ACTION

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

THROUGH: THE EXECUTIVE CLERK

FROM: SAMUEL BERGER

SUBJECT: Proposed Ratification of the Convention on Nuclear Safety

Purpose

To sign the instrument of ratification for the Convention on Nuclear Safety ("CNS" or "Convention"), and four letters of certification.

Background

Madeline has forwarded the instrument of ratification for the CNS for your signature.

Attached for your signature are the instrument of ratification of the treaty (Tab A), and letters of certification (Tab B). Also attached are the State Department's memorandum on the Convention (Tab C), and the text of the Convention (Tab D).

The CNS was negotiated with strong U.S. support and leadership, and represents the first international legal instrument to address nuclear reactor safety specifically. It strengthens nuclear safety around the world by having each country's civilian nuclear power program held up for peer review every three years. Forty-seven of the sixty-five countries that are signatories have deposited their instruments of ratification, including all states with significant nuclear programs except the U.S. and India.

Speedy ratification is crucial. The United States is the only G-8 state that has not met the commitment to ratify made at the 1996 Moscow Summit on Nuclear Safety and Security. The Convention is not controversial, but its ratification was held up in the Senate, in part when it became linked to the issue of appointing a Republican to the Nuclear Regulatory Commission. Completing ratification now will allow the United States to participate in the civilian nuclear program peer review mechanism laid out in the CNS. U.S. involvement in these reviews maintains our ability to provide international leadership in nuclear safety fora, especially with regard to states with weak nuclear safety records and practices. The United States is already in compliance with all obligations under the CNS.

The Senate has prohibited U.S. participation in the "operation" of the Convention

(which could be read to include attendance at an important April 1999 meeting of the Contracting Parties) until you certify that the U.S. Government will not engage in any unnecessarily duplicative multilateral activity in international nuclear regulation or safety. In our view, to the extent that the Senate is attempting to prohibit U.S. participation in an international forum, such a prohibition would be an unconstitutional interference with your foreign affairs power. Nevertheless, because other portions of this certification requirement are not unconstitutional, and because our compliance with the certification requirement is easily met, we recommend that you sign the attached letters of certification (Tab B) to the Chairmen of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the House International Relations Committee (with copies to the ranking minority members) at the same time as the Instrument of Ratification. [Stuart: Please confirm the "easily met" clause.] The letters confirm that we will meet the Senate's condition. In addition, the Senate has imposed two other conditions requiring Presidential certifications. You have forty-five days after the deposit of the U.S. instrument of ratification to make these certifications, and they will be transmitted at a later date.

RECOMMENDATION

That you sign the instrument of ratification and the letters of certification .

Carlos has suggested that we add a sentence summarizing our legal rationale for why the ABM treaty continues in force. Given L's slowness on this issue, I could suggest the following, which is taken directly from an OLC opinion to Jack Quinn in 1996. What do you think? (I could fax the highlighted language to Matheson for a quick review and explain where it came from.)

"It belongs exclusively to the President to interpret and execute treaties. The responsibility to interpret and carry out a treaty necessarily includes the power to determine whether, and how far, the treaty remains in force when a State that was party to a bilateral treaty with the United States has dissolved. In this instance, I have determined that the ABM Treaty's obligations should be imputed to the Soviet Union's successor States, including Russia."

Attached for your review and comment is a response to Senator Helms' latest letter on the issue of the legal status of the ABM Treaty. The response draws heavily from our latest letters to Helms on the subject (December 17, 1998 and February 22, 1999) -- although

I did add a new sentence to the end of the first paragraph, in effect, telling Helms that the advice and consent process begins only after we have formally transmitted the MOU to the Senate following Russian ratification of START II. Also: I gave some thought to including in the President's response a specific request to begin hearings on the CTBT, but decided that it might not be in our best interest to put both the ABM and CTBT issues in the same POTUS letter -- at least not at this stage of the game. Other views on this point are welcome. Would appreciate any comments by COB Friday, if at all possible. Thanks to all.

FROM: SAMUEL BERGER

LARRY STEIN

SUBJECT: Response to Senator Helms on ABM

Purpose

To respond to Senator Helms on the ABM Treaty.

Background

On November 21, 1997, and May 21, 1998 you wrote to Senator Helms regarding the ABM Treaty, providing detailed answers to a number of legal questions regarding the issue of succession. On December 17, 1998, and February 22, 1999, you provided a response to Senator Helms on the same issue that avoided a legalistic defense of our position on the ABM Treaty (having little to add to your previous two letters) and simply made the essential points that we intend to submit the agreement on succession to the Senate for approval and that the ABM Treaty remains in force.

In Senator Helms' most recent letter, he has requested that the Administration respond to a legal memorandum prepared by two former USG officials. The memorandum concludes that the ABM Treaty lapsed upon the Soviet Union's extinction in 1991. Senator Helms also states he intends to hold hearings on the September 1997 ABM Demarcation and Succession agreements in advance of our transmitting them to the Senate for advice and consent (which we do not intend to do until after START II has been ratified in Russia), and has requested we formally submit the ABM agreements no later than June 1, 1999.

Consistent with our two most recent letters to Senator Helms, the attached response from you avoids a legalistic defense of our position on the ABM Treaty, again making the point that we intend to submit the agreements for Senate approval and that the Treaty remains in force. It remains our view that "taking the high road" at this point is the most appropriate response, and will best position us for the debate over ratification of the ABM Succession agreements, should that debate take place this year.

That said, we have tasked State/L to provide a more detailed set of rebuttal points regarding questions raised by the legal memorandum provided by Senator Helms regarding the legal status of the Treaty, which we will clearly need once the Senate begins a detailed review of this issue.

RECOMMENDATION

That you sign the letters at Tab A.

TRANSLATED_ATTACHMENT 1606ltr.doc

Dear Mr. Chairman:

Thank you for your letter concerning the Anti-Ballistic Missile (ABM) Treaty and the enclosed legal memorandum. Let me assure you again that there is no difference between us on the question of whether the Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) on ABM Treaty succession, which was signed on September 26, 1997, will be provided to the Senate for its advice and consent: it will. Moreover, it is my hope that Russia will approve the START II Treaty as soon as possible, so that we can quickly submit the September 1997 MOU for advice and consent, which I am confident the Senate will agree is in our national interest. [Not quite clear whether you mean that ratification by the Soviets of SALT II, or submittal of the MOU, or the actual MOU itself would be in our national interest.]

While I respect the fact that the MOU will not enter into force without the advice and consent of the Senate, there is no question the ABM Treaty has continued in force following the dissolution of the Soviet Union.

Moreover, if the Senate were to fail to approve the MOU, ambiguity will remain about the extent to which states other than Russia are Parties; however, the ABM Treaty would continue in force.

The United States has a clear interest in resolving definitively the issues about ABM Treaty succession that are dealt with in the MOU. I am confident that any differences of views regarding the MOU, or additional questions you may have, will be debated fully as the Senate considers the MOU. In the interim, I suggest our staffs continue their dialogue regarding the technical legal aspects of ABM Treaty succession.

Sincerely,

The Honorable Jesse Helms

Caroline: Thanks for the quick turnaround. Much appreciated. State is double-checking on the "easily met", but wanted to know: is the "easily" important? What if (hypothetically) meeting the requirement takes a moderate amount of effort, but it's effort worth making anyway? In other words, could "easily met" be changed to, "met without undue difficulty" or something like that?

FROM: SAMUEL BERGER
LARRY STEIN

SUBJECT: Letter from Senators Helms and Biden Regarding the Strategy for Foreign Affairs Reorganization

Purpose

To respond to a letter from Senators Helms and Biden.

Background

Senators Helms and Biden wrote to you to express their concerns with three specific elements of the Administration's preliminary Reorganizational Plan and Report.

This preliminary report has been overtaken by a revised report that has been delivered to Congress.

The Helms-Biden letter praised the overall plans for restructuring at State, but expresses three key concerns. We resolved two of the three concerns in accordance with the preferences expressed by the Senators.

Consistent with these preferences, the revised reorganization plan includes:

- * a separate State Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs (including the Fulbright Scholarship program), independent from USIA's Office of International Information Programs.
- * a single European bureau inclusive of the former Soviet states, without the creation of an Eastern European and Eurasian Bureau (EEE), to which the Senators objected.

The revised reorganization plan does not, however, include the separate State Bureau for Verification and Compliance of Arms Control Treaties which Senators Helms favored. Subsequent to sending the letter, however, Senator Helms agreed to the creation of a Special Advisor for Verification and Compliance for Arms Control, as proposed by the Secretary of State.

The suggested response notes that the revised reorganization report was significantly informed by the views expressed by the senators in their letter.

SUBJECT: Reply to Letter from Senators Helms and Biden.

At Tab I is a memorandum for the President and a proposed response to a letter from Senators Helms and Biden expressing concern about three specific elements from the Administration's preliminary strategy for reorganization of the foreign affairs agencies.

The preliminary strategy has been overtaken by a revised strategy, recently approved, which addresses the concerns expressed by Senators Helms

Dear Senator Helms:

Thank you for your letter concerning our strategy for reorganizing the foreign affairs agencies and implementing the Foreign Affairs Reform and Restructuring Act of 1998.

Your views on these matters were very important to me, and had a significant impact on our final conclusions. When you review our revised March 1999 Reorganization Plan and Report, you will see that it proposes, consistent with your preferences, the formation of a separate Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs. This new bureau will ensure that international educational and cultural programs will remain a key component of our foreign policy, with the strong leadership they need and the support they deserve. As you know, this new bureau will be under the policy oversight of the new Under Secretary of State for Public Diplomacy and Public Affairs, thus ensuring very senior level attention to our engagement of foreign audiences and communities.

Also consistent with your stated views, our reorganization plan ensures that our diplomatic relations with the independent states of the former Soviet Union - a region of enormous strategic importance - will continue to be managed by the Bureau of European Affairs. This region will continue to receive the high-level leadership attention it deserves.

Finally, the creation of the new position of Special Advisor for Verification and Compliance will help maintain our commitment to a strong arms control verification and compliance process that ensures that critical assessments reach the highest levels.

Intensive planning and preparation for the reorganization is well underway. We will do all we can to ensure that this sensitive process is implemented in an open and transparent fashion, and with continued consideration of your perspectives.

Best regards.

Sincerely,

The Honorable Jesse Helms

FROM: SAMUEL BERGER
LARRY STEIN

SUBJECT: Letter to Senator Helms on IRA Decommissioning

Purpose

Respond to a letter from Senator Helms on the Northern Ireland peace process.

Background

Senator Helms wrote asking, implicitly, that in the absence of decommissioning and renunciation of violence you threaten Gerry Adams and other Northern Irish leaders with denial of entry to the United States and access to the White House.

Separately, his staff has floated an amendment to the State Department

Authorization bill that would prohibit the entry of any person linked to a list of Northern Irish paramilitary organizations, including the IRA, that have not decommissioned.

In your response, you note your agreement with the goal of eliminating politically-inspired violence and illegally held weapons from Northern Ireland.

You go on to also acknowledge his disagreement with your policy of granting visas and access to the White House to Gerry Adams and others, but that this policy enjoys Blair's and Ahern's support, has contributed to the cease fires and the Good Friday Accord, and continues to afford us access to influence movement towards decommissioning and other goals of the Accord. You cite your public statements on decommissioning from last December, and restate your pledge to support the Northern Irish leaders as long as they continue to take risks for peace. In closing, you also restate your position that you will not tolerate a return to violence by any party.

MEMORANDUM FOR SAMUEL R. BERGER

THROUGH: ANTONY BLINKEN

FROM: LAWRENCE E. BUTLER

SUBJECT: Presidential Letter to Jesse Helms on IRA Decommissioning

Your memo to the President conveying his response to Senator Helms' letter is attached. We did not see the letter until after the President had had his St.

Patrick's Day meetings. The delay in responding was due to consideration for complications with renewal of the NI negotiations April 1 and ensuing logjam that still persists. We understand the Helms' staff is considering whether to introduce language for the State Department authorization bill that would prohibit issuing visas for any person associated with a paramilitary organization in Northern Ireland that was not in compliance with decommissioning.

Dear Senator Helms:

The Northern Ireland peace process continues to be a top priority for me, and I am actively working with Prime Ministers Blair and Ahern in seeking complete implementation of the Good Friday Accord. I am as troubled by the continued lack of progress on eliminating illegal weapons as you are, and said so publicly on December 8 last year. I made my views known privately to all the party leaders this St. Patrick's Day as I urged them to finish their work.

Last year's murderous bombing in Omagh and this year's spate of attacks on nationalists, including the tragic murder of human rights advocate Rosemary Nelson, demonstrate the urgent necessity to move the Good Friday Accord forward in every area, including the elimination of guns from Northern Irish politics.

We have achieved significant progress towards this end, working with the Irish and British governments to achieve the permanent end of paramilitary violence.

The current IRA cease fire has been in effect for nearly two years and has been accompanied by clear commitments by Sinn Fein representatives to exclusively peaceful means as they participate in the political process.

Sinn Fein made an important contribution last September in restating its 1997 commitment to the Mitchell Principles of non-violence and appointing a representative to the decommissioning commission. These were actions essential not only to fulfill Good Friday undertakings, but to deepen public confidence in the overall process of making peace a reality in Northern Ireland.

In closing, I appreciate your interest in and attention to the Northern Irish peace process. The positive involvement of the Administration and the Congress in the process has been an important factor in the progress registered to date. Success there is important to show that tragedies such as we are witnessing in Kosovo are not impervious to the efforts of responsible, committed and courageous leaders such as David Trimble, John Hume and Gerry Adams, to name but a few.

They have taken tremendous risks to make this peace work, and I am committed to supporting them as long as they continue their efforts. I respect your disagreement with my policy of providing certain persons access to the United States and the White House. But I am convinced that this policy, which is supported by both Prime Minister Blair and Prime Minister Ahern, has contributed to the ongoing cease fire and achieving last year's Good Friday Accord. It continues to provide us with influence to achieve the goals of decommissioning and all the other equally important elements of the Accord. I assure you, however, that I will not tolerate a return to violence by the IRA or any of the paramilitary organizations with political representatives in the new Assembly.

Sincerely,

The Honorable
Jesse Helms

Steve -- Regarding the attached package, I did not realize that, subsequent to sending his letter, Senator Helms "agreed to the creation of a Special Advisor for Verification and Compliance for Arms Control, as proposed by the Secretary of State." Let me just check with (a) my office (Bob? Joe? Jeff?) to see if anyone can verify, and if not, (b) State, before we pull the trigger on this. Of course, if you know this to be affirmatively true, please advise. Thanks. Steve.

FROM: SAMUEL BERGER
LARRY STEIN

SUBJECT: Letter from Senators Helms and Biden Regarding the Strategy for Foreign Affairs Reorganization

Purpose

To respond to a letter from Senators Helms and Biden.

Background

Senators Helms and Biden wrote to you to express their concerns with three specific elements of the Administration's preliminary Reorganizational Plan and Report.

This preliminary report has been overtaken by a revised report that has been delivered to Congress.

The Helms-Biden letter praised the overall plans for restructuring at State, but expresses three key concerns. We resolved two of the three concerns in accordance with the preferences expressed by the Senators.

Consistent with these preferences, the revised reorganization plan includes:

- * a separate State Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs (including the Fulbright Scholarship program), independent from USIA's Office of International Information Programs.
- * a single European bureau inclusive of the former Soviet states, without the creation of an Eastern European and Eurasian Bureau (EEE), to which the Senators objected.

The revised reorganization plan does not, however, include the separate State Bureau for Verification and Compliance of Arms Control Treaties which Senators Helms favored. Subsequent to sending the letter, however, Senator Helms agreed to the creation of a Special Advisor for Verification and Compliance for Arms Control, as proposed by the Secretary of State.

The suggested response notes that the revised reorganization report was significantly informed by the views expressed by the senators in their letter.

SUBJECT: Reply to Letter from Senators Helms and Biden.

At Tab I is a memorandum for the President and a proposed response to a letter from Senators Helms and Biden expressing concern about three specific elements from the Administration's preliminary strategy for reorganization of the foreign affairs agencies.

The preliminary strategy has been overtaken by a revised strategy, recently approved, which addresses the concerns expressed by Senators Helms and Biden.

An interim reply was drafted and then pulled back as final resolution of the issues raised in the letter from Senator Helms and Biden emerged in time to send a complete reply.

Dear Senator Helms:

Thank you for your letter concerning our strategy for reorganizing the foreign affairs agencies and implementing the Foreign Affairs Reform and Restructuring Act of 1998.

Your views on these matters were very important to me, and had a significant impact on our final conclusions. When you review our revised March 1999 Reorganization Plan and Report, you will see that it proposes, consistent with your preferences, the formation of a separate Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs. This new bureau will ensure that international educational and cultural programs will remain a key component of our foreign policy, with the strong leadership they need and the support they deserve. As you know, this new bureau will be under the policy oversight of the new Under Secretary of State for Public Diplomacy and Public Affairs, thus ensuring very senior level attention to our engagement of foreign audiences and communities.

Also consistent with your stated views, our reorganization plan ensures that our diplomatic relations with the independent states of the former Soviet Union - a region of enormous strategic importance - will continue to be managed by the Bureau of European Affairs. This region will continue to receive the high-level leadership attention it deserves.

Finally, the creation of the new position of Special Advisor for Verification and Compliance will help maintain our commitment to a strong arms control verification and compliance process that ensures that critical assessments reach the highest levels.

Intensive planning and preparation for the reorganization is well underway. We will do all we can to ensure that this sensitive process is implemented in an open and transparent fashion, and with continued consideration of your perspectives.

Best regards.

Sincerely,

The Honorable Jesse Helms

Dear Mr. Chairman:

I am writing in connection with the Senate's advice and consent to ratification of the Convention on Nuclear Safety, provided by Resolution on March 25, 1999.

In accordance with Condition (2) of the Resolution, I hereby certify that the United States will comment in each review meeting held under Article 20 of the Convention (including each meeting of a subgroup) upon aspects of safety significance in any report submitted pursuant to Article 5 of the Convention by any State Party that is receiving United States financial or technical assistance relating to the improvement of safety of its nuclear installations.

In accordance with Condition (4) of the Resolution, I hereby certify that the Comptroller General of the United States shall be given full and complete access to (i) all information in the possession of the United States Government specifically relating to the operation of the Convention, including any report or document; and (ii) information specifically relating to any review or analysis by any department, agency, or other entity of the United States, or any official thereof, undertaken pursuant to Article 20 of the Convention, of any report or document submitted by any other State party.

I will, of course, implement these provisions consistent with the allocation of authority and responsibility under the Constitution.

THROUGH: THE EXECUTIVE CLERK

FROM: SAMUEL BERGER
ASSISTANT TO THE PRESIDENT FOR LEGISLATIVE AFFAIRS

SUBJECT: Certifications Required by Senate Ratification of the Convention on Nuclear Safety

Purpose

To sign a letter to Senator Helms certifying that the United States will comply with two conditions imposed by the Senate in ratifying the Convention on Nuclear Safety (CNS).

Background

In April of this year you signed the Instrument of Ratification and proclamation for the CNS, along with two letters of certification. In ratifying the CNS, the Senate imposed two additional certification requirements, with a 45-day deadline. That deadline is May 26, 1999.

Attached for your signature is the required letter of Certification (Tab A).

The CNS was negotiated with strong U.S. support and leadership. It strengthens nuclear safety around the world by having each country's civilian nuclear power program held up for peer review every three years. Ratification of the agreement allowed us to begin participating in the civilian nuclear program peer review mechanism laid out in the CNS, maintaining our ability to provide international leadership in nuclear safety fora.

The conditions you will certify can be met without undue difficulty. The first states that the U.S. will comment on reports submitted by the Parties receiving U.S. nuclear safety assistance; the second states that the Comptroller General of the United States will have access to certain information the U.S. has relating to the operation of the convention, and to information about U.S. analyses undertaken pursuant to the Convention.

RECOMMENDATION

That you sign the letter of certification (Tab A).
