PRESS STATEMENT

The White House announced today that the President plans to attend the Summit Meeting of the Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe (CSCE) on December 5 in Budapest, Hungary.

Since the adoption of the Helsinki Final Act in 1975, the CSCE has played a unique role in advancing the goals of democracy, tolerance and respect for human rights. Created during the Cold War, the CSCE -- with its emphasis on safeguarding freedoms within all its member states -- helped pave the way for Europe's transformation beginning in 1989. Now CSCE has a role to play in supporting the transition to a freer, democratic and secure Europe. America's security and prosperity will be enhanced as the values espoused by the CSCE take root.

Leaders of the 53-nation CSCE will gather to take stock of their respective compliance with CSCE's principles and standards. They will examine proposals for enhanced cooperation in conflict management and prevention, promotion of economic ties and free-market reforms, respect for human rights, and expansion of cultural ties. Respect and support for the sovereignty and independence of the newly-emerged nations of Europe represents another priority area for the CSCE's activities. The leaders plan to undertake initiatives to energize and strengthen CSCE, particularly its role as the institution of first resort to prevent, manage, and contain potential conflict in Europe.
