My best guess is that he will do it but it will not be announced in advance. It probably won't be on Friday when the Veep and Mrs. Gore attend. POTUS gets in too late the night before to go that early. Everyone is now in agreement that he must attend. Thanks for all the good work you have been doing to make this happen. These are the behind the scene important things that folks outside of here never know about to say thanks. Carry on. Let me know if there is more I should do. Thanks.

I know that Marsha Scott and others have contacted you about the President visiting the Quilt on Friday. I wanted to add my voice to the request as well. As you know, thousands of family members and friends of people represented in panels of the Quilt will be here to participate in this remembrance. I know that they expect the President to visit, even for a moment, and will be disappointed and, in many cases, angry if he does not. Having the Vice President and Mrs. Gore there is great, but cannot be a substitute for the President himself.

Thanks for your e-mail. I will ask Jane Sanville to call the Casey Foundation.

The quilt weekend was a success in so many ways. The weather, of course. But the fabulous four all visited the quilt and I heard so much about it all weekend. The President was applauded everywhere I went. I was so very happy about that! It was a sad weekend for many, but one that gave people an opportunity to share their grief with the thousands of others who have lost a friend or lover or family member. The Candlelight March was spectacular and Elizabeth Taylor did not say anything about the President. (Her most recent speeches had contained disparaging remarks about him.) Cleve Jones gave a political speech -- beginning by announcing that he never thought he would utter the following 4 words: "Thank you Mr. President," then went on to repeat it several times while the crowd applauded wildly.

Just want to close the loop on the AIDS Strategy. As we discussed, I think it is best to just bring this document to closure by the end of the year. That allows the office and the director next year to start afresh with a document to use to solicit input and comment through a good process similar to yours this past year.

Here's how I think we get there.

First, did you get an answer from Scott on getting Council comments in by November 1, instead of 11/15. I understand from Jeff that comments are starting to come in, are relatively minor, and are being incorporated as they arrive. So with Scott's OK, we should be able to have a draft with Council comments by 11/6. Then, I would suggest that you/Jeff meet with the few key AIDS community leaders who are likely to be called on to comment on the plan in the press. You know who the 5-10(?) folks are. You could meet with them one-on-one, give them a copy of the document, ask for their comments in a one week period, say how much you value their input, etc, etc. They would have their comments in by 11/15, and you could be ready to roll Dec 2.

I think this is the best way to proceed. I think it is important to bring this to closure with you and Jeff here.

If OK with you, please have Richard re-do the old scheduling request for a meeting with the President: request a meeting with POTUS and key Cabinet and sub-Cabinet officials on(around) World AIDS Day to review the strategy and progress made to date.

Thanks.

We would need to have the final printer-ready copy by November 19th at the latest. I'll draft a schedule for you to look at.

TEXT:

Thank you so much for your support in getting the President and First Lady to the Quilt. The weekend was a success in so many ways. The weather, of course. But the Fabulous Four and their appearance on the Mall were praised everywhere. The President was applauded many times over at all the events I attended.

It was a sad weekend for many, but one that gave people the opportunity to share their grief with the thousands of others who have lost a friend or lover or family member. The Candlelight March was spectacular and Elizabeth Taylor did not say anything negative about the President. Cleve Jones, the Quilt's founder, gave a political speech -- beginning by announcing that he never thought he would utter the following four words: "Thank you Mr. President," then went on to repeat it several times while the crowd applauded wildly and raised their candles in a salute. It was all very, very good. Thanks again.

READ:23-OCT-1996 13:50:47.78

TEXT:

On Tuesday, October 22, a group of about 90 African-Americans met at the Harvard AIDS Institute to discuss the growing AIDS epidemic among blacks and what can be done to turn it around.

The numbers are shocking, for blacks very disproportionately affected by the epidemic. From 1990 to 1994, the annual AIDS incidence grew 68 percent among African-Americans compared with 14 percent among whites. An estimated average of one of every 33 African-American men aged 27-39 and 1 of every 100 African American women in the same age group may have been infected as of January 1993. This compares with 1 of every 250 Americans overall. By 2000, more than half of all AIDS cases in the U.S. are expected to be among blacks.

The meeting was attended by Patsy Fleming and Alexis Herman and representatives of many national black organizations as well as providers of care and prevention services. The outcome of the meeting was a call to action for the African-American community including clergy, the media, government, community based organizations, educators and all others who can intervene in this deadly epidemic.

TO: Stephanie Streett
Deputy Assistant to the President & Director of Scheduling

Anne Walley
Deputy Assistant to the President & Director of

Scheduling

FROM: Carol H. Rasco, Assistant to the President for Domestic Policy
Patricia S. Fleming, Director, Office of National

AIDS Policy

REQUEST: Meeting with Cabinet Members and Agency Heads to discuss the U.S. response to HIV/AIDS.

PURPOSE: In conjunction with World AIDS Day (Dec. 1), the President will conduct a meeting with Cabinet
Members and Agency Heads to discuss issues related to the U.S. response to the HIV/AIDS epidemic.

The President will be presented with the first

-ever National AIDS Strategy and discuss issues related to research, prevention, treatment, and housing.

BACKGROUND: The President has made the national response to HIV/AIDS a priority of his Administration. By holding a meeting with Cabinet Members and Agency Heads on this subject he will further indicate the importance of this response and receive a briefing on relevant issues. Similar to the meeting on drug issues earlier this year, an additional purpose of this meeting is to demonstrate that the President is engaged in leading the Administration's work on HIV

-related issues.

PREVIOUS

PARTICIPATION: The President has commemorated World AIDS Day in each of the last four years. This would be the first Cabinet

-level meeting dedicated to this subject since the epidemic began in 1981.

DATE & TIME: December 2, 1996

DURATION: 60 minutes

LOCATION: The Cabinet Room

PARTICIPANTS: The President

The Vice President

Carol Rasco, Assistant to the President for

Domestic Policy

National AIDS Policy Director Patricia Fleming

Cabinet Members including Secretaries Shalala,

Cisneros, Riley, Kantor, Perry, Christopher,

Attorney General Reno, and ONDCP Director

McCaffrey.

Agency Heads including National Institutes of Health Director Harold Varmus, Centers for Disease

Control and Prevention Director David Satcher,

Health Resources and Services Administration

Administrator Ciro Sumaya, Health Care Financing

Administration Administrator Bruce Vladeck, Social

Security Commissioner Shirley Chater, and US

Agency for International Development Administrator

Brian Atwood.

OUTLINE OF

EVENTS: The President would make brief remarks followed by presentations by Director Fleming and appropriate Cabinet and Agency officials. The President will be presented with a copy of the first -ever

National AIDS Strategy, outlining the Administration's goals for addressing and ending the HIV/AIDS epidemic.

REMARKS: Brief remarks at top of meeting.

MEDIA: Pool spray at top of meeting.

FIRST LADY: No.

VICE

PRESIDENT: Yes.

RECOMMENDED

BY: Carol Rasco and Patsy Fleming.

Olivia Golden and I have met a couple of times lately and found these one on one sessions quite helpful in facilitating communication between our offices. We will try to meet regularly every other week. My next meeting with her is Monday, Nov. 4 at noon.

You should each feel free to let me know of any items which you would like for me to bring up with her at our regular meetings.

Many thanks!

I wanted you to know that Carol and I have submitted a request to scheduling for a meeting with the Pres. and selected cabinet members for a briefing on HIV/AIDS just after World AIDS Day (Dec.1). At that meeting, I will present to the Pres. the National AIDS Strategy. I would like to get your support for this and will fax a copy of the request to you. Anything you can do to help get a positive response would be greatly appreciated. The Pres and FL visit to the quilt was a marvelous thing. So many many people talked about it all weekend. By the time you get this email the election will be over and won. Congratulations to all of us and especially to Bill Clinton!

I have shared with Jeremy and Elizabeth our discussion as they must be involved in the planning for DPC structure/positions. I have also shared with Evelyn the timing issues you and I discussed. Jeremy, Elizabeth and Evelyn all know we need to maintain quiet on this issue of your departure.

I have asked Jeremy and Elizabeth to discuss with you the issues of organization of the AIDS office and hope you will think about ideas on that front in addition to the request for an administrative type person to be added.

Also, I have asked Elizabeth to work with you on the matter of the drug costs. She has done FDA work for us and will lend continuity between you and a new director. Please work closely with her including her in all discussions, planning, etc. on this issue. I did share with her my request that Greg be invited first before others are asked to a group meeting in case he has a reaction. I will keep you posted on any direction I receive from Evelyn. I will look forward to receiving lists of recommended candidates from you.

Many thanks!

Dear Patsy,

I would like to talk with you a bit in the next few weeks on where the vaccines issue (and microbicides, too) is heading.

Also, I would hope to discuss how we can get these prevention items back onto the initiative with the V.P., which seems to have dropped them in focusing on curative/treatment issues of the Keystone effort.

At your convenience, would you give me a call when you might have 10 or 15 minutes available?

Thank you.

TO: Agency Representatives and Alternates to the President's Interagency Council on Women

SUBJECT: Next Council Meeting

Our national conference on September 28 was a great success. Thank you for all of your help in preparing for the event. We have scheduled the next meeting of the President's Interagency Council on Women for Tuesday, November 19, from 10:00 to 11:30 am in Secretary Shalala's conference room (#610F) at the Department of Health and Human Services (200 Independence Avenue, SW).

This will be a working meeting. The Agenda for the meeting:

- * Report on the conference and feedback we've received from local sites. You will receive a synopsis in the mail soon.

- * Discuss the Council's activities during the past year. We want to hear your impressions, observations and suggestions for the effectiveness of your agency's task force and of the Council.

* Discuss the National Action Agenda and other end of the year reports the Council is preparing.

Please call the Council Office on (202) 456

-7350 to confirm

your attendance. We hope to see you there.

November 1, 1996

TO: Agency Representatives and Alternates to the
President's Interagency Council on Women

SUBJECT: Next Council Meeting

Our national conference on September 28 was a great success. Thank you for all of your help in preparing for the event. We have scheduled the next meeting of the President's Interagency Council on Women for Tuesday, November 19, from 10:00 to 11:30 am in Secretary Shalala's conference room (#610F) at the Department of Health and Human Services (200 Independence Avenue, SW).

This will be a working meeting. The Agenda for the meeting:

- * Report on the conference and feedback we've received from local sites. You will receive a synopsis in the mail soon.
- * Discuss the Council's activities during the past year. We want to hear your impressions, observations and suggestions for the effectiveness of your agency's task force and of the Council.
- * Discuss the National Action Agenda and other end of the year reports the Council is preparing.

Please call the Council Office on (202) 456-7350 to confirm your attendance. We hope to see you there.

CDC National AIDS Clearinghouse
Conference Calendar Database

NEW CONFERENCE LISTINGS
November 5, 1996

The Clearinghouse's Conference Calendar Database contains information about upcoming conferences related to HIV and AIDS.

NAC ONLINE users can search this database by selecting "Clearinghouse Databases" from the NAC ONLINE main menu. When asked to enter a database name, specify "CONF" to search the Calendar.

To access the NAC ONLINE BBS, set your communications software to dial (800) 851-7245, and set the options for 8 data bits, N parity, 1 stop bit, full duplex, and complete a new user questionnaire. Only non-profit organizations, government agencies, educational institutions, and health departments are given full access to NAC ONLINE and the NAC databases.

Overnight, 8 new listings were loaded to the Conference Calendar Database. Their records follow:

"Success of AIDS Drug Has Merck Fighting to Keep Up the Pace"

Wall Street Journal (11/05/96) P. A1; Tanouye, Elyse

Merck's AIDS drug Crixivan, which won the FDA's fastest approval ever, is now so popular that the company is having difficulty keeping up with demand. About 90,000 patients worldwide are already taking the drug, and demand is expected to increase as more states approve funding for the costly therapy and more countries approve the drug for sale. In its rush to beat competitors, however, Merck obtained approval of Crixivan before new manufacturing plants were ready to produce the drug. Crixivan is also the most complex drug Merck has ever tried to mass-produce, which has only further delayed production.

"Across the USA: Rhode Island"

USA Today (11/05/96) P. 10A

In Rhode Island, a state Education Department task force made up of parents and educators has proposed a sex education plan that would include teaching kindergartners about AIDS and demonstrating condom use to ninth-graders.

"'Cocktail' Therapies Offer Hope in AIDS Battle"

Baltimore Sun (11/05/96) P. 7A

A triple combination of AIDS drugs is dramatically delaying the progression of the disease among European patients, doctors reported at a conference in England Monday. Dr. Ian Weller of London's Middlesex Hospital noted that "we are talking about a 40 [percent] to 50 percent reduction in mortality," and that the benefit has lasted up to two years in some patients. Furthermore, Dr. Peter Reiss, of the Academy Medical Center in Amsterdam, said his AIDS clinic has been able to treat people with other conditions because his AIDS patients have become outpatients. As evidence of the drugs' value, Reiss pointed to the drop in cases of cytomegalovirus infection, an infection that can blind people with AIDS, and Kaposi's sarcoma, a cancer common among AIDS patients.

"Restoring Parental Responsibility"

Wall Street Journal (11/05/96) P. A22

Parental rights and responsibilities have become a hot political issue, and they are being debated from the presidential race to a Colorado ballot initiative, according to a New York Times editorial. The proposal in Colorado would limit how far schools and governments can go against the wishes of parents in areas like psychological testing and condom distribution. In Massachusetts, for example, a parent's complaint about a safer sex performance at a high school was rejected by a federal appeals court. The court ruled that the performance, titled "Hot, Sexy, and Safer," was "intended to educate students about the AIDS virus." The Colorado initiative would place in the state constitution the reasoning used in 1925 to establish a firm right of parents "to direct and control the upbringing, education, values, and discipline of their children."

"New Director Out of Job at Action AIDS"

Philadelphia Inquirer (11/05/96) P. B2; Burling, Stacey

Billy S. Jones, chosen two weeks ago by the board of directors of Action AIDS to run the Philadelphia AIDS service agency, was removed from the position Sunday. The board met with Jones to discuss a report published Friday in the Philadelphia Gay News that said that Jones was sentenced to jail in 1985 for embezzling $57,000 from a San Francisco agency for troubled youth. Jones confirmed the report and offered not to accept the position of executive director. The new choice for director is Kevin Conare, who has served as deputy executive director for three years. Action AIDS has 80 employees and an annual budget of $3.5 million. It provides case-management services, including referrals for medical care, housing, and transportation to about 2,000 people with AIDS.

"Battle to the Death?"

Washington Times (11/05/96) P. B6

Companies in the viatical settlements business are at odds over the implications of a new law that allows individuals with terminal illnesses to sell their life-insurance policies tax-free. At the same time, advances in the treatment of AIDS have dramatically changed the business. Independent viatical companies are fighting to make sure they are not put at a disadvantage to insurance companies. The definition of a viatical company under the new Kennedy-Kassebaum health-insurance reform law is the central issue in the debate. The National Viatical Association claims that the law gives an unfair advantage to insurance companies because it requires a viatical settlement company to be operating in one of the 12 regulated states in order for the customer to benefit from the tax break.

"President Takes His Final Campaign to Where Quest Began"

Boston Globe (11/04/96) P. A10; Wilkie, Curtis

President Clinton has kept up a rapid pace during the final days of his campaign, traveling from coast to coast speaking about the healthy economy and his "bridge to the 21st century." In a recent speech in Oakland, Calif., Clinton pointed to advances in medical science. "We now know how to move drugs and mix drugs in a way that has more than doubled the life expectancy for people with HIV and AIDS in only four years," he said.

"Progesterone Implants Enhance SIV Vaginal Transmission and Early Virus Load"

Nature Medicine (10/96) Vol. 2, No. 10, P. 1084; Marx, Preston A.; Spira, Alexander I.; Gettie, Agegnehu; et al.

Genital HIV transmission in women is thought to be influenced by progesterone, a hormone which causes changes in the vaginal epithelium, vaginal pH, and cervical mucus. Epidemiological studies have yielded inconclusive results about the impact of hormonal contraceptives on HIV transmission. To test the relationship, researchers, led by Preston A. Marx of the Aaron Diamond AIDS Research Center and the New York University Medical School, studied the influence of progesterone implants on simian immunodeficiency virus (SIV) infection in macaques. They report that macaques given subcutaneous progesterone implants, which act similarly to hormonally based contraceptives, were 7.7 times more likely than other macaques exposed to the virus to have thinned vaginal epithelium and to become infected with SIV. Macaques with the implants also had higher plasma viral DNA for the first three months of infection, and three of the treated macaques showed relatively rapid disease progression. The authors conclude that women exposed to high levels of progesterone could be at increased risk of vaginal HIV infection and that the influence of progesterone should be studied in women.

"A Black-and-White Approach to AIDS"

Across the Board (10/96) Vol. 133, No. 9, P. 63

A 1995 study from the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention shows that 54 percent of workplaces with at least 750 employees have had a worker with HIV or AIDS. The CDC provides sample workplace policies to advise companies on managing issues related to the disease. The agency also offers a Manager's Kit, including brochures, resource catalogs, and posters, to aid in the implementation of AIDS-awareness programs. The kit is available for $25 by calling the Business and Labor Resource Service at (800) 458-5231.

"Adventuring to Fight AIDS"

Women's Sports+Fitness (10/96) P. 25

AIDS education is an adventure. That might be a fitting motto for Michael E. Coyne, head of Expedition Outreach. Coyne, his wife Christine, and other members of the group have undertaken a series of adventures aimed at educating people about AIDS and HIV prevention, as well as raising funds for the AIDS Action Committee of Massachusetts. "We'll do anything that will make people stand up and take notice of the AIDS crisis," Coyne said. "In particular, we want to educate young adults and kids about a virulent new strain of AIDS called subtype E, which is particularly threatening to women because it thrives in their reproductive tracts." Expedition Outreach's most recent exploits involved scaling 21,200-foot Nevado Illiman in the Bolivian Andes. Previous outings include skydiving, whitewater rafting, and ice-climbing adventures. Coyne hopes eventually to climb a mountain in either Alaska or Siberia that has never been climbed before and to name the summit Mt. Hope. For more information or to make a donation to the group, call (617) 450-1347.

Educational Materials Database

NEW MATERIALS
November 5, 1996

The Clearinghouse's Educational Materials Databases contain bibliographic information about more than 14,000 brochures, videos, booklets, and other materials with education/prevention messages.

NAC ONLINE users can search these databases by selecting "Clearinghouse Databases" from the NAC ONLINE main menu. When asked to enter a database name, specify "UNPB" (which stands for unpublished materials) to search all materials, regardless of availability; "CNPB" (which stands for current materials) to search only materials currently available from the distributor; or "ANPB" (which stands for archival materials) to search only materials which are no longer available.

To access the NAC ONLINE BBS, set your communications software to dial (800) 851-7245, and set the options for 8 data bits, N parity, 1 stopbit, full duplex, and complete a new user questionnaire. Only non-profit organizations, government agencies, educational institutions, and health departments are given full access to NAC ONLINE and the NAC databases.

Over the weekend, 11 newly catalogued materials were loaded to the UNPB Educational Materials Database. This brings the total number of materials on the Database to 17,678.

AB This feature film chronicles the AIDS epidemic from the first reported cases in Europe to 1993. The story is told from the perspective of Dr. Don Francis, now retired researcher from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) who had worked on the hepatitis B virus among gay men and the ebola virus in Africa. The film uses a combination of real and fictional characters as well as actual news footage to record the series of decisions, discoveries, controversies, and progress from 1981 on. Researchers at the CDC were faced with the dilemma of having to prove that HIV was a virus before they could establish a blood test. This required the approval and funding of a case control study and appropriate laboratory equipment and support. HIV was first known as gay cancer and then Gay Related Immune Disorder (GRID). The concurrent reports of the condition causing the deaths of 19 people in 3 years in France, an outbreak among Haitian heterosexuals in Miami, and 11 cases among newborn babies brought the disease into the forefront. The film highlights the interaction and conflict between Dr. Don Francis, researchers at the Institute Pasteur, and Dr. Robert Gallo of the National Institutes of Health. The struggle to mandate testing and screening for all blood donors is also depicted.

"Limit on Affirmative Action Heads for Win in California"

Washington Post (11/06/96) P. B12; Havemann, Judith

Among 91 ballot initiatives decided Tuesday were proposals in California and Arizona to legalize the medical use of marijuana. Arizona voters approved the measure and exit polls indicated that California voters would also. The California proposal, which would allow patients and "defined care givers" to possess or cultivate marijuana without being prosecuted, was supported by conservatives, libertarians, drug legalization advocates, former Secretary of State George Shultz, and some wealthy businessmen. Physicians will also be permitted to recommend the use of the drug for the treatment of cancer, anorexia, AIDS, chronic pain, spasticity, glaucoma, arthritis, migraines, or "any other illness for which marijuana provides relief." The initiative was opposed by three former presidents and the current drug chief.

"Calif. DMV Sued for Denial of "HIV POS" License Tag"

Baltimore Sun (11/06/96) P. 2A

A California man with AIDS is suing the state's Department of Motor Vehicles for $5 million after his request for a license plate reading "HIV POS" was denied. DMV spokesman Evan Nossoff said the request was denied because "it would be offensive to a significant number of Californians and insensitive to many people with HIV."

"Hospital Is Offering Free HIV Tests for Young People"

Philadelphia Inquirer (11/06/96) P. B2

A Philadelphia clinic will begin, on Nov. 12, to offer free and anonymous HIV tests to people aged 12 to 24. The Primary Care Center at Cobbs Creek, a satellite clinic operated by Children's Hospital of Philadelphia, will provide testing and counseling on Tuesdays from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. The goal of the program is to encourage more young people to get tested, especially in light of new advances in treatment.

"More Than $10,000 Raised for Pediatric AIDS Clinic"

Baltimore Sun (11/06/96) P. 3B

A benefit concert at Greater Grace World Outreach in Baltimore raised more than $10,000 Saturday for the Maryland Pediatric AIDS clinic. The clinic is Maryland's largest comprehensive service provider for children of HIV-infected women.

"HIV-Positive Johnson Lives Life His Way"

USA Today (11/06/96) P. 1C; Carter, Kelly

This week marks the fifth anniversary of Earvin "Magic" Johnson's announcement that he was HIV-positive and that he would not submit to the virus. Although he said "I'm going to beat it," he was unconvincing to many. "At that particular time you just thought of [HIV] as a death warrant," said Byron Scott, who was Johnson's teammate with the Los Angeles Lakers. Johnson, however, has continued to live his life his way, cheering courtside at most Lakers games and continuing to throw a few parties a year. He has improved his eating habits and continues to exercise and play basketball. Dr. David Ho, of the Aaron Diamond AIDS Research Center and a consultant to Johnson, said, "People should not be surprised because HIV infection could be free of symptoms for a long time." Ho noted that Johnson is currently taking inhibitor drugs to prevent HIV replication and that Johnson's T-cell count has not changed since his initial diagnosis.

"Indonesia Against Condoms to Stem AIDS -- Minister"

Reuters (11/06/96)

The use of condoms to curb the spread of HIV will not be advocated by the Indonesian government because the practice is not culturally appropriate, Health Minister Suydi said. The Antara news agency quoted Suydi as telling a meeting of the Indonesian Medical Association that "the most suitable method for us is counseling and not distributing condoms." Condoms will be distributed by the government in areas where prostitution is prevalent, he added.

"Brazil's Indians Under Threat From AIDS"

Reuters (11/05/96); Christie, Michael

The risk of AIDS in Brazil's indigenous tribes is a growing concern to the government, which will launch an AIDS awareness campaign targeting the population in the coming weeks. Brazil said that fears that AIDS could wipe out the population were exaggerated, though it noted that a major education project was needed. The National Indian Foundation estimates that 20 of Brazil's 320,000 indigenous people are infected with HIV. Potential for the virus to spread is heightened by a culture of polygamy among many tribes. Sexual initiation ceremonies are also common for adolescents, and some have been led into prostitution.

"Kenya to Install Condom Slots in District"

Xinhua News Agency (11/05/96)

To help prevent the transmission of HIV and other sexually transmitted diseases in Kenya, condom dispensers will be installed in all public places in the Isiolo district by the Kenyan Department of Public Health. The dispensers will be installed in bars, hotels, and lodging houses free of charge.

"Glaxo HIV Ads Urge Treatment"

Advertising Age (10/28/96) Vol. 67, No. 44, P. 12; Wilke, Michael Glaxo Wellcome's latest AIDS-related advertising campaign does not focus on the company's new AIDS drugs but encourages those with HIV to seek treatment. The education campaign, estimated to cost between $2 million and $5 million, targets gays, African Americans, and Hispanics. Carl Weisber, of FCB Health Care, the agency conducting the campaign, says, "It's probably the first 'get treated' message, since there hasn't been enough research previously." The ads refers to "new treatment options" and alludes to news reports of drug cocktails that combine Glaxo's drugs with protease inhibitors. During the campaign's first phase, the ads will appear in national gay media and 12 local gay newspapers. Early next year, radio, outdoor, and special theater performances will target the African American and Hispanic communities in 18 cities. Reid Saleeby, associate product manager for HIV marketing at Glaxo, said that at least 30 percent of people who know they are infected are not taking antiviral therapy.

TEXT:

Carol Rasco asked me to invite you and any of your appropriate staff to attend a discussion with Prof. David Hawkins who will be visiting the White House Wednesday, November 13.

The discussion will take place in room 180 OEOB on November 13 at 3:30 p.m. David Hawkins is the Director of the Social Development Research Group at the University of Washington in Seattle. His research focuses on understanding and preventing child and adolescent health and behavior problems. Since 1981 he has been conducting a social development project researching the affects of early intervention programs on disadvantaged children. Dr. Hawkins has tracked a control group and an intervention group from K-12th grade. He now wishes to share with us and discuss the preliminary, unpublished results of his longitudinal prevention study.

The results of his study and the ensuing conversation promise to be very exciting.

Please share this with your staff and let me know via e-mail if you or others will be attending.

The discussion will be limited to 15 people.

Thanks!

Educational Materials Database

NEW MATERIALS
November 8, 1996

The Clearinghouse's Educational Materials Databases contain bibliographic information about more than 14,000 brochures, videos, booklets, and other materials with education/prevention messages.

NAC ONLINE users can search these databases by selecting "Clearinghouse Databases" from the NAC ONLINE main menu. When asked to enter a database name, specify "UNPB" (which stands for unpublished materials) to search all materials, regardless of availability; "CNPB" (which stands for current materials) to search only materials currently available from the distributor; or "ANPB" (which stands for archival materials) to search only materials which are no longer available.

To access the NAC ONLINE BBS, set your communications software to dial (800) 851-7245, and set the options for 8 data bits, N parity, 1 stopbit, full duplex, and complete a new user questionnaire. Only non-profit organizations, government agencies, educational institutions, and health departments are given full access to NAC ONLINE and the NAC databases.

Over the weekend, 9 newly catalogued materials were loaded to the UNPB Educational Materials Database. This brings the total number of materials on the Database to 17,686.

AB This book presents a counseling approach for HIV-positive individuals. The author bases this counseling method on the premise that in order to counsel HIV-positive clients therapists must understand their experience and affirm it as it is. The basic tenets of this approach are that HIV-affirmative counseling is atheoretical; developmental; sensitive to issues of sexual and affectional orientation as well as of gender, culture, class and age; and contextual. The first section of the book considers issues surrounding HIV-antibody testing, test results, adjusting to being HIV positive, and disclosure. The second section offers specific strategies for maintaining a healthy lifestyle and positive attitude after diagnosis. The third section addresses issues often faced once HIV progresses into AIDS, such as hospitalization, loss, impairment, and living in a hospice. The final section offers guidance and coping strategies for those surviving the loss of a loved one.

AB This book is a resource guide for individuals working on prevention efforts with at-risk youth. A revision of the original 1989 text, this guide includes case studies that explore prevention efforts from individual, family, school, and community perspectives. Part One presents information regarding population definition, identification, and behaviors and causal factors descriptive of youth at risk. Information is provided that serves as a foundation for understanding the parameters of the prevention-intervention paradigm. Part Two deals with parameters that often serve as causal factors for the development of at-risk behaviors. Included are chapters dealing with the effects of a dysfunctional family, physical and sexual abuse, low self-esteem, depression, and stress. Part Three addresses prevention and intervention to change behaviors most often associated with placing youth at risk. Topics covered include substance abuse, homelessness, gangs, dropouts, suicide, pregnancy, and eating disorders. Each chapter in this section provides information related to specific behaviors, includes a case study to illustrate the information, and provides approaches to prevention from a variety of perspectives. Chapter 10 is on adolescents and AIDS.

AB This is a self-help book for people living with HIV/AIDS.

The author explains that HIV/AIDS should be viewed as a treatable, chronic condition that can be improved by a positive and optimistic outlook. For many people with HIV/AIDS, there are a number of treatments that can prevent, eliminate, or lessen some of the symptoms of the disease that result from a weakened immune system and some treatments that may slow the progress of HIV. The author advises each patient to research the options in an effort find an appropriate and comfortable medical and emotional health regimen. The book includes step-by-step instructions for improving one's attitude and learning to live in the present. There are specific suggestions for initiating and maintaining a healthy lifestyle that include physical exercise, nutrition, stress reduction, and spirituality. Chapters on health insurance, housing, wills, funeral arrangements, and financial planning provide answers to some of the more commonly asked questions and concerns. A suggested reading inventory and a comprehensive national and regional resource list is also included.

AB This monograph presents a summary of the presentations and discussions from a workshop convened to consider the contributions of the social and behavioral sciences to HIV/AIDS prevention; assess the current understanding of the epidemic; draw new insights to help guide further research on the issues associated with the epidemic; and identify important research questions and relevant methodologies needed for the future. The workshop extends the review of preventive interventions targeted at individual behavior change found in a previous report. The major theme of the workshop is that programs to encourage and bolster the use of social and behavioral methods in research will be good investments for the future. The primary presentations made during this workshop include: understanding the epidemic; learning from the lives of HIV/AIDS patients; understanding high-risk communities; controlling the epidemic through social intervention; intermediate technologies in medically based prevention trials; and evaluating results. Each presentation was followed by discussant commentary and by an open discussion with other invited participants.

"For First Time, Drug 'Cocktail' Seems to Eliminate HIV in its

"Hiding Places"

Wall Street Journal (11/07/96) P. B8; Waldholz, Michael

A new combination of drugs is capable of eliminating all detectable levels of HIV in the body tissues where it is known to reside, researchers say. Previous studies have shown that the drugs can reduce the level of HIV in the bloodstream, but the virus is also known to hide in the tonsils, lymph nodes, spinal fluid, and semen. Sven Danner, of the University of Amsterdam, and colleagues, report that six patients given a combination of Glaxo Wellcome's AZT and 3TC and Abbott Laboratories' protease inhibitor Norvir had no sign of HIV in their tonsil tissue after six months of treatment. A separate study found that the combination of AZT, 3TC, and Boehringer Ingelheim's drug Viramune had a similar impact on HIV in the lymph tissue of patients who had no detectable HIV in their blood.

"Dispensing Needles, Not Judgment"

New York Times (11/07/96) P. B21; Martin, Douglas

The needle exchange van in East Harlem, like the six others in New York City, offers clients free syringes and other drug injecting equipment as well as a place to feel connected and supported. Studies have shown that the programs, which have received state support for more than two years, have reduced the rate of new HIV cases by half among New York City's intravenous drug users. Despite the needle-exchange programs, however, a black market for the needles exists in New York because it is illegal to buy hypodermic needles there without a prescription. On one day, nearly 300 people had visited the van from which the needles are dispensed. Clients carry identification cards to protect them from prosecution. Free condoms and medical and legal services are also offered.

"Feared Drug Is Subject of New Interest"

Philadelphia Inquirer (11/07/96) P. A13; Cimon, Marlene

The drug thalidomide, which caused serious birth defects when used to treat nausea in Canada, Britain, and West Germany 40 years ago, has potential as a treatment for AIDS and cancer patients. A Food and Drug Administration advisory panel is meeting today and tomorrow to consider the drug's uses. Thalidomide has shown promise against such AIDS-related conditions as mouth ulcers and wasting.

"AIDS Group's Ex-Boss Enters No-Contest Plea"

Philadelphia Inquirer (11/07/96) P. B1

The former director of the Philadelphia AIDS Task Force pleaded no contest on Wednesday to charges that he stole $52,000 from the organization. He was sentenced to four years' probation and ordered to repay the money. Francis J. Stoffa Jr., who was accused by a grand jury in March 1995 of embezzling from the group and their parent organization, the AIDS Task Force, over a seven-year period, resigned in April 1994.

"New Pot Law Brings Turmoil, Concerns"

Los Angeles Times--Washington Edition (11/07/96) P. B1; Bailey,

Eric

The approval of a California ballot initiative to legalize the use of marijuana for medical purposes has raised concerns among state and federal law enforcement officials. The proposition, which allows doctors to recommend marijuana to treat various conditions, passed on Tuesday with 56 percent support. While officials at the California Medical Association expressed worries that doctors could be persecuted for prescribing the drug, they were also hopeful that the new law would result in the approval of clinical research to study the drug's potential as a medical treatment. Supporters of the initiative have announced plans to put the proposal on the ballot in other states in 1998 and to seek congressional support next year.

"Blood Brothers"

Financial Times (11/07/96) P. 12

While the risk of contracting HIV or hepatitis from a blood transfusion has grown very small since the tainted-blood incidents of the 1980s, the emergence of synthetic blood is expected to remove any residual fears of disease. Six U.S. companies--Baxter, Enzon, Northfield Laboratories, Biopure, DNX, and Somatogen--are currently testing blood substitutes and Baxter and Northfield will begin clinical trials soon. Company surveys have shown that both doctors and patients are receptive to trying the new products. Synthetic blood is not a complete substitute for blood, but it may offer a temporary replacement during times of excessive blood loss. Synthetic blood also has a longer shelf life than donated blood and is expected to be useful for emergencies and when donated blood supplies are low.

"Nasdaq Drops Novatek"

Washington Times (11/07/96) P. B12

Novatek, the Columbia, Md., medical supplier being investigated for fraud, has been removed from the Nasdaq stock exchange. Trading in the company was stopped on Oct. 11 because of an investigation by the Securities and Exchange Commission. Novatek has since filed for bankruptcy protection.

"UPI Science News"

United Press International (11/06/96); Bovsun, Mara

New research may help explain why some babies born with HIV die within 2 years and others can live for 10 years without developing symptoms. Andre J. Nahmias, of Emory University, and colleagues, report in the New England Journal of Medicine that, in some babies, HIV destroys the thymus, a gland needed to develop the babies' immune system.

"AIDS Rates"

Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report (10/25/96) Vol. 45, No. 42, P. 926

Among U.S. metropolitan areas, New York City had the highest number of AIDS cases per 100,000 people for the reporting period of July 1995 to June 1996, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. The city's AIDS rate was 132 per 100,000, followed by Miami, with 117.3; Jersey City, N.J., with 115.2; San Francisco, with 109.8; and Fort Lauderdale, with 86.7. The AIDS rate for the city of Washington, D.C., was 188.5 per 100,000, though the level for the D.C. metropolitan area was 45.8. By state, New York also led in AIDS cases for the period, with 73.1 per 100,000 people, followed by New Jersey with 50.3, Connecticut with 46.8, Maryland with 45.5, and Delaware with 44.6.

"Court: ADA Doesn't Apply to Ex-Workers"

Crain's Detroit Business (10/21/96) Vol. 12, No. 43, P. 28;
Cowans, Deborah

In a decision stemming from a lawsuit brought by the estate of a Hardee's employee who died of AIDS, a U.S. appellate court has ruled that the Americans with Disabilities Act does not apply to former employees. Timothy Bourgeois was working at a Hardee's restaurant owned by Garner Food Services (GFS) when he was diagnosed with AIDS in 1991. He was covered by GFS' group health insurance plan, which included a maximum lifetime benefit of $1 million. Bourgeois left the company after his diagnosis, but elected to continue his health-care coverage. In Oct. 1991, however, the GFS plan was changed to limit AIDS-related coverage to $10,000 a year, with a lifetime cap of $40,000. Bourgeois died in 1992, after incurring about $90,000 in health care claims beyond the company-imposed limit. A discrimination case brought by August Gonzales, administrator of Bourgeois' estate, was dismissed by a U.S. District Court in Atlanta. GFS and Gonzales agreed that AIDS is a disability recognized by the ADA, but the definition of "employee" was disputed. The 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Atlanta agreed with GFS that former employees are not covered by the act.

"One Man's AIDS Tale Shows How Quickly Epidemic Has Turned"

Wall Street Journal (11/08/96) P. A1; Sanford, David

In the Wall Street Journal, editor David Sanford recounts to readers how he has lived with HIV for more than 10 years and how advances in treatment over the last year have given him new hope of surviving. Sanford says he was probably infected at a Manhattan bath house in 1982. At the time, the new infectious disease prevalent in the homosexual community was referred to as Gay Related Immune Deficiency, or GRID. Sanford said he had symptoms of infection within weeks, but did not seek an HIV test until 1989, at which time he tested positive. His doctor did not recommend treatment as the time due to his relatively high T-cell count. After seeing a friend die of AIDS, however, Sanford started preparing for his own decline. He was diagnosed with AIDS in 1991, and started taking AZT and Dapsone, a drug for leprosy. Then, as his immunity started to fail, Sanford began taking the antiretroviral drug Videx (ddI). Sanford told his employers, friends, and relatives he had AIDS in 1995. A friend then referred him to Dr. Jerry Groopman, an AIDS practitioner in Boston, who prescribed the protease inhibitor Invirase, along with Bactrim, to fight off a bacterial infection; as well as Diflucan; AZT; and Epivir. Sanford reports that he is now well and planning for the future.

"Blue Dye Is Found to Kill HIV"

Washington Times (11/08/96) P. A11; Klinka, Karen

A patented new use for Methylene Blue could virtually eliminate the threat of AIDS from blood transfusions, researchers at the Oklahoma Medical Research Foundation report. Biochemist Robert Floyd said that the drug, used to treat the bilirubin buildup that causes "blue baby" syndrome, can inactivate HIV in stored human blood and may eventually be used in patients. The foundation received a patent on the procedure Tuesday and hopes to conduct clinical trials soon.

"Abbott AIDS Drug Called Safe for Kids"

Chicago Tribune (11/07/96) P. 3-1; Hutchcraft, Chuck

New research suggests that a combination of AIDS drugs including a protease inhibitor will soon be available for children with the disease. "One of the issues with AIDS drugs in particular, and with drugs in general, is that new drugs come along and are ultimately approved for adults way in advance of children," says Dr. John Leonard, of Abbott Laboratories. A recent study at the National Institutes of Health found that Abbott's protease inhibitor Norvir is safe for children. The study, presented Wednesday at the Third International Congress on Drug Therapy for HIV Infection, was the first evaluation of a protease inhibitor in children. Some children experienced the same side effects as adults, said researcher Dr. Brigitta U. Mueller, of the National Cancer Institute, but the same positive results were also reported. The study may facilitate regulatory approval of protease inhibitors in children.

"New Tests Measure HIV Level in Tonsils"

Reuters (11/07/96)

A new testing method will improve the monitoring of HIV levels in immune system cells in the tonsils, researchers said Thursday. Ashley Haase of the University of Minnesota and colleagues report in the journal Science that they have developed a test to determine the level of HIV in the tonsils' lymphoid tissue, where HIV is known to hide. Tests currently measure the level of HIV in the bloodstream, but the new method can evaluate the level of HIV in two types of cells, those on the surface of the cells that store the virus and inside the cells that make new virus particles.

"Italian Study Finds HIV Does Not Increase Risk of Miscarriage"

Reuters (11/07/96)

New research indicates that, contrary to previous findings, HIV infection does not heighten the risk of miscarriage. Dr. Augusto E. Semprini of the University of Milan and colleagues studied the miscarriage rate in HIV-infected women compared to HIV-negative women, and concluded that "HIV does not significantly influence the course of early gestation." There was also no significant difference in the miscarriage rate between women taking AZT and those not taking the drug.

"Medical Marijuana Law in Legal Limbo"

United Press International (11/07/96)

The new California law legalizing the use of marijuana for medical purposes has left prosecutors in the need of guidelines for enforcement. "The priority is to delineate what the responsibilities are of the federal authorities versus the local authorities," said Larry Brown of the California District Attorneys Association. Other issues to be considered include the illegal purchase of marijuana seeds to grow plants for medicinal use, and the need to clarify which illnesses and how much of the drug will be allowed under the new law.

"New Class of Drug Offers New Hope Against AIDS"

Reuters (11/06/96); Fox, Maggie

Researchers at the Third International Congress on Drug Therapy in HIV Infection presented evidence that a new class of drugs, known as non-nucleoside reverse transcriptase inhibitors (NNRTIs), work as well as protease inhibitors and offer new choices to AIDS patients. Mark Wainburg and colleagues at Montreal's McGill University AIDS Center found that a combination of AZT, Bristol-Myers Squibb's ddI, and Boehringer Ingelheim's NNRTI nevirapine "led to non-detectable levels of virus in plasma in over 75 percent of patients who were previously drug-naïve." Another group of researchers, led by Joep Lange of Amsterdam's Academic Medical Center, found similar results, concluding that "nevirapine provides new opportunities for combination treatment." The NNRTIs and the protease inhibitors interfere with one another, however, making it necessary for pharmaceutical firms to work to overcome this, notes David Ho of the Aaron Diamond AIDS Research Center at New York's Rockefeller University.

"AIDS Researchers Predict Shortage of Participants for Pediatric Trials"

Reuters (11/06/96)

Studies by the Pediatric AIDS Clinical Trials Group (PACTG) may be hindered by a lack of participants, said Dr. Deborah Cotton of the Harvard Medical School last week in a report to the Office of AIDS Research Advisory Council. One of the group's objectives is to reduce the rate of HIV perinatal infection by 2 percent. Cotton was responding to a report by PACTG Director Dr. Stephen Spector, who noted that while the rate of perinatal transmission is declining, the rate of HIV-positive women becoming pregnant is also increasing.

"Opening an Electronic Pharmacy to the World"

Nature Medicine (10/96) Vol. 2, No. 10, P. 1064; Steele, Fintan R.

In an effort to make powerful new AIDS drugs more widely available around the world, a group of pharmacists in Raleigh, N.C., has founded a company that sells the drugs globally via the World Wide Web. The company, AIDS Rx, was created to give physicians around the world access to AIDS drugs at a 5 percent discount off the average price charged by U.S. pharmacies. Founded in July, the company has had some difficulty exporting the drugs to many countries due to their strict trade restrictions, but the business is growing nonetheless. The company also has plans to offer the drugs at a discount to U.S. patients who are uninsured. AIDS Rx is a for-profit venture, but its founders note that it is not intended as a money-making opportunity. Moreover, 10 percent of the profit from each order will be invested in AIDS education efforts in the country from which the order was received.

"Health Centers Vie for Gays"

Crain's New York Business (10/28/96) Vol. 12, No. 44, P. 6

Two new health centers targeting gays are set to open in New York City next year. One clinic, being built by Community Health Project, is expected to open in November 1997 and handle about 60,000 visits a year from predominantly gay clients. The Gay Men's Health Crisis is also planning to open a primary care clinic next year, but it expects to serve only HIV-positive patients. Various other AIDS service organizations serve New York's gay community, including Village Center for Care/Rivington House and AIDS Day Services Association of New York State.

The AIDS Daily Summary will not publish on Monday, November 11, 1996, in observance of Veterans Day. Publication will resume on Tuesday, November 12.

Hi --

A question.... Carmena just gave me a memo that said you wanted me to attend a meeting on 11/14 at 2:30 with Audrey Nora. I had planned to go the NIH principles of therapy meeting on the 14th.

If you really need me there I'll be pleased to change my schedule -- if it isn't essential I would like to go to the NIH meeting.

What is your preference ....

J.
