Dear Mr. Harlow:

We have had an inquiry from a good Republican in Indiana who is interested in enlisting for the "listening outpost" which I believe our President-elect has indicated he would like to institute.

We have little or no information on this, and would appreciate any helpful information which I can send to this young man.

Thank you in advance for your attention to this request.

Dear Dick:

This will acknowledge receipt of your letter dated November 14 addressed to President-elect Richard Nixon. Since Mr. Nixon is taking a well-earned rest in Key Biscayne, Florida, I am taking the liberty of replying to your invitation to address the Republican Victory Dinner on November 21 by way of a special telephone hook-up.

Since your letter only came to my attention today, it will be impossible to make the necessary arrangements to have the President-elect address those in attendance at the Victory Dinner. I regret that we did not have more lead time on this matter, but I hope the Wayne County Republican group will give Mr. Nixon a "rain check."

Please express Mr. Nixon's personal appreciation to the Republican leadership for their kind invitation.

Best personal regards.

Sincerely,
