MEETING WITH COMMUNITY LEADERS WHO HAVE DEALT WITH SCHOOL DESEGREGATION

Saturday, June 12, 1976
10:00 a.m. (45 minutes)
The Cabinet Room

From: Jim Cannon Jm

I. PURPOSE

To discuss school desegregation with leaders from communities which have successfully desegregated their school systems.

II. BACKGROUND, PARTICIPANTS, PRESS PLAN

- A. Background: This is the first in a series of meetings with groups from outside the Administration who have varying views on the issue of school desegregation. Meeting with this particular group will enable you to hear how a number of communities throughout the Nation have dealt successfully with this matter.
- B. Participants: Attached is a list of the community leaders. Each has had a degree of direct experience with desegregating a local school system.
- C. Press Plan: To be announced.

III. TALKING POINTS

1. We are here to talk about school desegregation and how each of you has handled this problem in your respective communities.
2. Before going to the substance of the matter, however, I would like to make several things very clear. First, I recognize that a President, any President, has a fundamental responsibility to preserve, protect and defend the Constitution. I fully intend to do so. Second, I am also committed to seeing that every American child's right to a good education is realized. I think these two principles must guide our discussion.

3. It is my own view that some courts have gone too far in requiring massive student transfers simply to achieve racial balance. I think we need to do something about this.
4. I am therefore in the midst of working with the Attorney General and the Secretary of HEW to develop legislation which will better equip everyone, the schools, the communities, the courts and the Federal government to deal with unlawful discrimination and to preserve the goal of quality education for all.
5. Your experiences give you each a particularly valuable insight to this question and its accompanying issues. I would welcome your thoughts, reactions, and advice.

PARTICIPANTS - 10 A.M. MEETING

ANDERSON, (Mrs.) Francile

Pontiac, Michigan. President of PTA Council during integration in Pontiac. Spearheaded "Let's Make It Work" campaign.

HOLLIDAY, (Mrs.) Gayle

Kansas City, Missouri. Executive Officer of the Multi-Racial Educational Coalition. Attempting integration without a court order. Community task force; voluntary effort.

KEY, (Mrs.) June

Louisville, Kentucky. President of Kentucky PTA, member National PTA Board. Organized committees for peaceful compliance with busing order; consultant to other cities.

LOWE, Jack, Sr.

Dallas, Texas. President of large air conditioning corporation; president of Dallas Alliance. Largely responsible for program for September 1976 that promises peaceful compliance with busing order.

TeKOLSTE, Dale

Omaha, Nebraska. Vice President, Northern Natural Gas Company of Omaha. Chairman of court-appointed interracial committee for peaceful desegregation for September 1976.

THE SECRETARY OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE
WASHINGTON, D. C. 20201

June 9, 1976

NOTE TO THE HONORABLE JAMES H. CAVANAUGH

These are people who have practical experience with desegregation crises who can tell the President what community alliances are already doing for this country.

Recommended Participants

1. Moses C. Burt, Jr. - Alexandria, Virginia (333-2020)

Graduate of North Carolina Central University (law degree). Director of Professional Development, National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials (District of Columbia). He is one of the most respected leaders in community housing and community development and played a major role in helping maintain peace in Alexandria when they initiated busing program. He is very active in all school affairs and is always constructive; is highly respected by both blacks and whites and has been elected to many national boards and committees. He is 44 years of age and a Democrat. He is one of our most outstanding black leaders.

2. Clifton Cameron - Chairman of the Board, First Union Corporation, Charlotte, North Carolina (704/374-6801)

Mr. Cameron is Chairman of the Board of New Dimensions for Charlotte-Mecklenburg Counties -- a community-wide organization for social, economic and political development of that part of North Carolina. He was very active in leading Charlotte to peaceful desegregation following the Swann Case that led to the first major court ordered busing. He is by far the most popular individual in Charlotte among blacks, whites, conservatives and liberals, labor and business. He is a Republican.

3. A. Randall Dilliot - Executive Director, Council on Education, Kansas City, Missouri (816/391-3137)

This Council is sponsored by the Regional Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Dilliot is a released Director of the Telephone Company of Missouri, on leave to work full time for peaceful constructive desegregation of schools when the community starts busing in 1976. He is recognized as one of the most outstanding leaders in the Kansas City area. He is a Republican.

- ✓ 4. Mrs. June Key - Louisville, Kentucky (502/581-5637)

Yes
President of the Parent Teacher Association of Kentucky, on the Board of the National PTA, and an active member of the Louisville Community Consensus Committee. She organized many committees for peaceful compliance with the busing order in Louisville and has served as a consultant to other cities facing busing problems. She is very popular with all groups, blacks and whites, labor and business, conservatives and liberals, in Kentucky.

- ✓ 5. Jack Lowe - Dallas, Texas (214/620-1511)

Yes
President of a large air conditioning corporation; president of the Dallas Alliance; and he, more than anyone else, has put together the program for this coming September that promises peaceful compliance with the busing order. He is one of the most popular leaders among all races in the Dallas area. He is an Independent.

- ✓ 6. Dale TeKolste - Omaha, Nebraska (402/348-4000)

Yes
Vice President, Northern Natural Gas Company of Omaha. He was elected chairman of a court-appointed interracial committee for the peaceful desegregation of public schools which will take place this coming September. He has put together an excellent organization of concerned citizens of all races to do constructive planning for the peaceful integration of the schools. He is a Republican.

7. Chris McNair - State Legislator, Birmingham, Alabama

He believes the attempts made by people who were not lawyers or educators have made the most significant contributions. The move to make Birmingham an all-American city, which he led, brought pride to the city and a desire to demonstrate it deserved the title of all-American city. The Community Action Committee, headed by Mr. McNair, included a cross section of people: local officials, presidents of leading businesses, university representatives, blacks, whites, etc. Mr. McNair points to reason and common sense. He feels this will go much farther than any intent of the law. Powerful suggestions may have greater effect in the persuasion of moving people to action when given by national leaders and others.

✓ 8. Mrs. Gayle Holliday - Kansas City, Missouri

Yes
Executive Officer of the Multi-racial Educational Coalition (6144 Brooklyn, Kansas City). Attempting integration without a court order. Community task force -- voluntary effort. Partially elected and partially selected board representing political and school districts, including student representatives. Works with Ashton Stovall with the Metropolitan Inner Church Organization in facilitating the various coalitions. The anti and pro coalitions are working together to draft a plan and to implement that plan peacefully. The lay members of the community are charged with drafting the plan.

Alternates

1. Dr. Teddy McDavid - Houston, Texas (713/676-1980)

Dr. McDavid is presently in charge of teacher development for the Houston Independent School District and was the coordinator for magnet schools. She worked with all community groups for peaceful compliance with the court ordered busing program for September 1975 and September 1976. Dr. McDavid is one of the most attractive and intelligent black women in the United States. She is one of the most effective leaders of all racial groups. She is young and is probably a Democrat.

2. Edward E. Elson - Atlanta, Georgia (404/691-2800)

President, Atlanta News Agency; member of the Executive Committee, American Jewish Committee; Chairman of the Board of Commentary magazine, the major Jewish publication; member of Southern Regional Council and Chairman of the Human Relations Committee, State of Georgia. Mr. Elson serves on every bi-racial committee in Atlanta and is highly respected by all groups. He is a business partner of Senator Herman Talmadge and Dr. Morris Abram.

3. Mayor Harvey Sloane - Louisville, Kentucky

Mayor Sloane called for the appointment of the Community Consensus Committee that worked out the program that was successful in Louisville. While Louisville has had a few problems, as a whole the program has been very successful. Mayor Sloane is a strong advocate of peaceful compliance and the role the consensus committees can play in such a situation. He is a Democrat.

4. John Ritchie, Jr. - Richmond, Virginia (804/649-7041)

Executive Director of the Virginia Housing Authority; former Executive Assistant to Governor Holton of Virginia. Mr. Ritchie was President of the Student Government Association of the University of Virginia and is one of the most popular young men among all races in the Southern region. He has been most active with Southern legislators and state government leaders and played a major role in getting community groups in Virginia to work for peaceful compliance with court orders. He is an active Republican leader and is about 42 years of age.

5. Mac Holladay - Memphis, Tennessee (901/523-2322)

Mr. Holladay is Vice President for Member Relations, Memphis Area Chamber of Commerce. He was appointed to be Chairman of a special committee to work with school and business leadership to work out peaceful desegregation following the court order for busing in Memphis. He is probably a Democrat, white, and about 40 years of age. Mr. Holladay has travelled to many communities across America to help other community leaders put together programs for peaceful compliance and yet he is recognized as one of the most outstanding leaders by industry and professional groups.

MEMORANDUM FOR: JIM CANNON

FROM: PHIL BUCHEN

In determining what groups the President should meet with before submitting his proposed legislation on busing to Congress, you should consider the desirability of calling in a group which has been proposed by Mr. H. Marcheschi. Mr. Marcheschi is President of the American Telecommunications Corporation, 9620 Flair Drive, El Monte, California, Telephone 213-579-1710 (o) or 213-795-3723 (h)

213-686-0216

Mr. Marcheschi is past President of the Pasadena School Board and is very supportive of what the President is trying to do in connection with the busing issue. He has listed the following individuals as being similarly supportive and indicates that he has already met with at least some of these individuals. They are:

THE BRIEFING ROOM

2:20 P.M. EDT

MR. SPEAKES: As most of you know, this group has just concluded a luncheon with the President on busing, a discussion on busing. The meeting ran a little over two hours. I think you have a list of participants and you have a statement which it is my understanding is the presentation of the group's views to the President.

I think those that are participating in the meeting can explain it.

Q Can we say then this is the statement of all the guests at the luncheon?

MR. SPEAKES: Let's let them explain that. I think perhaps each participant should identify themselves as they step up since the members of the press may not know you.

MORE

MR. MARCHESCHI: Good afternoon, ladies and gentlemen. My name is Henry Marcheschi. I am the Past President of the Pasadena Board of Education. I and other members of this group had the pleasure and honor of meeting with the President today. The group consisted of myself, Dr. David Armor of Rand Corporation, Dr. James Coleman, University of Chicago, Dr. Nathan Glazer of Harvard, Dr. Charles Hamilton of Columbia, John Hardy, School Board Member from Pasadena, Philip Kurland, University of Chicago Law School, Michael Novak, philosopher and columnist, author, Dr. Diane Ravitch of New York City, Dr. Thomas Sowell, economist at UCLA and Henry Wilfong, the City Director of the City of Pasadena.

The group is an ad hoc informal group that has met on prior occasions and has previously corresponded in a rather unofficial way. They traded various position papers and articles on the subject of busing.

I recognize that in this present political climate, one of the first questions you may have is why would the President have lunch with a group of people who, generally speaking, express a view which can best be characterized as being deeply concerned about busing as a viable vehicle toward either integration or quality education.

Let me make it clear that this conference came at our request, not the President's, and that, further, the political makeup of the group is such that you would probably find few Republicans among us and those few that you do find probably voted for Governor Reagan in the California election.

Having said that, let me tell you, as best as I can, what I do think this group tries individually rather than collectively to represent. It tries to represent a group which, hopefully, is knowledgeable of the issues, is bi-racial, cuts across political lines, who has something to say regarding the busing issue, and, generally speaking, what we have to say is the following statement which was read to the President at today's luncheon.

The statement is titled "Integration and Quality Education: The Moral Case," and I believe this statement has been passed out to you.

Q Are you going to read it all?

MR. MARCHESCHI: Not if you don't care for me to.

Q We have it.

MR. MARCHESI: I believe that each of the participants in the conference would be more than delighted, as would I, to answer any questions you might have at this time.

MORE

Q What was the President's reaction to your statement?

MR. MARCHESCHI: The President said after I finished reading the statement that he would be the first to sign such a statement.

Q Are you trying to solicit more support on this particular statement?

MR. MARCHESCHI: I believe that to the extent that other people of similar persuasion would like to identify themselves with this statement -- it is not something we are trying to get signed -- we would certainly welcome that support. I know of no plans to go out and solicit such support.

MR. GLAZER: Nathan Glazer. I think we were making off the cuff remarks and we were not asking him to sign it and we were not at this point deciding what we were going to do with it. We just said, after we talked, "That is sort of our point of view," and he was, like, saying "That sounds pretty good to me."

Q How long have you been in existence as a group?

MR. MARCHESCHI: Again, I want to stress the informality of the group. The group first met, I believe -- and the only other time the majority of this group has been together -- was some time back last fall, as I recall, and we met in New York. Numerous members of the group have previously met at various forums throughout the country where the busing issue has been debated. Louisville, in particular, I think, was where we first got together.

Q Mr. Marcheschi, I am not all together clear, even after I tried to read your statement, as to whether this group favors or opposes court ordered busing.

MR. MARCHESCHI: I believe -- while I will let each member speak to this issue for himself -- I believe it would be less than correct to say that this group represents a posture that is very, very much for desegregation but has deep concerns, and in the case of some of us, feel very, very strongly against court-ordered busing to achieve racial balance in schools.

Q You say the group is basically against court-ordered busing?

MR. MARCHESCHI: Yes, sir.

Q In that case what solution do you come up with in view of the orders of the Supreme Court?

MR. MARCHESCHI: Let me answer your question and then I would like to have other people fill in as they individually believe. I believe that in the case of Pasadena, we are before the Supreme Court now, and that we will have to see how the Supreme Court decides before we judge what Pasadena has to do. I have the great expectation that Pasadena won't be relieved of its racial balance decision which dictates busing half of our children across town for, in my opinion, very counterproductive purposes.

MR. COLEMAN: I would like to comment on your question by asking you, solution for what? You say what is the alternative solution. My question is, solution to what?

Q The question had to do with court-ordered busing and my question was, if you don't believe in obeying the court order, what solution do you have?

Q The courts passed judgment upon cases, as I understand it, that have to do with illegal conduct by school boards and other public authorities which produce segregation in schools. Now the courts have found busing to be a remedy for that problem.

MR. COLEMAN: My own position is this, that the remedy is wholly inappropriate in many cases. Louisville is one case, Boston is another case. The remedy is wholly inappropriate to the injustice that was found.

In other words, not that there were not actions on the part of school boards which increased segregation, but rather that the remedy which was a system-wide remedy, was wholly inappropriate to the actions that were found.

Q Doesn't that leave you still with the same problem? Since the remedy, so-called, is still the order of the court, what do you suggest be done?

MR. MARCHESCHI: Let me answer the question this way. I believe you have misunderstood the purpose of the group if you have understood it to be to oppose the law. Our personal experience is that we have lived with court-ordered busing for six years in Pasadena and have tried to follow the letter of the law and still avail ourselves of the judicial process and try to seek relief from the courts.

We finally got to the Supreme Court and now we are anxiously awaiting a decision. I think the point Dr. Coleman made is we don't agree that court-ordered massive busing to achieve racial balance is a viable tool -- in fact, some of us who go so far as to say it is an intellectually and morally bankrupt tool -- to achieve what we all desire to achieve, and that is true integration and quality education for all children.

MORE

Q Sir, could you answer a couple of questions here a minute?

MR. WILFONG: Could I speak to that point? My name is Hank Wilfong. I am a City Councilman in the City of Pasadena. The way I would like to answer is -- I hate to answer a question with a question and that is the question that immediately came to my mind -- achieved what. No, we are not talking about holes in the law, but what are you trying to achieve? I would think we ought to try to achieve equality of education, not busing, equality of education.

A graphic example of what I believe is the problem in Pasadena as we see it now, the instances that you talk about where there were the violations, occurred prior to the time of my holding office, John Hardy holding office, or even Hank Marcheschi holding office. How long, then, must Pasadena go through the pain for those things that happened? And I am not saying that they didn't happen, because I fought them at that time, but interestingly in Pasadena we are precluded from doing a lot of the things we could do and would do to correct those remedies because we are controlled by an outside force, in essence an outside force being the court.

I think John Hardy, School Board Member from Pasadena, could speak graphically to that but one of the points that is impressed on me, we have a school set up in Pasadena called fundamental schools, where you have reading, writing and arithmetic and those kinds of things where quality education is taught. Black youngsters cannot get into the school now because of ethnic balancing. The youngsters that we are talking about trying to help to give the equality of opportunity cannot get into our quality schools because getting into that school would ethnically disbalance it and leaving another school would disbalance that school, so that is a kind of ridiculous situation.

Q Mr. Marcheschi said you all want true integration, viable education. Did you as a group or as individuals suggest to the President other ways of achieving that specific way? The statement here is extremely general, a bit, it seems to me, like coming out in favor of motherhood, God or country. Did you suggest anything specific?

MR. WILFONG: I did not say I was in support of integration. I said equality of education. I think desegregation is what I would look for. Segregation is bad and I am for desegregation. I am not so certain yet that the majority of black people are necessarily for integration, particularly forced integration. What we are talking about -- and I am speaking from my viewpoint -- is that I would wholeheartedly support desegregation, forced desegregation, if you want to call it that.

MORE

I would oppose forced integration. I think the majority of my constituents particularly want to be free to do whatever we want to do and we want the Government to guarantee the opportunity for us to do that.

Q You are saying that quality education does not necessarily depend on racial balance?

MR. WILFONG: That's right, it definitely does not. It is facilities, curriculum and teachers, not necessarily blacks and whites sitting together.

Q Sir, what do you say to the argument which Clarence Mitchell, among other people, makes that all black schools will be ignored by public authorities and starve, as a political fact of life, unless there is integration and white students are involved, about whom the public authorities care?

MR. WILFONG: I would say to a great extent in the past that is true and even in some sections of the country that would be true now. It would not happen in Pasadena. I am speaking from a purely local issue. We have now an opportunity to impact upon the political spectrum but because of other kinds of things we are not free to do that. I admit that as a practical, political kind of expedient in many instances we have to have busing -- I am reacting to the gentleman's question -- but that is not the answer. Busing is not the answer. Equality of education. I disagree with that part of the Brown decision which said that separate but equal is inherently inferior. That is not true. People make it inherently inferior and I agree to that, that in many instances if you don't have that kind of mixture then people will not equally allocate.

But what I am saying is that Brown versus School Board came in 1954, and I know a lot of us who are now in the political spectrum were not active at that time and could not have an opportunity to impact on the decision.

MR. MARCHESCHI: May I answer his question because I think it is a very pertinent question and gets to the heart of the issue. I think each of us at this conference -- although the statement does not necessarily reflect that -- each of us have various experiences and various suggestions, some of which were made to the President, with respect to alternatives to massive forced busing to achieve racial balance.

Some of us from Pasadena especially cited the success of our alternative school program, which, as we said to the President, has proved to many of us that voluntary integration can indeed be made to work.

MORE

The alternative school program in Pasadena has established a pluralistic approach to education. We have schools on one end of the spectrum that are very, very liberal schools and on the other end of the spectrum that are very conservative, basic three Rs, et cetera, and a lot of discipline. The interesting thing is that we are getting some of the most allegedly conservative, allegedly -- and I stress the word allegedly -- bigoted people in town willing to put their children on a bus for the totality of their school experience--to attend a school that is over 40 percent black voluntarily. That tells us something. That tells us that the magnet concept is viable. It tells us there are educational magnets which can be created which transcend whatever racial hangups some people can have.

Dr. Coleman here has, in the Louisville case, recommended an alternative plan, an alternative program, which is very, very specific and which has incidentally been turned down by the District Court. In the Pasadena case in the Supreme Court now one of the issues is whether we should have been free to implement a very, very specific alternative school plan that would have used educational inducements to create voluntary rather than coerced education.

So we touched on all of these things with the President. This statement did not address itself to being specific in that area. Rather, this statement addressed itself to say essentially this. "Hey, we are a bunch of people who feel very deeply about this issue. We feel that the other side undeservedly has held a moral high ground too long, and we feel that there is a moral case to be made for finding a workable solution to achieving true integration and quality education for all kids."

Q Mr. Marcheschi, to what extent did you get into the details of the Administration's legislative proposal?

MR. MARCHESCHI: The Attorney General very, very briefly mentioned the fact that there was such activity but we did not get into those details.

Q They didn't disclose to you their thinking or ask you for your comments on specific possible portions of the legislation?

MR. MARCHESCHI: No. The President left us free to pretty well say what each of us wanted to say. We each had approximately five minutes to do that. The President asked some questions of some of us. The Attorney General made a brief statement regarding some of the things that he was concerned about, such as complying with the law.

MORE

Q That was all?

MR. MARCHESCHI: Essentially, yes.

Q Most of us are interested today -- rather than in a debate over busing and its merits -- we are interested in whether you gentlemen had any impact on President Ford's thinking before he comes out with whatever legislation he will.

MR. MARCHESCHI: I think we are all presumptuous and egotistical enough to think we had.

Q Was this basically a listening session in which you all feel -- it sounds to me as though the views you brought to us today very much back up and give support to what President Ford has already told us are his views. Did you get that impression?

MR. MARCHESCHI: I think that the President gave at least me the distinct impression that the views -- at least the majority of the views he heard expressed today -- were things he deeply believed and endorsed.

Q Could Dr. Glazer explain this sentence in more detail? "We have come to believe that the premises on which the case for court-ordered busing have been built are faulty."

MORE

MR. GLAZER. I will say one word and then ask Mike Novak to add something. One of the premises that we believe is faulty and totally faulty is the assumption that this is not a good society, or fair society, or a decent society until equal proportions of every race and ethnic group are assigned mandatorily to every significant institution like a school. We believe that is a faulty premise and we believe that is a premise that is dominating much of the judicial thinking and much of the orders, like the present situation.

Q Is it your belief that the whole theory of separate but equal if removed from a southern context maybe into the Boston-Harvard Yard --

MR. GLAZER. No, I do not believe that. I believe that reflects an unfortunate ignorance on the part of a large number of people in this country. We are not talking about separate but equal in Boston or any place else. We are not talking about a situation of transferring State ordered segregation and legitimating it in one part of the country and not legitimating it in another part of the country.

Whatever State action leads to segregation must be undone. What we are against is what the courts in many cases are doing which is not to undo State action leading to segregation, but to impose their views that a statistical balancing of the races is a proper remedy to whatever happens or that a statistical balancing of the races regardless of public opposition or lack of pragmatic result is in some sense what the Constitution calls for.

Q What would have been the proper solution for the Boston, in your opinion?

MR. GLAZER. The proper solution in Boston as suggested in a number of briefs which are now before the Supreme Court, would have been to undo all those acts of segregation that were found to say the school board cannot -- if that is what it was doing -- allow special classrooms to accommodate blacks, not to allow them to go to other schools.

I think there is another factor in terms of the faulty premise and that must simply be said that a lot of what courts claim is segregation -- court-ordered segregation in the briefs -- is not court-ordered segregation. I mean a lot of what courts say is government mandated segregation is not. They are referring to actions which either have no racial motivation or insofar as there is a racial component are actions most of us would consider benign--such as in the case of Boston, the request of a principal heading a mostly black school to a central personnel office to send them some black teachers. It is that kind of thing which we feel is faulty premise, the assumption that -- well, that is one kind of assumption.

Q Gentlemen, Judge Garrity found the segregation of conduct to be so pervasive in the school system that --

MR. GLAZER. I am sorry. You have not read the decision. He did not. He referred to about 20 schools out of 100 plus. He referred to action which under no possible interpretation could be considered State ordered segregation such as he referred to the conduct of the examination schools which were already operating under a test which everyone agreed on the basis of a previous court case was not discriminatory. So he merely found what he found and then asserted that this is so pervasive that I therefore must order this total racial balancing in the Boston school system. That is the case.

Q Gentlemen, are many of you disillusioned liberals?

MR. NOVAK: Not at all. We think -- let me speak in my own voice -- my name is Michel Novak. I will be the Leden-Watson Professor of Philosophy and Religious Studies at Syracuse beginning in January. Not at all. I think I am defending an essentially liberal position and I believe that the course of busing as a moral and as a practical solution to an admitted wrong or difficulty in American society has never been subject to sufficient liberal scrutiny. We have in many places liberal practices being used in pursuit of a liberal purpose and I at least object to that and I object to it both on the line of whether it fulfills the purposes that it says it fulfills, and whether it employs proper liberal means for fulfilling those purposes. Does busing bring about integration? Does it? Does it really?

Q Doesn't it?

MR. NOVAK: It doesn't seem to.

Q Why not?

MR. NOVAK: A great deal of evidence shows it does not.

Q Why not?

MR. NOVAK: Chiefly because of white flight.

Secondly -- if I may continue to give a sequence -- does it bring about integration? That is an important question. If you are talking about busing, you are talking about a means, a remedy. Is it a remedy?

Q What are you offering in place of it?

MR. NOVAK: We will come to that secondly. But it is important to take -- when you have a policy that is breaking in your hands and not working, then you go on to the second step.

MORE

Q I don't know where it is not working. I think you can point to more places in the country where it is working than not working.

MR. NOVAK: Unfortunately that does not seem to be the case. Those who have studied the field cannot find that evidence.

Q Are you saying there is no place it is working?

MR. NOVAK: No, I am not saying that, nor would I oppose it when it works. It is an instrument. As the Democratic platform put it in 1968 and in 1972, busing is an instrument of racial integration. You judge instruments by how they work. Does this one work? In some cases it does.

Secondly, does it bring integration and does it bring quality education?

Q I think the premise here is will we have a lack of discrimination in our society. I don't think the Supreme Court really hit the theme of quality education, which is relative. I think the question was to break down racial barriers.

MR. NOVAK: Does it do that? That is the question.

Q I think it has basically.

MR. NOVAK: If you are a social policy maker and that is your belief, then that is what you do. If you are not, then you argue against that and that is a good social political argument. Then you want to see the evidence.

If I could call on my colleague David Armor, who studied some of the evidence.

Q Do you think it is worse today than in '54, in terms of equality?

MR. NOVAK: In some places it is.

Q In the South?

MR. NOVAK: Not in the South.

MR. GLAZER. The contrast is not with '54. The first large busing order was '71 in Charlotte.

MR. NOVAK: I have to add in the northern cities, northern central cities, the number of blacks in many of the cities who have moved in have multiplied -- have increased by multiples of four or eight or, in Seattle, since 1945, 1022 percent. So there has been a tremendous migration in a very short period of time.

MORE

Q Can I ask you a question about this meeting that was set up here. You asked the President to meet with you, is that correct?

MR. NOVAK: Yes.

Q Did the President know that you were going to come down here and make your statement public in the White House, since he also met this morning with another group who has had experience with busing operations and they were forced to stand outside in the heat in the driveway to talk to reporters?

MR. NOVAK: Since most of us did not know we were going to have a statement, I would guess the President did not know.

MR. MARCHESCHI: The first time the President saw the statement was when I read it to him.

Q Did you tell him you were going to deliver it to reporters here and did he have any comment on that?

MR. MARCHESCHI: Not to the best of my recollection, no.

Q I am a little concerned about the fact we are in the midst of a very, very tight political campaign, as I am sure all you people are aware, and at this particular time in our history it suddenly becomes apparently necessary for the President to get involved in the busing controversy.

Are you unaware of the fact you may be being used politically?

MR. MARCHESCHI: I would like to answer that question because frankly, I think that question entered the minds of all of us. I will attempt to, if not eliminate your fears or concerns, at least ameliorate them to this extent.

This meeting was not held at the request of the President or any of his advisors. It was held at our request.

Q How long have you had the request in?

MR. MARCHESCHI: I communicated with the White House office originally in the fall and most recently, approximately a month ago, regarding our desire to express some of our views to the President. But I would like to challenge you, if I may, on the fact that we don't bring up sensitive issues in an election.

It seems to me if we really believe in the democratic process, I don't think there is any better time for a public official to state his views on a question that is tearing this country apart than when he is running for office.

MORE

I am much more offended by the fact that in the Administration today, and especially in the Justice Department -- this is my personal feeling -- there are still those who don't agree and strongly disagree, if you will, with the President's position, and even in a post-Watergate environment I would like to know when I go to the polls this November that the man I vote for has a reasonable expectation to implement the policies which he believes and purports to represent to the American public as those which he is going to implement. And I believe that one of the tragedies of Watergate is that that is no longer the case.

MR. NOVAK: Some of us in another context were in a meeting in the fall with the President in which one of the outcomes of the discussion was encouragement that there should be a rather large study of this issue in the Government, partly because many of the figures that are involved are very difficult to release. Some agencies of the Government appear to have rather an advocacy role, than the role of a non-biased observer, and it is very difficult to get out of them statements of what is happening.

Also because this is, many of us believe, one of the greatest domestic issues for a long time to come and this also, if I might say, happens to be an opportune time, because the issue does rank very low in public opinion polls. The public is not terribly agitated about it right now. There are not many cases pending at this moment and that is a very fruitful time. In the next year or the year after that, there may well be cases. In Chicago, in Los Angeles and in other great cities and it will be a much more inflammatory issue, so at least from my point of view -- and I will almost certainly support a Democrat in the election -- this is a very opportune time to bring about a full dress criticism of this policy, as we do of every other policy. This one should not escape criticism and it should not escape criticism above all by liberals who have done so much to engender it. Liberals have a responsibility especially to this problem.

MORE

MR. HAMILTON: My name is Charles Hamilton. In line with the earlier question, I think it is very important to point out that the probable Democratic candidate in November is not going to be much different on this issue than the position we have articulated here today. I think that is very important to point out. I think that when anybody speaks on an issue of this kind at any time, whether it is during primaries, after primaries or in 1973, it is always going to be subject to potential political use, and I speak to you, sir, as a Democratic Precinct Captain in New York.

Q Are you saying this is Jimmy Carter's position?

MR. HAMILTON: I am saying Jimmy Carter's position on this question has been very clear. He is against mandated court-ordered busing. He is in favor of the so-called Atlanta Compromise, and I accept that and I am going to work diligently for Mr. Carter.

Q Then you are saying President Ford and Jimmy Carter are not very far apart, is that correct?

MR. HAMILTON: I personally don't feel they are very far apart on this issue.

Q Do you feel President Ford has exploited in any way this as a political issue?

MR. HAMILTON: No.

Q Do any of you?

MR. NOVAK: The reason I don't think that is so is what is to be gained by that just now? It is not an issue high in the minds of most Americans. Most Americans, according to the polls, seem to become concerned over this issue when it is local and most are for integration only in the immediate environment and it is not in any immediate environment this year and it won't be in the fall. It is not a very heavy political issue. It was not a big issue in the primaries.

MR. NOVAK: I will let Republicans speak to that issue.

Q That is what we are asking about. That is the whole point of the discussion.

MR. GLAZER: I don't think any of us want to get into the subject that reporters can't seem to get away from, the notion that any issue of social policy is of no concern of itself but only exists as a counter in politics.

MORE

Now obviously to some extent it does but in the case of the present situation I happen to know -- and as anyone should know -- that the involvement of the Attorney General in the Boston brief had nothing to do with any political timetable -- had to do only with the fact that those briefs of certiorari had been filed with the Supreme Court. That those briefs raised important points, that one of them had been written by a relatively distinguished lawyer and the Attorney General had to decide whether they would say something about it or not say something about it. That much I know, and what Mr. Ford wanted to make of it I know nothing about and I really don't care. I have been involved in this issue much longer than this political campaign and I see no reason to stop my interest in it because of the political campaign.

MR. GLAZER: I don't think it matters.

MR. SOWELL: My name is Thomas Sowell. I am a Professor of Economics at UCLA. Various people here have identified themselves as Democrats or Republicans. I would like to identify myself as one of those vast number of people who neither register or vote. I am here simply because the merits of the issue itself interest me. I am concerned about it. I am concerned about the faulty assumptions which are never challenged. First of all, you have to have integration in order for the black kids to learn.

Secondly, black kids do learn better after integration for which the evidence is at best ambiguous and probably against that. That black kids are psychologically damaged by segregation and psychologically benefited by integration, however it is achieved. The studies I have seen done -- particularly a book by Dr. Gloria Powell called Black Monday's Children which has exhaustive studies all across the country. The evidence there is again at best ambiguous. The balance of it, in my judgment, is that black kids end up harmed by it. There have been any number of local studies showing racial isolation, interracial antagonism, greater both among blacks and whites, after these forced integration programs have been put into effect. That is the kind of thing we are concerned about.

Q Where did you go to school? Did you go to an integrated school?

MR. SOWELL: I went to both, both in college and pre-college. I have taught in both.

MORE

Q Which do you think you profitted most from?

MR. SOWELL: You mean can I generalize about three universities? I can't even count the number of other schools I have gone to.

Q You are making assertions here --

MR. SOWELL: No, I am reciting certain facts that others have already gotten through serious studies any number of places around the country. I am simply saying those facts have become non-events in the media apparently and it is assumed automatically that in fact there are some great benefits accruing to blacks as a result of this and I am saying I see no evidence of that benefit.

Q Do you see any benefit to segregation?

MR. SOWELL: I did not come here to ask the President to oppose Brown versus Board of Education.

Q But isn't that basically what we face here, how to deal with a court problem?

MR. ARMOR: A lot of us got here because we have done research and the research does not support some of the assumptions that school boards and the courts seem to be making, one being that a balanced school is a better educational institution. There are several of us who have done research, and we are quite convinced that a black child can do just as well in an all black school as in an integrated school. That is a factual or evidentiary issue and not a political one.

Secondly, the remedies that courts have imposed have caused such massive white flight that in a sense it is undoing the very action the court is aiming at so at least I, for one -- I am David Armor from Rand -- am here because I am concerned about the educational and social consequences. I am not concerned as much about the political issue. I think others of us would feel the same way. We think there are false assumptions. There is good evidence, and it almost challenges those assumptions, and we have to work towards alternatives that come closer to the goal that we think is far from the mark because of the white flight and other problems that are occurring.

Q I would like to ask you, you said Jimmy Carter had said he was against court-ordered busing and I wonder if you would give me a citation for that because I don't recall any unambiguous statement of that sort on Mr. Carter's part.

MR. ARMOR: No, I can't. I just follow everything he says and that you people write about.

Q That was in the New York Times yesterday. It is in all of his literature.

MR. WILFONG: Let me address that. I am speaking somewhat from a political thing. I am a City Councilman. I think part of the things that we are saying I don't think you are hearing. You are asking questions and maybe you are not satisfied with our answers.

For instance, a while ago the question was asked -- and we tried to follow that theme -- I was interested that someone asked about did that achieve integration, busing. Is that the object? Was the object to achieve integration? Wasn't the object to talk about equality in education? Wouldn't a more accurate appropriate question be, do you think that achieved equality in education or good education? What difference does it make if we have an integrated bad school? What are you saying you want us to have an equal opportunity --

Q Would you apply that to going to a restaurant in this town where you were separate --

MR. WILFONG: I don't really care about the restaurant. The point is when I come here I got to Pitts and eat some barbecue and maybe some chitlins. I may go to Hogates. I may --

MORE

MR. GLAZER: No one is talking about maintaining segregation. We assume that is behind us. We are all against segregation. That is behind us.

MR. WILFONG: That is not the object. I am against that, but if I chose to do that, if I choose to go to Pitts, then right on.

The point we are saying -- getting back to the situation in Pasadena -- of a political nature. I am a Republican and I am supporting the Governor of California, so I would not allow myself to be used by the President, President Ford, for that purpose.

I don't think, though -- and someone said this earlier -- why should we stop doing the things we are doing just because it is election time. Why should I oppose a good program by a man who is the present President because I am supporting someone else. Why shouldn't I come to a forum like this, to talk to the President of our United States to give my viewpoints on that issue.

The issues as we see it back in Pasadena are this: One, will we be allowed to do our thing in Pasadena? Will we be allowed to have freedom to make our own decisions based upon our neighborhood rather than what a court decides based upon its interpretation of some incident which was probably appropriate at that time.

Q We want you to have this forum, we assure you, and we hope when the pro-busing people come along that they will have the forum. We doubt they will.

MR. MARCHESCHI: Dr. Ravitch would like to say a word and then I would like to close.

MS. RAVITCH. My name is Diane Ravitch. I am a professor at Teacher's College. I am a historian and writer. I have done some studies into the history of the school integration decisions and implementation.

My own concerns are these. I am a liberal Democrat. I expect to be supporting Jimmy Carter in the fall, assuming he is the nominee. I obviously don't want to be politically used by anybody, but I have my own concerns. I don't think you stop thinking about issues because of it being an election year and I don't think you can stop governing because it happens to be the fourth year.

My concerns are these. I think one of the efforts in achieving integration is not only to have an integrated society -- and obviously like everybody else in this group which is not any kind of a formal association -- like all of us, we are in favor of integration, we want to see a unified society, we believe in the Brown decision wholeheartedly and all the changes it has brought about in American society.

MORE

My concern is with the pragmatic effects of school busing. Not that busing should not be a tool, it should be a tool. Absolutely. But the question is what are its effects? How much white flight is there. If you win a decision and lose the white population and end up with more segregation than you had before the decision, have you won?

At the time of the decision in Boston, there was a 61 percent white majority in Boston schools. There is now a white minority in the Boston schools. That is a concern or should be a concern. It is a concern to me as a researcher.

If you look at the results coming in from different places in the country -- the education results -- they are equivocal at best -- there is no strong evidence that busing leads to better education and my own position -- which I would distinguish from the rest of the group -- is I have no hard and fast conclusions except I would urge the President and the Secretary of HEW to initiate a thorough study, if possible, even in an election year.

What is the educational impact of busing? How can we provide better quality education? Are there cities, are there States, are there nations that have done a better job of educating low-income children than we have? We have not succeeded. That is very clear and if we want to achieve equality we have to do a better job in educating low-income kids in order that they can have the kind of mobility that we assume middle class kids get through education.

So, that is my concern and I would think it would be wrong to say that we are exploiting the issue or that the President -- I don't know if the President is exploiting it -- I don't think it is exploiting. My understanding is he has basically taken this position consistently for many years. If he suddenly switched positions in the middle of an election, you could say he was exploiting it, but I don't think saying what you have always said is necessarily exploitation.

Q Was the value of your visit today to convince him of what he already believed?

MS. RAVITCH: My purpose in coming was to say I think a lot of people are making statements for which they have no factual basis. In the course of writing about busing and integration, I have run into many people, in and outside the civil rights movement, who say we must have busing because only through integration will children ever learn.

MORE

Now I don't know on what they base that. I believe there are many ways in which children learn and we have not begun to fathom them. I think we can do a better job than we are doing now and we don't seem to be moving in the right direction, so I was urging we do a better job of finding out why we have these assumptions.

Q May I ask a question about white flight which a number of you have mentioned.

MS. RAVITCH: Dr. Coleman might be best to speak to that.

Q Why is the answer to white flight not to expand the realm of busing instead of to contain it in areas -- especially in the case of Boston, why is it not better to expand busing out into the suburbs to prevent white flight?

MR. COLEMAN: I see your point. It seems to me the white flight that exists tells a few things. One is the actual consequences of white flight, namely, the shift -- reduction of 30 some percent of the white population in Boston in a short period of time -- in a period of two years. That is one thing.

The other is what it tells us symbolically. That is it says that here is an issue, namely the choice of where to send one's child to school, which is so important to so many people that they will suffer an economic loss, that they will suffer losses of friends, losses of a whole variety of sorts in order to achieve their goal.

Now if that is the case, if it is so important to so many people, then one must begin to question the basic philosophy of the thing and it seems to me when one looks at the philosophy of the thing then you find it is a kind of "Emperor has no clothes" phenomenon that it is based on -- as several people have said before -- a set of faulty premises.

MR. HARDY: I would like to comment on that white flight.

I am John Hardy from the Pasadena Unified School District, Board of Education. I am in support of Governor Reagan too, so there is no political tie to President Ford. But Pasadena is unique. I think it is one of the very few districts under court order to bus where we have been able to turn around the white flight. We brought back into the district around 1,200 white families or white kids.

Basically because we have offered a volunteer -- and we have told them the awful thing we have told the parents, "This is what we are going to do for your kids if you bring them back into this district. We are going to teach them the basic 3 R's. We are going to teach them discipline. We are going to teach them pride, we are going to teach them respect." We have a waiting list to get into those schools.

MR. MARCHESCHI: Some of us have airplanes to catch. May I just make one parting comment.

I do appreciate your focusing on the issue and the political issue involved. As the unofficial organizer of this group, ad hoc group, let me make this confession to you. There are quite a few of us up here who have carried quite a few scars from this battle. Some of us have seen districts lose 40 percent of their white children. Others of us have put a great number of children on buses and bused them across town. Others of us have had reputations and positions in various universities challenged -- challenging some of the assumptions that underlie the whole premise of busing.

I think the most honest thing we can say is this: There are those in this group who very, very much want to communicate what we consider to be sincere knowledgeable opinions to the media and to the country on this issue.

And to the extent that anyone has been used today, I would be much more concerned about us using the President than the President using us. I think we have had a platform to legitimate, if you will, the anti-busing argument and we appreciate that.

Thank you very much.
