IPA Mobility Program Certification Requirements:

(a) Organizations interested in participating in the mobility program as an instrumentality or authority of a State or local government or as an "other organization", must have their eligibility certified by the Office of Personnel Management before they will be eligible to enter into a mobility agreement with a Federal agency.

"Other organization" means a national, regional, Statewide, areawide, or metropolitan organization representing member State or local governments; an association of State or local public officials; or a nonprofit organization which has as one of its principal functions the offering of professional advisory, research, educational, or development services, or related services to governments or universities concerned with public management;

(b) Written requests for certification should include a copy of the organization's: (1) articles of incorporation; (2) bylaws; (3) Internal Revenue Service nonprofit statement; and (4) any other information describing the organization's activities as they relate to the public management concerns of governments or universities.

(c) Requests should be mailed to the following address:

INTERGOVERNMENTAL MOBILITY PROGRAM

All levels of government are being called upon to provide more and better services for a growing number of citizens. To do this, the national government, States, and local governments must share their resources and cooperate in solving mutual problems. One way in which governments are already doing this is through the temporary assignment of employees under the Intergovernmental Personnel Act (IPA) of 1970.

Under the IPA mobility provisions, employees may be assigned between Federal agencies and States, local governments, Indian tribal governments, institutions of higher education, Federally Funded Research and Development Centers, and other eligible organizations for periods up to two years.

Assignees solve problems involving two levels of government, and build intergovernmental understanding by gaining and sharing experience in another administrative environment.

All 50 States, as well as numerous local governments, universities, Indian tribal governments, other eligible organizations, and Federal agencies are participating in the IPA mobility. Assignees are performing a wide variety of tasks, many as key assistants to governors, mayors, and agency heads.

This document has been prepared to give public officials and employees a better understanding of the temporary assignment provisions of the IPA.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ABOUT TEMPORARY ASSIGNMENTS UNDER THE INTERGOVERNMENTAL PERSONNEL ACT (IPA)

1. Q. What is an IPA assignment?

A. The terms "IPA assignment" or "mobility assignment" refer to the temporary assignment of personnel between the Federal Government and non-Federal organizations, as authorized under Title IV of the Intergovernmental Personnel Act (IPA), Public Law 91-648. This title is headed: "Mobility of Federal, State, and Local Employees", and the assignments are usually called "IPA mobility assignments."

2. Q. What is the purpose of Title IV of the IPA?

A. The purpose of Title IV of the IPA is to:

- Improve the delivery of government services to all levels of government by bringing the specialized knowledge and experience of skilled people to bear on problems that are of mutual concern to eligible non-Federal organizations and the Federal Government;
- Strengthen intergovernmental understanding, broaden perspective, and increase personnel resources; and
- Help preserve the rights and benefits of employees so they will be better able to accept temporary assignments.

3. Q. For what purposes would an assignment be made?

A. A mobility assignment might be made to:

- Share scarce expertise;
- Provide program operating experience in a counterpart organization;
- Provide general developmental experience; or
- Improve management of grant programs and make more effective use of grant funds

4. Q. Who is eligible for a mobility assignment?

A. On the Federal side, career employees of an Executive agency, military department, a court of the United States, the Administrative Office of the United States Courts, the Library of Congress, the Botanic Garden, the Government Printing Office, the Congressional Budget Office, the United States Postal Service, the Office of the Architect of the Capitol, the Office of Technology Assessment, and such other similar agencies of the legislative and judicial branches as determined appropriate by the Office of Personnel Management.

On the non-Federal side, career employees of State and local governments, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands, and territories or possessions of the United States (which are treated as States for purposes of this program); instrumentalities of States and local governments; public or private four-year, domestic colleges or universities, or technical or junior colleges; Indian tribal governments; national, regional, State-wide, area-wide, or metropolitan organizations representing member State or local governments; associations of State or local public officials; Federally Funded Research and Development Centers; and nonprofit organizations which have as one of their principal functions the offering of professional advisory research, education, or development services, or related services, to governments or universities concerned with public management.

5. Q. How do mobility assignments get started?
A. Officials of eligible non-Federal organizations and Federal agencies may initiate a mobility assignment request by addressing an assignment proposal directly to an appropriate agency or organization that has some interest in strengthening a program or solving a problem.
6. Q. What should an assignment proposal contain?
A. In order to give the organization to which the proposal is addressed a basis for evaluating the request and deciding how it can help, an assignment proposal should outline the:
 - Purpose of the assignment, including its general priority;
 - Benefits of assignment for the organizations and employee involved;
 - Employee skills and background required (position description);
 - Estimated length of the assignment; and
 - Share of salary and other expenses the requesting organization is willing to assume.
7. Q. How is an assignment put into effect?
A. Once the two organizations have agreed upon the terms and conditions of the assignment, it is put into effect by a written assignment agreement.
8. Q. What is the purpose of the assignment agreement?
A. The assignment agreement is used to:

- Document the terms and conditions of the assignment that the two organizations have agreed upon;
- Document the employee's consent to the assignment by his or her signature; and
- Provide a record of the rights and responsibilities of each of the three parties to the agreement.

9. Q. Can an employee be assigned to another organization without his or her consent?
- A. No, a mobility assignment can be made only with the consent of the employee.
10. Q. How do employees indicate an interest in mobility assignment opportunities?
- A. Since assignment proposals are initiated and responded to by agency managers, employees should inform the appropriate program or personnel officials in their own agencies of their interest in an assignment.
11. Q. What should the employee do when he or she is aware of an assignment opportunity with another organization?
- A. An employee should bring to the attention of appropriate officials in his or her agency any specific assignment for which he or she would like to be considered. Assignment opportunities will be evaluated on the basis of the benefit to the organizations that will result from the proposed assignment.
12. Q. Does the U.S. Office of Personnel Management arrange mobility assignments?
- A. No. The U.S. Office of Personnel Management does not have responsibility for arranging individual assignments (except for its own employees). OPM assists organizations by providing information on mobility program policies and procedures, and on ways that assignments can be used to improve delivery of services to the public.
13. Q. How long does the mobility assignment last?
- A. The assignment may last for any length of time up to two years depending upon the needs of the organizations involved. Assignments may also be full-time, part-time (e.g. 20 hours per week), or intermittent (e.g. one week per month, for six months).
14. Q. Can an assignment be extended beyond two years?

MEMORANDUM FOR MARGARET (MAGGIE) A. WILLIAMS
ASSISTANT TO THE PRESIDENT AND CHIEF OF STAFF TO THE FIRST LADY

FROM: DAVID WATKINS D. Watkins
ASSISTANT TO THE PRESIDENT FOR MANAGEMENT AND ADMINISTRATION

SUBJECT: Downsizing and Personnel Reorganization

As you are aware, our goal for completing our planned staff reorganization and downsizing of White House and EOP personnel is October 1, 1993. Because of the upcoming deadline, all transfer or separation forms will need to be completed and returned to our office no later than Friday, September 10.

We have attached a transfer/separation form for each employee in your office affected by the reorganization. Each employee's effective end date must be no later than September 25, which is the last day of the last payroll of fiscal year 1993. This is necessary for us to meet our goals by the end of September.

If your employee is transferring to another Federal agency, the ending date of service at the EOP will need to precede the starting date of service at the new agency.

Upon completion of each form, return to Alice Honea of my office. If you have any questions regarding the form, please contact Alice at ext. 6693.
