GLOBAL HEALTH, POVERTY & DEVELOPMENT

ARLINGTON, VA • JUNE 20-22, 1999

The Global Health Council's 26th Annual Conference is a time for busy professionals on the frontline of health around the world to reflect on developments in the global arena and engage in the Council's mission of advocacy, building alliances and communicating best practices.

Join a remarkable set of noted speakers, such as former President Jimmy Carter and the World Health Organization's Director-General Gro Harlem Brundtland, as they address the critical interactions and moral imperatives of global health, poverty and development.

Exchange ideas with colleagues and leaders in the fields of health care, development and humanitarian assistance as we address health disparities between the rich and the poor, identify emerging strategies for overcoming them, and share invaluable lessons from the field.

CAREER CONNECTION

Interview privately with employers in the global health and development field.

EXHIBITIONS

Share your mission and results of your labor in the field at one of the booths in the main exhibition hall.

CONTINUING EDUCATION CREDITS

The Council has applied for CEC through the American Public Health Association.

ADVOCACY TRAINING

Build specialized skills in networking, public speaking, working with the media, coalition building and lobbying at one of the many workshops.

NETWORK

Meet with other professionals in the global health profession and senior global health decision-makers.
