Here is a blurb on the report:

The report by Fight Crime/Invest in Kids entitled America's Child Care Crisis: A Crime Prevention Strategy, gives a new angle to the fight for a hefty child care budget by laying out compelling evidence that early childhood development programs can greatly reduce crime and makes the point that America is falling far short of the investment it needs to make in Head Start and quality child care. Co-authors include: Dr. Berry Brazelton (Harvard Pediatrics Professor and current best-known "baby doctor" in the country); Bill Bratton, former New York Police Commissioner, criminologist Larry Sherman, and Yale child development professor Ed Ziegler.
