Urban Crisis

231 Madison Avenue

New York, New York 10016

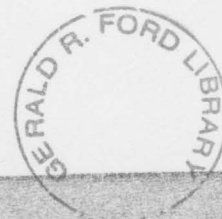

(212) LE 2-3410

Rev. Dr. Carl E. Thomas, Executive Secretary

Lee H. Wesley, Program Director

A fundamental part of the church's task today is to strive to influence the attitudes and ways of thinking of its own people, to help them understand the nature of prejudice, see their own share in bringing about and perpetuating conditions of deprivation and injustice for minority groups, and take effective action individually and corporately, as churchmen and citizens, to achieve social change that contributes to justice.

The program involves action through three channels: Coordination of LCA Program, The Synod President's Task Force, and "Faith and Life" Encounters.

Separate and independent organization founded in 1939 serving as legal arm of civil rights movement. Represents SCLC, CORE, SNCC, NAACP, and individual citizens belonging to no organization but having bona fide civil rights claims. Funds contributed to LDF used to finance court actions for equality in schools, jobs, and hospitals, and to defend civil rights workers against illegal arrests, harassment, and violence.

Principal task is to establish new civil rights precedents in courts. Has launched new legal campaign to make precedents in courts on issues of poverty law such as welfare, slum housing, public housing, consumer frauds, migrant labor, and rights of the indigent in criminal prosecution.

Has established lawyer training institutes to provide training for 400 attorneys by faculty of eminent law professors in major regions of the United States. Through Herbert H. Lehman Education Fund, awards scholarships to Negro students and provides trained personnel to aid Negro parents in taking advantage of court orders desegregating public schools.

Staff of 78, including 30 full-time attorneys working with 250 cooperating counsels throughout U.S. Also has a committee of 100, a voluntary cooperative group of individuals sponsoring appeal of LDF since 1943.

Washington, D.C. 20036

(202) 223-5240

Mrs. Edith B. Sloan, Executive Director

Mrs. Anna R. Halsted, Chairman

Formed in 1964, this is a nonprofit service organization coordinating the efforts of individuals and groups with a mutual interest in the problems of private household employment. Although the program is interracial, most of the clients are minority group members.

Through a Government contract, promotes pilot projects throughout the country to experiment with new approaches to homemaking services. New focus is given to the development of cooperative or corporate, self-sustaining enterprises owned and managed by the household workers. The cooperative and/or corporate enterprises would provide regular sources of employment, improve wage and working conditions, provide household workers with fringe benefits, regularize the market for household services, provide professional training for employee-owners where needed, and explore approaches for improving employee-employer relations. Also seeks to organize local units of household workers in the hope of forming these into a national organization.

Publications: Improving the Status of Household Employment: A Handbook. Party Aide Guide.

Dr. George A. Wiley, Executive Director

The National Welfare Rights Organization (NWRO) is a nationwide organization of welfare recipients and other poor people. It is made up of affiliated local welfare rights organizations from the entire country. At present, there are over 100 affiliated local groups in 22 States and another 150 local groups in various stages of formation and affiliation. Presently over 6000 dues-paying members (families) representing over 20,000 welfare recipients in these households.

The Poverty/Rights Action Center, formed in May, 1966, by Dr. George A. Wiley, serves as national headquarters for NWRO. The Center is a private, nonprofit, independent group, whose prime undertaking has been development of the National Welfare Rights movement.

Goals of NWRO are: jobs or income (decent jobs for those who can work and adequate income for those who cannot work); dignity; justice and democracy for welfare recipients and other low-income persons.

UNITED AUTOMOBILE WORKERS

Fair Practices Department
8000 East Jefferson Street
Detroit, Michigan 48214

(313) 926-5000

William H. Oliver, Co-Director

Established in 1946, the fair practices department's primary function is to handle discrimination cases in UAW plants. Acting as the civil rights department of the United Automobile Workers, it serves its membership in all civil rights matters. It is the contact agent between UAW, other international unions, and private organizations such as the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the National Urban League. The fair practices department acts as a watchdog on the international union and its locals' policy regarding civil rights matters. The department also promotes and supports civil rights legislation in cities, States, and the Nation. It initiates and sponsors conferences on civil rights on a state-wide or regional basis every 2 years in the union's 10 regions. These conferences usually last 2 to 4 days. Participants include internal delegates, civilian groups, and representatives of other unions.

United Automobile Workers (cont'd.)

The department has a staff of seven in Detroit in addition to field representatives. Field offices are maintained in Los Angeles and Philadelphia. Ten international representatives act as liaisons for the fair practices department. Every local is constitutionally required to have a fair practices committee.

The fair practices department publishes two civil rights pamphlets: a monthly bulletin on civil rights developments in locals around the world and a quarterly Fair Practices Fact Sheet.
