Dear Mr. Vice-President:

I am sending you this book which is a POLICY ISSUE, devoted to education. I am hopeful perhaps you might be interested in demonstrating the ideas and policy issues in the mid-term elections. This book is what it says on the last line on the back cover: the definitive guide to connecting government, corporate, and the private sector to improve schools to improve SOCIETY. Many of the ideas in here have already been implemented by you and/or you and President Clinton. If you could call some attention to this book--and its ideas--while the country is thinking of education--and world betterment--this November, I think it would be a strong step for our society in building that bridge to the 21st century and beyond. FYI: the agent of this book developed Stephen King and John Grisham (Bill Thompson) so the book itself is a tried and true product.

Wishing you the best of absolutely everything.
