THE WHITE HOUSE

For Immediate Release

February 18, 1999

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT
AT ROUNDTABLE DISCUSSION ON LONG-TERM CARE

Dover Municipal Building
Dover, New Hampshire

11:30 A.M. EST

THE PRESIDENT: Thank you very much. (Applause.) Thank you very much, Governor. To our panelists; I'd like to thank the Mayor, the numerous state legislators who are here, City Council members and county commissioners and others. I'm delighted to be back here and delighted to have a chance to meet with all of you and to hear from our panelists about an issue that I had a lot of conversations like this about in 1991 and 1992 in New Hampshire.

I came here to talk about the health care needs of our people, what we can do to address them, and the special responsibilities we have now as a result of the aging of America. As all of you know, the number of people over 65 is going up dramatically. When the baby boomers retire, we will have double the number of people over 65 we do today. And that imposes all sorts of challenges on our country, on the nation as a whole and on the states.

I want to compliment the Governor for the marvelous work that she has done here in New Hampshire, taking full advantage of our children's health program, which, as she said, was part of the Balanced Budget Act. We think it will enable us to provide health insurance to at least 5 million of the 10 million children in our country who don't have it, if the states will vigorously implement it. And New Hampshire has done a terrific job. And I also appreciate the work she's done on health access, disability and other issues. We'll

about some of that today.

Our panelists today are going to talk about a number of the health challenges we face -- the right of patients to have proper health care -- and you talked about the right to sue. As you know, I tried very hard last year and I'm trying again now to pass federal legislation which would give people the right to seek redress from HMOs if they suffer wrongfully. We want to talk about how hard it is for small businesses still to provide coverage. We want to talk about the health care needs of the elderly and children and people with disabilities.

As I said, all of these health care needs are going to be complicated by the aging of America. They're going to be complicated by the fact that as we live longer, more and more of us will need some sort of long-term care. And that's why one of the things in our balanced budget is $1,000 tax credit to help families defray the cost of providing long-term care for elderly or disabled loved ones.

We also, because health care is improving, we'll have larger numbers of people with disabilities who deserve a chance to go to work, if they can work; to have health care; to live to the fullest of their abilities.

I believe that we need to see this in the context of a larger picture. But I would like to say just a word about the discussions that will inevitably be held about a problem that we could -- no one would have believed if we had talked about it six years ago in New Hampshire or seven years ago, and that is what to do with the surplus. (Laughter.) That was an inconceivable discussion in 1991 and 1992 in New Hampshire.

There are all kinds of ideas -- let me just say that because we have a challenge with the aging of America, which affects not only those who will be seniors, but their children and grandchildren -- I can tell you as the oldest of the baby boomers, one of the things that my generation is most worried about is that our aging will impose unsustainable burdens on our children and, therefore,

undermine their ability to raise our grandchildren.

That's why when we talk about saving Social Security and saving Medicare for the 21st century, we're not only talking about the seniors of our country, but also the children and grandchildren of those seniors. And it's an economic necessity not only for the seniors, but for all of their children as well. And the same thing is true when you talk about doing something about long-term care.

But I'll just say that on the surplus issue, which is not primarily what I wanted to talk about today, but the first question -- you will hear all kinds of debates in the next year about what to do with the surplus. And they'll all be good ideas. But we have to ask ourselves, what should our first priority be?

My first priority doesn't take all of the surplus, but my first priority is to set aside enough money in that surplus to save Social Security and Medicare for the 21st century, strengthen Social Security by doing something about the extraordinary poverty rate among elderly women, who are increasingly living alone in their later years, and lifting the earnings limit on Social Security to help healthy seniors get what they're entitled to and still be able to work if they choose, to save Medicare and to do something to modernize Medicare that I think is terribly important.

I'll never forget the meeting I had in Nashua at the -- senior center
there, with the couple that told me they missed a lot of meals every week so they could pay their medical bills. Medicare should have a prescription drug benefit. I feel very strongly about that. (Applause.) And let me say again, this will cost money in the short run; it will save big money in the long run.
If people can get proper medication, particularly with the dramatic advances in medical science, what you will see is there will be fewer trips to the hospital,

fewer trips to the doctor, people being able to maintain their own health care.

So I hope these things will be done. If we do that, it would require us to save about 77 percent of the surplus for 15 years. And we project now we will have one now -- of course, it will be off from one year to the next.
Some years we'll have good economies, some years the economy won't be so good.
But
there is no built-in deficit in your government anymore, so over any 10-15 year period we can pretty well predict, if we have normal economic performance, ups
and downs, what the aggregate savings would be.

If we do that, let me tell you something else we can do. We will pay down the publicly held debt in this country, which was 50 percent of our annual income when I took office -- now down to 44 -- we'll pay it down to 7 percent.
That's the lowest it's been since 1917, before we went into World War II.
What that means is that instead of spending 14 cents of every tax dollar you send to Washington just paying interest on the debt, which is what we were doing in 1993, when I took office, we'll be only spending 2 cents of every tax dollar for interest on the debt.

So we can deal with the aging of America in a way that gets the debt down, brings interest rates down, keeps the economy going, and strengthens long-term economic health and well-being for America.

So I hope that whatever we do on all the other issues and the details of Social Security and Medicare and all that, there will be a common understanding that our first priority needs to be to keep the economy strong, deal with the aging of America, and invest in the future of this country.

Now, meanwhile, let's come back to the present day. In the balanced budget I have presented to Congress, that has nothing to do with the surplus --

in other words, whatever this debate is in the surplus is not affected by the budget I presented this year -- we do have a $1,000 tax credit for people to provide long-term to the elderly and disabled . This has become a bigger and bigger concern of Americans as more and more people provide this because they think it is the right thing to do, or because it is the only thing to do. Whether it is the right choice or the only choice, it is rarely an easy choice. And it is never cost-free.

Last summer at their annual family conference in Nashville, Vice President and Mrs. Gore talked about this whole long-term care issue a lot and we got into the development of this proposal. And now the Vice President is having forums about this all across the nation. But the basic problem is that out-of-pocket expenses even for family members providing long-term care can be quite high, and as you know, it's rarely covered by private insurance or Medicare. And for caregivers who hold a job outside the home -- which that's the vast majority of caregivers -- they may have to take unpaid leave or work fewer hours, which also is a direct drain on them.

Now, we have tried to strengthen the Medicare by cracking down on fraud and abuse; we've saved billions of dollars on that. We've extended the life of the trust fund for a decade. But in the next few years this long-term care challenge for the elderly and for the disabled is going to mushroom. So in our budget we have the $1,000 tax credit. We also have a caregiver support program to help put caregivers in touch with each other so they can help each other, and to provide technical and other support for them. And we also have taken new steps to help Medicaid pay for home and for community-based care. All of this I think is quite important.

I also believe very strongly that we should pass a national patients' bill of rights, like the one Governor Shaheen has been trying to pass here. And it's obvious why more and more people are covered by managed care. You're going to see this year the managed care insurance rates start to go up quite steeply after years of being around the rate of inflation. And I think people in managed care programs can benefit from them as long as they don't have to give up the quality of care. If you need to see a specialist, you ought to be able to see one. If you have to change jobs, you shouldn't have to change doctors in the middle of a treatment -- whether it's a chemotherapy treatment or a pregnancy or some other kind of continuing treatment. And you should not be denied the right to sue, in my judgment, if you are harmed.

There are other provisions in our patients' bill of rights; I hope
we can pass that this year. I believe this is not a political issue anyplace
in the world except Washington, D.C. If you took a poll in Dover, New Hampshire,
I'll bet you there wouldn't be a nickel's worth of difference in the support for a patients' bill of rights among Republicans, Democrats and independents.
We
all get sick; we all need doctors; we all need health care. This should not be a partisan issue.

There's another bill there we're trying very hard to pass this year that would affect some of the families in this room and many in the state, and that is legislation proposed by Senator Jeffords, Senator Kennedy, Senator Roth
and Senator Moynihan, that would allow people with disabilities to keep Medicaid
health insurance when they go to work. I think this is very, very important.

I always remind people -- by the way, to the younger people in this audience, saving Social Security is an issue not just for seniors; a third of the money from the Social Security trust fund goes to payments to disabled Americans and payments to the surviving children and other family members
of people who die prematurely. So this is something that we should never forget.
When you hear all this debate on Social Security, don't forget that, that it's not just a question of what we pay in and what we get out in retirement.
It's
also -- we're insuring all of each other against the vicissitudes and the fortunes of life. And I think that's very important. But this bill is incredibly important.

And, finally, we've asked Congress to pass a plan that would give tax relief to help small businesses insure their employees and to help them join together and form more pools to buy more economical insurance. That is still a very large problem in our country.

When I came here in 1992, people were very concerned about the number of Americans who did not have health insurance on the job. I can tell you that the number of Americans without health insurance on the job has increased since 1992. Now we are insuring more people than we were then because we've extended the Medicare program and we want to extend it further for people with disabilities who go to work. We're going to try to get 5 million kids into the program that the Governor talked about. But we have to do everything we can to try to help small businesses to afford health insurance for their employees.

Well, those are the things that I wanted to talk about. I hope there will be broad support for them here. I hope you will tell your congressional delegation you think we ought to have a $1,000 tax credit; you think we ought to have a tax credit for small businesses to get health insurance; you support the effort to let people who are disabled keep their Medicaid health insurance when they go into the workplace; and you support the patients' bill of rights. These are some of the things that I believe we can get done this year, and I'm going to do everything I can do to it.

Now, let's hear from our panelists. I'd like to start with Beth Dixon, who is a mother of four from Concord, who spent the majority of the last year caring for her father who suffered from Alzheimer's and passed away last March. I'd like for her to tell a little bit about her story and what we could do to help people like her.

MS. DIXON: Hi, Mr. President. I am the mother of four children. My youngest child has a disability also, and he requires a great deal of support to experience a typical life. I want him to have a typical life, so we do all we can to provide the support needed.

About six or seven years ago, we were told my dad had Alzheimer's Disease and my mother was his primary caregiver for most of that time. About a year and a half ago, my parents had to sell their home and they moved in with me. I was sure, though, that we would be able to handle the situation or whatever we needed to handle with the supports of our community, to assist us in caring for my dad at home.

After calling many agencies and organizations, though, I realized that there was no help for families in our situation. There was lots of information, but no assistance, nowhere to go, no financial help. As the disease progressed and my dad's condition deteriorated, my mother finally had to make the really tough decision to place him in a nursing home, and the nursing home was over an hour away from our home.

Now, even though I had been doing all I could to help her help him, I still had a family and a son who needed lots of support. My whole family had become caregivers in this situation. You know, I was taking my mother out, my husband would stay, my mother-in-law -- my mother-in-law also lives with us. We've got a pretty big household, kind of like the Waltons, you know.

We all, everyone did all we could to help my dad stay at home for as long as he could. But eventually my mother felt she had no other options except to place him in a nursing home. She was exhausted. And she was feeling really guilty because she placed us in this situation -- she didn't actually, we offered, but she was feeling really guilty about that. And she was just worn down, there was no support.

I'd love for you to meet my son and my parents. My son, Andrew.

THE PRESIDENT: I think we ought to give him a hand. (Applause.)

You know, I lost an uncle and an aunt to Alzheimer's. And, again, it's something we'll have more of as we live longer. The average life expectancy in America is now 76. The young people in this room today, their life expectancy is probably about 83, if the present rates of medical advances continue. But until we find a cure for this -- and we're investing a lot of money in it now, in research -- we're going to have to deal with it.

I think when we hear somebody like Beth talk, we may have mixed feelings, but don't know how that woman did that. I mean, that's what we're all thinking. On the other hand, I think we're all thinking, Beth, it's a good thing extended families can stay together for as long as possible. And I consider this tax credit just a down payment on what I think our country should be doing.

I think over the long run, as we live longer, we have not just three, but four generations of families up and around and doing, we will always have a need for our nursing homes, our boarding homes, our hospitals. But I will predict to you that when my term is over and when people are grappling with this over the next 10 years, that the American people will essentially demand that families get tax relief and other support because you'll have more and more families at least trying to do what Beth did. But this is a big first step because the government has never done anything to help people in this situation before, and it's high time we did.

I'd like to call on David Robar now, a 34-year-old New Hampshire native who sustained a spinal cord injury which has permanently injured him. Before that, he was a world-class ski jumper. And he's made quite a brave life for himself now, going back to school and learning. I'd like for him to talk about his circumstances and how he might be affected by some of the things I mentioned today.

David?

MR. ROBAR: Thank you, Mr. President. These issues are very personal to me. In 1990, I sustained a spinal cord injury that changed my life dramatically. After spending three months in the hospital, three months in re-hab, I returned home to adjust to a new life. Despite all these changes, I was determined to finish school. With the help of vocational rehabilitation, I finished my degree in business administration.

When I began looking for a job I found myself in a Catch 22 situation. Currently the personal attendant benefits I receive through the Medicaid program are what makes it possible for me to work. They literally get me out of bed in the morning. If I were to work full-time, which I would like to, I would make too much money to be eligible for Medicaid, and I would lose my personal attendant benefits and my health care coverage. If I were to pay for my personal attendant services out of pocket it would cost me more than I would make working full-time.

Mr. President, your support for the Work Incentives Improvement Act and the other initiatives you have promoted to address the long-term care needs of individuals of all ages is a critical step towards limiting barriers to employment with individuals with disabilities. I want to thank you for your support. (Applause.)

THE PRESIDENT: I want to emphasize what he said to you. Under present law, he is entitled -- and I think all of us are glad he is -- to get attendant care services. He will get them if he stayed home and did nothing -- he'll get them, and the cost would be the same. He is permitted to work part-time and he still gets them. If he works full-time he loses them.

Now, if he worked full-time, it would cost you less. Why? Because the cost for the attendant services would be no more, but he'd be paying more in taxes to defray the cost of his own services. This is a crazy situation. And it's one of those things that hasn't been done in the past. It's kind of like the prescription drug benefit for Medicare -- it cost more money for a year or two because you have to start fronting the money; but over time it obviously will be a big net benefit to us. And not only that, I think our basic respect for human dignity requires us to do everything we can to give people a chance to work.

We worked hard to pass the welfare reform law that said if you're able-bodied and there's a job, you've got to work if you can. When you have people knocking down the doors to work who could get jobs, for us to deny them
the right because of some barrier in federal law I think is unconscionable. And I hope and believe this will pass this year. And you'll be exhibit A, I'm going to talk about you all over America, but especially in Washington. And I thank
you. (Applause.)

Karen Goddard is a mother of two children and the owner of two maternity and children's clothing stores. She's from Nashua and she's got an interesting situation with health insurance. I'd like for her to talk a little about them.

MS. GODDARD: Not nearly as dramatic as the previous two stories,
but one, I think that I represent a large number of people. I am a single mother.
I have two girls. I've been self-employed. I own two shops, I do employ four part-time people. Over the last, I would say, four years or so, I've tried to think about how could I get health insurance for myself. Because of my children, because of my income and being a single mom I qualify for Medicaid, but I don't have health insurance. What if something happened to me? I've got to think of my children, too -- and my employees, because I do run a business that employs people. So I've looked over the -- I also have an employee who doesn't have health insurance and she has a little girl.

So we look periodically and we get prices and we get quotes and we say, we can't afford it. And we put it by the wayside and six months later we try again. And so far we haven't come up with a plan where we can afford to pay monthly premiums to cover ourselves. And, like I say, I have several friends who own businesses who do not have health insurance. So I know I'm not alone in the situation. So we're just looking for a way that we can insure ourselves and our children in a way that we can afford. (Applause.)

GOVERNOR SHAHEEN: Karen, I know that one of the things that the President's going to talk about are some of the incentives he's providing for small businesses. One of the things that we're doing in New Hampshire -- and we hope it will pass this year -- is allowing small businesses to get together to form purchasing cooperatives which can then lower the cost of the premiums. And I think, hopefully, if that passes, that might be an option that would then make it easier for you to get health insurance.

THE PRESIDENT: I think that the two things we're trying to do are complementary. But basically, what we need now under the present state of laws, is, the federal government should provide some sort of tax break to small business, some financial aid to lower the cost of the premium, as well as facilitate the joining together of small businesses into a larger pool.

Because the real problem is, if you've got three or four employees
-- I know some of them are insured through their spouse's work program -- but let's suppose you've got just your one employee who has a child. It's not only prohibitively expensive now, but if you add one child in any of the groups
and you're trying to insure two or three employees, you're out of there. I mean,
you can't begin to afford it.

So I think the important thing is for us not only to provide financial assistance, but to facilitate small businesses going into bigger groups, and to cut the costs and the hassle of all the paperwork involved in that. And we're going to try to do that and I think it will bear some fruit.

Eventually, some provision will have to be made to do more than that, I think, but this is a very important first step. And there are probably millions of people who could get health insurance if we could have a combined state-federal effort to give a little break on the premium and then to bring the overall cost level down by letting some people like you go into bigger pools;

and that's essentially where we're going with this.

I want to now introduce Christine Monteiro, who has four children who have been insured intermittently for the last 11 years, completely uninsured for the last five years, and she discovered the child health program that the Governor passed that we supported back in the balanced budget law. and I'd like her to talk about it and then I've got a specific question I want to ask.

MS. MONTEIRO: I am a mother of four daughters -- 24, 22, 16 and 11.
For the past 11 years, my husband and I have been running a family business. We have had at least four different insurance plans. The premium starts out affordable, but deductibles are so high they don't even cover doctor visits or dentists.

Also, after one year, even the premium is no longer affordable.
So for the first six years we have had our business, we were on and off insurance policies. And for the past five years, we have had no insurance coverage. Last month, we found out about Healthy Kids through my doctor's office. We were told this would be a way to get health insurance for our daughters at an affordable rate that would only increase with the increase of our income.

One of my daughters has been to the doctor's three times already
this month. Without Healthy Kids, I don't know how we would have been able to afford her medical bills. I don't worry anymore about taking my girls to the doctor's.
(Applause.)

THE PRESIDENT: Tell me again how you found out about this program.

MS. MONTEIRO: I took my daughter to the doctor's and I asked him about a subsidized or a sliding scale, and then they told me about Healthy Kids.

THE PRESIDENT: The reason I ask is that one of our big problems in the larger urban areas -- I wish this lady were an exception, but she's not.
There are 10 million children out there like her kids -- 10 million -- and any of them

can get sick. And one of the problems we've got is really developing a system in a lot of places for people to know.

There are places where people won't even go to the doctor, they're so discouraged. And anyway, if any of you have any ideas about that -- I think we have tried -- I think most of the states are trying to make sure that the doctors tell people if they actually come to the office that they might be eligible for this. And that's the most practical thing to do. But we also need a lot more outreach because it's conceivable to me that the money we've allocated to this, if we're giving the states,  will cover even more than 5 million kids if we can actually find them and tell them.

And I know this is painful for you to come here, but this important, the American people need to know this. They need to know, A, this thing, it's here, in New Hampshire and it's good, And it's in other states. But they also need to know there are a lot of people like you out there that need help that don't have it yet. So thanks for being brave enough to show up. I appreciate it. (Applause.)

I'd like now to call on Stephen Gorin, who is a professor in the social work program at Plymouth State College, the Executive Director of the New Hampshire Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers, which is the state's most visible patient advocacy organization. He also has a bi-weekly radio program.

MR. GORIN: Thank you, Mr. President. I'd like to briefly address an issue I know you understand well -- the need for a patients' bill of rights. I've traveled throughout New Hampshire and spoken on this issue before many audiences, including providers and consumers. Invariably, I found strong support for the bill of rights. The stories I've heard are chilling -- families denied access to specialists, physicians offered incentives to limit referrals and consumers denied the right to appeal adverse decisions.

Although New Hampshire has made some progress in recent years, largely due to the hard work of our Governor -- and before that, when she was Senator

Shaheen -- a recent study by Families USA found that we still lag behind many states in consumer protections. Governor Shaheen's HMO Accountability Act will remedy some of these problems, and we applaud her efforts. However, as you well know, we also need action at the federal level.

Due to a loophole in federal law, an estimated 600,000 New Hampshire residents lack a means of holding managed care organizations accountable for injury or damages. The patients' bill of rights closes this loophole.

We've heard much today about the need to expand access. As an advocate, I certainly understand the need to provide coverage for all our residents. In a sense, however, coverage is only half the picture. Without a patients' bill of rights, coverage can be meaningless. Consumers need to know that if they go to an emergency room their plan will pay for it, and if they have cancer they will have access to an oncologist. They also need to know that they will have the right of independent appeal if they are denied treatment or care. Both consumers and purchasers want value for their product, and only a bill of rights can ensure that we get it.

We also know, Mr. President, that some in Congress have introduced legislation purporting to be a patients' bill of rights. Unfortunately, this legislation is more a bill of goods than a bill of rights. We urge you to hold out for legislation that will provide real protection and ensure the accountability of managed care organizations to consumers. The New Hampshire legislature needs to enact the Governor's HMO accountability act and Congress needs to enact a patients' bill of rights that allows the states to regulate managed care organizations and protect all our citizens. (Applause.)

THE PRESIDENT: You know, the Vice President tells this great joke about these two guys that show up at Heaven, and St. Peter asks the first guy, what did you do on Earth? And he said, I was a lawyer. He said, I don't know about you. (Laughter.) He said, yeah, but I did all this pro bono work for poor people. I really did. Twenty percent of my time I did it. And he said,

okay, come on in.

And the second guy says that he was a media mogul. And he said, I'm not sure about you. He said, but I gave away 10 percent of my money to my church and to my charity every year. And he said, okay, come on in. And the third guy's just hanging his head. He's so sheepish and he said, I ran an HMO. And St. Peter said, well, come right in, no questions asked. But you can only stay three days. (Laughter and applause.)

He tells it better than I do. But anyway, I'd like to make this point. The reason we need this patients' bill of rights partly has to do with the structure of these HMOs. Keep in mind, let me take you back to 1992. Costs in health care were escalating at three times the rate of inflation. That was unsustainable. We were all going to go broke paying for health care. We were already paying a much bigger percentage of our income than any other country in the world was, so we needed to manage the costs.

The problem is, when you set up a group to manage the costs, unless there are standards everybody has to adhere to -- that's why a lot of these HMOs actually support the bill of rights -- some of the really good ones support this, because unless there are standards everyone has to adhere to, they're going to be interested in cutting costs. And a lot of the bigger ones, for example, someone shows up for a procedure and they need a specialist, or they need a certain special procedure and the doctor says, well, I have to refer it to the HMO, normally the nurse in the doctor's office will call the HMO. Well, the first person you call is not a doctor, and they just know one thing: they will never get in trouble for saying no, right?

So then, they have a certain amount of time they have to appeal. Very often, the person at the second level is not a doctor; they know the same thing. They're never going to get in trouble for saying no. Why? Because they know somewhere up the line there is a doctor, and if they mess up by saying no,

then they say, well, the doctor will fix it. But if they mess up by saying yes,
they'll be told they're not saving money.

The problem is, it's like justice. Health care delayed can sometimes be health care denied. That's one of the biggest problems. And I have heard all of these chilling stories. I'm sure you have. By the time people get their procedures approved, it's too late. And the emergency room thing is really unconscionable, particularly -- it would apply, like in New Hampshire where the communities aren't very big, it would apply more if you were visiting Boston or something and you got hit by a car and you went to the nearest emergency room and they say, I'm sorry, the emergency room -- your HMO will reimburse for is 15 miles in the other direction. So we have got to fix this.

Now, the opposition says, it will raise the cost of health care.
It will -- but not much, maybe eight or ten bucks a year or something. It would be worth it to you -- one trip to the emergency room, it would be worth it to you.

So I think -- I can't tell you how important I think this is. I think you're going to have more and more and more of these horror stories unless we pass a national bill which will, at a very minimum, protect the state's ability to do what Governor Shaheen wants to do, and say everybody has got a right
to the nearest emergency room, to a continuation of treatment, to see a specialist
and to know what all their medical options are.

And, again I say, this should absolutely not be a partisan issue.
It has been in Washington because of the interplay of the organized interest groups up there, but it's not out in America. And it shouldn't be. You just keep plugging, we'll get there this year, I think. (Applause.)

That is our health agenda for this session of Congress. You see
it here, embodied in these five panelists -- and then what the Governor has worked to do on the children's health program and other things. I would very much like to see the spirit in the country and in Washington, D.C. that I felt here in New Hampshire so many years ago when I first came here, to take these health care issues and sort of put them beyond partisan politics and put the people and the families of this country and their interests first.

If we succeed this year in doing that, all of you can know that your presence here made a difference -- and especially the panelists. I think we should give them one more big hand.

Thank you very, very much and God bless you all. (Applause.)

THE WHITE HOUSE

Office of the Press Secretary

For Immediate Release

February 19, 1999

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT
IN HONOR OF THE NAACP'S 90TH ANNIVERSARY

National Museum of Women in the Arts
Washington, D.C.

9:07 P.M. EST

THE PRESIDENT: I have been friends with Chairman Bond a long time. We have had many interesting conversations -- not all of them have been that laudatory. But, Julian, I have that on film now, and I'm going to play it -- (laughter) -- whenever I need a little boost in life, I'm just going to turn that film on. (Laughter.)

Thank you. I want to say publicly something I said to Julian Bond privately when he agreed to become the Chair of the NAACP -- I called him and I thanked him. And I thank him again. And I thank all of you for what you are doing. (Applause.)

When Kweisi Mfume agreed to become President of the NAACP and leave the Congress, I wept. (Laughter.) But he told me -- he said, now, don't worry. He said, I'll have a good replacement in Congress -- and he did -- and I need to do this. It's the right thing for my country and for my people. And he, too, has served well. And I'm very proud of our friendship and of the service. (Applause.)

I thank all of you who are helping. When Suzanne Dubose was up here talking about scientists slowing down the speed of light and the rest of us speeding up the speed of justice, I wish I had thought of that myself. (Laughter.) That line won't rest, it will be used again and again. (Laughter.)

I want to thank Bell Atlantic and all the other companies who are standing with the NAACP. I am delighted to see Bishop Graves and the other officers here. (Applause.) And, Bishop, thank you for your friendship. (Applause.)

Most of the people with our administration have been introduced, but I want to thank Secretary and Mrs. West, and Secretary Slater, and Bill Lann Lee for being here, and Judy Winston, who did such a good job with our initiative on race. I want to acknowledge, also, the presence in the audience of Mary Beth Cahill, our new Special Assistant to the President for Public Liaison. (Applause.) And I want to recognize Ben Johnson -- many of you know he is the first Director of the White House office on our Initiative for One America, and I thank him for doing that. (Applause.) Since Bell is so well-recognized, there's one other former member of the White House staff here, Eric Eaves (phonetic), who went on for the money and the fame of Bell. I want to thank him. (Applause.)

Ladies and gentlemen, I came here tonight for two purposes. One is to say a simple thank you. Thank you for what you've done for America, and thank you for being my friends. I am grateful. I am very grateful. (Applause.)

The second is to say that -- as Suzanne said so eloquently -- we're in a lot better shape than we used to be, but nowhere near where we ought to be. And what we have to do as a people, as a whole country -- but especially you, because you know -- you know things about where we are and where we need to go that not every American does, because of the life you've lived and the things you've seen and the work you do. You know that no great nation, and certainly not this one, can afford to say, well, we're a lot better off than we used to be, so let's take a vacation from progress. Let's take a vacation from our struggle for liberty and equality. Let's take a vacation from our attempt to spread the reach of prosperity and freedom to Africa, to the Caribbean, to our friends in the Americas.

You know that this is not a time to take a break, it is a time to thank God for our prosperity and our opportunities and make the best use of them. The sun is shining and we need to make hay. We need to work while the sun is shining. (Applause.)

And to do what I would like to do in these last two years of my presidency, just like the last six, we need the help of every one of your 2,200 branches. We need to forge new coalitions across the lines of race and class and religion. We need to close America's remaining opportunity gaps.

A lot of you have lived in homes when you were younger and not so well off and prosperous as you are now -- (laughter) -- where there were literally gaps in the walls or the windows, and you could feel the wind blowing. Well, there are a lot of people still getting blown by those kinds of winds and the opportunity gaps of America.

Kweisi said, as all of you know, that the NAACP was formed 90 years ago. It was founded, as all of you know I'm sure, in direct response to a riot in Springfield, Illinois. Now, I learned something in getting ready to come here tonight that I did not know -- I had always thought it was simply a cruel irony that this riot occurred in Abraham Lincoln's hometown and where he was buried. I learned that the white mob was actually deliberately conducting the riot there, trying to make Mr. Lincoln turn over in his grave. They yelled, storming through the black neighborhoods, "Lincoln freed you; we'll show you where you belong."

Well, quite to the contrary, it was the NAACP that helped to show you where you belong. (Applause.) On any bus, and any lunch counter and any voting booth; in any school, in the Armed Forces, in the highest echelons of government and business -- you belong everywhere. And so do your friends. And we will never make what Congressman John Lewis so beautifully called the "beloved community" until everybody who belongs can be wherever they belong. (Applause.)

I am very grateful for the work we have done together in these last six years. Previous speakers commented on all these folks from our administration, and how our crowd looks like America. What I would like history to say is, they had the administration that looked the most like America and that did the most for America -- (applause) -- proving that excellence and diversity and community all go hand in hand.

I am grateful that we have stronger communities, with a dropping crime rate; that there are only about half as many people on welfare as there were six years ago; that the doors of college are open to every high school student who will work for it through the HOPE scholarship and the other academic aid that we have provided; that we have the longest peacetime expansion in history, and the lowest peacetime unemployment since 1957. I am grateful that the prosperity is wider, with the lowest African American unemployment rate ever recorded, the highest African American home ownership rate ever recorded, record numbers of new African American businesses every year. (Applause.)

But it takes a long time to get it all fixed. Just before I came over here tonight, 117 years too late, I awarded a pardon, posthumously, to Lt. Henry Flipper -- (applause) -- who, because of racial prejudice, was wrongfully convicted of conduct unbecoming an officer and dismissed from the Army more than a century ago. He was born a slave; he was the first African American graduate of West Point. He served with great distinction in the 10th Cavalry. In Fort Sill, Oklahoma, he eliminated the cause of malaria as a civil engineer by digging what is still called "Flipper's Ditch," and is now a national monument.

He lived to be 84. He served as an advisor to a Cabinet Secretary; he did all kinds of wonderful work throughout the world. He was cleared of wrongdoing 20 years ago, but he was never, never fully restored in his good name, until about an hour and a half ago, when, in the presence of 16 of his family members, several African American graduates of West Point, General Colin Powell and a number of others who were here, I signed his pardon. (Applause.)

Now, we don't want the rest of America to wait 117 years for justice. And we don't want people to have to wait until they're gone for people to say something halfway nice about them. We don't want to have America outraged, even though we honor the outrage, by another killing like the killing of James Byrd.

We know still, every day there are qualified African Americans who are turned away from home loans or business loans; African American drivers pulled over because they look suspicious. Some of you call it the offense of driving while black. We know every day there are African American children who are stuck in failing schools when they're entitled to good schools.

So we've been working at it for six years, to try to bring a special focus to the need to build one America, and to deal not only with the problems of African Americans, and Hispanic Americans and Native Americans, but the fact that we are now becoming the most diverse democracy in the world -- California, 10 percent Asian American, soon to have no majority race. We started the Initiative on Race in 1997. To institutionalize the work of building one America, I appointed Ben Johnson to continue our work, in an organized, specific and concrete way. And I want you to help us do that. (Applause.)

I would like it very much if, after the next presidential election, the new President is asked repeatedly, now who is going to head your One America office? I don't want this to be a one-shot deal. I want this to be a journey, not a destination. And I want it to be something that makes us think more and more every day, seriously, about how we're going to build unity out of our increasing diversity -- get rid of our old problems and meet our new challenges. And I want you to help me do that.

I want you to help us, also, to pass this new budget, which helps to close some of those large opportunity gaps -- the disparities in education, in jobs, in economic development, in civil rights enforcement; in home ownership and quality health care.

I came here tonight to celebrate and thank you, not to talk policy, but I want to mention just two areas. First, the economy. We all know that even though we have the lowest peacetime unemployment rate since 1957, there are places that haven't felt much of this vaunted recovery. We all know that even though we have the lowest African American unemployment rate ever recorded -- and the same for Hispanic Americans -- it's still quite a bit higher than the national average. And for young, single men, it is still quite high indeed.

Now, if we can't use this moment of unprecedented prosperity to bring jobs and opportunity and enterprise to the neighborhoods and to the people who have not yet felt it, but are willing to work for it, we will never get around to doing the job. Now is the time to do that. (Applause.)

So the NAACP is a non-partisan organization; you do have Republican supporters out across this country who believe in civil rights. And I want you to go get them. (Laughter.) And haul them up here to Washington, with the Democrats, too, and say, look, we want you to pass this new markets initiative. We can put $15 billion in private investment into neighborhoods in this country that have not seen new investment and new jobs and new opportunity for people by giving the right kind of incentives, the right kind of tax cuts, the right kind of loan guarantees, the right kind of support to business people. And if we don't get around to doing it now, we will never get around to it. We need to do it now. (Applause.)

I also want to tell you that a lot of far-sighted business people have figured out that it would be very good for the American economy. Why? For the first five year of my presidency, 30 percent of our growth came from expanded exports, selling more to other people around the world. Last year we had a good year, but we didn't get 30 percent growth from our exports. Why? You know why -- because of the financial troubles in Asia and in a lot of Latin American countries. Now, I think we ought to help our friends in Asia, Latin America and in Africa to trade with us more so we can grow and they can grow. But in the meanwhile, we've got the most significant untapped market for the growth of the American economy right here at home, in all these neighborhoods that still are not growing as they should. (Applause.)

The second thing I want to ask you to do is to help me give every child in this country a world-class education. (Applause.) I want you to help me finish the job of hiring 100,000 more teachers. I want you to help me finish the job -- again, I want you to bring your Republican and your Democratic friends up here and help me convince the Congress not to say no this time to our proposal to build or modernize 5,000 schools. I'm tired of going into these inner-city schools and seeing schools so old we can't even hook them up to computers, with broken windows and peeling plaster. It's wrong. (Applause.)

And in many other areas, you go and the kids are all having half their classes in house trailers because the schools are bursting at the seams. We need to do that. I want you to help me continue our work to hook up every classroom and library to the Internet by the year 2000. (Applause.) I want to ask you to help me change the way we give out federal money, to not become victim to a tyranny of low expectations.

I have said many times that I want to end the practice of social promotion, but not for the purpose of punishing the kids for a system that is failing them. And let me just give you one fact -- I said this in the State of the Union, but I'm going to say it until I'm convinced every American knows it -- last year, in the International test of Math and Science, a representative sample of American children, by race and income, scored near the top of the world in the 4th grade test. By the 8th grade they had fallen to average. By the 12th grade they were near the bottom. Nobody came and took brain cells out of those kids' heads. They did not get dumber. The system was failing them. (Applause.)

So, yes, I believe we should end social promotion, but we also are tripling funds for after-school and summer school and tutoring programs, and sending more college students into the schools to mentor kids when they're in middle school , and tell them they can stay in school and go to college and what they need to do to do that. We need to do that.

We are dramatically increasing our scholarship program to tell young people, if you'll go into inner cities or isolated rural areas and teach school for three or four years, we'll pay off your student loan. (Applause.) We want you to go out there and give something back to your country. (Applause.)

We have got to change the way we spend the money. The teachers and the parents and the kids are telling us what works; we ought to stop funding what doesn't work and start funding what does. We ought to say that school districts should raise standards for teachers, and we put money in there. There are so many of our teachers out there having to teach courses with the schools overcrowded, that they don't have college majors or college minors in.

That's what happens in high school. It's not that these people are not dedicated -- they are. But they have not had the chance to be properly prepared. And the schools can't get enough teachers to put enough people in the classroom with the kind of academic background. We ought to help them change that.

And there are school districts with schools that are doing great and schools that aren't doing so well. The school with the biggest -- the state with the biggest gain in student performance in the last couple of years is North Carolina, because they adopted a strategy that says, we've got to turn around or shut down failing schools. When you do that, you almost never have to shut one down -- they find a way to turn around.

The great English scholar Benjamin -- I mean, Samuel Johnson, once said -- I had Benjamin Johnson on my mind -- (laughter) -- Samuel Johnson said that it is remarkable how the prospect of one's own demise concentrates the mind. (Laughter.) We don't want to punish anybody; we want to turn schools around. And there's things in this budget to do that -- and to help the teachers, and to give the parents more information, and to help more districts set up charter schools, and to do things that will work, so that we don't have one size fits all.

I read a story the other day about a school district out West that organized a school just for high school dropouts. Let them come at different hours. Let them have access to computers and special tutors. And all of a sudden, almost all the dropouts came back to school. There are all kinds of different things that can be done to raise the performance level of our schools.

But I think all of you know that we'll never really have one America, and we'll never really get by discrimination, unless we create opportunity in the schools, and opportunity in the economy. So I ask you to help me pass these initiatives. (Applause.)

Now, let me just say one last thing. I was delighted to be asked to come tonight, honored to accept. The work that I have been privileged to do as President, and before, in my life to advance the cause of equal opportunity is perhaps the thing I cherish most, of all the things that I and my wife, and our administration have been able to do.

You'd be amazed how many times in my weekly lunch with the Vice President, after we get through with whatever business we have to do, we get back to talking about this subject. I guess it's because I grew up in the segregated South. Maybe it's because I met and was influenced by people like some of you here tonight, so many years ago. But part of it is, I know that it's a pure miracle that, starting out from where I did as a kid, I wound up here tonight. A pure miracle. (Applause.)

I once heard a guy say, every politician wants you to believe he was born in a log cabin he built himself. (Laughter.) But the truth is, we don't build our log cabins ourselves. And not a person standing here or sitting here tonight got here on your own. And most of us get out of this life better off than we deserve, because God is good and so are the people that we get in touch with. (Applause.)

But it really bothers me that there are children in this country, who are certainly just as smart, full of as many dreams, with whatever abilities God gave me, they have them -- who may not be able to live out their dreams. And if all of us as citizens have one responsibility -- apart from honoring our country and Constitution and laws -- it ought to be to make sure that at the end of our days we have done everything we can to make sure no one we ever touched was denied the chance to live their dreams. We know we'll be better off when that's true. We know we'll all get something out.

I look at these young kids that are here tonight, these young people. I'm kind of jealous, actually. If they'd let me be 20, I think I'd let them be President. (Laughter.) You know? I think about the life that lies before them, and all that they might be. I imagine, 30 years from now, some African American, Hispanic, Asian female standing here as President of the United States, you know? (Applause.)

But I know that as long as there are Native American reservations, where young American citizens live in communities where the diabetes rate is two and three and four and five times the national average; as long as there are neighborhoods where kids really don't have a chance to get a world-class education; as long as there are places where nobody's taking care of the pollution, so the health rates are not what they ought to be; as long as there is anyplace where anybody can't live out their dreams, the NAACP will have work to do. And America will have new ground to break. And together, there is no better cause for our energies and our lives.

Thank you, and God bless you. (Applause.)

THE WHITE HOUSE

Office of the Press Secretary

For Immediate Release
February 19, 1999

PRESIDENT CLINTON NAMES TEN MEMBERS TO THE PRESIDENT,S COMMITTEE ON MENTAL RETARDATION

The President today announced his intent to appoint Valerie J. Bradley, Joyce A. Keller, John F. Kennedy, Jr., K. Charlie Lakin, T. J. Monroe, Elizabeth C. Pittinger, Michael L. Remus, Jacquelyn B. Victorian, Barbara Y. Wheeler, and Sheryl White-Scott as members of the President,s Committee on Mental Retardation (PCMR). Ms. Bradley will continue to serve in her capacity as Chair.

Ms. Valerie J. Bradley, of Cambridge, Massachusetts, is President of Human Services Research Institute (HSRI), a non-profit organization. She has worked in the field of mental retardation for over 25 years as a researcher, policy analyst, evaluator, advocate and author. As Chief Executive Officer of HSRI, Ms. Bradley is responsible for the general management of the organization, quality control, employee recruitment, fiscal affairs, and public relations. Ms. Bradley has also directed a wide range of Federal grants and contracts in the areas of family support, quality assurance, and deinstitutionalization. Ms. Bradley holds a B.A. from Occidental College and an M.A. from Rutgers University.

Ms. Joyce A. Keller, of Southfield, Michigan, is the Executive Director of JARC, a Jewish association for residential care for persons with developmental disabilities. Previously, she was a Special Services Director for developmental disabilities for Adult Service Centers, Inc., of Detroit and a Special Education Teacher at the elementary and secondary level. Ms. Keller holds a B.S. from the University of Michigan and an M.A. from the Graduate School of Education at Harvard University.

Mr. John F. Kennedy, Jr., of New York City, New York, is the founder and President of Reaching Up, a non-profit organization that supports the higher education and career development of direct care workers in the disability field. Previously, he served for several years as an Assistant District Attorney in Manhattan, and is a member of the Board of Directors of the Robin Hood Foundation, as well as an Associate Trustee of the Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr., Foundation. Mr. Kennedy holds a B.A. from Brown University and a J.D. from New York University Law School.

Dr. Charlie Lakin, of Minneapolis, Minnesota, is the Director of the Rehabilitation Research and Training Center on Community Living Integration at the University of Minnesota. He has been a Senior Research Associate at the University of Minnesota since 1980. He is a member of the American Association on Mental Retardation and the Association for Persons with Severe Handicaps. Dr. Lakin holds a Ph.D. from the University of Minnesota.

Mr. T.J. Monroe, of Cincinnati, Ohio, is one of two self-advocates appointed to the President's Committee on Mental Retardation. Mr. Monroe is a nationally recognized self-advocate and speaker. He also serves as a consultant to self-advocacy agencies and the government on human rights policies while also advising others in self-advocacy organizing and development. He is also a member of the American Association on Mental Retardation, the Self-Advocates Becoming Empowered Advisory Committee, and an advisor to the People First of Hamilton County.

Ms. Elizabeth C. Pittinger, of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, is an adjunct faculty member of Community College, Allegheny County and a consultant for civil rights, mental retardation and police training. Ms. Pittinger serves as the legally appointed guardian of ten incapacitated people. She is a Commissioner with the City of Pittsburgh Commission on Human Relations. Ms. Pittinger holds a B.A. from Marywood College, an M.P.A. from Carnegie Mellon University, and is a graduate of the Pittsburgh Citizens Police Academy.

Mr. Michael L. Remus, of Lawrence, Kansas, is the Executive Director of the Arc of Tennessee, which advocates for the enhanced quality of life for children and adults with mental retardation and other disabilities through research, advocacy and education. Mr. Remus was formerly the Director of Special Education for the State of Kansas, is a lifelong advocate for persons with disabilities, and is the father of two grown sons with disabilities. He has served as Adjunct Faculty at Wayne State College, teaching education graduate courses dealing with the integration of students with disabilities and Introduction to Special and Secondary Education. He is immediate past President of the Arc-US.

Ms. Jacquelyn B. Victorian, of Baton Rouge, Louisiana, is the Executive Director of Independent Living, Inc., a community-based residential agency that provides supported living services to 50 individuals with developmental disabilities and their families. She is a member of the Community and Family Support Task Force Committee on Supported Living, as well as the Louisiana Governor's Ombudsman Task Force on Developmental Disabilities. Ms. Victorian holds a Masters degree in Social Work.

Dr. Barbara Y. Wheeler, of Los Angeles, California, is Associate Professor of Clinical Pediatrics at the University of Southern California School of Medicine. She also serves as Director of Training in Nursing at the University Affiliated Program at Children's Hospital in Los Angeles, Project Director of the California Personal Assistance Services Project and the Self-Advocacy Project and as an Evaluation Consultant to the Black Infant Health Programs in the California Department of Health Services. Dr. Wheeler holds a B.S. from the University of California at San Francisco, and an M.A. and Ph.D. from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.

Dr. Sheryl White-Scott, of New York City, New York, is the Director of Adult Health Services at the Westchester Institute for Human Development and an Assistant Professor in the Department of Medicine at New York Medical College. She is a Diplomat to the American Board of Internal Medicine. She is also a member of the American College of Physicians and the American Association on Mental Retardation.

The Committee advises President Clinton and Health and Human Services Secretary Donna Shalala on programs and services relating to persons with mental retardation.

THE WHITE HOUSE

Office of the Press Secretary

For Immediate Release February 19, 1999

STATEMENT BY THE PRESS SECRETARY

President Clinton asked the Congress today to give immediate attention to his accelerated request for $300 million in economic and military assistance to help support King Abdullah and the Jordanian people. The President's request, which he sent formally to the Congress today, follows his return from King Hussein's funeral and his February 6 pledge to accelerate U.S. support for Jordan. That support was promised as part of the Wye River accords. Today's request also follows bipartisan consultations with the Congress.

America has a fundamental national interest in helping Jordan. For years,

Jordan has stood by us as a strong and courageous partner for peace. The United States is leading a broad international effort to support Jordan, which includes efforts by the Gulf countries and our G-7 and European Union partners. Prompt U.S. financial support for Jordan's economic and military requirements is essential to help Jordan and to help maintain U.S. diplomatic leadership in the Middle East.

The request revises the President's FY 2000 Budget by urging early enactment of supplemental and advanced appropriations for Jordan in support of the Wye River memorandum. The requested funding would support Jordan's structural economic reform program and water resources development needs, as well as key readiness and modernization requirements of the Jordanian military.

THE WHITE HOUSE

Office of the Press Secretary

Embargoed For Release

RADIO ADDRESS BY THE PRESIDENT TO THE NATION

THE PRESIDENT: Good morning. This weekend, governors from all over our country are here in Washington to talk about the long-term challenges facing our nation as we prepare to enter the 21st century. Of those challenges, none is more important than educating our children -- all our children -- to world-class standards. Today I want to talk about how we must work together at every level of government, and in every community, to make sure our nation's public schools are the best in the world.

For six years now, improving education has been one of our highest priorities. Even as we have held fast to fiscal discipline, replacing an age of crippling budget deficits with a new era of budget surpluses, we have nearly doubled our investment in education and training.

The balanced budget I sent to Washington this month strengthens that commitment to our children's education with even more resources -- to help states improve accountability; to build or modernize 5,000 classrooms*; to reduce class size in the early grades; to start more after-school programs; to connect every classroom and library to the Internet; and to finish the job of hiring 100,000 new highly-trained teachers.

This is an education agenda for the 21st century. But with more children entering school than ever before and enrollments continuing to rise, we know we must draw on every resource we possess to strengthen and improve our public schools.

As both a former governor and a parent, I know the greatest innovations in education do not start in Washington. They start in local schools and school districts, in community councils and parent-teacher groups. They start in states like North Carolina, where Governor Hunt has led the way to improve teacher quality, with performance assessment for new teachers and incentives for veteran teachers to become even more proficient, and to become board-certified master teachers.

They start in Michigan, where Governor Engler is supporting greater accountability in schools by requiring school districts to send parent report cards on how well their schools are doing. They start in Delaware, where Governor Carper is putting an end to social promotion by insisting that students pass state tests before they move to next grades. They start in Pennsylvania, where Governor Ridge is improving school safety with effective discipline codes. They're starting in states like California, where Governor Davis has called on the state legislature to turn around failing schools with a new accountability plan.

* The President's proposal would build or modernize up to 6,000 schools.

As I have said many times, every problem in education in America has been solved somewhere, by somebody, in America. The trick is helping more communities to put those proven solutions to work in their own public schools. I believe the national government has an obligation to help them do that.

That's why, in my State of the Union address, I proposed an ambitious new agenda to invest more of our resources in what we know is working -- and to stop investing in what doesn't. My plan will help every school district to take five steps that are already working in schools around the country, steps advocated by teachers and principals and parents, and students themselves: ending social promotion, but investing more money to help students with summer school and after-school programs, so we don't blame students when the system fails them; adopting and enforcing reasonable discipline codes; giving parents report cards on their children's schools -- and giving parents and children more choice of schools, with charter schools, and more public school choice; turning around or shutting down the worst-performing public schools; and ensuring that all new teachers are trained in the subject they'll be teaching.

Now, these steps are all based on proven experience. They're common sense. We have to make them common practice in every school district in America.

All across our nation, we're seeing a grass-roots revolution in education -- a revolution in accountability and rising expectations. This year, we have a rare opportunity to use our new prosperity to help this revolution spread to every single school district, every classroom, every child.

Now, some in Congress believe the national government has no business helping communities to improve their schools in this way. But I think strengthening education is a national priority. So I urge Congress to help reduce class size, to modernize our school buildings, to improve teacher quality, to make accountability for results -- ending social promotion, reasonable discipline codes, all these other things that I have advocated -- make these things the law of the land. If we do this, we can transform our public schools. We can lift our children up. We can give them the education they need to make the most of their lives in an exciting new century.

Thanks for listening.

END

THE WHITE HOUSE

Office of the Press Secretary

For Immediate Release
February 19, 1999

STATEMENT BY THE PRESS SECRETARY

President Clinton asked the Congress today to give immediate attention to his accelerated request for $300 million in economic and military assistance to help support King Abdullah and the Jordanian people. The President's request, which he sent formally to the Congress today, follows his return from King Hussein's funeral and his February 6 pledge to accelerate U.S. support for Jordan. That support was promised as part of the Wye River accords. Today's request also follows bipartisan consultations with the Congress.

America has a fundamental national interest in helping Jordan. For years, Jordan has stood by us as a strong and courageous partner for peace. The United States is leading a broad international effort to support Jordan, which includes efforts by the Gulf countries and our G-7 and European Union partners. Prompt U.S. financial support for Jordan's economic and military requirements is essential to help Jordan and to help maintain U.S. diplomatic leadership in the Middle East.

The request revises the President's FY 2000 Budget by urging early enactment of supplemental and advanced appropriations for Jordan in support of the Wye River memorandum. The requested funding would support Jordan's structural economic reform program and water resources development needs, as well as key readiness and modernization requirements of the Jordanian military.

THE WHITE HOUSE

Office of the Press Secretary

For Immediate Release

February 19, 1999

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT
AT CEREMONY IN HONOR OF LT. HENRY O. FLIPPER

The Roosevelt Room

6:33 P.M. EST

THE PRESIDENT: First of all, I'd like to welcome this distinguished assemblage here -- Dr. King and the members of the Flipper family, and your friends; Secretary West, Congressman Clyburn, General Powell, Deputy Secretary Hamry, Under Secretary de Leon, General Ross and General Reimer, Secretary Caldera. I understand we're joined by Clarence Davenport, the 6th African American graduate of West Point; other distinguished West Point graduates who are here. Welcome to all of you.

There's one person who could not be here today -- Deputy Attorney General Eric Holder, I'm glad to see you -- the one person who could not be here today I want to acknowledge, and that is Senator Max Cleland from Georgia, who has done a lot to make this day possible. We thank him in his absence.

I welcome you all to an event that is 117 years overdue. Here in America's House of liberty, we celebrate ideas like freedom, equality, our indivisibility as one people. Great leaders lived here -- people like Mr. Jefferson, Mr. Lincoln, the Roosevelts, after whom this room is named. All of them deepened the meaning of those words while they lived here. But we must be candid and say that the special quality of American freedom is not always extended to all Americans.

A word like "freedom," to be more than a slogan, requires us to acknowledge that our "more perfect union" was created by imperfect human beings, people who did not always define freedom in the ways that we would, and in ways that they knew they should. For this word to live for ourselves and our children, we must recognize it represents a difficult goal that must be struggled with every day in order to be realized.

Today's ceremony is about a moment in 1882, when our government did not do all it could do to protect an individual American's freedom. It is about a moment in 1999 when we correct the error and resolve to do even better in the future.

The man we honor today was an extraordinary American. Henry Flipper did all his country asked him to do. Though born a slave in Georgia, he was proud to serve America: the first African American graduate of West Point; the first African American commissioned officer in the regular United States Army. He showed brilliant promise and joined the 10th Cavalry. While stationed at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, he perfected a drainage system that eliminated the stagnant water, and malaria, plaguing the fort. Still known as "Flipper's Ditch," it became a national landmark in 1977.

He distinguished himself in combat on the frontier, and then was transferred to run a commissary at Fort Davis in Texas. In 1881, Lt. Flipper was accused by his commanding officer of improperly accounting for the funds entrusted to him. A later Army review suggested he had been singled out for his race, but at the time there wasn't much justice available for a young African American soldier.

In December, a court-martial acquitted him of embezzlement, but convicted him of conduct unbecoming an officer. President Chester A. Arthur declined to overturn the sentence, and in June of 1882, Lt. Flipper was dishonorably discharged. His life continued. He became a civil and mining engineer out West. He worked in many capacities for the government, as special agent for the Department of Justice; as an expert on Mexico for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee; as a special assistant to the Secretary of the Interior. He died in 1940, at the age of 84.

But even after his death, this stain of dishonor remained. One hundred and seventeen years have now elapsed since his discharge. That's a long time, even more than the span of his long life. More than half the history of the White House, indeed, of the United States itself. And too long to let an injustice lie uncorrected.

The army exonerated him in 1976, changed his discharge to honorable and reburied him with full honors. But one thing remained to be done, and now it will be. With great pleasure and humility, I now offer a full pardon to Lt. Henry Ossian Flipper of the United States Army. This good man now has completely recovered his good name.

It has been a trying thing for the family to fight this long battle, to confront delays and bureaucratic indifference, but this is a day of affirmation. It teaches us that, although the wheels of justice turn slowly at times, still they turn. It teaches that time can heal old wounds and redemption comes to those who persist in a righteous cause. Most of all, it teaches us -- Lt. Flipper's family teaches us -- that we must never give up the fight to make our country live up to its highest ideals.

Outside of this room Henry Flipper is not known to most Americans. All the more reason to remember him today. His remarkable life story is important to us, terribly important, as we continue to work -- on the edge of a new century and a new millennium -- on deepening the meaning of freedom at home, and working to expand democracy and freedom around the world, to give new life to the great experiment begun in 1776. This is work Henry Flipper would have been proud of.

Each of you who worked so hard for this day is a living chapter in the story of Lt. Flipper. I thank you for your devotion, your courage, your persistence, your unshakable commitment. I thank you for believing, and proving, that challenges never disappear, but in the long run, freedom comes to those who persevere.

Thank you very, very much. (Applause.)

TEXT:

I've been given a few e-mails that were sent between you, TJ, and Carolyn Mosely about some money that DOE supposedly was going to provide for the WHCCTF (?), and I've been asked to help fix whatever the problem is. Could you clarify for me what the problem is? I have no prior knowledge of who might have promised what to whom.

Thanks.

Randy.

THE WHITE HOUSE

Office of the Press Secretary
(Manchester, New Hampshire)

AT STATE DEMOCRATIC 100 CLUB DINNER

The Armory
Manchester, New Hampshire

8:23 P.M. EST

THE PRESIDENT: Thank you. I want to thank you for a typically reticent Yankee welcome tonight. (Laughter.) It is wonderful to be back. (Applause.) I have very much enjoyed being with Governor Shaheen and with Bill today, and we've had a lot of time to visit. I want you to know that it gives me an enormous amount of pleasure and pride to see the Governor at her task, to know the victories that you have given her, to know that now she has a Democratic state Senate for the first time in 86 years -- (applause) -- and that you made a lot of gains in the House, and that the Democratic Party is moving in the right direction.

I thank Jeff and Sophia and all the other officers of the Democratic Party, all the legislators and other people who are here. I am glad to be back. (Applause.) I'd like to thank the people from New Hampshire who have been a part of our administration -- I'm not sure I can remember all of them, so many have been. But I would like to thank Joe Gramazon and Stephanie Powers, Resha McMahon, Terry Shumacher (phonetic spellings.) I talked to him today; I called Terry Schumacher and said, it's just like the Caribbean up here in New Hampshire, you ought to be here. (Laughter.) George Bruno, Dick Sweat so many others.

I want to thank -- I brought four people back here tonight who slogged through the snows of New Hampshire with me in '92 and '92 -- Michael Hooley, Jeff Forbes, Paul Begala and Bruce Lindsey -- and they are glad to be here and we thank them.

(Applause.)

You know, the last time I was in this building, I believe, was at the Democratic Convention in the campaign of '92. And I remember that the center aisle was open, and everything was crowded, and all the candidates got to have a little demonstration. And in my demonstration, there were a bunch of students who carried a banner down the middle aisle for me; I'll never forget it. And to see this vast crowd here today, celebrating the successes of our party and our nation and your state, is wonderful.

You know, I didn't know exactly what I was going to say today when I got here. I remember when I first started coming here, people kind of laughed at me when I said that New Hampshire was a lot like my home: all the experts expected you to send me home. (Laughter.) Instead, you made me feel at home, and I still do. I love it. (Applause.)

In 1992, when I came here, when Hillary came here, amidst all the economic problems and personal turmoil, people whose businesses had been closed because their loans were cancelled -- in some cases, people who had never missed a payment; elderly people who were having to choose between food and medicine; young working families who couldn't buy health insurance because their children had been sick -- I remember a young girl who talked to me about the pain in her family because her father could not get over the fact that he was unemployed and he could no longer take care of his family.

In the middle of that difficult time the people of New Hampshire came out to see me and Hillary and listen to what we had to say. You took us into your homes. You shared your struggles and your dreams. And in so many ways, the story of America in 1991 and 1992 was, for me, the personal histories I heard in New Hampshire.

I saw a lot of people today that I met then, that I've tried to keep up with all the times I've come back here since then. I think, of all the things that were said to me today, the things that meant the most were -- well, there were really two things. First, to know that people are doing better and feel better about their lives, their children's future, our country's future.

I got to check in today with Ron and RhondaLee Machos, and I made them the poster family for my struggle for health care access because their oldest child, Ronnie, was born with a heart problem. Today I saw Ronnie and Tristen, his little brother, and Mamma's about to have a third son. But I got a letter from the dad the other day who said, "Little Ronnie is doing exceptionally well. No problems with his heart. Looks like he needs no further surgery. He scored two goals and got one assist in his last hockey game. That's a long way from being born with a hole in your heart." (Applause.) "Younger son Tristen is seven this year, and quite a pistol" -- I saw him today -- "and RhondaLee is pregnant with our third child."

Listen to this; this is the point. "One thing we will experience for the first time is health insurance and pregnancy." Those are the kinds of stories I wanted to hear after we had a chance to work together to make America a better place. (Applause.)

The other thing I heard that made me feel so good today was that any number of people in various ways said, we stuck with you because you came to us with a detailed program and you did exactly what you said you would do, and it worked. (Applause.) Well, today -- I didn't do it, we did it. You did it.

Don't ever forget -- I was in Dover today, you know, where I coined that now famous line that "if you would stick with me I would stick with you until the last dog died." (Applause.) And the people of Dover had any number of humorous things to say about that. (Laughter.) We've seen a lot of dogs killed, but at least the last one is still living. (Laughter.) This dog is limping, but still going. I heard it all. (Laughter and applause.)

Here is the point: If you had listened to the political experts, the dog would have died. (Laughter.) But instead you held out a lifeline. You decided that the election should go on. You decided that these ideas, that this new direction for our country deserved a fair hearing among the American people. You embraced our cause.

People ask me all the time, well, what if this, that or the other thing had happened and you hadn't become President? All I know is, I have never forgotten -- as anyone who has worked for me in the White House will tell you -- the kindness and the toughness, the humanity and the determination of the people of New Hampshire who would not let our campaign and what we want to do together for America die. And I never will. (Applause.)

Now, the point of all that is that every time you hear about something good that's happened in America, you ought to say, I was part of that. This is a journey we have taken together. In America, there is not a difference between the government and the people between those who govern and those who let them govern. You gave me permission to do this based on a contract I made with you and the rest of the American people. And it's been quite a wonderful journey.

When I came here -- seven years ago today, we had the New Hampshire primary. The unemployment rate was 7.3 percent. Today, it's 2.9 percent. (Applause.) In the four years before I took office, you lost 41,000 jobs here. In the six years since, you've gained 77,500. (Applause.) In 1992, business failures were increasing by 44 percent every single year; in the last six years they've dropped by nearly three-quarters. In 1992, your welfare rolls were among the fastest-growing in the country; today, they are half what they were on the day I took office. (Applause.)

We have seen -- as a lot of your police officers said to me today, we have seen new police officers, new teachers, AmeriCorps volunteers, people benefitting from the earned income tax credit, from the HOPE Scholarship -- which about 26,000 New Hampshire students will take advantage of this year; 32,000 more are taking advantage of the lifetime learning tax cut to pay for their college education, and on and on. This is what campaigns are really about. (Applause.)

And the test is, do we use the authority and the power and the responsibility given to us by the people to advance their cause. I said over and over and over again in New Hampshire in 1992 and I say again tonight, I was raised to believe that no person can sit on the sidelines and knowingly permit any of his or her fellow citizens to live under burdens that do not permit them to live up to the fullest of their God-given capacity. I always believed if we could create a country in which there was opportunity for every citizen responsible enough to take advantage of it; and if we could convince people that we really have to be one community, that we will never be all that we could be unless we care about our neighbors and work together and realize that our welfare is caught up in the welfare of those who may seem very different from us -- but underneath it all the diversity of America is our greatest strength, as long as we recognize that what unites us is more important than anything that could divide us. I believe that and I still believe that tonight. (Applause.)

What I want to say is I believe the reason the Democratic Party is coming back all over America is that more and more Americans believe that -- including independents and Republican -- that we ought to be about opportunity, responsibility and community. We ought to be looking for ways to put people over politics, to put unity over division.

It is not an accident that we've gone from a $290-billion deficit to a $70-billion surplus with a bigger one coming this year -- (applause) -- that we have the longest economic expansion in peacetime in the history of the country and the lowest peacetime unemployment rate since 1957. This is not an accident. It happened because people like you believed in and embraced certain ideas, and then went out and worked like crazy when the chains were taken off of you to make America work again.

And you should take pride in that. Pride not only in your own work, but pride in the work you did as citizens, in the work you did in campaigns, in the work you did in talking to your friends and neighbors. This is what makes America work -- when the people are put first, when the dreams and the hopes of the American people are put first, and when the problems are tackled instead of just talked about. That's politics at its best and that's what this building, that convention, all those years ago and this night will always mean to me. (Applause.)

Now, I want to get off this rather passionate political note and say something completely dry and academic, something completely factual, purely historical, wholly nonpolitical. Nobody had more to do with the decisions we made and success we've enjoyed than Vice President Al Gore. (Applause.) I understand he may have been around here recently. He wasn't with me in '92, until I became the nominee. But in '93, as he never tires of telling me, he cast a decisive vote on the economic plan that began to bring our country back. And, as he always says, whenever he votes, we win. (Laughter and applause.)

I do want to say, you know, I have been very fortunate in the people who have served in our Cabinet. I once had a group of presidential scholars at the White House, and a gentleman who taught at Harvard said, Mr. President, one of the reasons your administration has been successful is that you have the most loyal Cabinet since Thomas Jefferson's second administration. It was an amazing statement. He said, I'm a historian, I know.

We have all these people who work in the White House every day, day in and day out, whose names you don't know, who never get any glory, who deserve a lot of this credit. We also have a great team of people around the country working. But I have been very blessed by the work especially of the First Lady and the Vice President, and you all know it. (Applause.)

So I came here tonight to say thank you, to reminisce just a little bit, to thank you for Hillary and for me and for all of our administration -- but not just to say, thank you. Because if you remember in '92, every event we did, every home we visited, every town hall meeting we had that were bursting at the seams -- that's the first time I knew I had a chance to get elected President. Actually, I went to Keene and they said, we put you in a place that will hold 150 and if 50 people show up, don't be embarrassed, it's a good turnout; it's New Hampshire, nobody knows who the heck you are. (Laughter.) And 400 showed up and I said, holy moly, something's going on.

Oh, by the way, Mayor Pat Russell and her husband, Ron, are celebrating their 49th wedding anniversary tonight. Let's give them a hand there. Happy anniversary. (Applause.)

So I wanted to do that. But remember this: We were really worried about making New Hampshire and America and the lives of ordinary citizens work again. I mean, people just wanted things to work. Do you remember, five out of the seven biggest banks had failed? I mean, people wanted things to work.

Okay, things are working now. So here's the most important thing I came here to say. I came to deliver on what I really owe you tonight. When things start working and people have been through all that you have been through, the temptation is to stop at what we've already said and done. Pat yourself on the back, feel good about it, kick back, relax, wait for something else to happen. And I came here to tell you tonight that that would be wrong. That would violate the ideas and the principles on which we campaigned, you and I, in 1992 and upon which we were returned to office in 1996.

Why? Because, yes, America is working, but we are living in a very dynamic world where things that happen beyond our borders can affect how you live in every community in New Hampshire and throughout this country, and when, you know as well as I do, that we have large, long-term unmet challenges facing us in the century that is now less than a year ahead.

And so I ask you to think tonight about what we must do not only to celebrate what's been done and think about the next election, but we need to think if we want to retain the support of the American people from the presidency, if we want to get it back in the Congress, if we want to keep the Democratic Party moving in the right direction in New Hampshire, we have to do a good job for the American people and the people of this state every day for the next two years. That is the best politics -- to do what is right. (Applause.)

Now, I will not keep you through a whole recitation of my State of the Union speech -- (laughter) -- but I want you to know that I worked hard on that for months, and it reflects the thinking that I have brought to this job for years. I prayed in the early years of the presidency when we were bailing water out of the ship that we would one day right ourselves and America would be working again, and as a people we could be called to think about these large, long-term challenges. And we would be making a terrible mistake as a political party if we played politics with them, looked only to the next election, and forgot that all of us are charged with the responsibility now that America is working to have America moving forward.

What are those challenges? I'll just mention two or three: The aging of America. The challenge of balancing work and family. As more and more people go into the work force and more and more parents are working, the challenge of giving every child a world-class education. (Applause.) The challenge of dealing with our environmental difficulties while continuing to grow the economy, and living more at harmony with ourselves and our neighbors on this planet, and the challenge of dealing with America's obligations to lead the world toward greater peace and freedom and prosperity.

I met a lot of people here with Irish roots tonight, like me, who thanked me for the role that I have been honored to play in the Irish peace process. (Applause.) We are struggling today to keep a new conflict from breaking out in the Balkans. We are struggling today to deal with the challenges of chemical and biological weapons so that our children won't have to face them. We are struggling today to help our friends in democratic Russia keep their democracy alive and restore their economic health.

And one of the things that I did when I was in New Hampshire that I tell you I believe more strongly today than I did then is to say, folks, there is no longer a dividing line between domestic policy and foreign policy. The person in the remotest, smallest village in northern New Hampshire cannot be unmindful of America's responsibilities and opportunities in this great wide world. We have to fulfill them and the Democratic Party should lead the way. (Applause.)

So what does that mean? Let me just mention two things. Let's talk about aging and education, the old and the young. The number of people over 65 is going to double by 2030. People are living longer. The average life expectancy in America now is already over 76. By the time the young people in this room who are under 30 tonight reach their later years their life expectancy, in all probability, will be somewhere in the mid-80s.

Now, what does all that mean? First of all, let's not kid ourselves, this is a high-class problem -- and the older I get, the better this problem looks. (Laughter.) So I don't understand all this hand-wringing, this is a good deal, you know? This is a high-class problem. It is a tribute to our health system, to healthier behaviors, to scientific discovery -- and also a fact of the baby boom.

Now, what we have to do is to figure out how, when the baby boom retires and medical costs escalate in the Medicare program, which will happen before the baby boom retires, we can preserve our obligation to our seniors without bankrupting their kids and grandkids. This is an issue which affects everyone, the aging of America. More and more people will take care of their parents as they get older, and may need some help doing it. More and more people, if we don't do our job, will feel the squeeze between their parents' retirement needs and their children's education needs.

That's why I have said my first priority in dealing with this budget surplus we have waited for 30 years and we have worked for six years, after 12 years in which they quadrupled the debt of the country -- my first priority is to save Social Security and Medicare and pay down the debt, to strengthen America for the 21st century. (Applause.)

Now, we will have a real policy debate with our friends in the Republican Party on that issue. They will agree with us that we should save the surplus necessary for Social Security, and then they'll disagree with us on what the best way to spend it is. And that's good; that's a high-class problem. That's the kind of honest political debate we ought to have. But they will not agree that we should also save that portion of the surplus necessary to deal with Medicare, even though it is going to run out of money in 10 years. And we have to save it, reform it, but also, in my judgment -- I'll never forget the people I met in New Hampshire who told me this -- we ought to add a prescription drug benefit to the Medicare program for the elderly people who need it. (Applause.)

Now, I believe the Democratic position, which is embraced by the leaders of our party in both Houses of Congress, as well as by our administration, is the right one. If we save 77 percent of this surplus over the next 15 years, we can do two things. We can prepare to save Social Security and Medicare; we'll also pay down the national debt.

When I took office, the national debt was one-half our annual income. It had quadrupled in 12 years. I had to spend the first year I put together a budget over 14 cents of every dollar you pay to the federal government in taxes just to make interest payments. Well, now the debt is down to 44 percent of our annual income. But if you do what I'm recommending here, if the Congress will go along and we save 77 percent for 15 years, we will take it down to 7 percent of our income; the debt service will be 2 cents on your taxes, the rest will go to real things. And within 18 years, the United States of America will be out of debt. This is what we should do. (Applause.)

Now, in addition to saving Social Security and Medicare, we have other health responsibilities. In my balanced budget there's a long-term care tax credit. We have to make sure that we pass a national patients' bill of rights to support what Governor Shaheen is trying to do here in New Hampshire. (Applause.) We have to pass a bill sponsored by Senators Kennedy and Jeffords to make sure people with disabilities can take full-time jobs without losing their health insurance. (Applause.)

And we ought to, while we're helping, deal with the problem of family and work by broadening the number of people eligible for the Family and Medical Leave law. I met people today who said they took advantage of it and what a difference it made for their families.

We ought to raise the minimum wage and we ought to pass the initiative I have offered to give $15 billion in private sector capital to rural areas and urban communities who have not yet felt our economic recovery. If we can't fix the poorest areas of America with free enterprise now, we will never get around to doing it. (Applause.)

Now, we also have to remember our children. I'm proud of the fact that we have more people in Head Start, kids in Head Start than ever before; that we have 90 percent of our children immunized against serious childhood diseases for the first time; that in the balanced budget law of 1997, five million children became eligible for health insurance -- and thanks to what the Governor has done here with the child health program in New Hampshire, we are finally reaching those children.

But we have more to do. I'm proud of the fact that we have opened the doors of college to everyone with these tax benefits, and greater student loans and work-study programs. No serious person believes that our elementary and secondary education in every state, in every community, in every school, is what is necessary to give a world-class education to what is the most diverse student body our country has ever had.

Now, look -- this diversity is our meal ticket to the future. In a global economy, the idea that we have children in our schools from every country on Earth, from every culture on Earth, from every religious faith on Earth, all learning what the basic rules of American citizenship are in action every day, and being given a chance to be responsible and to participate in our country, and to learn to relate to each other, in a world that is being torn asunder all across the globe, from Bosnia to the Middle East to the tribal wars of Africa over differences of race and ethnicity and religion -- what we are trying to do is a godsend for our future, economically, politically and, frankly, in terms of just the quality and richness of our lives.

But we have to do better with education. (Applause.) We have got to do better with education. We have to finish the job we started last year of hiring 100,000 teachers. We have to pass the bill Congress turned down last year to build and modernize 5,000 schools. I'm tired of going to these schools that can't even be hooked up to the Internet because they're so old. (Applause.)

We have to finish the job of hooking all our classrooms and libraries up to the Internet. And thanks to the e-rate that the Vice President and I fought so hard for, $1 billion in discounts will be available this year to our schools, so every school, even poor schools, can afford for their children to hook up to the Internet. (Applause.)

And I believe we have to bring a revolution of accountability to our schools. For over 20 years now, I have spent a lot of time in classrooms. I've listened to teachers, I've listened to principals, I've listened to students, I've listened to parents. I can tell you that every challenge in American education has been met by somebody, somewhere, and that we still, on the edge of a new century, this so-called Information Age where people learn what everybody else is doing with blinding speed, we are still not very good at copying from others.

The Founding Fathers would be disappointed that school districts still seem to believe that they can't learn as much from others as they ought to. They set up the states as the laboratories of democracy. When I was a governor for 12 years, as I told your Governor, back when I had a life -- when I was a governor for 12 years and I could actually stay here and sit around and talk around this table half the night and drink coffee with you, I was proud of the things that my state did first, but I was prouder of the things my state did second.

We have got to install, somehow, the best practices in education that educators tell us work. That's why I believe, based on what I've seen in some of the toughest urban school districts in America, we ought to say when we reauthorize all this federal aid this year, you can have it, but you've got to stop social promotion. But you can't tell the kids they're failures when the system is failing them. You have to turn around the failing schools. And you have to give the children summer school and after-school programs and whatever they need.

Look, our kids rank at the top of the world in 4th grade tests in math and science. Then they drop down to the middle in 8th grade tests. And then by the 12th grade, they're ranking near the bottom. Now, the same kids start out -- they didn't get dumber as they traveled through life. That is telling us something about ourselves. We can do better. We have to have higher expectations, higher standards, higher accountability for everyone. But we can't tell the kids that they're failing if the system is failing them. We're not doing them any favor passing them along, but we have to lift them up and give them the support they need. (Applause.)

So I ask you to embrace the education agenda; to embrace the saving Social Security, saving Medicare, paying down the debt agenda; to embrace the agenda of bringing economic opportunity to our distressed areas, and expanding health care access and doing more to help people balance work and family, and dealing with the environmental and other challenges I have outlined. I ask you to do it because the best politics -- as has been proven over and over and over again -- is doing the right thing for the American people; saying what you're going to do, and if you get elected, doing it. And dealing with the emergencies that come up, dealing with the challenges as they come up.

In 1998, for the first time since 1822, the party of the President in the sixth year of his presidency gained seats in the House of Representatives. (Applause.) Now, I believe with all my heart it was because our party went out there with a simple message. They said, our concern is you; our commitment is to your future and your children. Vote for us and we will save Social Security first, before we squander this surplus. Vote for us and we will modernize those thousands of schools. Vote for us and we will pass that patients' bill of rights. Vote for us and we'll get interest rates down, pay the debt down, keep this economy going. We have an agenda. And it's an agenda that will deal with the long-term problems as well as the short-term problems of America.

That's what the Democratic Party represents now -- opportunity for all, responsibility from all, a community of all Americans. We no longer have a country, as I said seven years ago, where I worry about me, you worry about you, they worry about them. I didn't want that then and I don't see that today. We know -- we know -- we are all in this together. We know that we'll all do better if we do the responsible thing, if all our neighbors have opportunities and if we live together as citizens in one community.

You have all helped to make that the new reality of 21st century America. I want you to be proud of it, but not to rest on it. Help your Governor. Help your legislators. Realize the dreams of your children. Don't run away from the work of governing. Stay with the real things that real people care about and the politics will take care of themselves.

Thank you. God bless you. And on to tomorrow. Thank you. (Applause.)

THE WHITE HOUSE

AND PRESIDENT JACQUES CHIRAC OF FRANCE
IN PHOTO OPPORTUNITY

The Oval Office

12:05 P.M. EST

PRESIDENT CLINTON: Is everyone in?

Q Yes, sir.

PRESIDENT CLINTON: As you know, we're going to have a press conference at the conclusion of our meetings. But I just wanted to take this opportunity to welcome President Chirac and the members of his delegation back to the White House. We have had a good working relationship and a warm personal friendship. I'm delighted to see him.

We have a lot of important things to discuss, especially the situation in Kosovo; but also the work we've been doing on the international financial matters and many other things. And we'll be able to discuss them later at the press conference.

But, mostly, I just wanted to welcome him here and give him the chance to make a few remarks, if you would like.

PRESIDENT CHIRAC: I wanted to say how happy I am to be with you here and with President Clinton, my good friend.

We're going to have a very interesting day's work together. We'll, of course, first be talking about Kosovo and also a number of other important questions, like the international financial monetary situation in preparation of the NATO summit and a number of other subjects.

And I want to thank President Clinton for his welcome.

Q President Chirac, do you think that there will be a settlement, a peaceful settlement in Kosovo or military action? Do you think that both sides will make an accord by noon tomorrow?

PRESIDENT CHIRAC: I hope with all my heart that both sides would understand that their intention is to find an agreement. Because the side which would not understand that would then have to bear all the consequences. And those consequences would be serious for them, but also for their country and their people -- as the time for peace has come, and every side must make this effort to make peace possible. And we are determined, really determined and firm on this.

Q President Clinton, does Mr. Milosevic deserve more time and, if not, sir, why not?

PRESIDENT CLINTON: We'll answer all the other questions at the press conference.

END

Weekly

On Monday, CBS Evening News with Dan Rather ran a piece on climate change research in Antarctica. It was part of a three-week series on Antarctica. The researchers are using ice cores that are tens of thousands of years old (from holes as deep as 3,000 feet) to study the chronological changes in the Earth's temperature. The story highlighted how quickly the West Antarctic Ice Sheet is melting and warned that its collapse could cause sea levels to rise by as much as five meters, swamping coastal cities like New Orleans. The story concluded by noting that Antarctica will be the first place where climate change will be evident.

On Tuesday, the New York Times Science Section featured a story on climate change and its potential disruption of the cycle of ice ages. The piece discussed scientists' fears of the potential impact of greenhouse gases but concluded that the ice age cycle is highly complex and occurs over such a long period of time that scientists have not reached any level of certainty on what happened in the past or what will happen.

Time Magazine ran a section in this week's edition entitled "Heroes for the Planet." The section featured a couple who against significant resistance had designed and built a sustainable community in Davis, California, that utilizes solar power and is centered around walkways and communal green spaces. The section also highlighted a man who has developed a battery that should make zero emission vehicles increasingly affordable and practical. The final "hero" was a Canadian who created a fuel cell bus that emits water clean enough to drink.

On Tuesday, the United Kingdom's announcement that they will invest more money in environmental projects and particularly in climate change garnered coverage in the Financial Times and the wires.
