Dear First Lady:

It was truly a phenomenal convention, and your speech was very inspiring and uplifting for the American people! Thank you for everything you are doing for our Country. You, individually, are a tremendous role model for every young woman and mother in our Country. Your spirit and energy are contagious!

It was wonderful seeing you at the reception Thursday evening and also at the President's Birthday celebration last week!

My best to you, the President and Chelsea!

Sincerely,

Stanley M. Chesley

Dear Hillary,

It was a great thrill for us to be with you and the President and Chelsea in your home city, the place where it all began.
I appreciate so much your concern for us - we did fine, had an early dinner and flew home the next day.
These are hard times and you must keep in your heart the love we all have for you.
You are doing such an incredibly job - and Jonie and I send you our love and our thanks and prayers —

Love — Judy

P.S. please send our love to Chelsea - she's wonderful!

August 7, 1996

First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton
Room 100
Old Executive Office Building
Washington, D.C. 20500

Dear Hillary,

Greetings from NYC! I saw you from afar in Atlanta, and was always hoping our paths would cross, but alas, it was not to be. How are you? I know it's been a hectic summer for you, and now with the campaign going at full speed it will get even crazier. I hope you're having fun. Weren't the Olympics exciting? Although watching all those buff bods made me want to order some Deal-A-Meals from Richard Simmons.

I wanted to write you for another reason in addition to saying hello, which I really do hope we'll be able to do in person one of these days. I have heard rumblings recently (and they could be totally incorrect!) that at some point you might let Chelsea do an interview. Again, this is only a rumor, and could be totally false, but I just wanted to let you know that if it is the case, I would love the chance to talk with Chelsea. I think for a variety of reasons I would be the right person. I know I could make her feel comfortable...I care deeply about the whole issue of girls and self esteem and Chelsea is SUCH a great role model...and I know she would have fun. I believe you could totally trust that I would handle this interview with sensitivity and dignity and would make Chelsea shine. What do you think? Is this something you're even considering? Even if it's well into the future, I hope you'll keep me in mind.

Have you talked with Lisa now that she's on the other side of the table? I'm dying to hear how she's liking her new gig!

Please excuse the informality of this letter...my very best to your family and as always to you too.

Fondly,

Katie Couric

I am grateful to Janice for sharing an excerpt of your very eloquent and touching letter. Thank you for your support of the President and me and for caring so much about the future of our country.

With appreciation and best wishes, I am

Sincerely yours,

Hillary Rodham Clinton

Hillary Rodham Clinton

5 September 1996

Dear Hillary,

I wish you every bit of luck and continued success as you make your way these next 2 months. You have done so much for so many. I hope you know how many people look to you for all that you are able to bring to them with your words, wisdom and determination not to be beaten back.

Attached is part of a letter I received from my father. Since much of it is about you, I wanted to share it with you. It was inspiring to read, and it made me happy to know that even at 70, it's not too late to understand what so many seem to miss.

Hope to see you one of these days, if not, I'll be with you in spirit on November 5th as we toast the next 4 years.

Best regards,

Janice Enright

8/29/96

Secondly, in my opinion Mrs. Clinton came across as a warm human being whose interest lay not in being the power behind the throne, but as a mother, not a politician, who is interested in what is really important - the family. My physical problems started in 1982 and since that time I have come to appreciate that the only thing of any importance, the reason why we are on Earth if you will, is not measured by the practical - money, cars, homes, designer clothes, promotions, power and such, but by the bond developed between family and loved ones. I was actually surprised by the concern my family showed for me when I had my first open heart surgery. Every one rushed to my side to make sure that they didn't lose me. I have never felt so humble. It was at that time that I decided that each of you is my favorite and most beautiful daughter. In my mind you were no longer 'the dancer', 'the power broker', 'the straight arrow' or 'the brilliant, but erratic rebel'. No, you were now one amalgamated unit known simply as family. If we heed Mrs. Clinton;s advice, we won't have to wait for a heart operation, cancer, or death to find out this basic truth.

When you find time, would you extend to The First Lady my most sincere congratulations on her speech. Bess Truman, Barbara Bush and others have come across as everyone's mother. Nice, but we all have one of our own and don't need a surrogate. Mrs. Clinton, instead, showed us how we should think of each other, with pride, as she does of Chelsea and her husband. I was partcularly impressed with the softspoken dignity and the well directed darts she threw at her detractors without stooping to their level of character assassination. I agree "It Takes A Village", but it also takes a very gutsy woman to show us how that works.

I am writing this before I have heard Mr. Clinton's speech, 4:00 AM Thursday morning, but I do not have to hear it. His record shows that he is dedicated to what he thinks is good for the country, and if his plans do not please everybody, so be it. He isn't trying to buy everybody's vote with a 15% tax cut that will do more to destroy our economy than it will to boost it. No The President is looking beyond the election, and into the next millennium when Americans will be healthy, safe, and well educated. Where my children, grand children, and great grand children (if the grandchildren ever decide that this world is an okay place to have kids). I hope that they don't have to wait until they are 60, as I did, to find that family is the only thing that leaves our individual mark on history.

Regarding our President, I have become a total convert. He wants for his family, the people of the U.S., the same things that I want for my nuclear family. He has the courage to go for the long term cure, not the snake oil salesman's approach of 15% sugar mixed with 85% vinegar. He also has the good sense to surround himself with good people, such as you and Harold.

As an aside, I saw you on the ABC news Tuesday night. You looked so efficient and beautiful that you made me very proud.

I've run on too long, but I wanted you to know that you've given me the incentive to look forward to the 21st century. The man from Hope has given me the hope for a better world. To paraphrase FDR, "We have nothing to fear if we can replace it with hope." There is an expression I learned in AA: Fear knocked at the door. Faith answered and there was no one there.

Dear Bill and Hillary:

Being sleep deprived from the Convention was blurry fun, but I did manage to sleep 23 hours (in two days) this past weekend. I marvel how you keep the schedule you're on.

My image as a staid, reserved big-firm lawyer will be shattered by the enclosed photograph (to be published tomorrow in the suburban papers). But I remember exactly the moment I let out this primal shout, accompanied by the full-arm extension thrust of my trusty Clinton sign. The speaker had just castigated those making personal attacks on you and this full-throttled personal endorsement of the sentiment now will be preserved in the newspaper archives. That's what happens when something really strikes home.

You both looked happy and content on the platform Thursday night. Those of us who were forehead-deep in balloons in the Illinois delegation were distracted by the haunting question whether we could be suffocated by balloons. (From a physics standpoint, not a chance, but which of us is really scientifically-grounded?) The claustrophobic element was underscored when we looked skyward (well, actually ceilingward -- but that is an awkward phrase) to see that the balloons were going to "just keep coming." The delegate seated directly in front of me launched an attack on the balloons that rivaled the battle scene in Braveheart. All of us used the stick end of our pennants to puncture the balloons, but she pulled out a pin and began bursting balloons everywhere including those lying helplessly on the floor. I have heard that Colin Ebeling was in charge of the balloon operation and I swear that when the balloons burst they emitted a faint cry "Voda". I am referring this aspect to the X-Files.

I missed the Sheraton dinner Thursday night, instead succumbing to sitting with Kevin, Jim Lyons and Bill Daley in the bar of the Sheraton. What fun. Of course, Kevin has to psychoanalyze why any specific person came up to speak to him (except for Jim and me, who are regarded as harmless).

In the spirit of reporting events from the periphery of the Convention, I will tell you about the lovely brunch at the Manilows for the DLC. Al From was the guest host. Al was the editor of the Daily Northwestern when Jack and I were freshmen "cub" reporters on the Daily. This is a fact which Al is unlikely ever to forget and, in fact, mentioned on this occasion as well. However, he told how on April 1, 1965, the Daily Northwestern published its April Fool's edition called the Daley Northwestern, which substituted a picture of the late Mayor Richard J. Daley for the Northwestern seal in the paper's logo. Al reported that mid-afternoon on April 1, he received a hand-delivered letter in the Daily offices from Mayor Daley expressing his delight with the satire. Al expressed puzzlement how Mayor Daley could have known about the edition, since the Daily Northwestern did not circulate beyond the Evanston campus. In a stage whisper, Bill Daley, who was standing at the side, said, "The printer told him." Not only is this probably true, but it cracked up Al.

On Tuesday this week, I went to lunch at the Union League Club (where I have been a member a long time). The woman maitre d' loudly greeted me by name, but as we walked to the table whispered conspiratorially, "I saw you on TV speaking out for the Clintons; I'm a supporter." I assured her that while most of the club members were Republicans, there were a few right thinkers in her midst and that she was right to feel that way. Hillary, I did reveal in a WGN interview, where I contrasted the wrong-headed attitude of some older men toward you with how you are received by women and "enlightened men", that I was 50. My cover, as a non-AARP-eligible person, is now blown.

Hillary, it was wonderful seeing you and seeing how positively Chicago reacted to you. I am only sorry that I didn't go on with you to Billy Goat's to see you actually eat a hamburger there. Please have a regular medical check-up, as the long-term effects of eating at Billy Goat is not yet documented.

On your next visit, the North Shore would be a great setting for a campaign stop this Fall; it would really mobilize the suburban voters and especially the women so that you can win Republican New Trier Township in '96.

Bill, I heard that you may be coming to Winnetka (the suburb adjoining my hometown of Glencoe) later this month. If so, I hope I can arrange to see you there. cc MK

While the good poll numbers are encouraging, my favorite barometer is the comments from people I meet. You are doing very well on that scale, too. But I am delighted you are working so hard to be sure it stays that way.

Your friend,

Mike

Dear Hillary,

I don't know if you recall meeting Miriam Vogel with me at the afternoon reception before the Radio City event. While working on the satellite birthday parties, Miriam had shown me her thesis and I had hoped for an opportunity for her to meet you. After talking to you she was so moved, she had tears running down her cheeks and her body was shaking. You, as I've seen you do so often, made all the perfect comments and responses to her. She said, "Gloria, you just can't imagine...after spending 15-20 hours a day for months on that paper, it was my dream to meet her. But it was beyond my wildest dream that she would ever read it."

In this world where skepticism is the currency of political life I was equally moved to simply observe the impact you and your life, as difficult as it is, can have on young people who want to believe in things bigger than themselves. I hope you can step outside of the slings and arrows of your daily life and experience, even for a moment, the magnitude of the impact your life and the way you've chosen to lead it, has had on young men and women. It's insufficient reward for all that comes your way - but what a reward!

Hillary Rodman Clinton, indeed!

With admiration and affection,

Gloria

Dear Hillary:

I am sure in your travels throughout the United States you know how you are loved and respected by the vast majority of the American public. I hope you continue to have the fortitude and courage to resist the forces of darkness and evil, while at the same time continuing your fine leadership and example.

In the last couple of weeks, I have travelled through the Midwest, and have had the occasion from time to time to speak to people on behalf of the President's program and his re-election efforts. I consider this my obligation, in addition to having served on the National Finance Board. Not only does the President continue to be well-received, but everyone I have spoken to continues to think highly of you and recognizes the D'Amato effort for what it is — a cheap political ploy.

The other day, our eldest daughter (soon 14) showed me a copy of an essay she had written in school about discrimination against women. You and the President have met Shayna at one or more White House receptions, and I thought a copy of it would make you smile.

Kindest regards.

Respectfully,

Myron M. Cherry

Discrimination still exists today against many different kinds of people. But one of the worst kinds of discrimination against women is everywhere: school, at work, and even when you are walking down the street.

In school everyone should feel comfortable, both boys and girls. But when a teacher ignores, or just does not realize what is happening in his/her class there is a problem. In many cases the boys dominate the class, scream out answers and jump up and down. (to get the teachers attention). Because of that the girls get ignored and their self-esteem is lowered. In most schools there are two teams for every sport, one for girls and one for boys. Well, imagine if you made the girl's team and got no credit what so ever. There are basketball tryouts, everybody goes in their thinking that have as good a shot as anyone else. You walk out of tryouts thinking that you did pretty well. The next day when the teams are annoqced you are just waiting to hear your name "Emily Walters" over the loudspeaker. You are so proud of yourself, but when the teacher starts to congratulate the members of the team she does not say any of the girl's names. Even though six girls had made the team only the boys names were metioned by the teacher. You graduate school hoping that you are prepared to enter the "real world", you realize that you are prepared to keep a job and maintain a healthy lifestyle, but you're probably not prepared for the discrimination that you might face. Jobs women probably have a harder time getting, a job that requires certain skills, because some people don't think that women are "emotionally prepared" for all that stress. Many people have this humorous stereotype that women should stay home and cook, clean, and take care of the children. That might have been the problem in the late 1800's or early 1900's but this is the 1900's. Women deserve as much credit as the men do.

Another really big problem in our sexual harassment. Sexual harassment is no joke, you could get into serious trouble. Words such as hooker, prostitute or slut are considered sexual harassment. In school guys (slang) and teachers make discriminating remarks against women. In work the boss might threaten his employer because she is not dressing sexily enough or listening to his every command. Advertisments on TV, in magazines or on billboards, women are totally used as sex objects, to help boast (boost) thier sale of ~~ther~~ merchandise. If you need a half naked women to boast an advertisements for jeans, colonge (cologne) or anything it's (no contraction) not worth buying. Stop and think before buying clothes or items because of who is posing for the merchandise.

What has this world come to? Everyday, a women at work, school, or even walking down the street is being insulted by a discriminating remark. Only about forty years ago women had earned the right to vote and to try to maintain a normal life, but even now it is still tough. Discrimination usually begins in the home. If one of your family members is against something, they teach their children the samething. So for our future generation, please stop and think before you do or say anything discriminatory (discriminatorily) against anyone. Under G-d we are all created equal.

Dear Hillary,

I write to thank you for the dinner in Athens on Friday night. You were very kind to include me and I enjoyed myself immensely. I'm sure with all the invited guests there you were not fully off-duty, but it seemed to me a cheery, informal occasion, one which I will remember with pleasure. It's easy to see where Chelsea gets her intelligence, poise, and charm. Thank you for a lovely time.

I enclose for your information the passage from Plutarch's Life of Perikles which outlines the political attacks on his associates sustained by Perikles. I hope it will both comfort and strengthen you to see that you and your husband are not just in good

I hope Olympia and Delphi were a success and I'm sorry family timing did not allow me to share them with you. I hope on some other occasion you and the family will come back to Greece and that we can tour more of it together.

In the meantime, I send my thanks and fond regards to you and Chelsea.

embezzlement was not proved, because from the very beginning, on Pericles' own advice, the gold used for the statue had been superimposed and laid around it in such a way that it could all be taken off and weighed,[1] and this was what Pericles now ordered the prosecutors to do.

However, the fame of Pheidias's works still served to arouse jealousy against him, especially because in the relief of the battle of the Amazons, which is represented on the shield of the goddess, he carved a figure representing himself as a bald old man lifting up a stone with both hands, and also because he introduced a particularly fine likeness of Pericles fighting an Amazon. The position of the hand, which holds a spear in front of Pericles' face, seems to have been ingeniously contrived to conceal the resemblance, but it can still be seen quite plainly from either side.

So Pheidias was cast into prison and there he fell sick and died. According to some accounts he was poisoned by his enemies in an attempt to blacken Pericles' name still further. As for the informer, Menon, a proposal was passed, on Glycon's motion, to make him exempt from all taxes and public burdens and the generals were ordered to provide for his safety.

32. About the same time Aspasia was put on trial for impiety. She was prosecuted by Hermippus the comic poet, who also accused her of procuring free-born Athenian women for Pericles and receiving them into her house. A decree was also introduced by Diopeithes, the diviner, to the effect that anybody who did not believe in the gods or taught theories about celestial phenomena should be liable to prosecution, and this was aimed to cast suspicion on Pericles through Anaxagoras. The people took up these slanders only too readily, and while they were in this mood a bill was passed on Dracontides' initiative directing that the accounts of the public funds that Pericles had spent should be deposited with the prytanes, and that the jurors should pronounce their verdict on his case with ballots which had lain on the altar of the goddess on the Acropolis. However, this clause of the decree was amended by Hagnon, who moved that the case should be tried in the usual way, but before a body of 1,500 jurors, no matter whether it was to be termed a prosecution for embezzlement or bribery or malversation.

1. See Thucydides, ii, 13.

Pericles contrived to beg off Aspasia by bursting into floods of tears during her trial, so Aeschines tells us, and making a personal appeal to the jurors, but he was so alarmed for Anaxagoras's safety that he smuggled him out of the city. Pericles had already fallen foul of the people on the occasion of Pheidias's trial and he dreaded the jury's verdict on his own case, and so now that the war was threatening and smouldering, we are told that he deliberately fanned it into flame. He hoped in this way to dispel the charges against him and make the people forget their jealousy, since he knew that as soon as any great enterprise or danger was in prospect, the city would put herself in his hands alone because of his great authority and prestige. These are the motives which are alleged for his refusal to allow the people to give way to the demands of Sparta, but the true history of these events is hidden from us.

33. The Spartans, for their part, recognized that if Pericles could be removed from power, they would find the Athenians much easier to deal with, and so they demanded that Athens should rid herself of the blood-guilt of Cylon,[1] in which Pericles' family on his mother's side had been involved, as Thucydides explains. But this manoeuvre produced exactly the opposite effect to what was intended; instead of being slandered and treated with suspicion, Pericles now found himself more trusted and honoured by the Athenians than ever before, because they saw that the enemy feared and hated him more than any other single man. For this reason, before king Archidamus led the Peloponnesians into Attica, Pericles announced in public to the Athenians that if the king should ravage other estates but spare his own, either on account of the personal friendship between them or else to give his enemies cause to slander him, he would present all his lands and the buildings on them to the state.

The Spartans and their allies then proceeded to invade Attica with an immense army commanded by Archidamus. They advanced, devastating the land as they went, as far as Acharnae, which is very close to Athens, and there they pitched camp, for they imagined that the Athenians would never tolerate this, but would march out and fight them from sheer pride and anger. Pericles, however, judged that it would be a terrible risk to engage 60,000 Peloponnesian and Boeotian hoplites, (for the first invading army was at least as strong as this) and

DANCERS RESPONDING TO AIDS

"When AIDS is stopped we will dance for joy...until then we will dance for life!"

July 1, 1996

Mrs. Hillary Rodham Clinton
Office of the First Lady
The White House
Second Floor, West Wing
Washington, DC 20500

Dear Mrs. Clinton:

In 1991, I founded Dancers Responding to AIDS (DRA) in reaction to the growing need to help individuals affected by HIV/AIDS. DRA has since become a special fundraising program of Broadway Cares/Equity Fights AIDS, concentrating on uniting and mobilizing the dance community to raise much needed money for the cause. DRA, through BC/EFA, provides direct support to people living with HIV/AIDS through The Actors' Fund AIDS Initiative.

DRA is proud to present a benefit gala performance called BEQUEATHED on Saturday, October 12, 1996 at The John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts, Terrace Theater. BEQUEATHED is an inspired combination of dances choreographed by talents lost to AIDS performed by dancers from the nation's leading dance companies. This gala coincides with the Washington, D.C. showing of the Names Project AIDS Memorial Quilt which, that weekend, will draw an estimated 500,000 visitors to the district.

We would be honored if you would lend your name to our benefit committee. I believe that our BEQUEATHED benefit gala at The Kennedy Center presents a momentous opportunity for you to demonstrate your support of the arts and for the work being done to assist those touched by this devastating pandemic. Premier danseur Mikhail Baryshnikov has joined us as an honorary chairperson.

Please consider joining us for this very important evening of tribute. I will be in touch with you soon. In the meantime, feel free to contact me directly at 212/840-0770 extension 235.

What we do together does make a difference!

Sincerely,

Hernando Cortez

Dear Mr. Carlson:

It is my solemn duty to inform you that, upon the lukewarm recommendation of Hillary Rodham Clinton (#655), the Phantom Committee of The Emil Verban Memorial Society has voted narrowly to invite you to Society membership.

In the event you deem yourself qualified to accept the awesome obligations of membership, you are bound to describe in 25 words or less your guess as to the Chicago Cubs' chances of winning the National League pennant this year. (Did you know that 1908 is the last year the Cubs won a World Series?) Please address your remarks to me at: Winston & Strawn, 1400 L Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20005.

Your Official Society Roster number is #347.

For your edification and reading pleasure, I am enclosing some stuff on the Cubs and The Society, including a handsome key fob and and a Society membership card.

Let's play two!

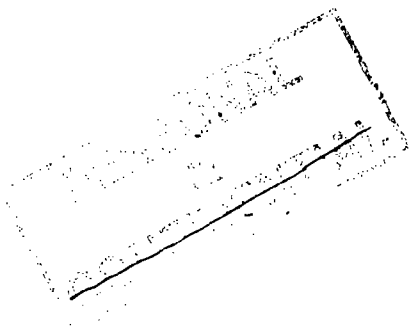
Dear Bruce:

I write to nominate Paul Carlson for membership in the Emil Verban Society. Paul was my high school history teacher and has been a diehard Cubs fan for many years. To attest to his loyalty and unabashed veneration of Emil Verban, I enclose an excerpt from a recent letter he wrote to me. As you mentioned in your conversation with my assistant, when you met Paul in Lincoln at the Verban funeral you were not aware of our relationship -- don't you agree that fate is having a hand in this nomination?



I hope my letter finds you well and that the "committee" will elect to welcome Paul Carlson into the Emil Verban Society. I nominate him without reservation.

With appreciation and warm regards, I remain

Sincerely yours,

Hillary

Finally,you are a member in good standing with the Emil Verban Society. He was one of two heroes of mine on the Cubs in the '48-51 period. I taped an interview with Verban, then addressing a charity function in Lincolnwood, Illinois, shortly before his untimely death. We became fast friends on this first meeting. I also attended his funeral. The founder of the Society was there, too, (Lincoln, Illinois). I wanted to find out about membership but did not think it appropriate to ask. Since you ARE a member, how about sponsoring me? After all, Cub fans - left and right - are, well,....er, Cub fans. I have a Cub scorecard in which I have penned - at the age of fifteen- a description of Verban playing his last Cub game; I can see him as if it were yesterday standing on second-base looking at the scoreboard after the final out in the ninth inning. He was a fine athlete, an aggressive player always. Like you, Hillary!

Dear Betsy:

Hi. Hope things are going well with you. I am writing to you regarding Paul Carlson. At the Ripon College Commencement Sunday, May 12, 1996 I will be presenting Paul for an Honorary Degree.

For the past several years one of the degree recipients at the Commencement has been an outstanding high school teacher, and I thought Paul would be an excellent choice. He is very excited and is looking forward to the weekend.

If there is any chance Hillary could send him a note of congratulations, I am sure that would add to the occasion for him. If it is possible, if the letter could be sent to me I could surprise him with it during the weekend.

Thanks for the possible help.

Best regards,

Philip K. McCullough, M.D.

Dear Ms. Carrington:

Thank you for your very thoughtful letter. I am glad our friend Liz suggested that you write to me. Friends and supporters like you who care about a better future for our children and our country have been a source of encouragement and strength. I count "The Board" among them and look forward to meeting all of you someday soon.

With gratitude and warm regards, I remain

Sincerely yours,

Hillary Rodham Clinton

KITTY CREEK
PRESS, INC.

12 February 1996

To: Ms. Hillary Rodham Clinton

From: Raye Carrington

Liz Carpenter said to write you.

"The Board," a group of Austin women who care passionately about government, politics, women's issues, and one another met at Liz's house last night. We've been meeting for more than fifteen years. Sometimes Ann Richards joins us.

Last night, as usual, we discussed your latest adventures with the media and congressional hacks, and the stream of lies and accusations that just keep coming. To stand and take hits from the likes of Dole, D'Amato, Gingrich, Gramm, Limbaugh, et al. must be excruciatingly difficult. And infuriating. Certainly harder than you ever could have imagined. We marveled at your cool.

We are plenty proud of you, and of what you do and the way you do it. Your courage and poise set a new standard for all of us. Just know that you aren't alone out there. That every time you show up, every time you deal with one more nasty invective, every time you remind people that they need to care about children, the elderly, the environment, families, jobs, education...there at least thirty women in Austin saying, "YES!"

You are so GOOD. We need you in Washington. The country is a better place because you are there. I wish I could articulate how much support there is for you and President Clinton. Perhaps you got a sense of it on your book tour.

If you ever get down (or get down to Texas) and want some laughs and a little TLC, "The Board" would be proud to oblige.

My very best wishes,

Raye Carrington

I met your friend, Lucy Hackney, last year on an airplane. She's doing a great job & is certainly devoted to you.

Dear Mr. Coffey:

Thank you for your letter inviting me to be the keynote author at the Los Angeles Times Festival of Books. I appreciate your interest and have forwarded a copy of your letter to Simon & Schuster for consideration. You will be hearing directly from them in the future. In the interim, I wish you much success with The Festival and its laudable goals.

SHELBY COFFEY III
EDITOR AND EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

February 6, 1996

Hillary Rodham Clinton
The White House

Dear Mrs. Clinton:

I am writing to invite you to participate in the first-ever Los Angeles Times Festival of Books, which we expect to draw tens of thousands of people to the UCLA campus on Saturday and Sunday, April 20-21. The Festival is patterned after similar successful events in such cities as Miami, San Francisco and New York. It has the full support of The Times, which is considerable. In addition, there is an Advisory Board comprised of Mayor Richard Riordan, civic and library leaders, booksellers, publishers and the literary community, including such prominent writers as Sidney Sheldon, Joan Didion and Michael Crichton. Our goal is to foster a love of reading and books and bring attention to the issue of literacy; a portion of sponsorships will go to Southern California literacy programs.

The Authors Committee--which includes booksellers, publishers, agents and literary leaders--is at work organizing panels, readings and other author events. I don't have to tell you that we have a rich reservoir of fine writers from which to draw, and our list of participants is growing daily.

I understand that Stanley Sheinbaum has talked with you about the possibility of your participating in the Festival to talk about your book, "It Takes A Village." But I personally would like to invite you to be our keynote author. I hope that your busy schedule might allow you to attend for about an hour on either Saturday, April 20, between the hours of 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. or Sunday, April 21, between the hours of 11 a.m. and 4 p.m. If you agree, we will clear the appropriate time for your appearance.

We look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

Shelby Coffey III
Editor and Executive Vice President

LOS ANGELES TIMES FESTIVAL OF BOOKS

WHAT: Los Angeles Times First Annual Festival of Books, a two-day public event to celebrate reading and literature, with

- o Readings, panel discussions and other activities with authors
- o Booths where publishers, retailers and sponsoring organizations will display and sell books and other merchandise
- o Children's events

WHEN: April 20 and 21, 1996
Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.
Sunday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

WHERE: Dickson Plaza, UCLA, Westwood

COST: Free to the public.

WHO: For further information, contact Michele Biagioni, 1-800-LATIMES, ext. 76503; or Claudia Luther, 1-800-LATIMES, ext. 7BOOK.

WHY: The Festival of Books will celebrate the joys of books and reading. The event will underscore what a great book reading public Southern California has; showcase interesting authors, bookstores, publishers and books; and bring the reading community together for a fun weekend.

FYI: The Los Angeles Times is sponsoring the Festival to promote literacy and reading in Southern California. According to the U.S. Department of Commerce and research by the American Booksellers Association, Southern Californians buy more books than any other market in the country, including New York. In addition, according to Book Industry Trends in 1995, sales of all types of books are expect to grow at an annual rate of nearly 7% a year. Americans continue to spend more on books than any other medium.

A list of the Festival of Books Advisory Committee is attached.

THANK YOU FOR ASKING

Does FORWARD endorse candidates?
FORWARD will help its members explore their beliefs and how various candidates may reflect those beliefs, but each member will determine for him/herself what candidate s/he wishes to support.

Does FORWARD take positions on issues?
It is the intent of FORWARD to study issues and take positions when consensus of the group can be clearly determined. Members are free to express and vote their own beliefs, even though they may differ from those expressed by the organization. It is understood that in an organization of any size, and one of this nature, everyone will not always be in agreement on positions taken. It is FORWARD's intent that most people of faith can come to agreement on most issues, thereby becoming an organization that can take positions on issues, thereby taking a leadership role in community reconciliation, defending the dignity of human beings, and promoting of social justice and economic opportunity.

Is FORWARD a political organization or a religious organization?
FORWARD is a faith-based community organization. Religion has political implications. The question is, 'What positive contribution can religion make to the common good.?'

Who founded FORWARD?
FORWARD is being founded right now, by you and me. You are invited to be an active participant in this faith-based, grassroots movement. For more information, please write FORWARD, P.O. Box 1086, Des Moines, IA 50311. Or call 515-279-8715.

A new voice is being heard in the land. It's a voice of moderation and civility. It's a voice in the political process.

FORWARD — a faith-based, community-oriented organization believes that religion best contributes to public life when it works for reconciliation, inspires common effort, promotes concern for the less fortunate, and upholds the dignity of all human beings.

Composed of people of faith and moderation, the organization is made up of people from numerous congregations across Iowa — Christians, Muslims, Jews, and other faith-based organizations.

It's purpose, is to empower its members so they will be able to more actively express their faith through the political process

MISSION STATEMENT

In order to form a more perfect community, we of FORWARD are compelled by our respective faiths and an unshaken belief in the American dream of religious tolerance, economic opportunity and social justice for all. We share a common assumption of a loving God and the need to love our neighbor. We affirm that our nation is a covenant community which is at its best when the interests and opportunities of her least are defended. We adhere steadfastly to the principle that tolerance and civility are necessary for citizens to maintain the common good. We are ourselves diverse and of different faiths and political affiliations; therefore, we commit passionately and joyfully to this endeavor with our gifts of time, talent, treasure and voice.

To achieve this mission, we will:

- provide educational opportunities for concerned citizens of diverse faiths on issues and public policies in order to develop communities where religious tolerance, economic opportunity and social justice can prevail, and
- be a progressive voice in our respective communities for compassion, tolerance, human rights and civility.

We share a common assumption of a loving God and the need to love our neighbor. We affirm that our nation is a covenant community which is at its best when the interests and opportunities of her least are defended. We adhere steadfastly to the principle that tolerance and civility are necessary for citizens to maintain the common good. We are ourselves diverse and of different faiths and political affiliations; therefore, we commit passionately and joyfully to this endeavor with our gifts of time, talent, treasure and voice.

To achieve this mission, we will:

- provide educational opportunities for concerned citizens of diverse faiths on issues and public policies in order to develop communities where religious tolerance, economic opportunity and social justice can prevail, and
- be a progressive voice in our respective communities for compassion, tolerance, human rights and civility.

Dear Nadia & Bart:

Thank you for your thoughtful letter and news of your upcoming marriage. We would be happy to receive an invitation to your wedding and know you must be very excited as the day draws near.

Your words of encouragement and support mean more than I can say. Throughout my recent travels, I have been equally heartened by the many people I have met who are committed to a better future for our children and our country. Each day may not be a perfect "10," but I will continue to draw strength from them and from your friendship.

With gratitude and warm regards, I remain

Sincerely yours,

Dear Mrs. Clinton:

I was thrilled to meet you and the President last summer at the International Special Olympics Summer Games in New Haven, Connecticut.

My fiance, Olympic gymnast Bart Conner, and I send our best wishes for you both in this election year. We are sure it will be a successful one.

I was in Romania last month and had a meeting with President Ion Iliescu. He mentioned to me that you have been invited to visit Craiova to accept an award for your humanitarian work. I was happy to hear that, despite your busy schedule, someday you may travel to Romania to accept this honor.

You may, or may not, know that Bart and I will be married on April 27, 1996 in a State wedding hosted by President Iliescu in Bucharest. We are very excited, because our special day will be enjoyed by all of Romania through national television. The international media and our guests will be treated to the legendary Romanian hospitality.

We hope that we are not being presumptuous, but we would love to send you an invitation to our wedding. Obviously, we know that asking you to attend, is asking for the moon. If you were planning to travel to Craiova sometime in the future anyway, perhaps you could coordinate your travel plans to include a quick stop at our wedding reception. We would be overwhelmed if you could attend, as would all of Romania.

We have been applauding the many wonderful things you continue to do, and would like to wish you all the best with your book tour and your other projects.

This year is not only an election year, but it is also an Olympic year. Olympic years have been lucky for us. We hope that 1996 will be a "Perfect 10" year for you, too.

Sincerely,

Nadia Comaneci and Bart Conner

P.S. When I came to this country in 1989 I had no mother, no father, no friends around. It was a very difficult time for me.

Dear Mrs. Clinton:

I read with great interest about your trip to Eastern Europe, including a July 5th stop in Romania. I am so happy you will visit my beautiful homeland!

As you may remember, Bart Conner and I were married in an exquisite state wedding in Bucharest on April 27th. Our godfather, Mr. Adrian Nastase, president of the Chamber of Deputies, and his wife Daniela, joined President Ion Iliescu in showing the rest of the world a rare glimpse into some of the rich traditions of a Romanian wedding. Throughout our visit, Bart and I were impressed by the warmth of the many people we saw and their positive attitude towards the challenges they face, reassuring us that the future for Romania is indeed bright.

I wish we could be there to help welcome you to my native land, but by coincidence we will be hosting a visit by the Romanian Olympic gymnastics team here in Norman, Oklahoma, as they prepare for the Olympic Games in Atlanta!

Yours very truly,

Nadia Comaneci

P.S. July 5th is also special for me because it is my mother's birthday--I will be thinking of you both on that day with great affection.

Dear Mrs. Cohen:

Thank you so much for your kind invitation to visit Bananas and the Family Resource Network.

Carol Rasco told me of your tremendous efforts to help parents find quality child care and provide support for families whose children have disabilities. It is encouraging to learn that these programs have become a reliable resource for families of such diverse backgrounds.

I have forwarded your request to Patti Solis-Doyle, my Director of Scheduling. Thank you again for your letter and support.

Child Care Information & Referral and Parent Support

May 25, 1996

Hillary Rodham Clinton
First Lady of the United States
The White House
Washington, DC 20502

Dear Ms. Clinton:

Please accept this sincere and heartfelt invitation to visit BANANAS and the Family Resource Network anytime that you are traveling in California.

BANANAS is a community-based, grassroots child care resource and referral organization in Oakland, California. Our name comes from "going bananas" with your children and is a name which most parents can understand. Our multi-ethnic staff has been providing comprehensive child care and family services to our community for more than 23 years. Last year, over 50,000 parents and child care providers called us or came by our office. All of our services are available in English, Spanish, Chinese (several dialects), Vietnamese, Hindi, Laotian and Thai.

BANANAS helps parents look for and find quality child care. Through state and federally-funded programs, we administer programs which pay for child care for low income parents on welfare, in job training, for parents of children with disabilities or parents who are in school or working.

We are located in an Empowerment Zone, Enhanced Community and have an AmeriCorps participant stationed in our office. The families we serve are like most families around the United States: they have a broad range of needs but a good many strengths as well – just as you so clearly describe in your book.

The Family Resource Network is a parent-directed support, information and advocacy organization serving families whose children have disabilities in Alameda County. The Resource Network receives core funding under Part H of the IDEA to work collaboratively with multiple local agencies to ensure a family-centered approach to early intervention programs and other services.

If you would like to visit an active, spirited office, meet with families from all walks of life, learn about their daily trials and successes, please consider coming to BANANAS. It would be an honor to meet you and be able to support the continuance of the many successful, federally-funded programs which are strengthening families and helping them along the way.

We are able to arrange one-on-one meetings for you, group discussions with parents and child care providers, or conversations with children.

We know that you receive hundreds of invitations as you and President Clinton travel around the United States. But we are hopeful that you will be able to find the time to visit with us and our community.

Please see additional details in our proposal.

Thank you for your work on behalf of families nationwide.

Sincerely,

Betty Cohen

Dear Mrs. Clinton: Hillary

I am pleased to tell you that the video "Cornerstone for the Future: Girls and Young Women," has won a prestigious award.

The Telly Awards, which is a major competition in our field, awarded the video the bronze award in the category of education.

Thank you all so much for all that you did to make this video a huge success, as well as an award winner. I hope that the NEA Convention this summer will be the place where it is promoted and offered widely for distribution to the junior and senior high schools.

All of us at The Kamber Group enjoyed working with you and hope to be able to do so again.

Good morning:

Just a quick note to sincerely thank you for the letter and picture of Mrs. Clinton that you provided for the "Kid Witness News" awards ceremony.

The 200+ winning students in the audience in Atlanta were absolutely thrilled to hear words of congratulations from The White House.

Something to tell their grandchildren about. (I know I'll tell mine!)

Hope to meet you some day... Enjoy the summer.
