RE: NOBEL PRIZE WINNERS

Attached is a compilation of all the living American Nobel Prize winners. There are 132 names, which would total a guest list of 264.

Since there's been a huge increase in the number of winners and categories since the Kennedy's did this dinner, this list seems to be "long on brains and short on fun."

Perhaps you would want to consider a dinner honoring this year's award winners. We would build an interesting guest list.

Please advise.

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

MEMORANDUM

TO: David Watkins
FROM: Ann Stock
SUBJECT: Additional Personnel for the Social & Calligraphy Offices
DATE: October 25, 1993
cc: HRC
Williams

Computer Person

We would like to request that at least one, if not two, permanent people be detailed to the Social Office to perform computer data entry.

The large number of events and invitee lists has grown to the point that there are not enough people to enter all pertinent information into computers and physically clear in the guests as well as process numerous reports.

For example, during the first nine months of 1993--with staff cuts--the social office cleared 53,057 guests. In the same time periods during the previous Administration, 12,272 people (in 1992) and 14,036 people (in 1991) were cleared into White House events.

With the many events planned surrounding the holidays in December, as well as several large dinners and the usual receptions, ceremonies, luncheons, and other special events, the need for additional assistance is even more crucial. We would appreciate your consideration on this request.

Calligrapher

Again, because of the extreme work load, we would like to make an additional request for a full time permanent military detailee for the Calligraphy office. The White House Military Aide Office would make inquiries through the Department of Defense regarding this position. It is requested that the detailee be proficient in hand lettering in italic style, have some graphic ability as well as good handwriting.
