38 million, which itself did not meet the needs of the program. We request that you find additional funds to support these basic clinical reproductive health services for women funded by the Title X program before the President's Budget is finalized.

Since our meeting, we have learned that the OMB passback also included language drafted by HHS which directs that the entire proposed increase be spent on programs other than clinical reproductive health services. Specifically, language contained in the passback calls for every penny of that increase to be spent on programs to involve males or to promote abstinence among non-sexually active teens. Even given low inflation, this proposal to level fund women's health services effectively constitutes a cut.

Moreover, the impact of this proposed cut would be compounded by increasing service costs, further hampering clinics' abilities to effectively serve women. Right now, rates of chlamydia are skyrocketing among teens and excellent but expensive urine-based tests to screen for certain sexually transmitted diseases have come onto the market. In addition, new technologies such as the ThinPrep Pap test, and long-acting methods of contraception, such as Depo-Provera and Norplant have the potential to expand the health care options of women served at Title X clinics, but still remain out of the reach of many Title X providers. We believe that this proposal will therefore weaken the clinic

Specifically, language contained in the passback calls for every penny of that increase to be spent on programs to involve males or to promote abstinence among non-sexually active teens. Even given low inflation, this proposal to level fund women's health services effectively constitutes a cut.

Moreover, the impact of this proposed cut would be compounded by increasing service costs, further hampering clinics' abilities to effectively serve women. Right now, rates of chlamydia are skyrocketing among teens and excellent but expensive urine-based tests to screen for certain sexually transmitted diseases have come onto the market. In addition, new technologies such as the ThinPrep Pap test, and long-acting methods of contraception, such as Depo-Provera and Norplant have the potential to expand the health care options of women served at Title X clinics, but still remain out of the reach of many Title X providers. We believe that this proposal will therefore weaken the clinic infrastructure and reduce access to basic health care services for the growing ranks of low-income Americans who are uninsured or underinsured.

Although supporters of Title X recognize the value of additional programs dedicated to involving males, as well as the value of postponing sexual involvement, we question the wisdom of funding these programs at the expense of Title X—an already cash-strapped program that is one of the vital safety nets for health care in this country. In the case of male involvement, many Title X providers already operate such programs. However, the separate programs funded in recent years through the Office of Family Planning have not even required linkage to the existing clinic system to provide reproductive health services to those who need them. In addition, it is our understanding that a proposal is being developed with HHS that calls for a vastly expanded new male involvement program that would establish an entirely separate health care system within community-based organizations that have not historically provided health services.

Title X is, first and foremost, a family planning program. While Title X providers discuss abstinence with patients when appropriate, abstinence-specific dollars are made available through the Adolescent Family Life program. In addition to the $17 million allocated for FY 1999 for the Adolescent Family Life program, the federal government will spend close to $50 million per year to implement the abstinence-only programs required by the 1996 welfare reform legislation.

We would like to schedule a meeting as soon as possible to continue our discussion on how best to advance a women's health agenda for the coming year.

Subject: Title X

Title X family planning seems to be in fairly good shape. First, the history:

FY98 Enacted	FY99 Request	FY99 Enacted
$203 mil	$218 mil	$215 mil

This year's OMB/HHS budget negotiations:

FY00 HHS Request	FY00 Passback
$253 mil	$230 mil

While OMB did not grant HHS its full requested increase for Title X, the passback does represent a 7 percent increase over the FY99 enacted level and the same dollar increase ($15 million) that we requested for FY99. HHS has not appealed the passback -- in large measure because the Health Resources and Services Administration (HERSA), which administers Title X, was cut in other, unrelated areas. In fact, Ryan White and family planning were the only two HERSA programs that were given any increase in passback. HHS/HERSA plans to spend any Title X increase in three areas: (1) augmenting current programs; (2) targeting adolescents before they become sexually active, and (3) strengthening male responsibility.

I understand that Sylvia Mathews met with the women's groups the day after passback, and the women's groups were already aware of the passback level. While they did press Sylvia for a larger increase for family planning, they were pleased with our continued commitment to increasing the program.
