National Disability Policy Review

Guiding Principles

D R A F T

The fundamental role of governments in respect to individuals with disabilities should be to assure the right of such persons to enjoy full inclusion and integration in the educational, economic, political, social, and cultural mainstream of American society. In practical terms, therefore, governments must assure that people with disabilities of all ages, ethnic backgrounds, and income levels have the equal opportunity to exercise their full rights and responsibilities to live as independently as possible; to enjoy self-determination; to make choices; and, to be productive throughout their lives. It is, therefore, in the nation's interest that public policies, programs, benefits, and activities affecting such individuals be designed and implemented to:

- o End discrimination against Americans with disabilities and strengthen our nation's communities and economy by providing strong, effective, and fair enforcement of the Americans with Disabilities Act, Title V of the Rehabilitation Act, the Fair Housing Act Amendments, and the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act.
- o Strengthen the capacities of such persons and assure that needed services and supports are provided in a coordinated fashion which maximizes their control over their own lives and futures in the mainstream of American life.

- o Assure that any assistance provided to such a person is carried out in an individualized manner, consistent with the unique strengths, resources, priorities, concerns, choices, abilities, and capabilities of that individual.
- o Support the efforts of families with children with disabilities to raise their sons and daughters at home and to include them in every facet of family and community life.
- o Assist individuals with disabilities of all ages, including those 65 and older, to play valued roles as participating members of their families and communities.
- o Expand the ability and flexibility of states and local governments to work directly with people with disabilities and their families to fashion more effective and responsive solutions to the challenges we face as a nation.

- o Improve access to the assistance, technology, and supports that enable these individuals to have greater control over their lives and contribute more fully to their home, family, school, work, and community life.
- o Assure that all current and future programs and activities are designed and implemented to meet the needs of those eligible members of the public who have disabilities.
- o Make it pay for such citizens to work by creating incentives rather than disincentives to work and to pursue careers.

February 14, 1995

Dear Colleague:

You are cordially invited to attend a meeting with work group leaders of the National Disability Policy Review. The meeting will be held on Thursday, February 16, 1995, 12:30-2:00 p.m. in room 248 of the Old Executive Office Building.

Last fall, the Administration convened a team of Federal officials to conduct a National Disability Policy Review of Federal programs serving people with disabilities. This Review is headed by Carol H. Rasco, Assistant to the President for Domestic Policy, and Alice Rivlin, Director, Office of Management and Budget.

The Review Team established five work groups: Guiding Principles, Accommodations, Children's Issues, School-to-Work Transitions, and Employment of Working-Age Adults. These groups have been meeting to determine the direction of, and next steps for, national disability policy.

We would appreciate the opportunity to update you on the progress of the Review's work to date and receive your suggestions. In particular, we would like your input on the attached draft of the Guiding Principles statement that will serve as a framework for the direction of the Review's work.

Your ideas, concerns, and solutions will be critical to the overall process of this review and we look forward to working with you.

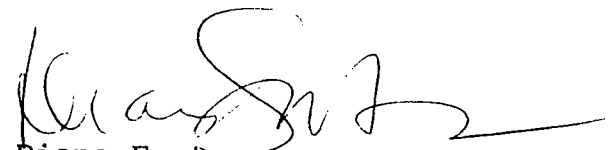

Please contact Elisabeth Cohen (phone: 456-5571) to provide clearance information (date of birth). Also, feel free to forward this invitation to the appropriate representative at your organization if necessary. We apologize for the short notice and hope you will be able to attend.

Thank you.

Dear Colleague:

You are cordially invited to attend a meeting with work group leaders of the National Disability Policy Review. The meeting will be held on Tuesday, February 21, 1995, 11:00-12:30 p.m. in room 248 of the Old Executive Office Building. We understand that you may be unable to attend due to travel; however, we wanted to extend the invitation and send the attached information.

Last fall, the Administration convened a team of Federal officials to conduct a National Disability Policy Review of Federal programs serving people with disabilities. This Review is headed by Carol H. Rasco, Assistant to the President for Domestic Policy, and Alice Rivlin, Director, Office of Management and Budget.

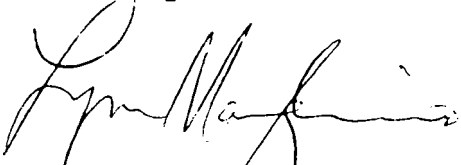

The Review Team established five work groups: Guiding Principles, Accommodations, Children's Issues, School-to-Work Transitions, and Employment of Working-Age Adults. These groups have been meeting to determine the direction of, and next steps for, national disability policy.

We would appreciate the opportunity to update you on the progress of the Review's work to date and receive your suggestions. In particular, we would like your input on the attached draft of the Guiding Principles statement that will serve as a framework for the direction of the Review's work.

Your ideas, concerns, and solutions will be critical to the overall process of this review and we look forward to working with you.

Dear Colleague:

You are cordially invited to attend a meeting with the Federal appointees serving as the convenors of the National Disability Policy Review.

on Thursday February 16, 1995
from 12:30 to 2 PM in of the
Col. Exec
Off Policy

The meeting will be held on Thursday, February 16, 1995, from 12:30 - 2:00 p.m. in room ?????.

~~Briefly for your background~~, the Administration convened a team of Federal officials ~~last fall to begin~~ to conduct a National Disability Policy Review of Federal programs serving people with disabilities. ~~As you know, such programs have developed rapidly over the last quarter century, and we feel the timing is right to organize a review of the direction of, and next steps for,~~

~~national disability policy in this area.~~
~~The Review team established five working groups: to cover~~
~~Five work groups were established to aggressively address all~~
~~Federal disability policy relating to the following areas:~~

Accommodations, Children's Issues, Employment of Working-Age Adults, School-to-Work Transition, and Guiding Principles.

~~The review is in its very early stages, and we would like the opportunity to discuss the draft of the Guiding Principles for the review and to update you on progress to date. The comments we gather in our meetings with you will be an important part of the agenda when the full review team meets to discuss this Guiding Principles draft.~~

~~Most importantly, we want to hear from you. Your ideas, concerns, and solutions to the national problem of unemployment and underemployment of people with disabilities will be critical to the over-all work of the review.~~

Please contact Elisabeth Cohen if you will be able to attend to provide clearance information (date of birth).

Thank you.

I think this is too specific to date
update you on the progress of the Review's work and receive your input on the overall effort. In particular we would appreciate your input on a draft of the Guiding Principles statement that will serve as a framework for the Review's direction of the Review's work.
