Dear Public Liaison Officer,

First of all, thank you for your dedication & hard work in doing all you can in keeping these United States UNITED, which brings me to my second point.

There is an industry out there who have it in their own self-interests & profit by way of their covert tactics, which makes this more a DIVIDED rather than a UNITED NATION.

Enclosed are true documentations which support my statements here.

I am truly interested in your own thoughts regarding this booklet, if you can take about a 1/2 hour to an hour of your time to read the information it contains & with your permission I'd like to forward your thoughts to the Citizens Commission on Human Rights who helped compile this booklet by Bruce Wiseman.

Thank you very much for taking the time to look over all this information & I am very much looking forward to your response in this matter and your OK in forwarding your statements to the Citizens Commission on Human Rights.

Sincerely,

Marianne Coenen

Special Assistant to the President
The White House
2nd Floor West Wing
Washington, DC 20502

Dear Ms. O'Leery:

Thank you for your letter regarding federal mandating of Internet filtering technology in schools and libraries. As you know, the universal service schools and libraries program is designed to implement Congress's mandate to ensure that the nation's classrooms and libraries receive access to the vast array of educational resources that are accessible through the telecommunications network.

On June 23, 1999, the Commission released a Public Notice, a copy of which is enclosed, to consider the merits of "acceptable use" policies and Internet filtering as a condition for schools and libraries receiving universal service discount support. At the present time, we are reviewing the public comments that we received. I will forward your letter for inclusion in the record of this proceeding.

Thank you for your interest in this issue. If you have additional questions, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,

COMMON CARRIER BUREAU SEEKS COMMENT ON LETTER FILED BY DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE REGARDING SCHOOLS AND LIBRARIES UNIVERSAL SERVICE SUPPORT MECHANISM

CC DOCKET NO. 96-45

On April 7, 1999, the National Telecommunications and Information Administration, United States Department of Commerce (NTIA), on behalf of the Clinton Administration, sent a letter to Chairman William E. Kennard regarding the schools and libraries universal service support mechanism.¹ In particular, NTIA addresses the issue of whether universal service support provided to eligible schools and libraries for Internet access and internal connections should be conditioned on the agreement by such schools and libraries to adopt a policy regarding Internet usage by children.

NTIA indicates that many schools and libraries have adopted methods for ensuring that children do not encounter inappropriate material when using the Internet. NTIA believes that all public institutions should be encouraged to adopt "acceptable use" policies, which, "while being sensitive to local needs and concerns, offer reasonable assurances to parents that safeguards will be in place in the school and library setting that permit users to be empowered to have educational experiences consistent with their values."² NTIA proposes that the Commission promote the employment of "acceptable use" policies "by adopting a requirement that all schools and libraries that receive Federal E-rate funds certify that they will implement 'acceptable use' policies before such funds are awarded to them." We seek comment on whether the Commission should adopt NTIA's proposal.

In addition to "acceptable use" policies, which are locally-drafted statements that explicitly define the range of acceptable uses of the Internet within a particular school or library, schools and libraries may also use a wide range of technology tools, such as filtering or blocking software, to limit and/or to monitor children's use of the Internet. NTIA notes, however, that schools and libraries select particular technology tools based on their determination of what works best in their communities.³ Accordingly, we do not seek comment on whether the Commission should mandate a particular type of filtering or blocking technology to limit and/or to monitor children's use of the Internet. We do seek comment, however, on other possible methods for ensuring that children do not encounter inappropriate material when using the Internet, such as permission slips from parents regarding their children's use of the Internet or student certifications that they will use the Internet consistent with the school's "acceptable use" policy.

If the Commission were to adopt NTIA's proposal, we seek comment on how the Commission should implement the establishment of an "acceptable use" policy as a condition to receipt of support under the schools and libraries universal service support mechanism. Because the Universal Service Administrative Company (USAC) expects to begin issuing funding commitment decision letters shortly for the second funding year, we seek comment on whether the Commission should require applicants to submit a letter to USAC certifying that an "acceptable use" policy has been adopted before funds may be disbursed pursuant to a funding commitment decision letter. With regard to subsequent funding years, we seek comment on whether the Commission should amend the application form so that schools and libraries would be required to certify in the application that an "acceptable use" policy has been, or will be, established.

Pursuant to Sections 1.415 and 1.419 of the Commission's rules, 47 C.F.R. §§ 1.415, 1.419, interested parties may file comments on or before July 22, 1999, and reply comments on or before August 6, 1999. Comments may be filed using the Commission's Electronic Comment Filing System (ECFS) or by filing paper copies. See Electronic Filing of Documents in Rulemaking Proceedings, 63 Fed. Reg. 24,121 (1998). Comments filed through the ECFS can be sent as an electronic file via the Internet to <<http://www.fcc.gov/e-file/ecfs.html>>. Generally, only one copy of an electronic submission must be filed. If multiple docket or rulemaking numbers appear in the caption of this proceeding, however, commenters must transmit one electronic copy of the comments to each docket or rulemaking number referenced in the caption. In completing the transmittal screen, commenters should include their full name, Postal Service mailing address, and the applicable docket or rulemaking number. Parties may also submit an electronic comment by Internet e-mail. To receive filing instructions for e-mail comments, commenters should send an e-mail to ecfs@fcc.gov, and should include the following words in the body of the message, "get form <your e-mail address.>" A sample form and directions will be sent in reply. Parties who choose to file by paper must file an original and four copies of each filing. If more than one docket or rulemaking number appear in the caption of this proceeding, commenters must submit two additional copies for each additional docket or rulemaking number. All filings must be sent to the Commission's Secretary, Magalie Roman Salas, Office of the Secretary, Federal Communications Commission, 445 12th Street, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20554.

Parties also must send three paper copies of their filing to Sheryl Todd, Accounting Policy Division, 445 Twelfth Street S.W., 5-A523, Washington, D.C. 20554. In addition, commenters must send diskette copies to the Commission's copy contractor, International Transcription Service, Inc., 1231 20th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20037.

Pursuant to section 1.1206 of the Commission's Rules, 47 C.F.R. § 1.1206, this proceeding will be conducted as a permit-but-disclose proceeding in which ex parte communications are permitted subject to disclosure.

Dear Anna:

Thank you so much for helping us secure potential assistance in the printing and distribution of Video Smart-a parent's guide to video game violence. As you know, Eric was our White House contact and he is moving to our fair city. Perhaps we will talk him into working on the project while he has some free time.

Enclosed you will find a draft of the guide. I must say that I'm very pleased with it. There are a few minor imperfections which will be corrected prior to printing; however, it has a tone and graphics which parents should find compelling. The Dept. of Health interviewed many parents as well as experts on media violence prior to development of the guide. In fact, we are already hearing from groups around the country that are interested in what we are doing here in Washington to educate parents about video game violence.

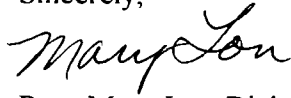

We are planning to note the names of those who helped to underwrite this project on the back page of the guide. Specifically, we are looking for support for printing and distributing 100,000 copies of the guide throughout our state. We have secured a printer who will provide the four-color brochures for $12,000. Distribution costs are anticipated to be $40,000.

We plan to carefully document our activities around this project in order to share with other states and national organizations. As you know, President Clinton honored me last year for my work in our state on the issue of video game violence. My commitment to this issue remains rock solid. Too many parents are still unaware of the content of the violent games. This project can help to change that.

Sarah, your assistance in securing funding for the printing and distribution would be most appreciated. I can be reached at (206) 782-6129 or on e-mail at Dickerso_ma@leg.wa.gov; my district office phone is (206) 545-6513. We have already received substantial commitments from two individual donors and I feel confident that we will be successful in finding the needed resources for Video Smart.

Sincerely,
