Glad to hear the rabbis should work out (they will vet OK)- it would be a breach of protocol to invite the Rabbi of Moscow and not the Rabbi of Russia.

From what I have been able to find out, there are approximately 10 notable American Jews (most of which were listed for you already) that will be in town that we may want to include- apparently they requested a meeting with POTUS through the NSC but I am happy to help out. If you are going to do some, you may as well do all 10 if you have the room- do you?

FYI- I also heard that Cong. Lantos, Deustch and Engel are going to the Holocaust memorial dedication, as well as Israeli MK Sharansky, Chernomyrdin and possibly Yeltsin (you may know more than the organizers about this, especially if these folks are with POTUS at that time). There is a rumor that Elie Weisel is coming but noone can confirm that for me.

Let me know your drop dead number and I'm happy to make suggestions (and happy to make the calls if that is a help).

Russia trip information: August 28, 1998 (10:50AM)

OUTGOING INFORMATION

Pete Lyons:

Sunday, August 30

3:10 pm depart Washington National on Delta flight 74 to New York JFK Airport.

6:00 pm depart JFK on Delta flight 30 to Moscow, arriving at 11:30 am on Monday, August 31.

(Should I make arrangements for Dr. Lyons to get from the Airport to the Marriott?)

Pete will be staying at the Moscow Marriott hotel with the rest of the delegation.

Senator Domenici:

Travel to Moscow on Air Force One. Luggage must be to Andrews Air Force Base by NOON on Monday, White House Leg is making arrangements for luggage pickup. They are also working on transportation for the Senator from the Hill to AAFB.

RETURN TRIP

What kind of arrangements should we make for transportation from the 2:30 meeting with the Duma to the Moscow Airport?

Wednesday, September 2

5:25 pm depart Moscow on British Airways flight 873 from Moscow to London Heathrow Airport. Arrives in London at 6:30 pm.

825 pm depart London Heathrow on American Airlines flight 141 from London Heathrow to New York JFK Airport. Arrives in New York at 11:15 pm.

Reservations at New York JFK Airport Hilton for September 2. Call 718-322-8700 for shuttle pick up from airport. Senator Domenici's confirmation number is 554 040 312. Pete Lyons's confirmation number is 554 040 314. Government rate is $169 per night per person with government ID.

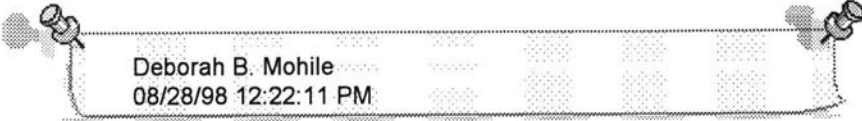

Thursday, September 3

Shuttle will take PVD and Lyons to JFK Airport on.

6:50 am depart New York JFK on TWA flight 7660 from New York JFK to Washington National Airport. Arrives at National at 7:59 am. Lynden will probably pick them up from the airport.

Additional meetings: Rose Gottemoeller, who heads the Nonproliferation and National Security side of DOE is setting up additional meetings. Rose is at 586-0645. The support folks for Rose in Moscow know of this already and I'd bet are arranging translations.

(* I do not have any other information on meetings that Senator Domenici would have....)

Subject: Marina Roscha Synagogue

I don't have any paper on this but I can tell you what I know. This is an Orthodox synagogue that has been both burned by arsonists and bombed by extremists. Jews have suffered from anti-semitism for centuries in Russia and so these incidents, both at the same synagogue, angered Jews around the world and received much attention. During the President's last visit to Moscow, he decided to stop by so last minute preparations were made to close streets, etc. At the very last minute, he was not able to come. As you may know, Cong. Sherman and 34 other members of Congress asked the President to go to a Jewish site while in Moscow as a symbol of our disgust with extremism in that country. Please call me with questions. 65157

Just a few quick issues

✓ Sen. Domenici is still scheduled to meet with Adamov at 11am on Tuesday. That meeting needs to be moved to a later time. I left a message for his staff to indicate this.

✓ You should proceed to schedule what you can from Hoyer's and Bingaman's list. Domenici said they would let me know more about his schedule on Friday. I think they will be agreeable to let Bingaman into them. King continues to insist that he has no meeting requests and is happy to stay at the hotel or just tag along as appropriate.

We need to work on a lunch for the Members for Tuesday and Wednesday. Any thoughts? It would be nice to keep them all together for this. We should find out what Daley and Richardson are doing for lunch on Wednesday. I don't think they will be with the President.

Wednesday morning the Members should participate in the Richardson/Daley breakfast. Other meetings can be scheduled during that down time.

We will determine from here what events Pete Lyons will be able to get into. I will let you know.

Following the Duma Leaders meeting, Daley and Riley have private meetings set up. I am being told that the codel should not stay around. Domenici needs to depart from the Duma meeting directly for the airport for a 5:25pm departure on British Air Flight 873. That means that he won't speak at the embassy, so it will likely be Bingaman instead.

Hoyer may want to attend the Holocaust memorial event at 4:30 on Wednesday. I will double check and let you know.

Bingaman will depart around 1pm on Thursday. Please make sure that there is someone to take him to the airport. That's all for now. Thanks so much for your help.

Information for Senator Pete V. Domenici:

 We haven't been able to find anyone to drive Senator Domenici to Andrews Air Force Base yet. Do you have any recommendations?

Pete Lyons (as of noon on August 27) will travel to Moscow on the following flights:

Sunday, August 30

3:10 pm: Depart Washington National on Delta flight 74 to New York Kennedy Airport.

6:00 pm: Depart New York Kennedy Airport on Delta flight 30 to Moscow, arriving at 11:30 am on August 31.

Senator Domenici will travel to Moscow on Air Force One.

Senator Domenici has a meeting with Adomov set up for Tuesday, September 1, at 11:00 am. I do not have details for other meetings- this information will be sent to you Friday, August 28.

Flight information for the return trip, as of 4:00 pm on Thursday, August 27:

 We will need transportation for Senator Domenici and Pete Lyons from the 2:30 pm meeting with Duma to the Moscow Airport.

Wednesday, September 2

(* We are hoping to change these flights for two reasons:

- 1- this ticket is outrageously expensive, and
- 2- Air Canada may be going on strike on September 1.)

5:25 pm: Depart Moscow on British Air flight 873 from Moscow to London Heathrow Airport.

8:35 pm: Depart London on Air Canada flight 859 from Heathrow to Toronto Pearson Airport.
(Arrive 11:25 pm)

Senator Domenici and Pete Lyons will stay at the Toronto Airport Hilton Hotel. Each has a reservation in his name. Senator Domenici's confirmation number is 78501 3740. Dr. Lyons's confirmation number is 78501 3743.

Thursday, September 3

7:15 am: Depart Toronto Pearson Airport on United Airlines flight 3252 from Toronto to Washington National Airport. (Arrive 8:35 am).

Re: Presentation to Sen. George Mitchell on behalf of the victims of political violence in Ireland.

Dear Grace,

My friend John Hanlon and Minister Dermot Ahern spoke to the Taoiseach about this matter some weeks ago. John Hanlon provided a magnificent Waterford Glass memento, specially commissioned for Sen. George Mitchell, on the basis that it would be presented to Sen. Mitchell on behalf of the victims of political violence, in recognition of his monumental efforts in bringing lasting peace to Ireland, as Chairman of the Belfast talks.

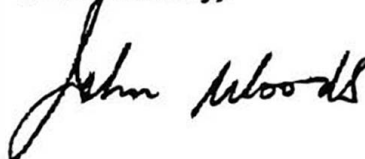

The Taoiseach appointed Nick Reddy to deal with the matter and to seek a suitable opportunity for the presentation, by a representative of a deceased victim's family at a function in Northern Ireland to which a representative of all deceased's victim's families would be invited. John Hanlon's Company does not seek any publicity in the matter.

The first week in September would seem to be very appropriate if Sen. Mitchell is part of President Clinton's party.

The timing would be ideal. With the ugliness of the marching season past, it could be an all embracing gesture of reconciliation where all victims of violence would be seen to be remembered and appreciated.

Perhaps you would remind the Taoiseach of his meeting with John Hanlon and myself about this matter to ensure that arrangements could be put in train for the presentation to be made in September.

Yours sincerely,

Council of American Ambassador's Bio of

Ambassador Milton A. Wolf, PhD

*and his wife
included in dedication of synagogue
in Russia*

Dr. Milton A. Wolf served as U.S. Ambassador to Austria from 1977 to 1980. He was the U.S. Delegate to the United Nations Conference on Science and Technology in 1979, hosted the SALT II Summit in Vienna in 1979 (Presidents Carter and Brezhnev and delegations comprising 500 members) and served as the chairman of the Fulbright Committee of Austria. He was the only sitting ambassador ever to receive Austria's highest decoration (the Great Gold Medal of Honor with Sash). He is a Governor of the United Nations Association of the United States of America, a Member of the Board of Directors of the Institute For the Study of Diplomacy at Georgetown University, and presently serves as Chairman of the American Austrian Foundation and Vice Chairman of the Council of American Ambassadors.

He is a member of the Council on Foreign Relations, The Foreign Policy Association, the Academy of Political Science, the American Economic Association, the Cleveland Engineering Society and a Trustee of the Council on World Affairs. Dr. Wolf is a member of the Board of Trustees of Case Western Reserve University (1981-present) and the Executive Committee (1983-present). He served of the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University (1986-1996) and was its Chairman (1995-1996). He also serves on the Boards of The Cleveland Clinic, The Mount Sinai Health Care System and the world-renowned Cleveland Orchestra.

He is a past-president of the Jewish Community Federation of Cleveland, a member of the Board of Governors of the Jewish Agency for Israel, a National Trustee of the United Jewish Appeal and the United Israel Appeal. Ambassador Wolf served as President of The American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee (1992-1995), which is the overseas operational arm of the American Jewish community, carrying out programs of relief, rescue and reconstruction in over 50 countries around the world, and presently serves as Chairman of the Board (1996-present). He has been honored several times, including receiving the Raoul Wallenberg International Humanitarian Award on behalf of The American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee. He also received the Jewish Community Federation's Charles Eisenman Award in 1990 (Cleveland's most prestigious non-sectarian award).

Ambassador Wolf earned a bachelor of arts degree in chemistry and biology from The Ohio State University in 1948, a bachelor of science in civil engineering, summa cum laude and Tau Beta Pi, from Case Institute of Technology in 1954, a master of arts in economics in 1973 and a PhD in economics in 1993 from Case Western Reserve University where he has been, for many years, a Distinguished Professorial Lecturer. In addition, he has been awarded several honorary doctorate degrees. He has co-authored articles on international economics, one of which was published in the scholarly Journal TECHNOVATION and distributed worldwide; another article is soon to be published and distributed by the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago.

In his home state of Ohio, Ambassador Wolf is Chairman of Milton A. Wolf Investors, a private investment firm. He has served on the Boards of Directors of several publicly-held companies, including American Greetings Corporation (1981-present), The Town and Country Trust (1993-present), and Huntington Bancshares, Inc. (1982-1995).

Faith CARVED IN STONE

IN THE CHRISTIAN CAPITAL OF IRELAND, THE LEGACY OF ST. PATRICK LIVES ON IN THE STONE ARCHITECTURE OF ITS TWO CATHEDRALS FOR ALL TO ADMIRE.

As far back in time as evidence shows, the peoples of Armagh have translated their religious beliefs into carvings on stone, which have survived time itself.

Even in pagan pre-Christian days, the swirled patterns of megalithic tomb carvings show the strong desire to create lasting memorials.

Throughout the centuries which followed, Armagh has continued to build and carve in stone, creating first and foremost two superb cathedrals, both dedicated to St. Patrick.

In the ancient heart of the City, on the hill known as Druim Saileach (Hill of Sallows) is the Church of Ireland Cathedral of St. Patrick.

Tradition has it that the original church, a simple construction of timber walls and straw roof, was built here by St. Patrick in 445 AD. A church has since stood on this site for 1500 years, although in the course of Ireland's history, it has been destroyed and rebuilt again at least seventeen times.

The present building is essentially an 1834 restoration of Archbishop O'Scanlan's medieval design of 1268, a relic of which is an old stairway in the south transept.

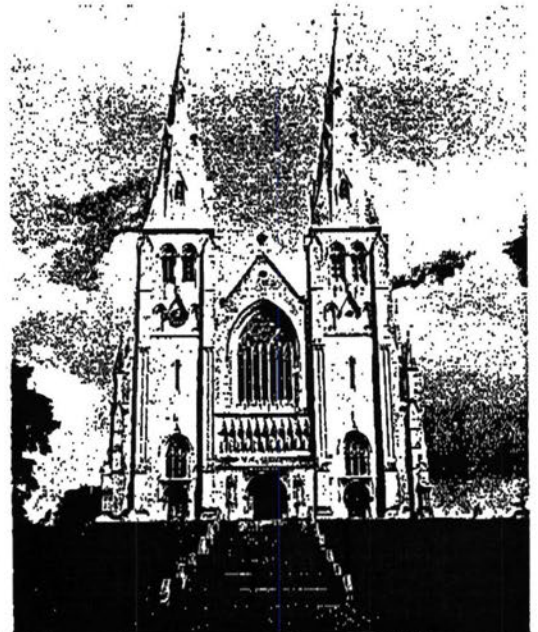

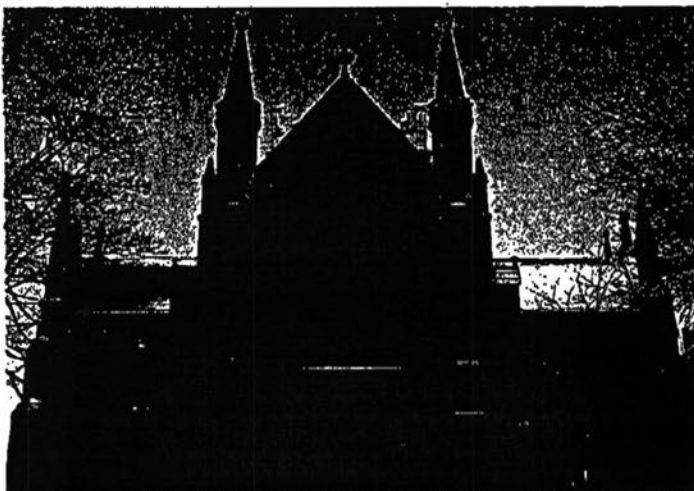

A plaque on the exterior of the north transept wall marks the reputed burial of Brian Boru, High King of Ireland in 1014 on the 'north side of the great church'.

The last major restoration took place between 1834 and 1840 when Archbishop Lord Beresford basically rebuilt the Cathedral in its present form.

In 1782, Archbishop Robinson, the Primate best known for transforming the City of Armagh during the late 18th century into one of the finest Georgian cities in Ireland, attempted to build a tower of some 101 feet on the existing cathedral to copy a similar tower at Magdalen College, Oxford.

Unfortunately, this was one of his few

MEETING
SITE

GEORGIAN ARMAGH

The city of Armagh that you see today, with its impressive stone facades and the leafy walks across the Mall, dates largely from the 18th century, when in 1765, Richard Robinson, a man of great vision and enthusiasm, was appointed Church of Ireland Primate.

Using a large portion of his personal wealth, Robinson was determined to make Armagh a worthy religious capital. To achieve this he employed some of the best architects of the day resulting in a city of Georgian architectural splendour in the true classical style to rival that of Dublin.

The architecture of Thomas Cooley, from 1765-84, and Francis Johnston from 1784 to around 1829 made a huge impact on the City.

But what inspired Archbishop Robinson to spend more than £35,000 of his own capital to transform Armagh?

The Archbishop was a liberal and educated man, who was touched by the need for public welfare, and he was well meaning in his benevolence to the City. He was the first Primate who came to live permanently in Armagh, and had a vision of its future as a centre of study and culture.

His first building project was the new Archbishop's Palace and Demesne overlooking the city, which was followed by the building of the Primate's Chapel and Stables within the grounds.

Continuing his dream of creating a university and centre of learning in Armagh, he built the Public Library in 1771, beside the Church of Ireland

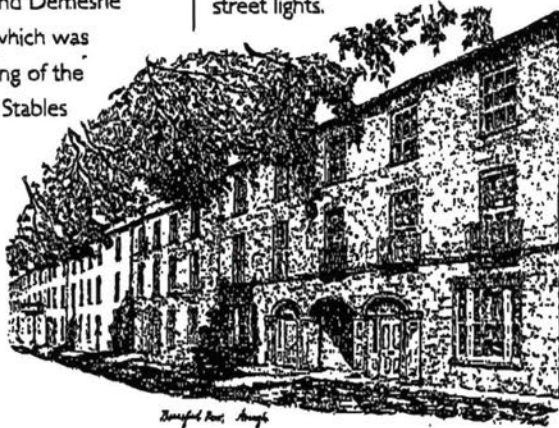

Cathedral, donating many of the fascinating collection of 25,000 books and manuscripts himself.

The Robinson Library also contains a collection of medieval manuscripts and the Rokeby collection of engravings. Two years later, in 1773 he also began work on the building of a new classical school on College Hill, to replace the original Royal School founded in 1608. In 1791 he founded the Armagh Observatory, still an important centre of scientific research.

Armagh Public Library, built in 1771, also known as the Robinson Library.

Meanwhile, the continuing development of the City included a new Barracks, a county gaol and county infirmary, along with bringing drainage to the city, paving streets and erecting street lights.

THE CHURCH OF IRELAND

St. Patrick's Cathedral Armagh

The story of Armagh Cathedral begins in the year 445 when, according to tradition, St. Patrick built a stone church on the hill known as Druim Saileach (Sallow Ridge). He ordained that Armagh should have the pre-eminence over all the churches of Ireland, a position which it holds to this day.

Around the Church Building in early days was built one of the most celebrated of the great Irish Monastic Schools to which students came from all over Europe.

Here in 1014, on the 'north side of the great church' was buried Brian Boru High King of Ireland. A plaque on the exterior west wall of the North Transept commemorates this event.

The plan of the Cathedral, as it now stands, is the enlarged design of Archbishop O'Scanlain in 1268. Although the Church on this hallowed site suffered destruction on at least 17 occasions during its long history it was always restored.

The last major restoration took place between 1834 and 1840 and was carried out by Archbishop Lord John George Beresford who employed one of the most skilled architects of the day in the person of Lewis Nockalls Cottingham.

Items of historic interest in the Cathedral include the following:

- Statue by Roubiliac of Sir. Thomas Molyneux M.D. of Castledillon.
- Sections of an ancient Celtic Cross dating from the 11th Century which at one time stood on the side of the hill to the east of the Cathedral,
- Monument to Dean Peter Drelincourt born in Paris in 1644, a work of the famous sculptor Rysbrack.
- The 'Bramhall Chair' dated 1661 being the gift of the Archbishop John Bramhall.
- Brass Lectern which was the gift of Lord Clermont in 1879.
- Military Chapel in South Transept being memorial of the Royal Irish Fusiliers now incorporated in the Royal Irish Regiment.
- Marble bust of Primate Richard Robinson (1765-94) by Nollekens.
- The 'Tandragee Idol' being an ancient granite figure of an Irish Warrior and believed to date back to Celtic times.
- Baptismal font being the copy of a curiously carved octagonal stone found 7 feet underground near the west door of the Cathedral in 1805. It was designed by the Architect L. N. Cottingham in 1834.

The friends of the Cathedral and The Dean and Chapter would appreciate a donation towards the general maintenance of this ancient Cathedral

PALACE STABLES HERITAGE CENTRE

The Palace Stables Heritage Centre is housed in the picturesque Georgian Stables and Courtyard belonging to the original Archbishop's Palace, built by Archbishop Robinson in 1770. The building has been lovingly restored and re-creates Stable Life in the 18th century. The 'Day in the Life' exhibition housed on the first floor, portrays a typical day in the stables on the 23rd July 1776, a day on which Archbishop Robinson entertained Arthur Young, the famous agricultural improver, and other guests.

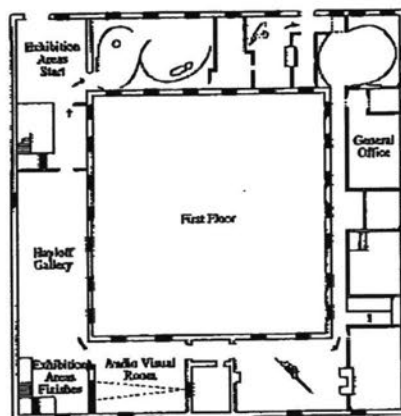

'Garden of the Senses' & Adventure Play Area

The 'Garden of the Senses' offers a chance to experience sight, sound, touch, smell and taste, in a fascinating area of flowing water and imaginative planting. Wind-chimes, fountains and talk tubes appeal to children and adults alike. The garden is designed with wheelchair access and sensory aids for visually impaired visitors. The newly constructed timber adventure play area, set in mature woodland, creates opportunities to play for both disabled and able-bodied children.

'A Day in the Life'

EXHIBITION (1 Hour 15 mins)

The guided tour traces a day in the life of the Church of Ireland Archbishop's Palace in the year 1776, including life in the 'big house' and the stables. This part of the tour ends with a 10 minute audio-visual presentation. The tour also includes the Primate's Chapel, noted as a masterpiece of Neo-Classical Georgian architecture, the servant's tunnel, ice house and grounds.

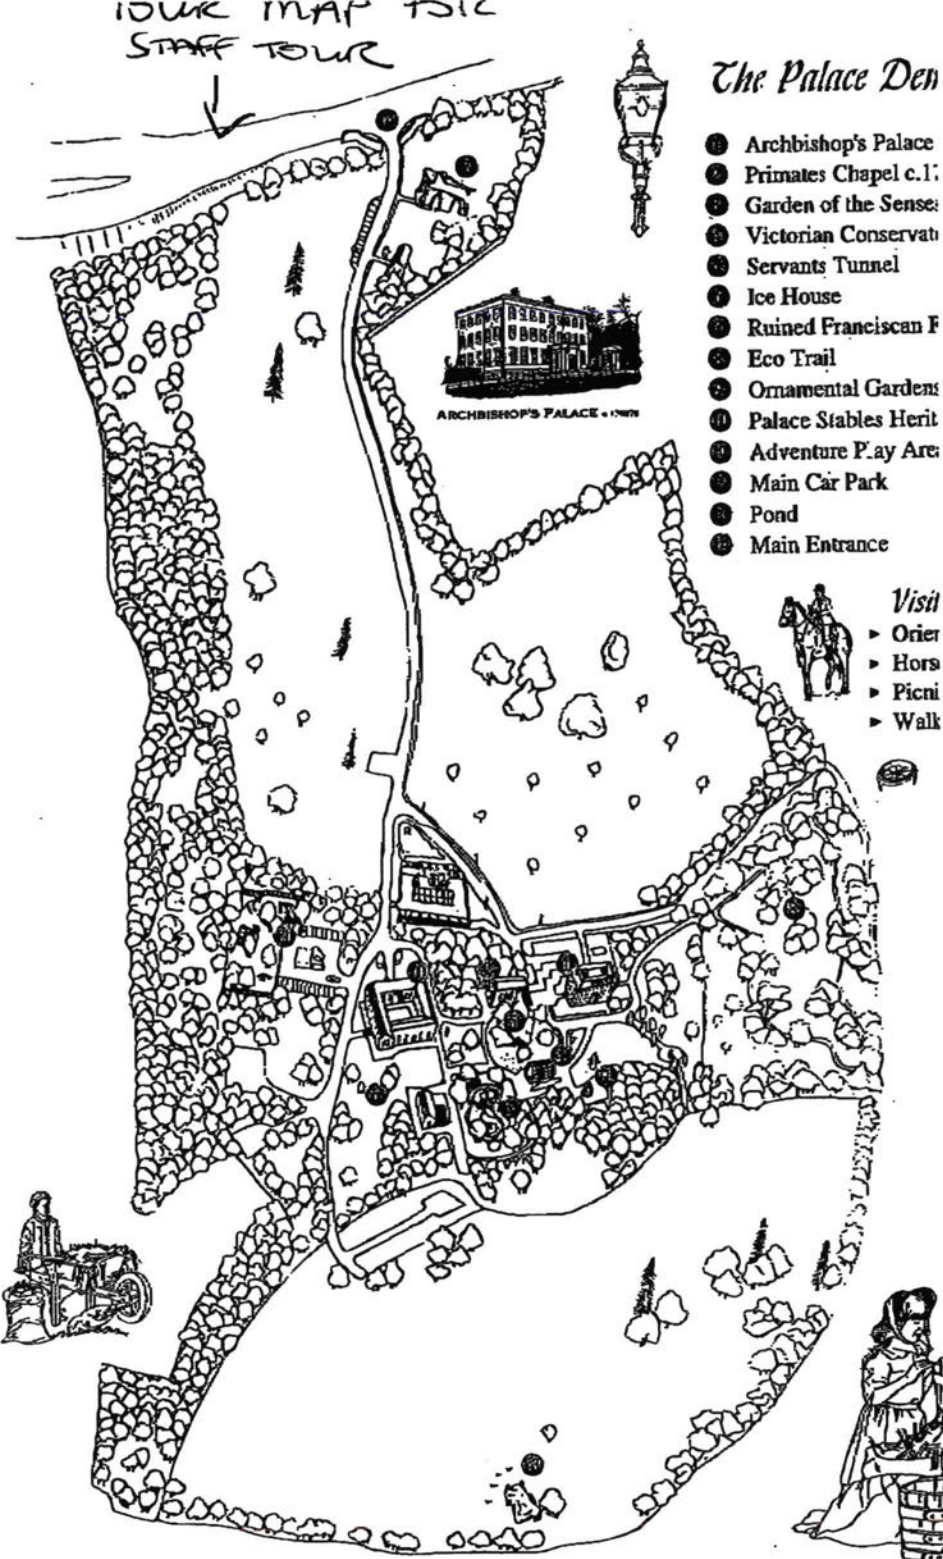

Courtyard

Visitors can browse around the period rooms off the courtyard including the tack room, coachman's kitchen, and stables to glimpse the working and living conditions of Stable Life.

The courtyard also houses the craft shop, restaurant, children's indoor play area, toilets and baby changing facilities. Seats are available around the courtyard area.

Disabled access is available throughout the centre, with ramps, disabled toilet and lift to the first floor exhibition.

Description

With views across the estuary and to the city beyond, this fine hotel occupies an appropriately lofty Belfast location. The main house is an elegant baronial mansion but the hotel does not rest on its laurels and along with the extensive bedroom extension, there is a top quality leisure club for guest to make use of. The day rooms have benefited from extensive refurbishment and now comprise bright open bar and lounge areas with ample comfortable seating. The restaurant has also undergone a refit and is a fitting venue for some accomplished cooking that covers both the traditional and the modern. Other recent improvements include some very impressive new suites.

Russia

EVENT	MESSAGE/VISUAL	NEWS
Wreath-Laying at Tomb of the Unknowns at the Kremlin [10:35 AM; 2:35 AM EST] Meeting and Working Lunch with Yeltsin [11:00 AM; 3:00 AM EST] Meet-and-Greet Students and Parents on "Back-to-School" Day [2:35 PM; 6:35 AM EST] Address to Young Russian Leaders at Moscow State University Institute for International Affairs [4:10 PM; 8:10 AM EST] Official Dinner with Yeltsin [7:35 PM; 11:35 AM EST]	Message The U.S. has a strong stake in the success of Russia's transition to a free market democracy. ~~Russia's economic crisis~~ has fueled pessimism in both countries on the prospects for further reform and the possibilities of the U.S.-Russia relationship. The President will seek to restore energy and forward movement to both reform and the relationship by securing progress on a broad array of common concerns, while spotlighting a new generation of Russian leaders, highlighting Russia's progress toward reform, and speaking to the hard work that remains. The President will praise Russia for the courageous steps it has taken to embrace democracy and free markets, but also encourage the Russian people to stay on the course of reform and apply Russian solutions to Russian problems as it confronts the challenges and opportunities of the global economy. The President's visit demonstrates America's steadfast commitment to support Russia as it undertakes this historic transformation. Education plays a central role in building Russia's future. President Clinton's visit to a Moscow elementary school on Russia's "back-to-school" day signals the importance he attaches to expanding educational opportunities for all. These themes echo those President Clinton has vigorously promoted at home. Visual President Clinton meeting with President Yeltsin	Potential Deliverables Joint Statement on Economics, including support for economic ~~stabilization and the restoration~~ of market confidence

EVENT	MESSAGE/VISUAL	NEWS
Meeting with Yeltsin [10:35 AM; 2:35 AM EST] Joint Press Conference and Signing [12:55 PM; 4:55 AM EST] Meeting with Duma and Regional Leaders [2:20 PM; 6:20 AM EST] Embassy Greeting [3:50 PM; 7:50 AM EST]	Message The U.S. has a strong interest in encouraging Russia's emergence as a modern state – not only to prevent a return to Cold War rivalries, but more importantly, to enable our two countries to advance our shared interests and combat common problems together. The potential for such partnership is illustrated by our combined efforts to reduce ~~nuclear stockpiles~~ stem the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction, secure peace in Bosnia, diversify energy resources, develop new opportunities for trade and investment, and protect the environment. The U.S.-Russia partnership is too important to be held hostage to a single issue. The two President's will focus on a broad range of issues including the current economic situation in Russia, regional security issues such as Kosovo and Iraq, and continuing progress on arms control and non proliferation. President Clinton's meeting with Duma leaders from across the political spectrum demonstrates our commitment to engage all elements of Russia's political leadership. Visuals President Clinton side-by-side at podium with President Yeltsin President Clinton engaged in give-and-take with Duma leaders around roundtable	Potential Deliverables Joint Statement on Space Cooperation and Non-Interference Initiative on Early Warning System and Command and Control Joint Statement on Biological Weapons Convention Joint Statements on Iraq, Kosovo, CFE

EVENT	MESSAGE/VISUAL	NEWS
Meeting with Trimble and Mallon at Stormont Castle [10:10 AM; 5:10 AM EST] Meeting with Northern Ireland Assembly Members at Stormont [10:35 AM; 5:35 AM EST] Address to the People and Assembly of Northern Ireland at Waterfront Hall [12:40 PM; 7:40 AM EST] Groundbreaking Ceremony at University of Ulster, Springvale Educational Facility [2:10 PM; 9:10 AM EST] Consulate General Greeting [3:15 PM; 10:15 AM EST] Meeting with Victims and Wreath Laying Ceremony at Omagh [Tentative] [4:45 PM; 11:45 AM EST] Remarks to the People of Omagh and Northern Ireland [Tentative] [7:05 PM; 2:05 PM EST]	Message The historic Good Friday Accord, followed by the successful May referendum and June Assembly elections, are the products of courageous leadership and popular resolve among the Irish people. The U.S. is proud to have contributed to Ireland's hard-fought peace. ~~As the recent tragedy in Omagh demonstrated,~~ keeping peace can be more difficult than waging war. It demands patience and vigilance from all. Historic agreements have been struck and new institutions have been forged. The Irish people must now turn these instruments of peace into a daily reality, overcoming the challenges that will arise and seize the opportunities peace offers. President Clinton will stress the hard road ahead and concrete next steps to make the benefits of peace realized for the next generation. The U.S. is committed to the peace process for the long haul -- including through funding for the new assembly, training for its members, support for NGOs and civil society programs, investments in Northern Ireland's future like the University of Ulster, and efforts to improve the investment climate. Visual President Clinton addressing Assembly members and people of Northern Ireland at majestic Waterfront Hall President Clinton and Prime Minister Blair unveiling plaque at Springvale campus groundbreaking President Clinton consoling victims and addressing crowd in Omagh	Potential Deliverables "Project Citizen" ($1.5 million grant for civic education)

Meeting and Lunch Reception with Ahern [10:45 AM; 5:45 AM EST] Tour of Gateway 2000 Facility and Remarks at Economic Prosperity in Dublin [2:50 PM; 9:50 AM EST] Embassy Greeting [4:00 PM; 11:00 AM EST]	Message Ireland's economic renaissance is a testament to the entrepreneurial spirit and creative power of the Irish people, unleashed by democracy and free markets. The success of the "Celtic Tiger", made possible by expanded educational opportunities and increased trade and investment, is an inspiration to emerging economies and an example of a nation ~~taking advantage of the opportunities of globalization~~. Increasingly, new technologies drive the global economy. Ireland's focus on high-skilled labor in high-tech fields, such as computers and telecommunications, is essential to future success. No longer do Irish flee their homeland to find fortune in America. The peace and prosperity Ireland now enjoys has encouraged many Irish to remain, and has even drawn Irish emigres back to the Emerald Isle, reversing a centuries-old trend. Ireland's boom has created more American jobs, as Ireland's high-technology industries increasingly form joint ventures and multinational corporations with American firms. Both Ireland and the U.S. benefit from trans-Atlantic trade and investment. Visual President Clinton emerging from meetings with Taoiseach Ahern President Clinton tours high-tech shopfloor and speaking to high-skilled workers	Potential Deliverables Electronic Commerce Statement Announcement of donation of personal computers for NGOs and civic organization in the border counties
