Dear President Nixon,

I am sitting in front of my television set watching the "Inaugural Ceremonies". At this moment I am filled with a great feeling of history. You look so sincere and eager to do the right thing. That my heart goes out to you - I just want you to know how I feel and say "God Bless you" - in all your undertakings. So often the average citizen has these thoughts but never expresses them -

I only wish I had told President Kennedy how proud he made me of him and my country.

It's the beginning of a new era - I have great expectations and anything I can do to help, will be my pleasure.

Sincerely,

Anne McGirr
