Re: Exhibit of Artwork By Children and Young People Living With HIV/AIDS

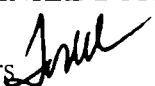

Sandy would like to partner with Mrs. Gore to exhibit for one month a series of panels containing original artwork by children and young people living with HIV/AIDS. These were done as part of an art therapy project at the National Institutes of Health medical center. Some of the original artwork is also permanently installed in the office of the Secretary of HHS.

We would propose putting the exhibit up in the east wing hallway along the tour route. An informal reception jointly hosted by Sandy and Mrs. Gore could launch the exhibit.

I have enclosed a photograph of the exhibit panels, which can be broken up, and a copy of a brochure prepared to accompany it. Please let me know if you are interested!

Re: Request for Presidential Greeting

We would like to request a letter from the President to participants in an upcoming conference on HIV/AIDS among children, youth and families. The President sent a greeting to this same group two years ago. The event is sponsored by the AIDS Policy Center for Children, Youth and Families, a Washington-based group with which we frequently work.

They have drafted text (attached) that seems appropriate. The event begins on May 17, and I would like to get the letter to them as soon as possible so that a copy can be distributed with the conference materials.

Thanks!

FROM: David C. Harvey, Executive Director

DATE: April 23, 1988

SUBJ: 1998 Annual Conference "Voices '98: New Hope, New Options, New Needs"

Attached is a sample of the President's welcome letter for our Fourth Annual Conference, "Voices 98: New Hope, New Options, New Needs". We've taken the liberty of drafting a revised copy of the letter the President wrote to welcome our members to our 1996 annual conference. We would greatly appreciate it if you could make necessary arrangements for AIDS Policy Center to receive a welcoming letter from the President by May 5th, 1998 for this year's Annual Conference. Thank you for your assistance.

Warm greetings to everyone gathered in our nation's capital for Voices '98, the annual meeting of AIDS Policy Center, Youth & Families.

In one way or another, AIDS has touched each of our lives. Far too many people are dying from this disease, and far too many families are suffering from the fear, pain, and grief of its devastating effects. During World AIDS Day 1997, the Vice-President met with a group of youth affected by HIV and AIDS which helped us gain new insights on this disease, and I was pleased to sign a directive aimed at improving the federal governments HIV prevention programs aimed at youth and families. Still, we know that more must be done.

All of you can be proud of your efforts to raise awareness of the disease and to help give compassionate care for those in need. As you meet, I encourage each of you to reflect on the vital work that lies before us in the battle to stop the spread of HIV. Together, we can fight the crisis and bring hope to those living with AIDS.

Hillary joins me in sending best wishes for a most successful meeting.

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

June 12, 1993

FROM: MICHAEL R. TOOMEY, CHIEF OF STAFF, PRESIDENT BUSH
FOR THE HUMAN NEEDING OF AIDS POLICY CENTER FOR AMERICAN YOUTH AND FAMILIES

In one way or another, AIDS has touched each of our lives. Far too many people are dying from this disease and far too many families are suffering from the loss of a loved one to this devastating disease. My administration is committed to finding a cure for this epidemic. We have made tremendous progress on HIV and AIDS, which I consider our greatest success to date. We have insights on this disease and are able to coordinate the national effort to develop a cure and to provide support for people living with AIDS. I am pleased to sign this bill, the EARL Act of 1993, which goes a long way toward ending the scourge of underreporting and underfunding of HIV and AIDS throughout the country. There is still much more to be done.

All of you can be proud of your efforts to make awareness of the disease and to help those who are living with it. We need to continue to encourage our citizens to get tested and to get treatment and to help those who are living with it. We need to help those who are living with it. We need to help those who are living with it.

With your help, we can make sure that every person who needs it has access to the care and support they need.
