Dear Ms. Thurman:

On behalf of the National Asian Women's Health Organization (NAWHO), I would like to invite you to speak at our fifth national conference, Engaging Communities: A New Agenda for the Nation's Health, which will take place April 2-5, 2000 in Washington, DC. This premier event provides 100 of NAWHO's community-based affiliates with the singular opportunity to meet with the nation's top advocacy and public health experts in plenary sessions that connect the realities of national policy-making to pressing community health issues. The conference is co-sponsored by the Office of Research on Women's Health at the National Institutes of Health, the Office on Women's Health at the Department of Health and Human Services, the Congressional Caucus for Women's Issues, and the Congressional Asian Pacific Caucus.

We would be honored if you would speak in a luncheon plenary session on Monday, April 3 from 11:30am to 1:30pm at the Westin Grand Hotel. We would appreciate it if you would speak to our leaders about current issues and initiatives regarding U.S. foreign policy on AIDS, particularly in Asian countries. Your expertise and experience would provide participants with the best possible perspective and knowledge of cutting-edge policies and programs that address international health concerns.

NAWHO's 2000 Conference serves to strengthen participants' knowledge on a broad range of health issues, including mental health, diabetes, immunization, tobacco use prevention, reproductive health, and breast and cervical cancer. Through an Executive Branch briefing, leadership presentations by Members of Congress and federal agency directors, participants will obtain a clearer understanding of public policy and its impact on the health of women and families.
