Subject: Re: segregation

Here it is. I'm also attaching a 1980-90 version of the detailed tables -- the web site has only 1990. I suspect, however, that the national averages
(Summary Table on the Website) will be most useful for you. Let me know if you need a comparable 1980 table. I can probably fax one.

Roderick,

I once found on the Census web site a number of segregation measures for 1990 for different groups -- now I cannot relocate them. Can you send me the URL?

TEXT:

Living in Mormon Country

During a leisurely vacation drive through the West, my wife and I stopped for lunch at an attractive roadside restaurant. I was eager to sample one of the local beers, but because it was Sunday, and the community was largely Mormon, I suspected that the restaurant might not serve alcohol. "Do you serve beer on Sunday?" I asked our neatly dressed young waiter.

When he answered in the affirmative, I queried him further. "What kind do you have?"

"Root!" he replied.

I was trying to prepare my 6th graders for the annual Christmas Concert; they were to sing "Joy To The World" in the final act... a Nativity Scene. We had been rehearsing for some time, and things were not going well. So, I thought a short break would be in order. To relax them, I put on a Christmas recording of the Mormon Tabernacle Choir singing "Joy To The World." As it began, one of the boys looked up and in a delighted voice exclaimed, "You taped us!"

Once when Mark Twain was lecturing in Utah, a Mormon acquaintance argued with him on the subject of polygamy. After a long and rather heated debate, the Mormon finally said, "Can you find for me a single passage of scripture which forbids polygamy?"

"Certainly," Twain replied. "No man can serve two Masters."

J. Spencer Cornwall, former director of the Mormon Tabernacle Choir, was our guest conductor. Rehearsal was progressing smoothly when, suddenly, the altos came in at the wrong time. Cornwall stopped the music, pointed his baton at the women in the alto section, and in a commanding voice said, "Repent."

A large group of Mormons were on their way back to Salt Lake City when they stopped in Las Vegas for breakfast. The waitresses brought coffee immediately. The group told them that they would like milk, instead. As the waitresses walked away, one waitress remarked to another, "Did you ever see so many people with ulcers traveling together?"

Speaking at evening services at a Mormon church in Stockton, CA, a young man began, "I am up here to talk to you. You folks are sitting out there to listen. If any of you get through before me, would you please raise your hand?"
