Dear Ms. Long-Mendez:

Thank you for sharing a copy of your letter to the National Committee for Responsive Philanthropy. I commend your willingness to write to Mr. Cohen to explain your point of view. You set an excellent example for other young people today.

I hope you will continue your involvement in philanthropy and keep speaking out when matters concern you.

With best wishes,

Dear Mr. Shaw:

Mrs. Clinton asked me to respond to your letter requesting that she provide an endorsement of Mr. Oto's book, Nobody's Perfect. Unfortunately, White House policy prevents her from offering endorsements, no matter how worthy the book.

Please extend Mrs. Clinton's best wishes to Mr. Oto. His story is truly inspirational.

Sincerely,

Shirley Sagawa

Dear Ms. Medlock:

You were kind enough to pass on a copy of John Graham's book, It's Up to Us. I know this book will mean a lot to many people who are scared to "stick their neck out" to read these inspirational stories.

We cannot do enough to encourage civic engagement, especially by young people. Thank you for the book and for all you do to train the next generation of givers.

Sincerely,

Hillary Rodham Clinton

Dear Jill:

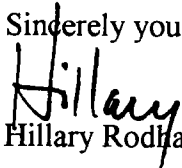

I am writing to express my appreciation for your support and wisdom as we produced the White House Conference on Philanthropy. We would not have had such a unique and historic event without your good efforts, counsel and encouragement. The early commitment of the Iscol Family Foundation enabled us to proceed with confidence and that, in itself, was no small contribution!

I hope you were as thrilled as we were by the success of the conference and we all look forward to working together with you on future projects.
