Dear Socks,

How I envy you. You have the *purr*fect life. I would love to be the first cat. Things are fine in Arizona in case your master wants to know, though he's probably too busy at his work to listen to you. Do you know any tricks? I don't really. How big is your bed? Mine isn't very big, but it is very comfortable. Is your master nice? How many servants do you have, if you have any? What kind of food do you eat? Probably cavier, right? I eat Meow Mix. Do you like getting your claws trimmed? I hate it!!!! I know you are black and white, but, how many socks do you have? I am solid gray. I am two-years-old. How old are you? I am an Angora. Are you a purebred? I'm not. What type of cat are you? What color eyes do you have? Mine are goldish colored, with a little orange mixed in. Do you ever get lonely in that big house? I get lonely here and it isn't even a big house. My owners used to have another cat but they gave her away. In a way I'm glad but in a way I miss her. I liked talking to her and she could actually understand me and answer back. Her name was Muffin. She was born on Christmas Day. She was gray, too. Same eye color as me. She was a fun kitten to be around. She was as laid back as can be, but very curious. She never bit my owners either. She didn't mind having her claws trimmed. She didn't even mind taking her medicine. Do you ever get played with? I do, but most of the time they need to do other stuff, like go to school, go to the grocery, go to church, go to a friends house, or go to work. Anyway, I'm sure you have to get back to your bed so you can get your cat nap. Please tell your master hello if he'll listen to you.

Sincerely yours,
Duchess The Cat

P.S. Ashley Newcomb, my master's daughter wrote this on our computer because I don't understand the crazy letters on their computer.
