SCHEDULED PROPOSAL

Date:

From: ROBERT J. BROWN

VIA: DAVE PARKER

MEETING: The President and Dr. J. H. Jackson, President, National Baptist Convention

DATE: Open

PURPOSE: President to briefly meet Dr. Jackson and thank him for his support

OBJECTIVE: To highlight the fact that Jackson - leader of the major black church group - is strong supporter of the President and to demonstrate President's interest in obtaining the black community's backing.

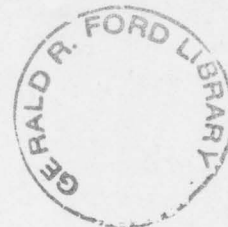

FORMAT: Location: President's office
Participants: Dr. J. H. Jackson
Length: 5 minutes

TALKING POINTS: Thank Dr. Jackson for endorsement of President at National Baptist Convention on September 6.

PRESS COVERAGE: Stan Scott will make press arrangements. Photos to be taken of the President with Dr. Jackson.

PRESS FOLLOW-UP: Stan Scott will follow-up with photos and release to black media.

STAFF: BOB BROWN

RECOMMEND: Bob Brown

PREVIOUS

PARTICIPATION: Dr. Jackson met with the President at the White House in 1969

BACKGROUND: (a) The National Baptist Convention has a membership in excess of 5 million members; it is the largest of the black churches. Its influence is still very considerable.

(b) Jackson is a Democrat, but strongly endorsed the President at his church's recent convention (and denounced McGovern); he also supported the President in 1968.

(c) The media has given little attention to this endorsement (as to any others from black leaders). This meeting should correct this to some extent, and would also indicate the President's willingness to accept minority support.

MEMORANDUM FOR:

The President

FROM:

Herbert G. Klein HK

SUBJECT:

Meeting with Mrs. Ruth Voss and
Mr. Ted Etherington
October 21, 1971
11:45 a.m. (ten minutes)

I. PURPOSE

To recognize a woman editor of the oldest tabloid in the Nation devoted to youth; to call attention to voluntary action.

II. BACKGROUND, PARTICIPANTS AND PRESS PLAN

- A. Background: The meeting was suggested by Robert H. Finch and concurred in by Herbert G. Klein. Mrs. Voss is the mother of eight children and spends two days a week editing the Cincinnati Enquirer's Saturday supplement, "Teen-Ager," which is devoted to reporting events of interest to youth. She has been particularly active in helping young people find constructive ways to put their talents to good use. She was one of the organizers of a Teens for Decency Rally in Cincinnati.
- B. Participants: Mrs. Voss and Ted Etherington, National Center for Voluntary Action
- C. Staff: Stanley S. Scott
- D. Press Plan: To be announced and White House photographs.

III. ACTION SEQUENCE

- A. In the Oval Office, Mrs. Voss and Mr. Etherington enter. The President shakes hands with her and poses for picture with White House photographer; then he asks Mrs. Voss and Mr. Etherington to be seated for a brief talk.
- B. The President may desire to make brief remarks covering these points:

He is happy to see a newspaper woman working so diligently with youth. There's a key to communication between the younger generation and her generation -- the press as well as politics.

You signed the 18-year-old vote bill and you are pleased to see that it now is put into effect quickly around the Nation. You wish she would encourage more young men and women to exercise that right to vote and to study and deliberate over the issues.

In April of 1969 you sent a memorandum to the Cabinet asking that youth be encouraged to participate in the decision-making process -- and they are. In HEW alone, 100 young persons have been recruited, particularly for advisory boards. You have had great input from your young White House staff in such areas as welfare, revenue sharing and government reorganization.

You always are pleased to find that women who have a large number of children themselves find time to get involved in projects of the nature in which Mrs. Voss participates such as the Teens for Decency Rally. It has been your experience too that most young persons, given a chance, still can differentiate between right and wrong.

Her action in running two series explaining the Cincinnati Experience, an organization of volunteers, highlights your interest in volunteerism as one method of making our system of government work better. You might refer to Ted Etherington for some of his experiences on volunteer action.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT'S FILE

FROM:

Stanley S. Scott SS

SUBJECT:

Meeting with Jim Brown, actor and former professional football player, on August 10, 1972 at 4:56 p.m.

PARTICIPANTS:

John D. Ehrlichman, Assistant to the President for Domestic Affairs

Stanley S. Scott, Assistant to the Director of Communications for the Executive Branch

John L. Wilks, Coordinator for Minority Affairs, U. S. Department of Labor

TEXT:

Brown, founder of the Black Economic Union, organized to provide financing to blacks who want to go into business, told the President: "I support you Mr. President because I think you are moving in the areas in which blacks should be concerned.... self-determination in the business world. I also admire your initiatives in support of the battle against Sickle Cell Anemia." Brown pledged to campaign for the President's re-election.

Warmly greeting Brown, President Nixon thanked the former Cleveland Browns all-star for his support, recalled the former professional football players exploits on the gridiron and concluded the meeting by pulling a football from his Oval Office desk cabinet to pose for photographs with Brown.

The President requested that a meeting be arranged between Brown and Commerce Secretary Peterson to determine ways in which the Black Economic Union and Government could best assist minority business enterprise. Exiting his office, the President introduced Brown to Communications Director Herbert G. Klein, who he praised as an "old friend."

B. The Black vote for the re-election of the President in 1972 was 21 percent. In the Black suburbs it was as high as 45 percent (Medford, Mass.). Other Black suburbs ranged from 30-40 percent (Louisville, Ky., Philadelphia, Pa.; and Cambridge, Mass.). A noteworthy showing was the 18 percent vote received in Harlem's 70th Assembly District which is a low income predominately Black neighborhood. This represents a dramatic increase over the nine percent received during the 1968 election. The Black vote for the Republican party in 1964 was only six percent.

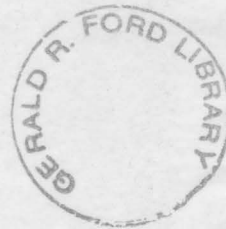

C. Reaffirm commitment to:

1. Equal Employment opportunity and recruitment of blacks
2. Sickle Cell Anemia
3. Aid to Black Colleges
4. Drug Abuse Programs
5. Minority Business Enterprises
 - Grants
 - Loans
 - Government Contracts
6. Concentration of manpower funds on the problems of unemployed Blacks, especially Vietnam Vets whose rate of unemployment ranges up to 40 percent in some areas.
7. Combatting racial problems in the military

TALKING POINTS

- A. Your efforts to draw black voters into our ranks are greatly appreciated.
- B. We know the road is going to be a hard one to follow, but we believe inroads are being made and that the results of your efforts will soon become visible.
- C. You have my full support.

October 17, 1972, at 11:54 a.m. in the Oval Office

The President thanked Sayers for his support in the re-election effort and then discussed pro-football for a few minutes (Sayers had just recently retired from the Chicago Bears after ten years service). The President then expressed interest in beginning a program by which black athletes after retiring from professional sports would work with young people as a means of discouraging drug use and crime.
