Subject: progress on children

I spoke to Ned this morning. He is very upbeat and enthusiastic about participating and seems hopeful that he can get 15-20 kids and an uninsured parent. (However, since I trust no one, I want to make sure the groups keep looking. I am assuming we can use all the kids.)

However, he is worried about getting kids and parents down from Baltimore. Is there a way that someone from the groups could help arrange for a van to transport children down to DC? (Barbara, I told him that you would call him about options -- do you mind? His phone number is 410 767 1464.)

Let me know, and thanks, Devorah

Subject: parent for Friday

Here is a description for the kind of parent we are looking for for Friday.

This person should be uninsured, under 200 percent of the poverty level (see income levels below) with a child enrolled in their state's S-CHIP program. The child should have been uninsured before S-CHIP for some period of time and should preferably have some chronic disease like asthma that is now controlled by regular physician visits. The parent should also have some chronic health care need to display the need for healthcare coverage. Here are the income levels

2 people (ie, one parent, one child)	$22,500
3 people (ie, one parent, two children OR two parents, one child)	$28,300
4 people (ie, one parent, three kids OR two parents, two kids)	$34,100
5 people (ie, one parent, four kids OR two parents, three kids)	$39,900
