Dear Socks,

You are a nice looking cat. I have a collection of black & white cats. They're stuffed, of course. I used to have a real cat that was black and white, but he got hit by a car. His name was Domino. I hope you don't get hit by a car. Right now I have a real cat named Zane. He's gray.

I would really like it if you would please send me an autographed picture of yourself to me to add to the collection of cat pictures I have on my wall.

Dear Ms. Socks

I am writing this letter to you for all of our sisters.
We read an article on a local news paper, the Orlando Sentinel, on March 24.
According to the article, you will send your letter with your photo to anyone who writes you for them.

Please send your picture to us, Tama, Mia and Vermeda, at the address shown above.

I am enclosing my picture for you.

How's everything at the White House?

Best regards,

FRANK RIVERA/THE ORLANDO SENTINEL

Happy love? Pomeranian Buddy got a response to fan mail sent to the president's pup of the same name.

Scat, Socks; Buddy's got mail

Who gets the most mail? The White House isn't saying. But plenty of fans want paw prints from the dog.

by Sherri M. Owens

THE SENTINEL STAFF

Buddy, a pet Pomeranian in Belle Isle, has a new pen pal — make that "paw pal."

Buddy's owner, Richard Synan, in December wrote to President Clinton's dog, who also named Buddy. Synan enclosed a snapshot of an excerpt from an Ann Landers column about giving pets love and attention.

"Could you send me your picture and paw print for my album?" Richard Synan, 83, wrote on his dog's behalf. "I want to be a pal of yours. We Buddies have got to stick together."

Over the weekend, he received a response from the presidential pooch.

"Thank you for writing to me," reads the letter. "Living at the White House is very exciting, and I am enjoying my new family."

The letter is signed with a paw print and Buddy's name. Also enclosed was a photo of Buddy sitting on a park bench with Clinton.

Thousands of letters have poured in regarding Buddy, but Socks, the Clintons' cat, also has been popular with the public. Which one gets the most mail?

"We would never say that one is favored over the other," said Lori Abrams, spokesperson for the White House correspondence department. "Actually, we don't have a count broken down to show which first family member gets the most mail."

In addition to responding to letters about White House pets, staff also sends letters to those who write in about a new baby, an 80th or subsequent birthday, a 50th or subsequent anniversary, an Eagle Scout Award or the Girl Scout's Gold Award.

Requests must be sent at least four weeks in advance, but not more than six weeks, to The White House, Washington, D.C. 20500. Allow four to six weeks for processing.

Dear ~~Socks~~,

I am 9 years old, my name is Mylène and I stay in Switzerland. I love cats and dogs.

Lately I have seen on TV, that You are no longer alone. Could You please send me a photograph of Your Dog Partner.

My Mam is a very good animal painter. I already have a painted picture of You in my bedroom, I would like to have one of Your friend. By the way would you tell me

His name please.

Many thanks for your kindness.

All regards to your
Mistress, Mrs Clinton,
Mr. Clinton and daughter
Chelsea.

Yours sincerely

Dear Socks,

My name is Janet Niedenberger. I am in a seventh grade gifted P.A. Studies class, in Knoch Middle School. In our class we are going to have a Wall of Fame of famous or well-known people from America. We would enjoy having an 8x10 photo of you (autographed if possible). It would be great if you could. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Janet Niedenberger
