The Corporation must establish qualification criteria, consult with providers, and encourage intergenerational programs. The only difference is that the House version states that consultation should include organizations delivering national service programs or human, educational, environmental, or public safety services. The Senate reference is only to organizations delivering national service programs./

Provision enables the Corporation to establish priorities. Differences are: (1) The Senate version states that the Corporation must establish procedures, by regulation, that would ensure equitable treatment of programs when annual priorities change; there is no such requirement in the House version. (2) Subgrantees, under the Senate version, must "make reasonable efforts to use any national service priorities". "(B) FEDERAL SHARE.--Notwithstanding section 121(e), if a Federal agency proposed to carry out a national service program using funds made available under subparagraph (A), and the Federal agency is authorized to use funds made available under Federal law (other than the national service laws) to carry out such a program, the Federal share attributable to this paragraph of the cost of carrying out the national service program shall be 50 percent of such cost. The President may, by regulation, specify the sources that may be used by the Federal agency to provide for the remaining share of such cost. "(C) FEDERAL AGENCIES.--The Corporation may not distribute more than 30 percent of such remainder to Federal agencies for a fiscal year under subparagraph (A). "(D) LIMITATIONS.--The Corporation may limit the categories of eligible applicants for assistance under this paragraph consistent with the priorities established by the Corporation under section 133(d)(2).	Reserves one-third of available funds to subdivisions of states and a variety of additional applicants, including Federal agencies. Generally similar, except: (1) House version states that of the one-third reserved, Federal agencies may receive no more than one-third of that amount; the Senate version states 30%. (2) Senate version has the additional requirement that Federal agencies must pay for 50% of the costs of any programs where they are authorized to do so under law. (3) The Senate version states that when a not-for-profit organization and a state applicant submits proposals of equal weight, the priority should be given to the not-for-profit organization.
