If all pages are not received, please call fax sender at number above. Thank you

I spoke with the coordinator for the speakers, and he explained that Jordan Cipple, a TeenAIDS board member and young person living with HIV, will speak for 5 minutes before the clip, the clip will be played, then one of the student directors will introduce her. Sorry for the confusion earlier, but we do not need you to introduce her. Thanks.

By Car: There are many different routes into Washington DC. Once you are in the city the map should help you get around the area where the conference is being held. The Hotel and George Washington University are both near the Kennedy Center (see map for directions from the Kennedy Center to the Conference).

Metro Information

The Metro which serves the Washington Metropolitan Area is very safe and clean. Fare cards are very reasonable they cost from $1-$5. The nearest stations to the Hotel Anthony are Farragut West and Farragut North. The closest station to George Washington University is Foggy Bottom/GWU. (see enclosed system guide)

Hotel Anthony

1823 L Street NW (see map) this is a very safe commercial district.

Conference participants will be housed four to a room

The TeenAIDS Student Coalition is paying for Sunday night, February 20 - if you'd like to stay over Saturday or Monday nights, indicate that on your registration form and enclose a check for $20/additional night, payable to the TeenAIDS Student Coalition.

Check in time is after 12:00 noon and check out time is 11:00am. Bags may be checked at the hotel for no charge.

George Washington University
Ross Hall

23rd and I Streets NW (see map)

From Hotel Anthony: walk (see map)

By Metro: take the blue/orange line to Foggy Bottom/GWU; walk to right (don't cross any streets - you're right there).

YOU CAN GET HERE FROM THERE
